Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in Pass New Law

DAWSON CITY (February 22, 2012) – The Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in (TH) passed the Activity Permit Enforcement Act at their bi-annual General Assembly (GA) last week.

The act applies to every person or business with a project involving TH settlement land that requires a permit from the First Nation and a development assessment under the Yukon Environmental Socio-economic Assessment Act.

"This important law ensures TH terms and conditions for projects occurring on our land will be enforced," said Chief Eddie Taylor. "I'm very proud the GA acknowledged the need for this act and approved this important tool for protecting and monitoring projects involving our settlement land."

The Act flows from Section 13.3 of the Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in Self-Government Agreement and serves to protect the cultures, traditions, health and lifestyles of the TH citizens. The Act also recognizes the special relationship between TH citizens and the wilderness environment.

"The provisions contained in this Act outline our responsibilities for issuing permits for allowable projects, as well as conducting inspections and enforcing penalties," said Natural Resources Director Darren Taylor.

"Examples of projects that require a TH permit include mining and exploration activity, TH Government infrastructure development on settlement land, and residential-cabin construction on settlement land."

The Activity Permit Enforcement Act is the fifth piece of legislation enacted by the TH General Assembly. The other four are the Income Tax Act, GST Act, Lands Act, and the Fish and Wildlife Act.

SF Author Seeks Title for Klondike Inspired Novel

by Dan Davidson

Former Berton House writer-in-residence Robert J. Sawyer is looking for a new title for his completed science-fiction/mystery novel The Great Martian Fossil Rush. The story is set on Mars in a city called New Klondike, where a large portion of the economy is based on the exploration and sale of Martian fossils, which are much more precious than gold.

The central character in the first person narrative is Alexander Lomax, the only private detective on Mars.

Sawyer was inspired to create this setting by his interest in the Klondike Gold Rush, but his US publishers do not think his working title has a lot of sales and advertising potential so he is looking for suggestions.

"It's a hard boiled detective novel," he writes on his fan website, "expanded from my novella 'Identity Theft' and my short story 'Biding Time.' They want something that conveys a noir feel."

Sawyer's SF novels frequently have a mystery element to them and his novel The Terminal Experiment actually won the Arthur Ellis Award as a mystery novel.

"Identity Theft" can be found in the collection Identity Theft and Other Stories, or can be read on the author's website, here: <http://www.sfwriter.com/stident.htm>. In classic hard-boiled style, it begins with an opening door.

"The door to my office slid open. 'Hello,' I said, rising from my chair. 'You must be my nine o'clock.' I said it as if I had a ten o'clock and an eleven o'clock, but I didn't. The whole Martian economy was in a slump, and, even though I was the only private detective on Mars, this was the first new case I'd had in weeks.

"Yes," said a high, feminine voice. 'I'm Cassandra Wilkins.'

"I let my eyes rove up and down her body. It was very good work; I wondered if she'd had quite so perfect a figure before transferring."

Several of Sawyer's stories, including the novel Mindscan and the short story "Shed Skin", have involved transferring human consciousness into artificial bodies. While "Identity Theft" did not win Sawyer an award, it was a finalist for the Hugo, Nebula, and Aurora Awards when it first appeared.

OPINIONS

Uffish Thoughts: The Rhetoric is Getting Out of Hand

by Dan Davidson

I can't actually figure out what is going on in the minds of the members of the federal Conservative Party. In the old days, when policy positions seemed to contradict each other you could always blame it on the composition of the Progressive Conservative Party. I think it was comedian Dave Broadfoot (once a member of the Air Farce) who used to refer to the PCs as the Forward Backward party, a play on words that made a lot of sense.

The Progressives are gone now, so you would think that the actions of the governing party (which I tend to call the ReformaTories) would make a bit more sense – but they don't.

They got rid of the mandatory long form census last year because it was too intrusive, thus striking a blow for personal liberty and freedom.

This year, however, they want to give law enforcement authorities open access to everything you ever put online anywhere, removing the need for them to have some probable cause to investigate you, or obtain a warrant for the purpose.

This might have the positive effect of making people think twice before pressing the send button on their e-mail messages, or posting some of the absolute drivel that turns up on social network sites, but it's also an incredible invasion of privacy.

