Story & photos by Dan Davidson

Banking issues in Dawson provided a major discussion at the most recent meeting of the Dawson City Chamber of Commerce on February 8.

CIBC Branch Christopher Tessier and MLA Sandy Silver were responding to a letter and an article published during the last month in the Klondike Sun. Complaints reported in the paper dealt with the inability of the bank to cash Yukon government cheques issued for a variety of purposes unless the person cashing the cheque had a local bank account.

When a person cashes a cheque at a bank, the cheque is not guaranteed by the agency that issued it, but documentation together and rather by the bank account of the person cashing it, That is the case with government cheques too, unless, as with federal cheques, there is an agreement to indemnify the bank in case something is IntheYukon,thegovernment has such an agreement with the Toronto Dominion Bank, which services most of the rural communities, except Dawson and Watson Lake. There is no TD branch in Dawson and so residents here do not have that benefit.

Silver said the easiest solution for anyone would simply be to have a local CIBC account, which would even allow the bank to waive the $4 service charge. but acknowledged that, for whatever reasons, some people do not wish to do so.

"Toronto Dominion, under Manager contact with the Yukon government, must have an agency branch in any remote community that does not have its own bank," said Tessier. "Therefore Dawson City has been disqualified from having an agency to deal with the government cheques strictly on the basis that CIBC is doing business here."

> Tessier said that the CIBC, at the national level and locally, has taken the initiative and the expense of drawing up a formal indemnity agreement.

"We've put all of the have attempted to submit this to the Yukon government. The Yukon government's position at this point in time is that they are not interested in supplying CIBC with an indemnity to deal with our clients that are trying to negotiate cheques.

"Interestingly, Yukon government cheques before December 30, 2011, used to have a statement at the top which said that the cheque was negotiable at any bank in Canada without charge. The only way the Yukon government could enforce that was if they indemnified every financial institution against loss, like the federal government does, for up to $1500.00."

Tessier said that both the government and finance dept. officials were apparently unaware of this written guarantee on the cheques until Tessier brought it to their attention. Instead of doing anything to remedy the situation, the government has chosen to remove that wording from its cheques.

The local branch of the CIBC now has a Dawson specific

"I will call into the finance department," said Tessier, "and if there are no stops and holds on the cheque we will negotiate it for a $5 cashing fee for non-clients. We are not turning people away. However, we have agreed with the government that we will only accept the risk ... for up to $1500.00. Any Yukon government cheque over that amount would be subject to our standard hold policy."

Silver described this as a classic example of a local business doing its best to serve its clients in spite of a government policy getting in the way.

Chamber members were very appreciative of the bank's efforts on behalf of the community.

CIBC branch manager Christopher Tessier is discouraged in his attempts to make cashing cheques simpler for Dawsonites who do not have local bank accounts.

Uffish Thoughts: Where Should Our Government Make its Announcements?

by Dan Davidson

don't suppose it's Harper's surprise about announcement the impending Old Age Supplement(OAS)crisisthat bothered me quite so much as it was the place where he chose to make it. There are proper places to make policy announcements. They should be made on the campaign trail, when a political party is setting out its agenda for the coming years, or they should be made in the House of Commons.

They should not be made in a foreign country, and Davos, Switzerland, fits that definition as far as I can see.

I can't blame the current government for starting this practice of ignoring Parliament. If I recall correctly it was the last real Tory government, under Brian Mulroney, that began making budget announcements in front of chambers of commerce and other business gatherings, and there have been a number of fairly important briefs that have since our elected officials were making speeches in New York and Washington.

This really ought not to happen.

The Harper Government (as they like to style themselves) or the ReformaTories (as I label them) may see this kind of announcement as being the equivalent of the "warning shots" that Justice Minister Rob Nicholson thinks it should be okay to fire in order to deal with a threat.

Personally, I think the Justice Minister has been watching too many American police shows on television. Bullets that are fired, whether up in the air or above someone's head, have to come down and impact somewhere, after been made public while shot about the OAS the Canada Health Transfer himself sanguine with seems to be falling on government's toes. the Even fiscally conservative commentators seem to agree that this approach to dealing with seniors has more negatives than positives attached to it.

It's always a mazed methat there isn't more reported collateral damage (military speak for unintended death and destruction) in places where firing live ammo into the air seems to be a normal, everyday reaction to strong emotion.

> Several have noted, once again, that the government's determination to cut the GST back to 5% just before the world financial collapse of 2008-09 was not good timing, and it's fairly obvious that the debt incurred due to Canada's Action Plan (which was passed by a minority government, so it was something that all parties felt was necessary) would not be so large if we had kept the rate at 6%.

The latest word from the Parliamentary Budget Officer Kevin Page is that the government's panicky projections about the OAS are unfounded, which is sort of good news in a way. The bad news part of that analysis is that Page based his revised projections on the government's decision to freeze the increases on In this case, the warning health care funding and tie to GDP after 2016-17.

This, you may recall, was an announcement that was made by the government without any hint that it was at all negotiable, a fact that caused quite a bit of consternation amongst the premiers when the implications of the plan finally sank in. Even our own Mr. Pasloski, who at first pronounced this direction, had second thoughts after sitting down with his political peers.

When they finally reach some conclusion about all of this (assuming that the combined weight of all the nation's first ministers can actually change the federal finance minister's mind) I just hope the policy announcement will be made in this country.

Letters to the Editor:

Re: John Gould

Dear editor,

I received my Jan. 11 Klondike Sun today and was saddened to learn of the passing of John Gould.

I first met John in the early 1960s when I was a wenchman for YCGC on Dredge #s 6 and 8, and lived at Granville. A number of families lived at this camp year around. John brought the mail and groceries out to Granville every Saturday, and picked up the mail to go back, plus our grocery list for the next week.

He was also a talented photographer. I needed a passport photo in a hurry when I was going to South America, dredging. John took care of it.

I visited the Yukon and Dawson City three times since then, and on each trip always had a visit and update with John.

My last visit was in June 2009, when I spent an enjoyable afternoon with John and Madeleine at their home. He brought me up to date on the mining industry in the Yukon and his involvement with Parks Canada and the restoring of Dredge #4. He personally signed and gave me his book, "Frozen Gold".

Dawson City will not be the same without John Gould.

Keith Morland,

Consort, AB.

