J.J. Van Bibber, Master Storyteller and Photographer, Passes On

by Dan Davidson

Dawson First Nation elder J.J. (John James) Van Bibber passed away on Tuesday morning, January 10. He had been medivaced to Whitehorse a few days earlier and was known to be in serious condition over the previous weekend.

While he lived the latter part of his life in Dawson, he grew up in Pelly Crossing and also lived in Mayo and Whitehorse as well as Dawson during his long life.

His wife of 62 years, Clara, was a Dawson girl and niece-bymarriage Geraldine Van Bibber (Yukon's former Commissioner) says that was how he ended up spending his last couple of decades there. He was a registered member of the Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in.

J.J. was part of a large family that included seven boys and seven girls. Five of his siblings are still living. He and Clara had four children. One daughter and one son are still living.

Remembered as a prolific photographer, J.J. began taking pictures at age 13 with a Jiffy Kodak 616 camera that he bought at a shop in Dawson City. He donated a vast store of photographs to the Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in in 2003, and 2005 saw some of them mounted as the summer display in the Gathering Room at the Dänojà Zho Cultural Centre. That display is now part of a binder that is available for viewing at the centre.

J.J. was also known as a storyteller, and loved to enthrall audiences with tales of his younger years.

"I was born under a tree (on September 6, 1920), way up the MacMillan River, at Russell Creek," J.J. told the Klondike Sun back in 2009, "Whenever a baby was ready to be born, mom (Eliza) just holed up for a week, and then put us on her back, and just keep going."

The family did live on the land in his early days and J.J. spent many years trapping with his brothers. It was nothing for them to walk to Fort McPherson and back.

One of his favorite stories was about how the children came to school in Dawson. His father and mother put them on a log raft in Pelly and floated them down the river. with the oldest child being the one in charge, Ira and Eliza (known to all as Shorty) reasoned that there was no point in paying for boat passage when the river was running in that direction.

Press Release

Hän Construction Ltd. was hired by Corix Water Systems Ltd. in December, 2009 as a major subcontractor for the construction of the Dawson City Waste Water Treatment Plant. Corix is the general contractor, responsible to the Yukon Government for the design and construction of this important community Recently Corix terminated Hän's subcontract and directed Hän to leave the Hän has substantial claimsagainstCorixforunpaid amounts owing to Hän under the subcontract, including amounts for the work of some of Hän's suppliers and subcontractors.

It is Hän's position that the termination by Corix was wrongful and unnecessary. Work on the project was difficult from the very beginning due to Corix's management approach. Corix made substantial changes to the subcontract scope that materially altered the nature of the project. Corix also caused a delay of many months in the start of Hän's segment of the work, and it failed to provide timely and complete construction drawings to Hän. Over the time of Hän's involvement Corix had three different project managers responsible for the project.

Corix also failed to agree

Han Construction Says Corix is Behind Payment Delays

to the revised value of the contract resulting from changes in the scope and delays, but Hän believed the parties were close to reaching new understandings to deal with the problems when Corix decided to give notice of termination. Prior to the termination Corix was refusing to pay Hän for GST paid or payable by Hän to its subcontractors and suppliers. Hän used its own funds to make sure suppliers were paid GST and that it remitted GST.

We believe that Hän is not the only major subcontractor that has had difficulty with Corix on the project.

Hän's subcontract was for a fixed price based on Corix's initial design of the project. Almost immediately after work commenced Corix began changing the design of the project and changing Hän's work. Most of the changes, we understand, were in an effort to reduce the cost of the project. Hän managed, with considerable difficulty, to implement the changes and coordinate the work with Hän's subcontractors and suppliers. In addition to making numerous and ongoing changes, Corix chose to make its own enquiries in the marketplace, in competition Hän, apparently seeking lower prices from Hän's subcontractors and suppliers. Hän objected to these interferences with its subcontractors, and also to Corix's management of the project. Hän understands that following the termination, Corix is now dealing directly with some of Hän's subcontractors and suppliers, thereby cutting out Hän without paying Hän in full for the work it performed.

The changes imposed by Corix necessarily resulted in required changes to Hän's subcontract price but no agreement was ever reached on a fair and appropriate adjustment to Hän's subcontract price. Instead Corix unilaterally decided that it was entitled to savings and refused to pay the full amounts Hän invoiced for completed work. Corix took this position while claiming full payment from the Yukon Government for work on the project completed by Hän.

At first, Hän paid its suppliers and subcontractors, even though it was not receiving full payment from Corix, but eventually this had to stop as Hän found that it was financing the project, paying suppliers and subcontractors, without receiving payment from Corix. To date, Hän has flowed all cash received from Corix to its subcontractors and has retained no profit for itself.

When Corix gave notice to Hän to terminate Hän's subcontract, Hän was in good faith discussions with Corix to try to reach agreement on the price of the numerous changes, and a workable contract administration process to go forward, and Hän was proceeding with the work in good faith in an effort to minimize delays and contribute to the completion of the project.

Hän has cooperated with Corix and any new subcontractors engaged to complete this important project and will continue to do so. However Hän is required to look to its legal rights and take legal proceedings against Corix and its bond so as to obtain payment owing for work completed by Hän and by its subcontractors and suppliers, and for damages resulting from what Hän says was a wrongful termination. Upon recovery of payments owing to it, Hän will be in a position to pay its subcontractors and suppliers that have outstanding project claims.

Hän sincerely regrets the difficulties its disputes with Corix have caused to its subcontractors and suppliers.

John Wierda Acting CEO, Hän Construction Ltd.

Rangers Receive Pennant Award

On January 17, 2012, Major Allen, Commanding Officer, and Master Warrant Officer Derrick Mann, Group Sergeant Major of the 1st Canadian Ranger Patrol Group presented the JTFN Commanders Pennant Award tothe Dawson Canadian Ranger Patrol and four members of the patrol: Rangers Corporal Robert Blanchard, Ranger Corrie Loewen, Ranger Brian McDonald and Ranger Milina Tessier-Fontaine for their actions in an emergency situation that occurred on January 25, 2011.

The citation reads:

"On 25 Jan 2011, a trail detachment from the Dawson Canadian Ranger Patrol was asked to assist with a snowmobile accident. One of the workers at the airstrip had crashed his sled and suffered a broken femur and facial lacerations. On arrival at the scene, the Dawson Ranger detachment took charge of the situation, rendered first aid and coordinated air evacuation. The prompt and continued application of first aid, administered by the patrol, prevented a major injury from turning into a life threatening situation. The actions of the members of the Dawson patrol brought great credit to 1 Canadian Ranger Patrol Group and joint Task Force (North)."

Uffish Thoughts: It's Branding Time at the Harper Ranch

By Dan Davidson

Branding used to be just an easy way of marking animals so that their owners knew which ones belonged to them. The iconic branding iron of the American and Canadian west was a must have item in the days when cattle roamed free range.

Sheep roam freely in the highlands of Great Britain and Ireland and, since they are raised there for meat rather than for their wool quality, they are branded with daubs of paint, the colours used to signal both the ownership question and the issue of whether the ewes have been bred.

Branding, as Naomi Klein pointed out in her book No Logo a few years back, has a very different, and yet somewhat related, meaning when it comes to the business world. There, if you'll pardon a simplified version of her thesis, it is used to create easily recognizable product identification consumer loyalty.

Applied to politics, branding is a form of what George Orwell called "off the rack" language in his famous essay "Politics and the English Language". Branded language eliminates the need for conscious thought presenting readers and cogitation and pushing certain emotional buttons.

One of the most obvious examples of this in recent years has been the whole debate over the long-gun registry. To those in favour of the law, it was about public safety and preventing things like the Montreal Massacre from happening. To those against the law it was a question of individual liberty and personal freedom. Both sides tended to ignore the fact that there is already a host of hoops one has to jump through to legally own a gun of any kind in the first place.

These ideas have branded hearts and minds with "public safety" and "individual liberty" and made sensible discussion pretty much impossible.