The response to anyone saying that perhaps this policy needs some sober second thought has been to brand anyone who objects as being in league with the child pornographers of the world.

You can't convince me that this wasn't trotted out within a week of that major national child porn bust in order to gain maximum public relations traction from the general revulsion that one had to feel after watching those news items.

But it seems to have been a surprise to Minister of Public Safety Vic Toews that people actually stopped to think about his proposal rather than just nodding in assent. That the cyber community responded to his harsh words by immediately digging up and posting every nasty thing they could find out about him should be ample proof that it's actually not that hard now to pick at the threads of the world wide web without special powers, and how easily that could get out of hand.

Toews' over the top rhetoric on this matter is easily matched by the overkill in the long gun registry debate. I've never been able to understand why people who regularly register their vehicles, their RVs and lots of other personal property balk at registering their guns. It's not like getting rid of this particular piece of documentation removes all the identification related to possessing firearms.

Oddly, at the same time as they want to supposedly make it easier for people to own guns, they also want to increase the number of people that get put in jail for all sorts of crimes. This is strange because the statistics that we already have indicate that most types of crime are on the decrease.

What seems clear is that some members of the party live in a black and white world. It's the rhetoric that tells us this.

A few years back, when Mr. Harper nearly lost his minority parliament, we were told that anyone who was in favour of the perfectly legitimate procedure of forming a coalition (something he had once entertained himself) was giving aid and comfort to the separatists in Quebec.

That might be excused as the act of a man having a political near death experience, but it seems that it's the new reality in Conservative messaging.

The pornographers gaffe is just one in a list of rhetorical overkills that we've heard lately.

If you think the new air force jets are a bad buy for the buck then you are dumping on the military.

How dare you.

If you worry about pipeline safety then you're a radical with an environmental agenda.

If you think there are some problems with the omnibus crime legislation, then you are siding with the criminal element.

In other words, if you're not for us, you're against us and that means you're evil, twisted and unpatriotic.

This is not a pleasant state of affairs. It ought to be possible to have a rational debate about the pros and cons of a particular policy or government action without anyone needing to resort to personal attacks.

The present government is going to win all its arguments in both the House and the Senate anyway. They have the numbers on their side. I would think that they would like to look good while they're doing it. Right now they don't.

Letter to the Editor: Peel Direction

An open letter to the Yukon Government,

Re: The Peel Watershed Regional Land Use Plan.

I read, and have listened to, the Yukon government's recent comments on the final recommended plan for the Peel watershed. They raise a number of serious issues and concerns:

1. Prior to and during the territorial election, the government announced it would be "inappropriate" to take a position on the plan before the final round of public consultations. Now, well in advance of these consultations, you suddenly alter that stance and announce your preferences for the plan. It does seem more than a little disingenuous and indeed misleading to do so at this juncture, having denied full and honest debate of the issues while seeking Yukoners' votes. I would appreciate an explanation for this change of direction.

2. The government has announced eight new principles "to guide modifications and completion of the Peel Watershed Regional Land Use Plan." The current planning process has long adopted and incorporated six original principles, drafted collaboratively and based upon the Umbrella Final Agreement (UFA). These have guided the plan since its inception. This "moving of the goalposts" at such a late juncture is neither appropriate, fair nor respectful of the principles laid out in the UFA. You cannot expect planning professionals or Yukon residents to accept such a change in planning principles after seven years of plan development. You have lost an enormous amount of goodwill and credibility by taking this route.

3. Energy, Mines and Resources Minister Brad Cathers inferred (on CBC radio) that only a minority of Yukoners take the position of "not allowing mining activity in that area." I'm sure you are aware that 87 per cent of respondents to the most recent round of consultations on the Peel plan wanted more than 80 per cent of the watershed protected. I assume you are also aware of the independent DataPath Systems report that confirmed three-quarters of Yukoners supported protection of 80 per cent of the planning region, as outlined in the recommended plan. Here's the link to that survey report: <http://www.cpawyukon.org/peel-watershed/2009-peel-survey-results.pdf>. I obviously don't need to remind you that the affected First Nations requested total protection for the entire planning region.