Idle Matter

Dear City of Dawson:

One of my pet peeves as a citizen concerned about climate change, especially in the Canadian North, is unnecessary vehicle idling. It is with great consternation and regularity that I see a City of Dawson vehicle parked and idling in front of "Tasty Byte" coffee shop, or the "Home Hardware" store or the city employee's house. I have witnessed these vehicles idling from anywhere between fifteen and forty minutes or sometimes longer.

According to Environment Canada, "Ask Canadian motorists why they idle their vehicles and you'll likely get a simple answer: to warm up the engine before they drive away. It's one of the most commonly held myths about driving in Canada. Excessively long warm-ups cost you money, waste fuel and generate unnecessary greenhouse gas emissions that contribute to climate change. Contrary to popular belief, excessive idling is not an effective way to warm up your vehicle, even in cold weather. The best way to warm it up is to drive it. In fact, with today's computer-controlled engines, even on cold winter days, usually no more than two to three minutes of idling is enough warm-up time needed for the average vehicle before starting to drive."

Environment Canada also says "Idling longer than 10 seconds uses more fuel and produces more CO₂ compared to restarting the engine. But will turning off the vehicle to avoid idling result in higher maintenance costs and extra wear and tear for the starter and battery? Actually, the break-even point to offset any incremental maintenance costs is under 60 seconds. You'll save money on fuel that should more than offset any potential increase in maintenance costs. And your vehicle won't produce unnecessary emissions of CO₂, the principle greenhouse gas that contributes to climate change."

The Environment Canada website has loads of information on how to reduce fuel consumption, and save money on their website (http://oee.nrcan.gc.ca/ transportation/idling/)and offers a regular newsletter to keep up to date with the latest findings. So please, could we make it "City of Dawson Employee driving policy" not to idle engines? This small change will help save fuel, save the City money and reduce CO₂ emmissions which will help reduce the effects of climate change.

Thank you, Concerned Citizen

Re: Dear Dawgs

Dear editor,

My open letter to the Dawson City Sled Dawgs has been a lesson for me in how to approach an issue that I have concerns

I was overwhelmed by their reaction. Right now I am at a place, where it is hard for me to say much but I hope something good is coming out of this for everybody.

Sincerely, Kirsten Lorenz

Re: Lorenz, Sled Dawgs

Dear editor:

Reading the printed responses to Kirsten Lorenz' original letter was appalling. Here we have a resident raising genuine concerns over an incident that put her family at risk, and she gets hateful comments in Anyone that's been in an accident or seen their family's welfare put in jeopardy through thoughtlessness will know how upsetting that can be. Of course a mother is going to get upset and seek to highlight the issue. Few, if any, letters in response expressed sympathy for her plight or recognized her concerns. Telling residents that they are not welcome in 'our community' and that it would be a better place without them is unacceptable and an affront to decency. You should be ashamed.

Mr. Grenon's response on behalf of the Sled Dawgs was respectful and informative. This was all that was needed under the circumstances. The letters that restricted comments to the Sled Dawgs' community involvement and volunteer work proved more impactful than those that sank to spite. I hope those that submitted hateful and divisive comments take note. You have left this community all the lesser for

The original cause of the upset seems to have been overlooked somewhat: that a race track was constructed without any consultation that disrupted, and in places obliterated, established and well used trails that cross the Yukon River. Knowing that the Sled Dawg volunteers are approachable, communityminded people (the exceptions have identified themselves), I trust that there is communication taking place now to avoid incidents like this in future

Finally, I am sure I am not the only one concerned that the Klondike Sun, our community newspaper, chose to print letters that are clearly intended to be hurtful and contained personal attacks on a community member. I fully support freedom of the press, however, it is not appropriate that the paper allows itself to be the forum whereby anyone can tell another person to get out of town. Such comments do not promote any argument, and should be edited out. I trust you will review your policy on these matters with some haste.

Yours respectfully. Jim Taggart

Editor's Note:

Two issues ago we read the letter that started this controversial exchange, looked at each other and said "Uh-oh, she should have stopped in the middle." But she didn't and our usual policy is not to edit opinions. We felt that left us with little option but to print the unedited responses, however cringeworthy parts of some of them

Congratulations to the writers on the Sled Dawg's ad page (yes, they paid for that one) who took the high road and accentuated the positives. Everyone should remember that printed words last long after the reflexive anger or rhetorical overkill that spawns them. Just ask federal Public Safety Minister Vic Toews if you don't believe me. Let's not go down this road again, folks, okay?

A Conflict and an Opportunity

Dear Dawsonites and Sled Dawgs,

I'm a newcomer in town and like most of us here, couldn't find the Dawson Exit-Sign. :-) (Ed. Note - There is a smiley face emoticon after this sentence.) Since reading Kirsten's "Open Letter" and then the "Response", I've had a hard time sleeping. It's almost always on my mind.

I don't know anybody here very well yet, but during the few encounters I've had with Kirsten, I got the impression that she's a warm and caring person.

I would like to share one example that illustrates what I mean: Kirsten had a house-sitter to keep her home warm over her family's Christmas vacation. The house- sitter neglected her job and abandoned the house for 2 days. The consequence was a frozen pipe and a huge mess. It took Kirsten and her family 3 days to clean up.

The point is: The house-sitter felt terrible, apologized and showed remorse. Kirsten and her family didn't hesitate in forgiving her immediately and treated her very well afterwards.

As far as I know, Kirsten has already apologized to the Sled Dawgs, and shown her remorse. I think, this is a golden opportunity to live up to our reputation as an open, caring and accepting community.

This situation can be seen as a chance: to use our reaction to Kirstin's slip of judgment/emotional response and subsequent remorse, to unite this community even more through showing love and compassion, and so making it an even better place to live.

We are all human beings, and sooner or later we'll all make mistakes. Hopefully, we'll also find forgiveness when we show remorse.

Thanks for listening, Ava Kastner

SCHOOL COUNCIL NEWS

Hot Topic Nights

If you haven't seen the posters around town, been emailed the Sourdough, or seen the postings on Facebook, you may not know but RSS School Council is hosting a regular Hot Topic Night that is open to the entire community. Council is using this forum as a way to encourage community participation

Topic Nights are meetings that have no set agenda. We sit in comfortable groups of four to six people, and talk about "hot" education topics. We eat food (that council pays for), have coffee, tea or juice, and share our opinions in a way that includes all. Everyone's voice counts.