A really obvious example of branding came in the attack ads that spent two years or more convincing a large portion of the electorate that Michael Ignatieff "didn't come home for you" and actually had some people wondering if the Liberal leader was even a Canadian. Weird. We don't ask that about William Shatner, Christopher Plummer, Dan Aykroyd or Mike Myers, all of whom have spent many years building careers in Britain or the USA. When they come home, we welcome them.

listeners with pre-digested But then, they're not running data that has been collected for office.

> Brand thinking (or not thinking) is evident in all sorts of recent government initiatives. The majority of the Canadian electorate who actually voted decided that the Conservatives should have the most seats in Parliament for the next few years, so that is a democratic victory. But when the majority of wheat farmers who actually voted said they wanted to keep the Canadian Wheat Board intact, the government said that wasn't democracy and abolished the wheat board in the name of the brand of Free Enterprise, a resilient and popular brand.

> You remember Enterprise? In its unbridled form it caused the financial collapse of 2008 - 2009 and gave our nation the largest debt and deficit it has seen in most of our lifetimes. But that's okay, because that money is branded Stimulus Funding, and that, as Sellar and Yeatman so memorably summed up events in their classic historical spoof 1066 and All That, is a Good Thing.

> Returning to the Long Gun Registry, the government, having scrapped the thing, now proposes to throw away all the over the years, making it a total waste of time and money. At least a couple of provinces have said they'd be happy to take the lists off federal hands, but no, say the feds, that must not be.

"Law and Order" is a popular piece of branding. If you get really American about it the phrase comes out "lawn'n'order" and sounds like it's a set of rules about landscaping. With 24-hour news channels and the everpresent maxim that "if it bleeds it leads" the public and certain politicians seem to believe that crime is on the increase and evil is rampant in the land. Well, the latter may be true, but it has more to do with the selfserving selling of the "tough on crime" brand that will have us sending increasing numbers of people to prisons we don't have, in spite of the statistical fact that most sorts of crimes (except lying and pork barreling with G20 funds) seem to be on the decline.

Provinces have awakened to the fact that they will have to build the new prisons (another kind of infrastructure stimulus plan?) and have begun to object, but it's hard to argue against being "tough on crime".

The most recent bit of branding occurred just this week, when both Mr. Harper and Mr. Oliver decided to tell the world that anyone who expresses concerns about the environmental hazards associated with a very long pipeline proposed to ship oil from Edmonton to Kitimat is a "radical" with an "ideological agenda". These are loaded words that ought to be examined closely, but contain the assumption that anyone willing to do so is probably of the same ilk as those who are so described.

Left unexamined, they open the door to discussions about revamping the process of regulatory hearings. Interesting that at least one story on this subject has Mr. Harper calling them "approval hearings", a most revealing Freudian slip, as if the outcome is certain no matter who says what.

That's as undemocratic as invoking closure and limiting debate in the House of Commons just because the outcome is already decided by the sheer weight of numbers, so why bother with the discussion.

Who would do such a thing? Oh, wait a minute ...

Remembering the Pearl Harbour

Dear Sir / madam,

I have fond memories of Dawson. In the early 50s, owing to the shortage of work in Vancouver, we managed to get a season's employment with "The Consolidated Gold Mining Co." in Dawson. We were flown up in a old Dakota and were in a camp up on Bonanza Creek where they were dredging.

PEARL HARBOR

During my short time there, and when we could get a ride into Dawson, we spent a lot of time in a saloon called the "Pearl Harbor". I still have a Liquor & wine price list from the saloon. A "Lynn Head" was the proprietor at the time.

What I would like to know is if the Pearl Harbor is still in business, and if so, would they like to have this piece

Have always wanted to revisit the"Land of Midnight Sun" but never got round to it.

Many thanks to Dawson for wonderful memories.

Kind regards,

B. Parton

Dear Brian,

About the Pearl Harbour: according to Jim Robb's Colourful Five Percent column in the Yukon News on April 28, 2010, the Pearl Harbour Hotel was a Yukon original which, in early Dawson City days was called the Melbourne Hotel, and, in later times, was the Principal Hotel, then the Pearl Harbour Hotel and eventually (and at the time it burned) the Bonanza Hotel. It had a very beautiful mahogany bar with mirrors, etc., a real Klondike saloon." Palma Berger, whose late husband, Fred, owned the place in the early 1960s, believes that the owner of the day originally called it Pearl's Harbour, after his wife, but changed it later on.

If you run a search on "Pearl Harbour, Dawson City" you will find Robb's column and, on a different web page, a colour photo of the hotel taken about 1958.

Thank You from the Gould Family

As everyone knows our family has suffered great losses over the holiday season and the beginning of the New Year. In our time of need we found ourselves blessed to be a part of a community who gave an overwhelming amount of support and help. We would like to thank Dr. Joanne Devonish and all the staff from the Nursing Station as well as the Ambulance crew and their volunteers. Thank you for your respect, patience and kind hearts. You gave us the courage, strength, and knowledge to get us through this. Our family truly believes that the medical staff went above and beyond to help us. We would also like to thank Myrna Butterworth and all her volunteers, for putting together the food at the celebration of life at the YOOP Hall. Your compassionate efforts helped us greatly.

Thanks to the MacDonald Lodge for the use of medical equipment that enabled us to perform home care and for the home care that was provided, truly a valuable service during stressful times. To Darcy Braga, thank you for all the meals, time, and care, your friendship meant a great deal to grandma and grandpa as well as the family. Thanks to Terry Shadda for your help with the funeral service and your help around grandpa's house. To Terry and Janice, Gerry and Cassandra, thank you, your support and friendship helps us stand and believe that death leaves a heartache no one can heal, but love leaves a memory no one can steal.

Thank you everyone for everything.

An open letter to the Dawson City Sled Dawgs

Dear Dawson City Sled Dawgs,

I would like to let you know, that you have changed my life in the last week dramatically.

I get up every morning with the exciting feeling, to mush my children through the beautiful Yukon from Sunnydale to school. It is hard to put in words how satisfying, liberating and magic this daily trip is, but trust me, it's one of the most beautiful things one can experience in life and we all love it. That we are able to do this, is definitely one of the reasons, why we live in Dawson City for over 10 years.

This all changes completely, when you mush to town one morning, with your eight excited dogs and your two children in the basket and you think you took the wrong turn, because it looks like you ended up on the moon.

None of the trails, that we had worked hard on, exist anymore. You are standing in front of a snow wall in the middle of the Yukon River. You don't know where to go. The only thing you do know is, just don't end up in this icy labyrinth, because there is no way to make it out of there again. Did I mention this all happens in the dark and at 40 below? Now it's hard for me to explain you, how stressful, frustrating and dangerous this feels. I already had to go through the same thing last year.

And why? Why do you feel like taking a beautiful piece of nature and scar it? Waste tons of precious fossil fuels to make us look at this mess? And it's only gonna get worse, once these oil spilling carwrecks are parked and raced on our life-giving river. It hurts my eyes and my soul. Not to mention, that all the fun and magic out of my family's beautiful routine is entirely ruined.

I would like to get your take on this. The list of possible activities around this gorgeous land is endless. So, I'm sure it wouldn't be hard to find fun things to do for your club members, that still pays respect to our river, our air and other people.

What are we teaching our children here? That we don't care? By now everybody should know how precious our land and resources are and that we have to take care of them, if we want our kids to have any future.

Last but not least, I am hoping, that you are not planning on dumping a snow machine from a helicopter on the Yukon River this year. To me, it feels like a slap in the face of Mother Nature and shows deepest disrespect for the river. How one can come up with an idea like this, blows my mind. There must be better ways than that, to entertain ourselves.

But I always try to understand the other side. So maybe you didn't know, that these trails are a big part of people's lives. Maybe you didn't know, that people and the planet are hurt by your actions. But now you do and trust me, our family is not the only one

So please, reconsider your actions and let's keep this precious land as beautiful as it is.

Sincerely,

Kirsten Lorenz

J.J. Van Bibber Passes On

The kids would return by steamer when school was out. Geraldine Van Bibber says they stayed at St. Paul's Hostel when they attended the Dawson Public School, but that they didn't go for very many years.

She estimates that they only got as far as elementary school in terms of formal schooling, but they knew how to read and continued learning all their

J.J. met Clara Taylor at 12 Mile and while his stories about just how they met would vary, he was always clear that he knew immediately that she was the one. They were together until she died in 2004.