To see what should be a respectful and inclusive government continually seek to discredit and disengage those involved in the plan's development, the affected First Nations and the residents you purportedly serve, makes me ashamed to be a Yukoner.

I trust you, your department and government will now endorse the wishes of the majority (including your First Nation government partners) by acknowledging and adopting the final recommended plan.

Failure to do so will only serve to undermine democracy and your government's credibility.

Special Presentations Highlight KVA AGM

by Dan Davidson

A couple of special presentations were highlights at the annual general meeting of the Klondike Visitors Association on February 20.

The first presentation, made near the beginning of the evening, was a special retirement award that went to Brenda Caley, who has held just about every board position there is since she first became involved with the KVA in the late 1960s.

"We did some archival research," said executive director Gary Parker, "and the written record speaks volumes. She has been actively involved in the KVA, through all the endless ups and downs, multiple times in multiple ways, including, but not limited to: as a board member, in lead roles as Chair, Vice-Chair and other executive positions; as a member on KVA standing and ad hoc committees in all of their many iterations over the years, especially the Marketing and Events Committee and the Gerties Committee, again, frequently as a steady hand in a lead role as committee chair, as a special event volunteer extraordinaire, planning behind the scenes and serving on the front line.

"She has devoted thousands of hours to the KVA over the last five decades. She is unfailingly generous, honest, wise, knowledgeable, capable, considerate, thoughtful, reasonable, reliable, patient, cool and calm.

"Speaking personally, and as KVA executive director, and as someone whose adult life has been spent in and around community organizations, I don't know of anyone who has worked harder or longer, or done greater service, and there is nobody I respect more."

The assembled membership rose to give Caley a standing ovation.

Caley, not someone to hog the spotlight, smiled and said, "The KVA is definitely the most interesting organization in town. That's for sure."

The second presentation closed the evening and was a bit of lighthearted fun, a spoof on those big cheques that governments are always handing out to worthy organizations and projects.

The Yukon government takes a substantial cut from the slot machine profits at Diamond Tooth Gerties each year. In 2011 that amounted to $291,101.76, and that was the number inscribed on the big cheque given to Deputy Minister of Tourism Joy Waters by the KVA's board members. (See front page photo.)

Claim Holder Says He Has No Immediate Plans to Mine

by Dan Davidson

Mike Heisey, of Heisey Ventures Inc. maintains that his neighbours in the Dredge Pond Subdivision need not be concerned about his potential mining operations at two claims on the far side of the Klondike River, behind the rural residential subdivision established by the Yukon government about a decade ago.

Contacted in Houston while travelling in the USA, Heisey responded by email to concerns raised at the February 22 meeting of Dawson's council.

"No, I will not be mining near anyone's home," he wrote. "First of all there are no homes near my Klondike River claims. Secondly, I don't have any near term plans to mine these claims. The license and permit renewal underway is required every 10 years to keep the claims in good standing."

According to maps and photos attached to his last water license application, his current license will expire in May 2012. The claims in question are located behind the subdivision, but the access route that he wanted to use to move his equipment runs much closer to other people's lots.

In 2005, according to Dredge Pond resident Anne Saunders, Heisey applied to be allowed to upgrade the existing rough Mike Heisey owns lot 29 on Eureka Drive in the Dredgepond Subdivision. A winding trail behind his property and several others close by would allow him access to some mining claims along the hill on the far side of the Klondike River.

trail for just that purpose, but was denied approval for that operation. Saunders believes that Heisey would still want to use that trail and that he would want to store his heavy equipment on his residential lot.

Heisey says he would not.

"If and when mining begins on my claims the equipment would remain on the claims at the mine site, well away from any residential lots."

Several Dredge Pond residents were at the council meeting to express their concerns about Heisey's potential operation.

Suzanne Guimond told council that a number of residents take their water either directly from the Klondike River or from wells which are affected by the river. These properties would be downstream of the two mining claims.

A letter from Gladys Netro expressed concerns that the tailings ponds in the area, which has very porous gravels, would be affected by a sluicing upstream.

"Other major concerns I have, with the negative impacts of this project, are on the Klondike River with fish spawning habitat, drinking water and all the unknown possibilities of contaminants near our water. I do not endorse this proposal which will make negative changes and unhappy residents."