Our next Hot Topic Night will be held on February 22 between 6 and 9 p.m. at the arena. Please drop by before hockey, after hockey, or if you just need a break from hockey!

Committees

Nutrition Policy Committee

Contact Lisa Favron: rsscouncil@hotmail.com

in the discussion on education in our community.

All committee meetings are open to the public. If you have something you would like to add to the discussion, questions or just want to know what is going on, please contact the above for times and locations of meetings.

All participation is welcome.

Upcoming Events

Council holds regular meetings the first Wednesday of every month at 6:30 p.m. in the library. If you have something to present or just want to hear what is going on, feel free to attend. There is time assigned for presentations, community concerns and round table discussion.

Council will be looking at the upcoming school calendar over the next few months. Please give us your opinions. We will be looking at: the two-week March Break, early/late school closure, early/late school start and exam schedules.

The key to a successful School Council is community involvement. We appreciate any and all comments.

Please check out rsscouncil@ysenet.com for updated policies, events and minutes.

Our next Hot Topic Night is Februry 22, between 6 and 9 p.m. at the arena.

An Evening with Eighteen Strings

Story & photos by Dan Davidson

The Dawson audience was blessed with a set of fine classical performances on the evening of February 4 in the Oddfellows Hall.

The evening began with a pair of piano pieces played by Kristen Poenn, who is currently a student at the Yukon School of Visual Arts (SOVA), as well as being a piano teacher operating through the Klondike Institute of Art and Culture (KIAC).

Poenn provided the audience with a lovely 20-minute set.

Then it was time for Partrita to take the stage. The trio consists of: Hélène Beaulieu, Danette Readman, and Nicholas Mah, who have been performing together for about a year.

All three have individual careers and have performed and toured across Canada, as well as internationally

Readman says there aren't a lot of venues for classical

"We've often organized our own shows, like at churches or ... here. We're looking for more places where this kind of thing would fit."

All three are music teachers, with Beaulieu giving ukulele instruction and the others teaching guitar.

They offered two sets for the evening, each consisting of some opening numbers played as a trio, followed by couple of solo pieces by each performer, and closing with another trio offering.

The material varied from the traditional Spanish flavoured classical, to Latin styles, a bit of ragtime, Bach and a number of recognized classical composers whose work for other instruments has been transcribed for guitar.

There were also a number of modern works, including some by Vancouver based Celso Machado.

On the Sunday afternoon the three met for a workshop with a number of interested players to discuss classical guitar history and strategies for mastering techniques as well as working on a piece which three of the attendees have indicated they will try to have ready for the February 11 monthly coffee

Kristen Poenn was the opening act for a classical evening.

Partrita, composed of Hélène Beaulieu, Danette Readman, and Nicholas Mah, performed two long sets of ensemble and solo work and held a guitar workshop on Sunday.

It is with great sadness that we announce the passing of Brent Darwin Raymond Pasareno. After a courageous battle with cancer Brent passed away peacefully on Monday, February 13, 2012. Brent is survived by his loving wife Rosemary, his daughters Lori (Dean) Pasareno-Wilson, Lonnie (Bob) Pasareno-Tate, Marla Pasareno, and Marcie Pasareno, his brother Bill (Iris) Pasareno, nephew Jayson and niece Alexandra Pasareno and nephew Conway (Linda) Yury. Brent was predeceased by his wife Bonnie Mulligan, his parents William and Georgina Pasareno, and his sisters Lila Yury and Brent loved life and lived it to the fullest. He was born in Ste. Rose Dulac, Manitoba on July 23, 1941. The oldest of four children he began working at a young age with his father at the family sawmill. His entrepreneurial spirit led him to begin his own company. Brent owned and operated a successful road contracting business in Northern Saskatchewan for 20 years. His love of the north led Brent to explore the romance of the Klondike gold fields. Eventually Brent found the perfect balance, working a successful placer operation during the arctic summer and relaxing with friends in sunny Arizona in the winter. If Arizona was too hot, or the Yukon was too cold, Brent could be found along the shores of Okanogan Lake.

It was important for Brent to stay connected to family and friends. Brent could often be found with the local coffee crowd swapping tales of his adventures. A celebration of Brent's life will be held at 4:00 pm on Saturday, February 18th at the Pointe Club House 4074 Gellatly Road, West Bank Kelowna. In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to the M.S. Society of Kelowna or to Hospice House Kelowna. The family would like to extend a thank you to Dr. Shepherd, the Vascular Surgeons in Kelowna, the Palliative Care Team in West Bank, the staff at Hospice House and in particular his caregiver Dylan for his compassion, companionship, and caring of Brent through this very difficult time.

Condolences may be sent to the family at www.valleyviewfuneralhome.

Finding a balance to protect the Peel Region

The debate has shifted from whether to protect the Peel, to how to protect the Peel.

We believe most Yukoners share common values. Yukoners value wilderness, beauty and healthy ecosystems, and also want a strong, diversified economy that provides employment for their friends, families and communities.

We agree that there are areas in the Peel Watershed Region that need the highest level of environmental protection to preserve ecological, biological and cultural values.

We also believe that government's duty is to work with all sectors of the economy and society, and balance competing interests to the best extent possible.

It is time to shift the debate from whether to protect the environment in the Peel, to how to best protect the environment in the Peel while allowing responsible use.

The principle of managing intensity of use rather than type of use is central to the Yukon's only existing Regional Land Use Plan, the North Yukon Plan which was jointly approved by the Vuntut Gwitchin First Nation and the Yukon Government in 2009.

Guiding Principles for Peel Regional Land Use Plan

The following principles will guide the Yukon government's modifications to the Final Recommended Peel plan:

Special Protection for Key Areas

We recognize that specific areas in the Peel Watershed region contain significant ecological, biological, and cultural values that deserve the highest level of protection available.

Manage Intensity of Use

There should be a focus on managing the intensity of use rather than prescribing the type of use. This may include options such as requiring best practices in specific areas; applying mitigation that will prioritize some values ahead of others; managing the cumulative disturbance within an area; managing activity in river corridors.