Besides trapping, J.J. had a store in the MacMillan area, ran heavy equipment, hauled trailers into mining camps, and took up placer mining in a serious way in the 1960s, when he was in his forties.

J.J. had many interests in life. He loved curling and enjoyed watching hockey either on television or at live games. The family notes that he attended his first live Canucks game in Vancouver when he was 90.

During the Second World War J.J. wanted to sign up, but his brothers (who did) told him he had to stay home, so he joined the Northern Pacific Rangers, 38th company, which later evolved into the Canadian Rangers. He was proud of that connection.

During the anniversary of S.S. Keno's final trip to Dawson in 2010, J.J. captivated audiences with tales of running timber rafts on the river and sometimes being a spotter on the steamboats.

J.J. was a gregarious soul, and especially fond of having his family around. It was his wish to have family members present during his final illness and Monique Van Bibber says that they managed to fulfill this wish.

A funeral for J.J. Van Bibber was held at St. Paul's Anglican Church on Monday, January 16, followed by a gathering at the Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in Community Hall.

Slightly more than 80 people filed into the Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in Community Hall on a frigid Wednesday morning (January 18) to begin taking part in a day and a half of presentations and workshops organized by the Dawson Regional Planning Commission. As its Hän motto, Nän käk ndä tr'ädäl suggests, the DRPC is "moving forward" with the development of a regional plan for this area, and this set of meetings, attended by lots of government people and quite a few locals, was organized to gather more local input and evaluate some of what has been collected so far in the light of certain theoretical concerns.

The day opened with a prayer presented by Angie Joseph-Rear and a welcome from Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in Chief Eddie Taylor.

"With all the pressures coming to bear on our traditional territory it is vital we plan now for how the land will sustain us in the future.

Steve Kennett, a policy m i n i n g consultant, spoke to the need for 'Thinking outside the Black Box", which is how he referred to the sometimes arcane processes by which major decisions are reached. There will always be a need for cooperation and compromise, leading to tradeoffs in the development of planningdocuments.Kennett said these negotiations and investigations must be structured, rigorous and transparent.

> Shawn Francis, of S. Francis Consulting, Inc., recounted his experience working on the successfully completed North Yukon Land Use Plan. One of the key elements was the need to create what he called a social license, which would lead to a general acceptance of the planning process and its goals. He emphasized a results based framework, which would have measurable outcomes.

Graeme Pelchat, Dynamics Environmental Inc., gave the audience a close look at the studies his group has been carrying out in the White Gold District, where so much of the activity has been taking place since 2009. There was a need to collect data for the Yukon Socioeconomic Advisory Board's assessment activity related to dozens of new projects being proposed for this area. Pelchat showed how data had been gathered relating to potential impacts on wildlife in the region.

The morning concluded with breakout workshop sessions in which workshop groupsconsideredthegeneral theme "How Much is Too Much?' Subtopics included determining acceptable trade-offs, selecting data and conceptual tools useful for the process, and defining the concept of a workable balance.

Conference Examines the Science of Regional Planning

Story & Photos by Dan Davidson

If the morning of the first day of "The Boom and Beyond" planning conference in Dawson City could be summed up as being about the politics and strategies of planning processes, the afternoon and part of the second morning focused on the science of the exercise.

How can a planning exercise take into account the flora and fauna of a region, the water flows, the landscape features of the natural environment prior to development?

Fiona Schmiegelow's presentation was "Approaches to Conservation Assessment for Regional Planning" and took the view that conservation and resource management must stop behaving like "ships that pass in the night" and be integrated to be effective. So far, she said, most conservation activity has been a kind of crisis management, dealing with situations where things have already gone wrong.

She said that politicians, developers and planners tend to talk about sustainability as a popular buzzword, but really have no idea what it means in any given situation. She advanced a practice known as Adaptive Management, which requires proactive planning, the establishment of benchmarks and an awareness of the big regional picture rather than a site-specific focus on particular valued resources.

Nadele Flynn was up next to show off some of the measuring tools that might help to shape this kind of planning. The Environmental Programming department at the Yukon government has developed a "bioclimatic ecosystem classification schema" which should help produce colour codes maps that indicate the cumulative effects of development, the habitat and land capability, climate change scenarios, infrastructure planning and special components in a

While the presentation of methodology was fairly arcane for the layperson to follow, the sample map overlays near the end of the slideshow did indicate in an effective graphic manner the possible

Hilary Cooke's presentation amplified the points made by Schmiegelow by showing in more detail how benchmark areas might be established for the purposes of conserving the territory's ecological values. Benchmark areas need to be largely intact with very little in the way of a human footprint. They need to be catchment based, which is to say that they capture a region's water flows, and they need to be fairly large, so that they can be disturbed by such natural events as floods and fires. There needs to be a good sense of what human activity there has been in the area, and the report needs to combine both scientific and local knowledge.

On Thursday morning the venue for the conference was shifted from the Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in Community Hall to the Dänojà Zho Cultural Centre, just across Front Street. There, one of the presenters was Heather Clarke, who provided the 80 or so people in the audience with an overview of Wildlife Key Area and Ecologically Important Area mapping as carried out according to the recently developed Yukon Standards and Guidelines for Knowledge Based Habitat Suitability Modeling (est. Nov. 24, 2011), a fairly new set of guidelines which is getting its first detailed workout as part of the Dawson Regional Land Use Plan's data gathering phase. Once again, the process is intended to produce reference maps, which will assist planners and developers.

As this is a new development, there were lots of questions from the audience about the methodology and how it is being applied. There was a lively discussion.

Remembering J.J. Van Bibber

Text & Photos supplied by the Van Bibber Family

John James Van Bibber, known to all as J.J., was a family man who loved being a husband, father, Grampa, brother and friend. It is hard to sum up the life of a man who lived with such incredible spirit. He had an impressive and long life and his stories always included loved ones along the way.

J.J., one of fourteen children, was born to Ira and Eliza Van Bibber under a spruce tree on the banks of the MacMillan River. He grew up on the land and learned hunting, trapping, fishing and gardening with his brothers and sisters. Each one learned to survive quite well at a young age, to look after one another and to live a good life.

In the many stories J.J. shared about the early years, we can picture him and his brothers and sisters heading down the river to Dawson on a 3 day raft trip without parents, dog sledding in minus fifty under the northern lights, building a moose skin boat to cross a swelling river, dancing at the Chateau Mayo to a rockabilly band and many other experiences that highlight his bright and adventurous

J.J. covered a lot of ground to be a successful hunter and trapper and built friendships throughout the territory that remained all his life. He was always expanding his expertise and dealt in prospecting, mining, surveying, road construction, welding, woodcutting, booming logs, and fur buying. He had a special knack for knowing the rivers and many of his stories deal with how he challenged a river to get a job done.

In fact, it was on a river where he met Clara Taylor at 12 Mile. J.J. would tell at least three versions of the story about how they met, but what is common in all of them is that he knew right off the bat that she was the one for him. Their marriage was an inspiration to all. They had a true partnership and together J.J. and Clara raised four children and welcomed grandchildren and great-grandchildren to the clan. A common sight was a big pick-up truck, J.J. at the wheel, Clara riding shotgun and in the back a crew of grandchildren loosely covered with a tarp, driving the dusty road between Dawson, Mayo and Pelly.

During the war, brothers Alex, Dan and Archie both signed up but J.J. had to stay home. Dan told him "no use in all of us getting killed, you stay home." J.J. stayed behind and looked after the family. He joined the Northern Pacific Rangers, 38th company which is known as the Canadian Rangers today -- "The eyes and ears of the North". J.J. was proud of this contribution Clara and J.J.

Curling was a passion for both Clara and J.J. and they spent many years going to bonspiels and sitting at the rink watching their favourite game. This love of curling was passed to their children; and they also took up the task of teaching many children the game. J.J. was also an avid hockey fan. Whether he was watchinghisgreatgrandchildren at the rink, attending the hockey tournaments, or cheering on the Vancouver Canucks, he loved the game and all the socializing that came with it. He loved watching the Canucks on TV with his grandson Reg, or attending the > Native Hockey tournament to rub shoulders with former NHLers and catch up with old friends from all the corners of the Yukon. He even attended his first Canucks game in Vancouver, at the age of 90, which made for exciting night.