Tao Henderson and Tara Rudnikas emphasized, "All the dredge ponds are connected underground; the pond at our current residence, which is a few lots downstream from the proposed site, flows so quickly that it does not freeze until well into the winter (around -35° C)."

Linda Christiansen wrote of her personal history as a child there, where she shows beavers to her grandson near her cabin, catches grayling in the ponds, watches a variety of birds (robins, swans, ducks) and compared the proposal to the confrontation over the operations of the Slinky Mine on the Dome Road, near another residential subdivision.

Heisey knows about these concerns, but says his situation is different.

"I am aware of the Slinky Mine fiasco. Hopefully that situation will get resolved in the near future. And hopefully people will realize that my claims are quite different, far removed from interference in people's lives.

"I am a long term resident and property owner, unlike a lot of people who have come and gone in the Subdivision. I was one of the first owners of a lot in the Dredge Pond Subdivision, since back in 2002, shortly after they became available for sale. I enjoy my seasonal residence there and have made many friends among the neighbors. I do everything I can to contribute to the community so we can all enjoy our subdivision."

In discussion, council indicated that it didn't have a lot of jurisdiction over pre-existing, legitimate placer claims.

Mayor Peter Jenkins reminded citizens that once again the territorial government had failed to deal with conflicting uses for the same land, just as it did decades earlier when it established the Bear Creek subdivision. An operating mine would still require a land use permit, a water license and a development permit as well as a YESAB screening.

The area is currently zoned country residential so the city would have to give the miner a non-conforming use authorization, which might, COA Jeff Renaud indicated, be the only way it could exercise any control at all over the development.

Given the city's frustrating history with the Slinky Mine residents were skeptical that this would work well.

While the town has some control over noise restrictions, residents were less than overjoyed to hear that regular hours for operation of heavy equipment would be from 7 a.m. to 11 p.m.

Addressing noise, Heisey had the following comments.

"If any mining were to take place, it would obviously generate some machine noise, but so do the machines which are active within the Dredge Pond Subdivision almost continuously while people work on their lots. Furthermore, Callison Industrial Park is across the Highway from the Subdivision and there is almost constant machine noise in the air".

At the end of the discussion the council did indicate that it would put in a submission of concerns about this project to the Yukon Environmental and Socio-economic Board.

Heisey expressed his surprise that people were so concerned at this time.

"It is quite amazing to me that ten years ago when I applied for this license/permit, there was not one single comment from any agency and the application was easily approved. Now the list is quite long of agencies and individuals that have expressed concerns/criticism. Most unfortunate for one of the Yukon's leading industries (the family farm of the north). Without mining, who would be left in Dawson City?"

Fear of Failure Kept Him from Writing Fiction

by Dan Davidson

Dan Dowhal (pronounced "dowl") began his reading on February 16 under a bit of time pressure. Dawson is supposed to slow down a bit in February, once the Yukon Quest has passed through, but the latest Berton House writer-in-residence had to compete with a concert event at the Oddfellows Hall that same night. Only the fact that a concert slated to begin at 8 p.m. would not normally get under way until 8:30 made this possible.

Dan, or Danny, as he is known to friends and family and people other than his publisher, began the evening by explaining that he is pretty much a denizen of Toronto's West Queen West district, where he grew up and still lives and works, though he does have a cottage in what Ontario folk refer to as "the north".

Dan had always wanted to write, and dabbled with many forms of publishing as a child, but was held back from this ambition by fear of being unable to make a living, so he trained as an engineer, and gave a sop to his stifled passion by later picking up a journalism degree from Ryerson, where he eventually was elected editor-in-chief of The Eyeopener.

Seduced by the desire for a steady income, Dan worked for IBM in their Toronto Software Lab for some years before launching out with his brothers to found The Learning Edge, a digital media company. He is chief writer, editor and creative director there.

He still hadn't given in to writing the sort of thing he wanted to write, though, and he says it was fear that held him back. As the millennium turned, what he calls "the voices in my head" became irresistible and he gave in to the urge.

"I wandered a bit. Fortunately, unlike Moses, who wandered his whole life and never did get to cross into the Promised Land, I did. This is what I've wanted to do my whole life and I spent a large part of my life talking myself out of doing it because I was somewhat afraid of the fact that I wouldn't succeed."