Respect the Umbrella Final Agreement

A number of management and protection tools already exist for conserving wilderness characteristics and other ecosystem components under the various chapters of the Final Agreement. These include special management area planning, wildlife management, water resources, development assessment, access, and surface rights.

Respect the Importance of all Sectors of the Economy

The Final Plan must recognize the value of all sectors of the economy, and focus on managing any conflicting land uses in a manner that is fair, balanced and equitable.

Respect Private Interests

There will be no expropriation of existing claims and provisions will be made for reasonable surface access

Active Management

We support active management of the landscape rather than prohibitions to use and access.

Future Looking

Government should have the ability to retain options into the future for additional conservation or development.

Practical and Affordable

Ultimately the Plan must be one that can be implemented within fiscally-responsible means and human resources capacity. There will be up to eight regional land use plans in the Territory, so plan implementation requirements should reflect that government resources must be balanced amongst existing and future projects.

New Principles to Complete the Peel Plan Seem to have Little Appeal

Compiled from various press under the various chapters releases

A firestorm of protests from avariety of groups has followed government's Yukon revelation that it has developed eight core principles that will be used to guide modifications and completion of the Peel Watershed Regional Land Use Plan. Premier Darrell Pasloski announced these last week.

"The Yukon government continues to support an approach that balances access for industry and other users while establishing protection in key habitat areas in the Peel region," Pasloski said. "The principles will provide guidance for the timely completion of the remaining steps in this important land use planning process."

Working in collaboration with the Peel Plan parties, government use the principles to guide strategic modifications to the draft Peel Plan. Details on the proposed modifications will be included in the next round of public consultation on the plan, scheduled for this spring. "Yukon government's guiding principles support special protection for key areas active management of the landscape rather than prohibitions to use and access," Environment Minister Currie Dixon said. The Government of Yukon principles are:

1. Special Protection for Key Areas - We recognize that specific areas in the Peel watershed region contain significant ecological, biological, and cultural values that deserve the highest level of protection available.

2. Manage Intensity of Use - There should be a focus on managing the intensity of use rather than prescribing the type of use. This may include options such as:

- requiring best practices in specific areas;
- applying mitigation that will prioritize some values ahead of others;
- disturbance within an area;
- managing activity in river corridors.
- 3. Respect the First Nation Final Agreements - A number of management and protection tools already exist for conserving wilderness characteristics and other ecosystem components of the final agreement. These include special management planning, wildlife management, water resources, development assessment, access, and surface rights.

- 4. Respect the Importance of all Sectors of the Economy - The final plan must recognize the value of all sectors of the economy, and focus on managing any conflicting land uses in a manner that is fair, balanced and equitable.
- 5. Respect Private - There will be Interests no expropriation of existing claims, and provisions will be made for reasonable surface access.
- 6. Active Management We support active management of the landscape rather than prohibitions to use and access.
- 7. Future Looking Government should have the ability to retain options into the future for additional conservation or development.

8. Practical and Affordable - Ultimately the plan must be one that can be implemented within fiscally-responsible means and human resources capacity. There will be up to eight regional land use plans in the territory, so plan implementation requirements should reflect that government resources must be balanced among existing and future

(Ed. Note - Readers may want to compare these new principles to the six existing principles that were supposed to guide this highly controversial process. You can find these following this article.)

Details of the principles were recently shared with representatives of the First Nation of Na-Cho Nyäk Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in, Dun. Vuntut Gwitchin First Nation Government, and the Gwich'in Tribal Council, the other parties responsible for regional land use planning in the Peel region. Their response to the government's announcement has been overwhelmingly negative, as - managing the cumulative have those from the official NDP Opposition, the Yukon Conservation Society and the Tourism Industry Association of the Yukon.

The First Nations have previously indicated that they would prefer 100% of the Peel to be protected, but that they would settle for the 80% proposed in the draft report submitted months ago.

The First Nations accuse the government of compromising six years worth of land use planning and call the government's announcement a "violation" of the letter of understanding signed just over a year ago.

"We were blindsided by these unexpected principles appearing when the plan was almost done," said Chief Eddie Taylor of the Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in.

"It is outside the process mandated by the Umbrella Final Agreement for the Yukon Party Government to introduce these principles so late in the process."

In a joint release the Yukon Conservation Society the Canadian Parks Wilderness Society call the new principles "unprincipled" and claims that they violate the process undergone so far, as well as Land Claims

"It's clear the government does not want to be honest with the public about its intention to develop the Peel," said YCS's Karen Baltgailis. "Instead, it is hiding behind a set of arbitrary principles it has concocted to dupe the public. This is nothing more than an attempt to gut the recommended plan and to start the whole process from scratch."

TIAY's Neil Hartling was as blunt.

seven years, Peel Watershed Planning Commission worked under principles agreed to by this government. The Commission was diligent in their efforts to develop a Land Use Plan that reflects the values of Yukoners and recognizes the longterm economic, social and environmental value of the Peel River Watershed," said Hartling. "

To simply disregard the extensive work done the Commission, and thousands of Yukoners who contributed to it, undermines all land planning efforts in this territory and draws into question the government's commitment to their constituents."

The NDP's Liz Hanson notes that the Premier had refused to take a position on the Peel issue during the election last fall but that this announcement reveals the Yukon Party's true position for all to see.

"The Premier fed Yukoners the line that process required further public consultation before his position could be made known," said Hanson. maintains that all this is "Without further any consultation the plan has now been rejected. We're at the end of a long process, and the government has decided it will no longer play by the long-established rules. It's an insult to the First Nation governments and Yukoners who have engaged in this process in good faith."

business as usual.

"The North Yukon Regional Land Use Plan was completed in 2009 by applying approaches very similar to these guiding principles," Energy, Mines & Resources Minister Brad Cathers said. "We are building on that model of success develop an effective plan for the Peel region."

Goals and Principles

There are six original guiding principles that underlie development and recommendations of the Peel Watershed Regional Land Use Plan:

Independence and Impartiality

As an independent, public agency appointed to represent the best interests of Yukon people, the Commission will carefully consider any and all information, advice, or recommendations provided to it by any government, agency, or the public in a balanced and neutral manner. The Commission will make use of such advice in preparing its Recommended Plan, consistent with its Terms of Reference and expectations of the UFA (11.4.0 to 11.7.0 incl.)