> J.J. loved music and dancing. He taught Eleanor and her friend Sue (lil' bit) Ewing to jive to a blaring record player at their house in Mayo and he always enjoyed playing the harmonica for all the grandchildren and great grandchildren.

At the age of 13, J.J. got a small camera and loved to take pictures. Throughout the years he documented his travels, adventures, his way of life and the people he met along the way. Clara, herself also shared his love of photography and together their pictures reflect their active and amazing life together. I.J. was generous to share his photographs and stories with everyone. It was important to J.J.

for young people to know about the olden days.

J.J. will always be remembered for his sense of humour which lives on in his kids. Be careful or sometimes you would miss what he was implying. But with a twinkle in his eye and a small smile quivering on his lips you knew something good was coming your way. To be sure, he loved to surprise and get people laughing.

Like all the Van Bibbers he enjoyed being around peopleto visit with people and to hear what was happening in the rest of the territory. Pat Sr. and J.J. spoke to each other almost daily making sure each other had the latest news. They never seemed to be at a loss for words, those two boys.

The grandchildren and great grandchildren brought him great joy. Whenever they came or the family gathered, they flocked to be near Grampa J.J.. He was full of hugs and love for all. Even as we got older, there were still big hugs and welcomes as you entered. At times even when not feeling well, he did not make you feel like he didn't want you there - he carried on as though all was well.

He is predeceased by his wife of 62 years. Clara, his son, to live well. He was an elder Pete, his daughter, Eleanor, his grandson, Reggie. father Ira and mother Eliza Van Bibber. He is survived by son, Steve, daughter Clara, grandchildren, Doug, Vince and Nadine, Andrew and Darwin, Steven, Shane and Shannon, Laurie, Fred and Leanne. Great grandchildren: Kathleen, Brandi and Jaret: Shania: I.J., Dustyn, and Joshua:

Jamie; Kristin, Kurtis and Alysha; Tanis; Isis; Dillon and Tamara; Kyle and Charles.

I.I. is survived by brothers, Alex and Pat Sr., sisters Kathleen, Lucy and Linch. He was predeceased by brothers Abe, Dan, Archie, George, Theodore and sisters, Leta, May and Helen.

Among the many stories I.I. liked to tell was the one when he was alone in the bush in the middle of a cold snap. He was traveling by dog team and was checking his traps. He got stuck near a frozen waterfall and thought, oh my, I am going to have to build a camp for the night. With only the northern lights and the moon to light his way, he settled in to spend a cold night. But he eventually heard the yelps and traces of another dog team and was surprised and pleased to look up to see his brother, Dan come into view. This story symbolises the Van Bibber way, how survival, love and skill intertwine as a way to live life to the fullest and appreciate each other.

We are here to remember I.I. and to celebrate his life and legacy. We loved him and his spirit; we will miss his stories, songs and laughter. J.J. inspired us to welcome challenges and who had a youthful outlook. He had the gift of looking at life as a series of adventures and opportunities that could be achieved through hard work and imagination. He loved who he was; he was proud of his heritage and his family was his everything.

We pray for your safe journey home. We love you!

Future Berton House Writers-in-Residence Named

Press Release

(January 17, 2012) - The Writers' Trust of Canada announced the next four writers to attend the Berton House Writers' Retreat, Canada's most northern author residency program. Each writer will travel to Dawson City, Yukon, to live and work for three months in the childhood home of Pierre Berton.

"The Writers' Trust is proud to provide a unique sanctuary to Canadian writers through the Berton House Writers' Retreat," said Peter Kahnert, Writers' Trust Chair and Senior Vice President, Raymond James Ltd. "These four talented writers have a once-in-alifetime opportunity to travel to Dawson City and fully apply themselves to their current works-in-progress."

The writers selected are:

Joan Thomas (July to September 2012)

Thomas is the author of the novels Curiosity and Reading by Lightning. She is a past recipient of the Amazon.ca First Novel Award and the Commonwealth Writers' Prize for Best First Book. While in Dawson City, the Winnipegresident intends to work on Help Island, a novel about three characters in crisis challenged to revise their views on nature.

Sherry MacDonald (October to December 2012)

MacDonald is a Vancouverbased playwright screenwriter. Her plays Iraqui Karaoke, The Duchess of Alba, and The Stone Face have been produced in Vancouver, Calgary, and Orlando, Florida. Hercurrentworks-in-progress include a contemporary play situated in the foothills of Alberta and a one-woman play about Mary Shelley.

Chris Turner (January to March 2013)

Turner is a leading writer and speaker on sustainability and the global cleantech industry. Based in Calgary, he is the author of three nonfiction books. He is currently writing his first novel, Canadian Shield, a shadow history of the 20th century that blends elements of fiction and nonfiction.

Melanie Siebert (April to June 2013)

Siebert is a poet from Victoria. Her debut book, Deepwater Vee, was a finalist for the Governor General's Literary Award for Poetry in 2010. At Berton House she intends to focus on new work that "aims to translate the surging and hypnotic energy of rivers, while thinking through colonialism, wilderness, and

About the Selection Process

The program received 68 applications from writers across the country. The applicants were assessed by a three-member committee: Frances Backhouse, a past writer-in-residence and Victoria-based author that specializes in writing about biology and history; Jeramy Dodds, a past writer-inresidence and Calgary-based poet; and Miriam Havemann, a Dawson City resident and past librarian of the Dawson City Community Library.

About the Berton House Writers' Retreat

Created in 1996, Berton House provides a threemonth residency for writers in a Dawson City home. Writers receive a monthly honorarium, perform public readings, and are encouraged to become involved with the community. Professional Canadian writers who have published at least one book and are established in any creative literary discipline (including fiction, nonfiction, poetry, play/screenwriting, and journalism) are eligible.

Funding for the program comes from the Berton House Writers' Retreat Society (chaired by Elsa Franklin) and the Writers' Trust of Canada. Additional support is provided by the Canada Council for the Arts, Dawson City Community Library, Klondike Visitors Association, Amazon.ca, Aeroplan, City of Dawson, and Whitehorse Public Library. For further information visit bertonhouse.ca.

The house is currently occupied by Dan Dowhal. a novelist from Toronto. In the coming months, Hamiltonbased novelist Lawrence Hill and Toronto-based nonfiction writer Tim Falconer will begin residencies.

About the Writers' Trust of Canada

The Writers' Trust of Canada is a charitable organization that seeks to advance, nurture, and celebrate Canadian writers and writing through a portfolio of programs, including literary awards, financial grants, scholarships, and a writers' retreat. Writers' Trust programming is designed to champion excellence in Canadian writing, to improve the status of writers, and to create connections between writers and readers. Canada's writers receive more financial support from the Writers' Trust than from any other nongovernmental organization or foundation in the country. For further information visit writerstrust.com.

PET OF THE WEEK

with Andrew Lewis, Humane Society Dawson

Tonka

Congratulations Tonka! You are the Pet of the Week. Tonka is a one year old, male, long-haired tabby cat with white and orange colouring.

Tonka was brought to the shelter in mid-November, during that cold snap we had. He was living under the porch of a home in C4. One of the caring citizens of Dawson heard the poor guy crying and pulled him out from under the porch. After dropping Tonka off at the Humane Society, Tonka quickly found his only little nook in the rafters.

A few days later another cat was brought in, who we named Mystery. Mystery was starved and had frost bite on her ears and needed lots of love. Tonka quickly became very close with Mystery and started to care for Mystery by licking her ears and giving up his own food bowl to her.

Tonka is a very calm and caring cat, quick to rub up on you with a soft purr that vibrates through your whole arm. For me, the long white and orange hair wins me over. I am allergic to long-haired cats, but I will take the swollen eyes and constant sneezing if it means I can play with this wonderful cat.

Tonka is in need of a wonderful home filled with people who want to give lots of love and want a chill cat to hang out with on the cold nights. Come into the shelter and meet Tonka. We are open Tuesday to Saturday, noon to 4 p.m. until the end of winter.

Know that when you meet him there is a very good chance you will be end up being the new owner of an amazing cat.