As it happened he had some stories to tell and was able to enlist the services of Pierre Berton's former agent and business partner, Elsa Franklin, to help him gain a foothold in the tough world of book publishing. That connection also helped him obtain this winter spot at Berton House when one of the writers who had been selected previously had to bow out for health reasons.

His first novel (actually the second he wrote) Skyfisher, was the first book by a Canadian author to be featured as an iBooks exclusive in e-book format before it was published in hardcover. It involves the creation of a fake internet-based religion, Phasmata, by a trio of ad men who are out to make a fast buck, and the trials of the reporter who exposes their fraud. His publisher chose to market the book as science fiction, probably because of the computer connection, but Dowhal says he really didn't see it that way since it didn't involve any new technology.

He notes that he wrote this

book before discovering that there is now a registered religion in Sweden (The Missionary Church of Kopimism) that is internet based, where texting is seen as some sort of religious observance and file sharing is a sacrament.

His second novel (actually the first he wrote) Flam Grub, was published the next year. He explained that his publishers felt it was best to publish the thinner of the two books first and then the heftier one, so that it would look like he was gaining strength and weight as a writer instead of diminishing.

This book is about the central character's struggle to come to terms with his odd name and peculiar circumstances. Dowhal once described it as a "Quirky, dark and sometimes funny coming of age story about an abused boy with a special gift who must come to terms with the name he bears."

"But everybody thought I was talking about Harry Potter so I had to change that around."

The revised description is somewhat longer.

"It's a story of despair and of expectation ... of abuse and redemption ... of spirituality and sensuality ... of inner darkness and the light that burns within us all. It's about the way we cling to hope and how things often look hopeless ... about the desire for conformity and the need for individuality ... about the caprices of fate and making your own luck ... about the names we're given and the names we make for ourselves ... about the words that hurt us and drag us down and the words that are crafted into beauty to lift us up. It's about pathological introversion, teen angst, the power of literature, isolation, suicide, lust, odd names, strange fortune, religion, villainy, love, death and transfiguration, with some fine tailoring and necrophilia thrown in."

That said, he proceeded to read the first two chapters of Flam Grub, which were pretty unrelentingly grim with some touches of dark humour and more than a little misdirected lust and violence.

In the Q&A session which followed his reading Dowhal indicated that he does use outlines. He didn't start out using that method, and was convinced he should try to wing it from what was in his head.

"I was forced to do it by my agent, because she wanted to show (outlines) to a prospective new publisher, and now I'm a complete convert."

He is open to letting inspiration change the plan when a good idea crops up in the writing, but he finds the planning helps him to write more effectively.

"There's a discipline. You have to write every day or the book doesn't get written."

Dowhal says it probably sounds pedestrian, but when he reaches the writing phase of his work he has some idea of how long the book might be. He divides that by the amount of time he thinks he should spend on it and sets himself that number of words per day.

"I tell everyone to leave me alone. I lock myself in my room and I don't let myself out until I have reached my quota. Some days that comes quickly, some days - not so much."

Having run the clock down to the time needed for everyone to shift over to the evening's other event, he had to leave his audience with the assurance (a bit of a spoiler) that everything does eventually work out for Flam in the end.

Letter to the Editor: Discovery Day Delight for an Arizona Visitor

by Robin Platt

By late afternoon I'm back in Dawson City right in the middle of its Discovery Days celebration. Following hitchhiker's instructions, I sign up to read poetry while paying attention to directions on how to get there and at what time. Enjoying a sunny day, a glass of suds and a hefty lunch, it dawns on me why a poetry reading, at 8:30, would start so late. Way up north, when it's daylight, people get out and do something while the sun shines. What sleep is lost in twenty hour summer days is made up for in twenty hour winter nights.

Having a lot of time to kill, I start at Dawson City's main drag and work my way back. Every street is gravel like the Dempster Highway. Every sidewalk is made of well scrubbed boards. All buildings are in jewel condition. 1890's outside, 2011's inside. Neighborhood houses run from way back when to close back now.