Sustainable Development

The core principle that guides the Plan is sustainable development, as defined in the UFA: "Beneficial socioeconomic change that does not undermine the ecological and social systems upon which communities and societies are dependent" (UFA, p.7, 11.4.5.9). This includes a commitment to the practice of integrated resource management (UFA, 11.4.5.8, 11.2.1.2), so that the Plan "...ensures that social, cultural, economic and environmental policies are applied to the management, protection and use of land, water and resources in an integrated and coordinated manner so as to ensure sustainable development" (UFA, 11.1.1.6).

First Nations Traditional and Community Resource

The Plan will promote the interests, rights, and responsibilities of the Tetlit Gwich'in, Na-Cho Nyak Dun, Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in, and Vuntut Gwitchin concerning the conservation and use of their traditional territories for country food harvest, promotion of a renewable resource economy, or other purpose as they may decide for settlement lands (UFA, 16.1.1.1, 5.4.9, 12.1.1.1).

Conservation

The Plan proposes to manage fish and wildlife, their habitats, and water resources using the conservation principle as defined in the Umbrella Final Agreement: "The management of Fish and Wildlife populations and habitats and the regulation of users to ensure the quality, diversity and Long Term Optimum Productivity of Fish and Wildlife populations, with the primary goal of ensuring a sustainable harvest and its proper utilization" (UFA, p.1).

Adaptive Management

The Plan is a living document. In accordance with UFA 11.2.1.3 - 11.2.1.5, the Plan will be reviewed, monitored, and updated in response to changing land use and/ or environmental conditions, or as better information becomes available. Adaptive management means that those implementing the plan learn and adapt as their information improves.

Precautionary Principle

The Plan recognizes that the Peel Watershed is an intact ecosystem. It recognizes the need to consider potential effects before making resource decisions - in particular, the need to recognize and enhance, as far as practicable, the livelihood of First Nations and their relationship to the wilderness environment (12.1.1.1). A lack of conclusive scientific evidence does not justify inaction on managing the environment, particularly when the consequences of inaction may be undesirable, or when the costs of action are negligible.

The Tale of the Lost Roman Legion

Codex Alera #3: Cursor's Fury by Jim Butcher Ace Books 544 pages $12.50

Codex Alera #4: Captain's Fury

by Jim Butcher Ace Books 528 pages $12.50

Books can come from strange places. Some time ago Jim Butcher, better known for his novels about the wizard Harry Dresden, was challenged to use two "lame" ideas to create a story. "Lame" in this case meant overworked, clichéd and over-exposed, and the choices were "a lost Roman legion" and "Pokémon".

The Codex Alera series of six novels takes place in the collision between these ideas. It's never specifically stated that the human characters in the series are descendants of a lost Roman legion, but they all have Roman style names. In addition "Alera" means "Eagle" in Latin, and "codex" is Latin for a type of book. Draw your own conclusions.

The humans who arrived in Alera untold generations ago have developed a symbiotic psychic relationship with local mystic forces, basically embodiments of the classical elements of earth, air, fire and water, with plants and metals thrown in. The humans would have equated them with nature spirits of classical mythology and they call them furies.

Some people consider the furies to be simple forces and treat them in a rational, scientific manner as mere tools, while others, mainly country folk, give them names and bond with them emotionally.

Humans are not the only intelligent beings on Alera, and there are strong hints that all the other beings also came from elsewhere. There are the humanoid Marat, a race in which individuals form fury-like bonds with various types of animals and acquire some of their characteristics in the process.

Humans and Marat used to battle each other, but have become allies over the course of the first two books in the series.

There are the Canim, a race of somewhat wolf-like creatures who live on another continent, but make occasional forays into human-Marat territory.

There are the Vord, who are introduced in the first book, but stay in the background for several books before becoming a major threat. They are incredibly alien, and seemingly live to possess others and make them into something like themselves. The closest I can think of would be the Borg from Star Trek, and even that is an oversimplification.

Butcher has structured the series like a good many classical myths, in that the central character, Tavi (an odd name that is finally explained in book #4) is in fact a member of a royal family who does not know that he is, having been protected from harm by his mother (who he thinks is his aunt) and his uncle (who has played the role of a dimwitted slave for all of Tavi's life).

The main story (which covers many years) is about Tavigrowing up and achieving his potential in spite of the many obstacles that have been placed in his way.

In many ways this structure runs parallel to the evolution Harry Dresden is undergoing in Butcher's other series, but the presentation is quite different. The Dresden novels are told in a first person detective noir style, while the Codex books use multiple viewpoints and have more of a fantasy style of narrative.

Multiple viewpoints mean more central characters. Tavi and his Marat lover, Kitai (they are bonded) feature strongly, though Tavi's fellow students and legionnaires also have a vital presence. Tavi's mother, Isana, gets her own chapters, as does Amara, a windcrafting cursor who works directly for the First Lord Gaius, who is actually Tavi's grandfather.

Her former mentor, Fidelius, appears to be a betraying villain in the first book, but it turns out that his motives and relationship to events are far more complex than that, and we also come to know him as the legionnaire Valiar Marcus, where he is an entirely different fellow.

In book three Tavi, who has been studying at the academy, is sent out under the false name of Rufus Scipio as a spy in one of the legions. When the entire upper cadre of officers is wiped out by a sneak attack launched by the Canim invaders, Tavi becomes the legion's captain by default and acquits himself very handily.

A late bloomer in the matter of handling furies (his talent having been deliberately retarded by his mother as part of a strategy to keep him safely hidden from the people who killed his father) Tavi has spent his life developing coping strategies for his lack of furycrafting. The result is that he thinks outside of the box and tends to come up with unorthodox solutions that work. Not unlike a certain Captain Kirk, when he finds himself trapped in an unwinnable situation, he tries to find a way to change the rules.

In book four, set two years later, this strategy involves working around the ineptly corrupt planning of a superior officer who is not only mishandling the response to the Canim invasion, but also perpetrating Syrian style atrocities on the local population of Alerans. Tavi intuits that the reason for

with Dan Davidson

Also in book four, Tavi's real name and family connections are revealed for the first time, and it becomes clear that he is, in effect, the crown prince, or princeps, of Alera. This complicates his life the series.

considerably and leads to some tense moments with his mother, who has been hiding his heritage from him his entire life. It may have been for his own good, but it still hurts to know someone you love has been lying to you for 20 years.