The Power of Literacy is the Power of Love

Press Release

(Toronto, ON – January 17) - Being an immigrant family is not easy. Transferring to a new country, finding a new house in a new city, getting to know how the transportation system works, becoming acquainted with an often different set of values, culture and currency, and understanding and communicating in a different language. The scenario can be quite daunting. Not to mention finding a new job, school for the children and making new friends.

These are all issues that newcomers can face when moving from their countries of origin to a new territory. Yet, the positive prospects of moving to a country like Canada – that promises better economic and social opportunities than most developing countries – tends to outweigh the hassle of moving and leaving many loved ones behind. The Citizenship and Immigration Canada website shows that in 2010 alone, more than 280,500 people settled in and now call Canada home sweet home.

What is easy, however, is embracing literacy and lifelong learning in everyday life. Learning can happen anywhere and having your reading, writing, math and computer skills up to par is important for finding better jobs in Canada and for improving your entire family's quality of life.

According to research done by Decoda Literacy Solutions, children have a better chance of becoming fully literate adults if reading is encouraged in the home. So if you moved to Canada to provide a better future for your family, now is the perfect time to start reading English language books to your kids! Spending just 15 minutes a day doing literacy activities will improve your children's skills dramatically, as well as your own.

Here are some fun and easy literacy activities you can do daily with your family:

- Find words that rhyme with every product you add to the grocery cart. Example: "milk" and "silk", "juice" and "moose", "cheese" and "trees".
- Sing along to your favourite songs on the radio.
   Singing allows you to learn patterns of words, rhymes and rhythms, and is strongly connected to language skills.
- Go for a walk as a family and read the street signs. You can even think of a city or country that begins with the same first letter as the sign.
- Count how many cars you and your children see from your house window and what colour they are.
- Play a card or board game as a family.
- Pick a recipe from a cookbook and follow it together.
- Read a short newspaper article to your kids and then ask them to tell you what it was about.
- Write a short story with your family and submit it online at FamilyLiteracyDays.ca.

Family Literacy Day® is celebrated every year in Canada on January 27. Millions of people have already participated since it started in 1999. This year, Canadians are invited to Take the Learning Journey and embrace learning as part of their everyday lives. Visit FamilyLiteracyDay to find out how you and your family can participate.

Gearing Up for the Yukon Quest

The Yukon Quest may have had some nearly last minute panic in raising enough money to cover the race purse this year. but in Dawson Gabrielle (Gaby) Sgaga has had no problem recruiting volunteers to to cover the activities associated with the Quest's half-way point.

Half a dozen people turned out at a volunteer meeting on January 19, and that's just the tip of of the iceberg, according to this 14 year veteran of the Dawson Checkpoint.

It will take about 25 people to staff the checkpoint during the rolling 36 hour layover that the Quest teams have to take when they reach Dawson.

There will be volunteers at the checkpoint in the Visitors Information Centre, volunteers at the Vet Shack over in the YTG Campground, and still more volunteers staffing the food service counter being provided by the Percy DeWolfe Race Committee.

Okay, that's not an official Quest issue, but Sgaga recruits for that too, because it helps both organizations.

She's had lots of people contact her by phone and email and there will be more meetings before the mushers and their dogs begin to arrive towards the end of next week

Whitehorse Skip Helps Curling Team Score Canada's First Medal of Innusbruck 2012

INNSBRUCK, AUSTRIA (January 18, 2012) – Canada has won its first medal of the inaugural Winter Youth Olympic Games Wednesday. Canada's mixed curling team earned bronze with a 6-4 win over Sweden in the bronze medal game.

"Congratulations to our curling medallists," said Canadian Olympic Committee President Marcel Aubut. "They have exhibited the values that make Canadian Olympians so great: excellence and perseverance. They are truly ambassadors for our country and for sport."

"I'm so proud of the team," said Beckie Scott, Chef de Mission of the 2012 Canadian Youth Olympic Team. "They never stopped working towards their goal and now they will be the first Canadians to step onto the podium at these Youth Olympic Games in Innsbruck."

Leading by a single point in the eighth and final end, Canadian skip Thomas Scoffin made a dramatic double takeout and a clutch freeze to the Swedish stone to secure the Canadian victory.

"This is one of the most amazing feelings ever," said team skip Scoffin from Whitehorse. "That was the best game we've played as a team. I couldn't ask for three better teammates or a better coach right now."

"Our hard work has paid off," said Corryn Brown, the team third from Kamloops, B.C. "These are three of the most talented curlers I've ever played with."

"I'm so proud to be here, so proud to be part of this team and proud to be Canadian," said Derek Oryniak, the team second from Winnipeg. "We started strong, then Sweden came back, but I knew we would win if we kept playing our best."

"This is amazing and indescribable," said Emily Gray, the team lead from O'Leary, P.E.I. "These people are like family to me now. They mean more to me than anything and we've gone on such an amazing journey together."

The curling team beat the Czech Republic 7-6 in Wednesday's quarter-final before falling to Italy by a score of 8-2 in the semifinal.

Also on Wednesday, Canada's men's hockey team beat Finland 3-2 in a shootout. Canada will finish second in the men's pool and play this same Finland team in their semifinal Friday.

Kamloops, B.C,'s Ryan Gropp and Reid Gardiner from Humboldt, Sask. scored in the shootout for Canada. Gardiner's goal was the winner as goalie Keven Bouchard from Metabetchian, Que. stopped two of three Finnish shooters to preserve the win.

"I wanted to see if he was going to back up or come out and challenge," Gardiner said. "As soon as I got the puck, I knew I would try to shoot. He gave me a lot of room on the glove side, so I went for it."

"I just tried to concentrate and do my best," said Bouchard. "I will prepare for the next game the same way. I want to do the same thing and make no changes."

Veronica Remme of Blue Mountains, Ont. finished the ladies' giant slalom event in 15th place.

A three piece rock band was formed in England in 1977.

It was one of the first "new wave" bands to gain popularity. Their music was a mixture of punk, rock, blues and reggae (one of the first white bands to stick to a reggae rhythm).

One of their albums in 1983 hit #1 on the U.K. Albums Chart AND the U.S. Billboards 200. This album sold over 8 million copies! All in all this band, world wide, sold over 50 million records, in fact in 2008 they were the world's highest-earning musicians.

They toured the States in a Ford Econoline and they all had bleached blonde hair. They also toured such places as Mexico City, Bombay, and Egypt (these countries don't take to kindly to foreign entertainers). They also toured in Singapore, Canada, France, Germany, Serbia. Argentina and Chili, but that's just a few of the places they have been.

Getting any ideas? Any clues? Guess. Don't let me sting you.

BUT just remember 'every breath you take and every move you make they'll be watching you' but that's how it goes with "THE POLICE".

Yukon signs agreement with Alberta Serious Incident Response Team

WHITEHORSE—The Government of Yukon now has an agreement with Alberta for use of the Alberta Serious Incident Response Team (ASIRT) to investigate serious incidents involving RCMP members in "M" Division.

In 2010, the co-chairs of the Review of Yukon's Police Force recommended that the territory engage an independent civilian investigation agency to conduct investigations into serious incidents involving the wRCMP.

Justice Minister Mike Nixon says he welcomes ASIRT's presence in the territory.

"In the last year, the RCMP made progress in ensuring external investigations of these incidents by utilizing municipal police agencies from other jurisdictions," Nixon said. "This agreement will go a step further and ensure independent investigations are conducted by a civilian-led police investigation agency with a proven track record."

The Alberta Serious Incident Response Team conducts investigations of serious incidents involving members of the RCMP and other municipal police agencies in Alberta. ASIRT is an agency of the Government of Alberta and is led by a civilian director who is a crown prosecutor. ASIRT's work is carried out by eight civilian investigators, 10 seconded police officers and one military police officer.

Yukon will provide ongoing funding for the equivalent of one full-time investigator to be added to the ASIRT team. The cost for operating this agreement is estimated at $75,000 this fiscal year with ongoing costs to Yukon estimated at $105,000 per year.

Comment: C.I. to B. or not to C.?

by Lisa McKenna

According to Wikipedia the C.I.B.C.'s head quarters are in Toronto. Toronto has 497 different banking establishments and 41 of them are C.I.B.C.'s.