So far this has been a very satisfying series. It's likely to be a few months before I give myself the treat of reading the last two books, I'll get back to you then.

Administrative Assistant DAWSON CITY

Golden Predator Corp., Yukon's Gold Company, is mandated to become a mid-tier gold producer. Golden Predator's road-accessible advanced properties include its flagship Brewery Creek Project at which the Company is moving aggressively to a near term production decision.

Reporting to the Brewery Creek Project Manager, the Administrative Assistant will be based in Dawson City at the Golden Predator office and will require travel to the Brewery Creek Project as needed.

The Brewery Creek Project is a past producing heap leach gold mining operation located 55km due east of Dawson City, accessible by paved and gravel roads from the junction of the North Klondike Highway and Dempster Highways. The project is in early development stages for renewed mining. Activities are focusing on permitting, engineering design and continued drilling for resource expansion.

Welcome to Glacier Road

Mary McLeod Road has had a number of names over the years before it was finally christened after a Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in elder, but come February each winter it might as well be named Glacier Road, for that is what it becomes.

The groundwater beneath the surface of the area surrounding part of the road remains warmer than the air and flows all year round. Each winter it seeps out onto Mary McLeod Road a few hundred metres below the Crocus Bluff parking lot and turns a portion of the road into an icy mess.

Sometimes it's just slippery; other times it's a jumble of jagged ice with ridges high enough to damage a vehicle's undercarriage.

The City of Dawson does make an effort to keep the road open during the early part of the winter but things eventually get to point where they can't clear it fast enough or thoroughly enough and then they advise people not to drive on it for month or so.

Walkers, or people on snowmobiles and ATVs, don't seem to have much of a problem but, for the time being, regular cars and trucks are advised to take the Dome Road instead.

Lori Blondeau: Deconstructing Stereotypes of Native Women

Story & Photos by Dan Davidson

On February 8 the Dänojà Zho Cultural Centre joined with the Yukon School of Visual Arts (SOVA) to present another in a year-long series of lectures by visiting First Nations artists. The Visiting Aboriginal Artist Series has been successful for both institutions.

Some 30 people, including the students from SOVA turned out for the slide show and lecture during which Lori Blondeau discussed the roots of her artist's journey and described some of the installations and other art she has created over the years.

Blondeau hails from the Gordon First Nation and is of Cree/Saulteaux and Métis heritage. Aside from her personal art practice, she was, for some years, the executive director of TRIBE Inc., a center for evolving aboriginal media, visual and performing arts in Saskatoon, which she helped to found in 1995.

Many of her projects were attempts to reclaim the idea of the Indian Woman, which has been stereotyped through pop culturerepresentations. To this end she has adopted a variety of personas and engaged in activities that range from the creation of mock postcards (Betty Daybird as the Surfer Girl in the fur bikini) to Belle Sauvage, a caricature loosely based on the indigenous woman who appeared in Wild West Shows and Vaudeville acts in the early 20th century.

She says that her art took shape as a result of growing up in Saskatchewan which, when she was young in the 1960s and 70s was "a very racist society."

Her point, as evidenced in her work, was to show the impact of colonization on the roles and lifestyles of Native women.

She says her "performance personas refer to the damage caused by colonialism and to the ironic pleasures of displacement and resistance."

Slides from another of her performance pieces showed her gorging herself on McDonald's hamburgers, one after another, while a video behind her showed her crushing berries and doing more traditional kinds of food preparation.

In another sequence of slides she paraded around city streets in a blood red dress dragging rocks behind her on its train to mark the number of aboriginal women who have disappeared or have been killed.

"At my final destination I took off the bottom part of the dress and people put the stones on it.

She said the final placement of objects reminded her of a grave, which seemed appropriate to the subject.

"The thing with the missing women just blows me away and makes me ashamed that we live in such a country."

She told her audience that she is finished with some of her persona work and that a project in development will be about laying them to rest.

The audience responded well to the presentation and posed a number of interesting questions.

An Artistic Set of Prison Proposal

Story & photos by Dan Davidson

Who says art can't be political? The students at the Yukon School of Visual Art (YSOVA) have responded to a challenge set them by Klondike Institute of Art and Culture artist-in-residence by reacting to the federal government's omnibus crime bill and the plan to build new correctional facilities across the country.

"Dawson City's New Prison: A Community Info Session" was a project and public event staged on February 13 in the Confluence Gallery.

Students created a range of projects on this theme, including an animated video of an inmate in a cell, a proposal to turn the Bear Creek into a prison for ghosts, a community billboard with a number of public service announcements, and a description of a psychological experiment in which prisoners were sorted into groups to perform certain tasks.

One of the oddest proposals was for an Ecoformatory in which a geodesic dome would be constructed over the Midnight Dome to house a salmon hatchery, store summer sunlight for distribution in the winter, oxygenate the town's air supply and provide a nurturing environment for the inmates. Its motto: "Reforming the Environment and the Incarcerated".

As might be expected with any radical proposal, there was even a demonstration against the idea.

A Low Impact Housing Solution is Proposed

by Dan Davidson

The space between the Dawson Daycare and the Anglican Thrift Store is not that large. The somewhat irregularly shaped quadrilateral slice of land is about 136 feet long and narrower at one end than the other. Nevertheless, Greg Hakonson and Paul Derhak of Low Impact Development believe that they can build as many as six small houses in that space, starter homes that would be one step towards easing some of the residency pressure that Dawson is feeling.

About a dozen people gathered at the offices of Across the River Consulting on February 13 to look at lot placement and view the variety of computerized small house designs that Hakonson had for people to see.

These are small homes. They measure 512 square feet with dimensions of 16 feet by 32 feet. Low Impact plans to build these "supergreen" homes so they can be heated electrically, though some of the possible floor plans do include the possibility of wood heat.

These will be either one-bedroom or open concept

One possibility for the lots is to organize them in a condominium style arrangement. If this were to happen then an actual condo building might account for four of the units while the rest would be detached.

Another possibility is for them to be single owner lots.

Either way the project will require some amendments to Dawson's zoning bylaw. Since the late 1980s the town has been focusing on amalgamating undersized lots and doing away with the little slices of property that once were a feature of the town when really tiny log cabins were common.