This is a small ( real small!) community and the C.I.B.C. bank is the "only meat in town"! If we are not pleased with their service we have no where else to go.

A gentleman called the paper the other day and said that he had been cashing his disability pension at the C.I.B.C. for fifteen years and when he went in last month they refused to honor his pension cheque!

Another woman that I know quite well, was forced to open an account in order to cash her check, so she could pay her rent. Then they only gave her part of her cheque saying the rest would clear in 5 business days.

Does not the C.I.B.C. realize that people who rely on pensions and social assistance need every penny and often budget cheque day to cheque day, so 5 days can really throw a wrench into the works? I've been feeding my friend, the town has been feeding her and her humiliation is growing.

On these pension, and assistance, cheques it clearly states that the cheque is cashable with out fee in any Bank of Canada. Upon opening an account you are immediately given a service charge!

Is this not a "fee"?

Now, anyone can realize that $5 or $10 is not a lot of money, but to someone on assistance, or a pension, that $5 or $10 means a loaf of bread, or a jug of milk, or, perhaps, god forbid, even some fresh veggies.

On contacting the C.I.B.C. I was informed that they will honor Government of Canada cheques up to $1500 with two pieces of legal I.D. but they were not obligated to cash Government of Yukon cheques.

Does not the social service cheques plainly state Government of Canada? Does it not say that this cheque is cashable WITHOUT fee in any Bank of Canada?

Is not the Yukon in Canada?

Talking to Service Canada on the phone today I was asked where I was calling from and I replied "Dawson City, Yukon" and the gentleman asked if I was within Canada! He works for Service Canada! What's up with that? Maybe we should join Alaska (just kidding).

Then he went on to inform me that I should contact the Yukon Government. Phoning the Yukon Government brought similar results, they told me to contact C.I.B.C., but at least they knew where Dawson was!

So.... "the world is a circle is a circle without a beginning and nobody knows where it really ends" (from the play The Pajama Game). All in all, not for lack of trying, it was a pretty unproductive day.

Last November 4th was customer appreciation day at the C.I.B.C. and that was real nice and all but what were these people supposed to appreciate? Not being able to cash their cheques? Strange.

BUT it all ends on a high note.

What we've learned is that the Government of Canada guarantees to indemnify the banks (not just the C.I.B.C.) in the event that federal cheques bounce. Otherwise, the banks' only surety would be that account they want you to have. So far only the federal government has this kind of arrangement. The thirteen provinces and territories don't.

The Klondike Sun has been in ongoing contact with the Ombudsperson for C.I.B.C. and we have been informed that the C.I.B.C. is currently in negotiations with the Yukon Government to enable non-C.I.B.C. customers the ability to cash their cheques. So sometimes the squeaky wheel does get the grease and it's is pleasing to know that they, the C.I.B.C., care about a small community such as ours.

The Sourtoe Cocktail Club

By Ron Franscell Globe Pequot Press 244 pages $20.95

Franscell Ron began dreaming about traveling to Dawson City to sample the Sourtoe Cocktail sometime after his life fell apart. The way he puts it, he died.

"It wasn't a proper death, of course, but my life stopped in every way when my twenty year old marriage imploded. Our undoing wasn't infidelity, money or abuse; we had simply and sadly stopped believing in each other. We had evolved into strangers who slept together. And that's all I will say about that."

Ron moved out, relocated from Wyoming to Arizona and took a job as a travelling reporter for the Denver Post, "driving 1,000 miles a week."

Among his many efforts to continue father-son bonding with Matt, Ron searched for weird items on the Internet, hoping maybe to find some special trip that they might take together. He found Dawson City and the Sourtoe Cocktail and told Matt about it. Matt was fascinated.

"I promised to take him someday when he was old enough to walk into a bar with his old man."

Five years later Ron was still hemming and hawing about the relationship that he'd been in for just about that long - still gun-shy about real commitment. Matt was in his freshman year at college and the Sourtoe Cocktail was on his mind. The next summer they made the trip.

Like most road trip books, this is about a lot more than just arriving at a specific destination. We learn a lot about Ron. For instance, one of the reasons he's so anxious to be a half decent dad is that he didn't really know his birth father. Thom Lane] bugged out before Ron was born, and while he was perfectly happy with the man his mother married, abandonment bothered him, scared him. He didn't want to be that man, while at the same time he needed to know who that man was, So he tracked him down and got to know him, and we get that story.

He's been a travelling reporter since the marriage disaster, and we get some of those stories.

Then there's the trip to the Yukon, which begins about page 70 and which produced some 300 hours of digital audio that Ron spent time working with between 2007 when he made the trip and 2012, when the book was published.

Ron and Matt drove a car to Calgary, then rented a camper van for the trip north. The story about renting the van is worth a few chuckles, as is their experience with a GPS unit they called Sydney, which sounds disappointed that there's really not much for it to do once they get onto Alberta Highway 43. Almost everyone reading this review will know this trip well. Once you get to Dawson Creek, go straight until you hit Whitehorse. Still, their impressions of things along the way are kind of fun.

Mistakes are fun too, and there always seem to be a few. Take this one: gold was found on Rabbit Creek by some salmon fishermen "near the ramshackle town of Dawson in the summer of 1896." Ah well, at least he knows "The Yukon is not Alaska."

They take in the Signpost Forest and wish they had brought a sign, They camp at the Pioneer Campground outside Whitehorse learn how not to empty their wastewater tanks. They get all kinds of warnings about taking their van up the Dempster Highway without extra tires.

"I'd sooner skid nekkid down a mountain of broken glass. Without a sled," is the helpful advice they get from Howard, a fellow traveller.

They do make it to Dawson and apparently park at the Goldrush Campground because after that they wander over to Klondike Kate's for a meal and read the lines from Robert Service painted on the building the man who raised him, the across the street. They fetch up at the Sourdough Saloon and are pretty much in their cups by the time that Capt. Al Sider initiates them into the Sourtoe Club. The story of that evening is also quite amusing, and Ron probably needed the audio recording to help him recall some of it.

> The next day, hangovers and all, they drive up the Dempster Highway to the Arctic Circle, marveling at the inukshuks and taking part in a strange little ritual that will probably compel Matt to make this trip with his own son when he has one that is old enough.

> The trip home doesn't matter. It's disposed of in a few paragraphs. There have been some epiphanies on this trip and one lovely result is that Ron overcomes his fear of commitment and proposes to Mary when he gets home. That's a lovely way to end the story.

> "Almost exactly a year after returning from the Arctic, Ron and Mary were married on July 5, 2008, in San Antonio, Texas. Matt was his father's best man."

Claims number shattered record

Press Release

The number of quartz mining claims staked last year hit a new record, according to year-end statistics for 2011.

There were 114,587 claims registered in 2011, up 31,236 from the previous record of 83,261 filed in 2010.

Of the 250,710 claims in good standing, 48 per cent were staked in the last two years, statistics show.

Up until 2010, it used to be that 16,000 claims registered in a year was a busy year, but for the spike of 23,000-plus in 1996 during the staking rush for base metals south of Ross River which gave rise to Yukon Zinc's new Wolverine mine.

The last two years of staking, on the other hand, have largely been focused on precious metals, particularly in what has become known as the White gold district near the confluence of the White and Yukon rivers.

Up until 2010, it was normal to have approximately 80,000 quartz claims in good standing.

GOVERNMENT OF CANADA SUPPORTS THE 2012 ARCTIC WINTER GAMES

Whitehorse, Yukon (January 14, 2012) –The Government of Canada is proud to support the 2012 Arctic Winter Games, taking place in Whitehorse March 4-10, 2012. These games are a unique way to celebrate sport and Canada's northern culture, as well as showcasing Yukon's beautiful northern landscape to the many visiting athletes from around the world.

"Holding the Games in Whitehorse this year gives Yukon an opportunity to showcase its dynamic cultural presence and top class facilities which make the territory an ideal host," said Yukon MP Ryan Leef. "The Government of Canada is proud to invest in the 2012 Arctic Winter Games which will strengthen and foster partnerships between participating countries and generate local economic activity."