In their conversations with the town council, Hakonson and Derhak feel there is an appetite to move in this direction in order to solve a pressing housing problem.

This development of starter homes is based on figures complied in a housing study undertaken last year by Mark Wickham's Across the River Consulting on behalf of the Klondike Development Organization. It found that there was a lack of available properties for people starting out or in the low to low middle-income range.

Low Impact is sure they can deliver a home, complete with attached utilities and five appliances, for between $110 and $130 thousand, a range of prices which the survey had found people were willing to consider.

At the end of the meeting, which ran somewhat over two hours, it appeared that the independent lots were the most popular choice.

If all proceeds smoothly, if there are buyers willing to enter this market, the first of the homes could be ready for occupancy by the early fall of this year. They will be built offsite and indoors, which Derhak said made for efficiencies in construction along with better quality control.

Lest anyone should worry, the trail that runs between Church Street and the lawn in back of the Commissioner's Residence is on land belonging to St. Paul's parish and would not be affected by this development.

Amazing Facts: Life Span

By Lisa McKenna

Did you know that a Galapagos Land Turtle can live almost 200 years! Quahogs, a thick shelled clam, can live way over 200 years.

House flies only pester you for 15 to 30 days but a bee can "bug" you for nearly 5 weeks.

Now, humans live , let's say, 70 to 80 years and some reach over the 100 mark. Elephants follow in human development in that they reach 'puberty' at the age of 13 or 14, they can have offspring till in their 50's, and they live an average of 80 or so years, some reaching the 100 mark as well.

What totally surprised me is that swans can live to be 102! And a Turkey Buzzard has, ON RECORD, been found that was 118 years old!

Domesticated dogs and cats can live up to their early 20's but most only reach about 15.

The most incredible thing I found out while researching this article is that mammals, and sea creatures, and birds are not the longest living things on earth. It's the tree and the bush! Redwoods, from California, have been dated back as far as 3,000 years ago and the creosote bushes in Southern U.S.A. and South and Central America, have an age of 11,000 years. But the poor Mayfly gets, at most, only 24 hours, even as short as 30 minutes. Alas.

Blast From the Past

by Lisa McKenna

There were four old boys who got together.

From 1985 to 1995 they struck our heartstrings with their songs.

We know them all but had never experienced them together. One was known for his 'hillbilly' rock; another was famous for his sexy voice; the third member was a country classic; and as for the fourth, well, he named his guitar and carried her throughout his life so much that he wore a hole in it!

BUT "Along the coach roads did they ride.....they were born upon the tide.....they were buried in that great tomb that has no sound."

BUT as they cross the "universe divine" they may become HIGHWAYMEN again.

SPORTS Good Curling

The 113th International Bonspiel was held February 3-5 at the Dawson Curling Club. Sixteen teams, all from Dawson, curled day and night over the three days. Akio Saito's "Lambs" team remained undefeated through the weekend, winning the "A" Division.

Arctic Inland couldn't catch a break in the "B" Divison final. Heinz and Eldo manage to share a laugh after Eldo's MELD team pulled far ahead.

Despite enlisting top-notch sweepers from Bonanza Market, the Firefighters couldn't stop Rod Dewell from making a comeback in the "C" Division final.

Beat Kaelin tracks the line on his rock. The "Lambs" led by Akio Saito started strong in their final game, scoring nine points against Mike Earl in the first two ends.

Rod Dewell guides his sweepers into the house. The "C" Division final provided the only close game in the finals for the fans upstairs. Dewell's team came back from a 6-0 deficit to beat the Firefighters.

Team Winn sweep hard to no avail as their opponents, team Fraser, took the "D" Division Final.

The Violence and Abuse Spectrum

by the Dawson Women's Shelter

Those of us who work at the Dawson Women's Shelter know that our very presence here in the community is the first step towards prevention and elimination of viloence and abuse. We also believe the responsibility of education and awareness concerning this topic falls onto us as well.

The key to a healthy and thriving community is one that works together to maintain that positivity and health. Violence and abuse are counteractive to a healthy community. They are not, however, such clear cut issues. We cannot merely say that we are a community that works to prevent and eliminate violence against women and children. The imagery associated with these words is likely that of a man hitting or yelling at his wife. Violence and abuse is no simple act, nor is it an isolated event. It is a pattern, it is repeated, and it is rooted in power and control. If we fail to acknowledge this, we fail the victims, the violence continues and we reveal the continuum of abuse.

Violence against women and children can take many different forms. It is a spectrum with verbal abuse at one end and physical violence at the other. At one end we have verbal abuse, a form of emotional abuse; it can be spoken or written. Verbal abuse includes name-calling, put-downs, insults, cutting or embarrassing remarks, or undermining comments. Verbal abuse is damaging in the way it wears down the individual. It is making threats, it is yelling and shouting, it is insulting and humiliating, it is degrading. Verbal abuse is also the Verbal abuse is also the cutting away of an individual's self- worth, tearing away their self-confidence and self-love. The results are damaging, and widely spread throughout an individual's life. Worn down by verbal abuse, an individual affected becomes unable to make the decisions they once could - be they the decisions we make daily at the grocery store or the larger ones relating to families, jobs, and finances.

Financial abuse involves one individual using money to gain control over another- usually a spouse or partner, but not always. This typically involves one individual maintaining control over all the finances of a household or withholding information about how much money that household has. Financial abuse can also include actions such as refusing to disclose information about how much money one makes, refusing to let a partner to make their own money/hold a job, maintaining control over a joint bank account, spending the income of both partners without the knowledge or consent of the other, putting the responsibility of paying bills on one partner while knowing there isn't money to pay them. A victim of financial abuse can find themselves without access to their own money, or with a very limited amount of it, unable to provide for themselves or their family in the way they want to/should be able to. Women in a financially abusive situation may be forced to "share" their money - watching it be spent in irresponsible ways. In such a situation, the victim of financial abuse is left disempowered, frustrated and seemingly helpless.

Psychological and emotional abuse are less obvious to those who are not experiencing the abuse, yet no less destructive and damaging. They are also just as hard to distinguish for those who are experiencing them. Like verbal abuse, emotional abuse against women includes shaming, insulting and humiliating. It is often less easy to detect than physical or sexual abuse. This kind of abuse usually takes place out of view of friends and family. A woman experiencing emotional and psychological violence may be isolated from her friends and family; she may be constantly shamed and humiliated, controlled by fear. She is yelled at and threatened. Emotional and psychological abuse often use fear to control an individual - controlling everything from her appearance to the things she says and does every day. This type of abuse is isolating, with effects that are far reaching in a women's life.