"The Government of Canada is proud to support the Arctic Winter Games through the Sport Canada Hosting Program," said the Honourable Bal Gosal, Minister of State (Sport). "Hosting an international sport event like this benefits Canadian athletes and has a positive impact on the local economy and the community."

"The Yukon government is proud to be contributing $1.4 million in funding for the Arctic Winter Games," said Yukon Premier Darrell Pasloski. "The games provide Yukon youth with unique opportunities to challenge themselves and bring northern people together to celebrate sporting excellence and showcase our unique northern heritage and cultural traditions."

"In March of 2012, Whitehorse will welcome the northern world for a celebration of sport and culture," said George Arcand, President of the Whitehorse 2012 Arctic Winter Games Host Society. "The Arctic Winter Games is an excellent example of how major events can fill our local hotel rooms, enhance awareness of the North, and provide an economic boost during the winter months." The Government of Canada's contribution is critical to the success of these games and without their support, these Games would not be possible."

Held every two years since 1970, the 2012 Arctic Winter Games will attract more than 2,000 athletes, coaches, officials, and cultural performers to Whitehorse between March 4-10. Competing teams will come from all across the circumpolar world including Canada (Northwest Territories, Nunavut, Yukon, Northern Alberta and Northern Quebec), Greenland, Russia (Yamal), the Sapmi region (Norway, Sweden, Finland), and the USA (Alaska). Various federal departments and agencies are providing financial support for the 2012 Games including the Canadian Northern Economic Development Agency, Canadian Heritage and Sport Canada.

The End of the World; Part 2

Once the Temple of Solomon has been rebuilt, the Jews will once again begin their ritual sacrifice offerings, but the end will not occur at that time, much more must occur. An Antichrist, spoken of by several prophets including Nostradamus, must rise to power. This person will be a politician and soldier. He will rise out of the European Union, and create world-wide peace, causing a seven year treaty to be signed by Israel and all of her warring neighbours. Still the end is not yet. He will then be elected as the One World Leader and his word will be law. Now, let us consider this aspect alone. One man to rule the entire planet. Outrageous! Not so. With our current forms of Government and our current level of satisfaction, with our economy doing fair no Government outside of the European Union would permit one man to rule All countries of the world. It would require a very drastic event, and eventual recovery for all world leaders to accept one Government for the entire world. This event would need to be more severe than just an economical crash, and this is where I think that the 2012 prophecies might fall World-wide devastation, death, calamities of all kinds will occur. Greater floods (making the New Orleans disaster look like a day at the water park), more severe weather phenomenon, wars more severe than ever previously experienced, earthquakes with magnitudes greater than 9.5 on the Richter scale occurring where earthquakes have never occurred in human history. The deaths related to these events will reduce the human population by about 1,000,000,000 people or greater. What makes this so significant? The fact that it will all occur in a period of less than three years! Panic will envelope the populace of the earth. Governments will fall victim to riotous upheavals, and panic will surround all of the world's politicians. At this time, and only at this time, will all of the world's Governments be vulnerable enough to accept the inauguration of one man to rule the world. This man will be in power when the Temple of Solomon is rebuilt, in fact he will be instrumental in its rebuilding. He will be arrogant enough to call himself the saviour of the world, and like sheep the people of the world will also proclaim this man as the saviour of all mankind.

But there is a flaw in this man's leadership, he will be so inhumane that Hitler and his atrocities will seem pale in comparison. Hitler will appear almost saintly as compared to this coming world leader. Yet he has learned from history, he will not force his way into leadership, he will be elected by all Heads of State world-wide, unanimously. Any man who stands in this leader's way will be eliminated, no trial, no representation, but only one chance at life, accept him unconditionally, then you will be permitted to live.

IT'S NOT YOU, DAWSON, IT'S ME

with Sam Cheuk

Homage to John Steins

Strange games our minds play with us. Wedged somewhere between the last article and now was the decision to leave Dawson, and ever since I've been enjoying Dawson almost as much as when I had first stepped foot here. I suspect that the renewal in spirit is informed in part by my self-removal from having any stake in the town. Makes sense enough on some basic gut level, but I can't ignore the obvious contradiction at play here: the more I had tried to ascribe some personal investment to the town, the more the simple act of being here gnawed at me. Fickle beast, that desire. Back to square one then.

Holy moly guacamole, it's almost 3 a.m. right now and I have to teach early in the morning, best to keep it short and preemptive apology should my logic be tenuous.

Over the Christmas break, I chatted with a few friends and acquaintances about my previous article and the pros and cons of Dawson. What surprised me was not so much their answers, as their being in the same position as me. Some, like me, are doing the same plus/minus arithmetic, while others have set definitive exit strategies, albeit in terms of years.

What separates me from them is that they have been here longer, and seem better integrated into the social fabric of this town than myself. (I'd like to think that I've done an admirable job thus far in doing just that. A friend, born and raised here, whom I had met over pool games at the Downtown, is bringing me moose meat! That seems like momentous milestone in Dawson society acceptance, in my mind anyways.) Simply put, I never would have suspected the fidelity in circumstance, even more so was I surprised by the grace with which they can harbour the tension between a genuine love for Dawson and sober recognition of their eventual departure. I would have thought they're here for good

In the conversations I had, the constant theme that emerged was entrapment. While I can relate experientially, I've had a hard time pinpointing the locus behind the feeling, or articulating adequately to capture (compartmentalize?) the sensation. Allow me two travelogue-y anecdotes to approximate my understanding of this sense of enclosure before I skedaddle off to bed.

Austin, TX: Not saying this town is full of hippies, but Dawson does have John Steins. Austin is full of hippies, if you are not familiar with the little blue star midst the sea of red. Their slogan is "Keep Austin Weird". This precocious and self-realizing sense of civic identity, while for most part awesome, can also be stifling. When a city is so thoroughly in love in itself, even for good reasons, it naturally extends the love into something narcissistic and preservative. To preserve something is to take it outside of time, to "entrap" it in constant present tense, allowing no room for history, no room for growth, transformation, a city encased in a snow globe.

St. Petersburg, Russia: I was there during white nights, when the sky never gets darker than dusk. And as you may expect, there's no last call there. I was there with a bunch of writers. The confluence of the three factors meant that there was a lot of stumbling out of bars 5 or 6 in the morning. I remember while walking back home with a friend in one such instance, we came across three construction workers jackhammering the sidewalk. They looked deathly pale, tired, hungover, with an air of Russian life-or-death seriousness, all of which was exacerbated by their distinctly Russian feature of sunken evesockets-- to paraphrase something from a short story by Faulkner (I think?), like two lumps of coal pressed into a ball of dough. The sight would have been pretty ordinary if not for the ghetto blaster blasting rave-y techno beats. It was as though if someone were to turn off the music, the fog of their somber insouciance would dissipate and their sudden realization of the crushing direness of their lives would kill them dead right then and there. I brought that up because I suppose a self-perpetuating illusion is a kind of entrapment, though illusion may be too strong a word when applied to Dawson. Let's go with "narrative." While a lot of what this Dawson narrative entails is positive, I wonder if it's at times exaggerated for people to justify staying here for one year longer, then another year and then another, until it becomes too comfortable and/or familiar to leave, a sort of housing bubble of optimism that never (hopefully) pops?

Schiesse, it's 4:15. Conclusion: good night.

COSMIC COUNSEL

with April Bartlett

Aries (March 21 – April 19): 2012 is the year of the dragon. That's you, divine beast! Prepare yourself for all things grandiose. You bring good fortune and a master sense of authority with you as this year begins. This year, it will flow from your fingertips, seep from your ears, you'll be sweating certainty and spirit. The challenge for you, however, will be to not do it all on your own. Though you are capable, what fun would it be? It would be like playing scrabble all by yourself.

Taurus (April 20 – May 20): You know that feeling you get way down deep in your guts when your mother/roommate/co-worker/stranger walks in on you singing your great big heart out and you were pretending you were on some Broadway stage, and you were so into it that you were even using jazz hands? That sinking feeling when that great big heart creeps down into that dark spot deep down in your guts? Instead of running for the nearest closet/blanket/fridge, wait just a second. When the nausea sets in then you're really onto something. So do something that makes you sick to your stomach scared this week, it will be invigorating; or cleansing at the very least

Gemini (May 21 – June 20): As my little old mother likes to say 'you're as slow as cold molasses you is'. Which, where she's from, means you're dragging your feet Gemini. Don't you deny it; you've got those toes 10 inches in the ground these days. It's time to pull up those pants and get to marching. There's no reason for you to be slopping around town like some sad donkey. Allow your steps to become lighter just as the days.

Cancer (June 21 – July 22): I am sure by now you have heard of pyramid power. So you know that it is believed that pyramids are capable of holding energy within them; capable of preserving foods, and restoring and maintaining health. Now before you go on and build yourself a pyramid hat and go traipsing around town, know that pyramid power is yours to possess, it's up there, between the brain and your third eye, you just gotta tune in, man.

Leo (July 23 – August 22): There are one or three things I have come to know because of Star Trek. One of those things is the importance of living peacefully with other life-forms, I mean human beings. The federation was built upon the rule that you do not go forcing your ideals and morals onto others. Mutual respect was way up there on the list of tenets. Does this resound with you? Because it should. A small reminder that while we are all struggling in our own way to get along on this big spaceship we call earth, and you cannot expect everyone to hold the same values we do. Remember this when those same values are challenged in the coming days just like Capt. Kirk would do.

Virgo (August 23 – September 22): Let me tell you a little story I know, about a wise old owl. That wise old owl, well, he lived in a tree, and the more that old did see, the less he spoke. As a result, the less he spoke, the more he heard. So I ask you this Virgo, why can't you be like that wise old bird?

Libra (September 23 – October 22): There is much for you to rejoice in these days isn't there. Things, as they are, just seem to be falling into place, quite serendipitously. Maybe it's because Neptune is in the 3rd house, or because the moon is in Aquarius. Whatever cosmic happenings are happening, everything is just moving right along, and quite smoothly. So enjoy it, don't question or criticize. Just be happy.

Scorpio (October 23 – November 21): You've got dreams, just like Otis, dreams to remember. Oh boy, are you every rememberin' them lately. Are they just flooding in? The weirdness, the uncanny, and the eerie? Déjà vu is a strong experience, and I think that you know it well. Its due time you pay attention to your dreams, all the weird, wonderful and reminiscent that happen within. Write it down, write it all down, and you'll be happily surprised at what you learn.

Sagittarius (November 22 – December 21): Every cell in your body is tingling these days, just reaching for your coffee cup has become focused task, and you are trembling with excited energy. You're in the mood to start a raucous, rip the carpets off the floor and head for the cupboards. Before you get too far and burn down the house, think about what all that power and energy could do when harnessed. It's pretty darn cool to think of all you can accomplish when you are headed in a positive direction, self-propelled, perpetually moving forward.

Capricorn (December 22 – January 19): Do not worry that your friends think you're kind of pretentious these days because you aren't answering the phone or returning calls. You are kind of like a spaceship these days. Up there, above the horizon, looking down on everyone else. It's alright that your head and your heart just aren't here with the rest of us. All you need is a good book to bury your face in and settle down in that spaceship, it might take a bit, but you'll be back.

Aquarius (January 20 – February 18): Do not forget the small things. I do not mean the small details like the small black sock you always forget in the dryer, but those literal small things. All that tiny, insignificant and obscure. May you walk with mindfulness of all that lay beneath your feet. Do not forget that even if we all stood up on each other's shoulders until there was all but one us left standing on the ground; we are still so very small and insignificant when stacked up against the universe. You may be one small speck of dust, in the tornado dust cloud of this universe, but you are a very important and significant speck of dust, walk responsibly and considerably of all that is smaller than you.

Pisces (February 19 – March 20): I cannot stress enough the importance of laughter. Whatever gets you started on a fit of giggles, do it, and do it often. The benefits of a nice chuckle are endless, You will be better for letting yourself go limp from a good guffaw. Chuckle, shriek, cackle or howl. Pay no mind to those who point and think you're seizing as you writhe on the floor, doubled over with the sheer pleasure of laughter.

Ode to the Cold

by Karen MacKay

Deep snow blanketed the world around Covering the frozen earth til spring Deep paths by many boots were ground And I followed with quiet, muted sound Imagining the flowers and other things.

My nose grew numb from the biting cold Ignoring the feelings I travelled along Stories the old timers often told Of mines and cabins and elusive gold Came into my thoughts as I stumbled on.

As comforts beckoned below a full moon I visioned prospectors and how they survived In a drafty shelter and smoky room Sourdough bread waiting to be consumed And how the years had changed our lives.

One Cold Night in Dawson

The weekend brought on colder temperatures than the Klondike area has seen so far this winter, with temperatures ranging from -47 at Henderson's Corner to -41 in downtown Dawson during the day. This picture was taken around 11:30 p.m.on a Sunday night. Photo by Dan Davidson.

The Chimney Tells

The crown surrounding this chimney is an infallible cold weather indicator, which only takes shape after an extended period of temperatures below -35°C. Actually a stalagmite, it forms from the roof up as moisture drips from the chimney in really cold weather. The crown effect takes shape after the stalagmite reaches the top of the chimney. When things warm up, and once the sun shines on it for a few days, it will signal the change in the weather by the loud thump it makes on our porch roof when it falls off. Photo by Dan Davidson.

There are 17 different species of penguins and all of them live in the Southern Hemisphere.

Most live around the South Pole in Antarctica, but some penguins live on the coasts of Africa! And Australia! On the coasts of South America and New Zealand! The farthest north that penguins live is on the Galapagos Islands!

An African penguin stands two feet tall and only weighs seven to 10 lbs.

An Emperor penguin stands four feet tall and can weigh up to 90 lbs.

Most penguins share in the nesting of their eggs, BUT the Emperor penguin male takes ALL the responsibility. He sits on HIS egg for up to nine weeks with out ever leaving, or eating. He can loose up to half his body weight before the chick is born and Mom comes home. Then he is off to the ocean to feed.

Popcorn is, no kidding, made out of a vegetable - corn!
Popcorn "pops" because it has a hard outer shell and a starchy inside. When the pressure in the starchy stuff gets too high, "POP", a piece of popcorn is born.

Popcorn has been around for thousands of years. One of the first, and oldest, strains of corn came from New Mexico in 3600 B.C.!

Carmel candied popcorn was first introduced at a World Fair in 1893, but Cracker Jacks were not marketed until 1896.

Regular salted popcorn became especially popular in North America during the Great Depression when sugar, and sugarflavored candies, were hard to get. There is even a penguin called a "Rock Hopper". It hops, with it's feet together, from rock to rock to get to its nesting place.

It can hop four or five feet! And it's only two feet tall!

Don't forget to watch "Mr. Popper's Penguins", starring Jim Carrey and his personal assistant who only talks in words that start with the letter "P". Pick a letter and try it.

Like the letter S (Sam smiled, Sister Suzie smirked silly so slyly, etc., etc.) It's fun.

BUT THAT'S NOT ALL.

In North America we make our popcorn in a pan or a microwave, popping one kernel at a time, but in China they throw all the kernels in a large covered cast iron pot which they rotate over a fire until the pressure gauge reaches a certain level. Then they remove it from the fire and place a sack over it. They remove the lid, and, with a BIG HUGE BANG, all the corns pops at once.

Popcorn can also be used to make strings for your Christmas tree. It can be used as "packing" material for sending fragile gifts. It's a real cheap bird food, and you can color it and make pictures. All you need is food coloring or colored sugar, glue, and a piece of paper.

CHECK IT OUT.

P.S. The largest popcorn ball weighed 1,550 kg !!!

Pyramids are most well known to be in Egypt, dating as far back as 2600 B.C., but did you know they have discovered nine pyramids on Mars!

Kind of freaks you out, this means someone/ something was there to make them.

(Do you believe in other life-forms? Can you draw me some?)

Some believe that the pyramids were built by help from aliens from outer-space, others believe it was just the strengths and brains of humans. What do you think?

JUST FOR FUN:

You can go to www.discoveringegypt.com and find real cool stuff. You can write your name in Hieroglyphics (Egyptian pictures), play old Egyptian games, even learn how they made mummies!