On the other end of the spectrum there can be found physical and sexual abuse. We define sexual abuse as any kind of unwanted sexual activity, touching, rape, exploitation, threats, as well as criticising a women sexually. It is damaging and it is degrading. Whether sexual abuse is committed by a partner, a friend, a family member or co-worker, it is abuse.

Physical violence and abuse is most visible to friends and family of the abused. It is hitting and slapping, and can quickly escalate to punching and kicking, pulling hair, pushing and choking. The effects of this abuse are long lasting - each look in the mirror a reminder of the pain; each bruise and scar hurting long after they fade.

Whatever place violence and abuse occupies on this spectrum, it is damaging, it is dangerous and it is harmful.

Possessing knowledge of the spectrum of violence allows you to distinguish it in your community, speak up when you are witness to it, and make it known that violence against women and children is not okay, and you will not look the other way.

As community members, friends and family, we can all act as a support network for those experiencing violence and abuse. We need to be non-judgemental, supportive listeners, a role which comes with much difficulty at first; and we must learn to identify the power and resistance of her actions, though it may not be so clear to us at first. We must be solid and rooted in this role. prepared for the process, long as it may be, and aware that for an abused woman, leaving a partner is not simply a matter of walking through the door and never looking back. Our efforts towards the prevention and elimination of violence against women begin with us. The Dawson Women's Shelter has a 24 hour confidential crisis line - 993 5086.

The End of the World: Conclusion

2012 may most likely be the gateway to the end of days, but it will not be the end of days. If my understanding of prophecy has any level of validity then watch, expect, and be ready for these things to happen in the near future. Let's face it, 30 to 40 years is not that far off. If there is no truth at all in prophecy, none of these events will take place. The world will eventually end, perhaps in a billion years, but this is nothing for us to worry about. Yet, if my understanding is correct, 30 or 40 years until the world ends is not much time to put one's affairs in order. Still even at that time I would not recommend you sell your stocks, bonds or other assets, not allow your insurance to lapse, or go into the wilderness to hide, or into a bunker. If these events will happen, then nothing you or I could possibly do will change the outcome. Do not worry or fret about that which you cannot control. Be concerned with the things that you can control, and only those things.

Can Apocalyptic prophecy be understood? Can any prophecy really be accurate? The only real way to discern that is to wait and see. I can prophecy that the world will end tomorrow; if it does, the prophecy can be truly understood and accurate. If it does not end on the day following today, then the prophecy might not have been understood or completely accurate. Look at the last word in my fake prophecy. "Tomorrow": this one word has two meanings. Both are accurate according to the context of the word usage. As stated, tomorrow most commonly is understood as the day after today. But it has another significant meaning. Tomorrow can mean simply the future, as implied by the phase "the world of Tomorrow". In this instance Tomorrow does not mean the day immediately following today, but it is one day that follows today, somewhere in the future.

Still, the only way to know the accuracy of any prophetic message, provided by any prophet or seer, is in the fulfilment of the prophetic message, or nonfulfilment thereof.

In conclusion, based upon the evidence of world-wide prophecies, including Biblical prophecies, the world will one day end. Will it end in 2012? Not a chance. Will it end before 2060? Most likely but as of yet still unproven. Will the world end a million or a billion years from now? Impossible to answer accurately. But you can be assured of one fact—the world indeed Will End! My personal impression, based not only on prophecies, but on events taking place around the world at this very moment, is that the world (as we know it) Will Indeed End in Less than 56 years. If nothing else, this is at least something to think about.

This is just my opinion . . .

Rats are not the scary creatures you see on TV. Rats can make really smart and friendly pets. My friend in Vancouver had a white rat named George, that lived in my friend's shirt! AND the adventures that George had - like the time he thought he would explore the Main Street bus.

Rats are mainly distinguished from mice by their size. A full-grown rat can weigh up to half a kilo! Rats normally live on the ground but the common house rat is a great climber and is often seen running on wires or real small branches.

There are more than 50 types of rats but most people only know the brown rat (also called the Norway rat) and the house

rat. The brown rat can eat meat and vegetables (he is omnivorous); he likes a diet of shrimp and snails and insects and frogs and even rabbits and chickens! They even SWIM to catch fish!

There is also a "fancy rat" which is a domesticated breed that is most commonly raised as a pet, but in the early 20th century they were used for sport. The gentlemen(?) of this period would put a Terrier into a pit full of rats and bet on how long the rats would survive.

Today we no longer accept this kind of sport.

The word "radish" comes from Greek and Latin and it basically means, "quickly appearing". If you start a garden you will notice that the radishes are always the first to appear. Some kinds of radishes can be eaten in as little as 3 weeks after planting the seeds!

Radishes come in all kinds of colors, shapes, and sizes. They can be red (the most commonly seen in the grocery store), pink, white, grey-black, and even yellow and purple!

They can be round, pearshaped, or long and skinny like a carrot, In Oaxaca, Mexico, they grow a special radish that can be 3 kg and over 50 cm long! They are special because they are used in a festival called

"Noche de los Rábanos" (the Night of the Radish). It occurs on the 23rd of December and the local people carve these huge radishes into religious, or other figures and displays them in the town square.

Radishes are mostly eaten raw as a side dish or in a salad but they can be sautéed as well. A Korean Radish Salad is simply thinly sliced radishes, grated carrots, and salt. This is then left to "sit" for half an hour, the excess water is strained out and then you eat it! It is really, really good, AND good for you.

Radar is used to pick up objects, it can tell you how fast the object is going, where it is headed to, and how fast it is traveling.

It uses radio waves to detect these objects, kind of like dolphins or whales who "sing" under water to locate each other.

In 1886 Heinrich
Hertz discovered that radio waves could be reflected from solid objects and this led,
in 1904, to Christian Huelsmeyer to use
this idea to find ships in the fog.

Radar is now used for air traffic control, air defense systems, locating ships, outer space surveillance, storm watching, and even geological exploration probing the secrets of Inner Earth!