A park, loaded with ankle deep lush green grass, has the famed and mighty Yukon River on one side and Dawson City on its other. I mean, can you dig it? Right there! A big ol' river running free and easy. Man, this is the quintessence of cool. Want to go fishing? Waltz on over and throw out a line. A concrete walk runs along the riverside. (Ed. Note: Clearly a memory slip here.) While a few feet below, a century and a half of footprints have blazed a trail right at the river's edge. If you have strength, health, and nerve, feel free to canoe south up river down to Whitehorse. Or, should a nut mood strike, hang a left and paddle the Yukon across Alaska to the Bering Sea. Not only that, the Klondike River is close at hand. These two rivers have to be the fountain of youth Ponce DeLeon did not go far enough to find. Everyone in Dawson City is young and handsome, even the most senior of senior citizens.

Not only that, Jack London used to live here.

Not only that, Robert Service used to live here. On passing through 100 Mile House: yes indeed, I would not mind living there. At Whitehorse, changed my mind and decided I would rather live there. Dawson City, get me a Canadian Green Card, I'm moving in. Except for one, not so tiny, drawback. Fellow Arizonans, try wrapping this around your psyche. It snows in September! Worse, one guy told me it's been known to snow in August! And June!!

Senior moments are a bitch. How, plus a timid why, it ever escaped me I'll never know. While looking at a city map there is a notation pointing to a cabin once occupied by Robert Service. Theeee Robert Service! One of my favorite poets whose book, The Spell of the Yukon, I have read at least a dozen times, and long since committed his "My Madonna", to memory. Norms, my wife, to my surprise, had memorized "The Cremation of Sam McGee" as an early teenager. Man, I drop everything else and go over there. It is kind of a let down. Cabin itself, resting on a lake-sized grassy lawn, looks homey, comfortable no matter the weather. There seems to be an aura of rowdiness and tranquility befitting a poet who wrote of both. On the other hand it has become a tourist grab complete with box office.

The poetry reading is not. Instead it is story telling time. Everyone gets five minutes to tell a story, fact or fiction. This is put on by a group of writers who have made a name for themselves and who have yet to do so, called KIAC, short for Klondike Institute of Art and Culture. Despite its 1984 Big Brother sounding title, its membership is composed of open hearted people. KIAC has a building tricked out enough to make other such groups drool with envy. Its upstairs hall has a stage with room for an audience of 500. This mutha is huge. In one corner there is a quasi snack bar. In another stands a technician in front off a state-of-the-art control panel for sound and lighting of stage and room. Right and left sidewalls have huge windows with their shades lowered to keep out

Discovery Day Delight...

8:30 evening sun. Along the left wall several tables are lined up in a row all laden with work by local artists. These works have been donated for a silent auction with proceeds going to a local charity. Place is packed to the rafters. People move in a stream going up stairs, through the massive hall, back down stairs and outside. Being tenth on the list to read, and knowing the read will not start until the auction is over, I get in the stream, make a bid on an item no one had yet bid on then follow the flow outside.

Man, there are so many beautiful women in Dawson City it made me wish I had come here on my first run on the road. Half a dozen young hale hearty beee-yooo-ti-fuuulll women were hanging around outside. So bored to death they even talked to me. As I give them an idea what it is like to live in Arizona's high desert, "My brother in law and a nephew wear shorts and t-shirt all year 'round," a group of young men pass by. They give these stunning women a mere glance and keep on walking. Women and myself follow these young men with our eyes and wonder why.

"Man, back in Arizona, if all you righteous looking women were sitting around like you are now, a band of randy miners would be looking to stake a claim."

My observation only brought a snort.

There are times, this definitely being one, when it really hurts to be 75.

Back upstairs, auction winners were being announced. My name is called for the native looking thread work I'd bid on, a present for my mother in law. While rising out of my chair and digging for money someone shouts to the announcer. At the last split second, someone else had made a higher bid. Put the five bucks back in my pocket while mentally kicking myself for being a cheapskate.

Rebecca, who had hitched a ride with me, waves and smiles as she fades into the gathered crowd. Her name I remember. To my shame, I have forgotten the woman's name, a princess, who must have laboured long and hard to organize such a well attended story telling. Who, despite my being an alien, let me read despite it not being a poetry reading per se. The first story teller overshot his five minutes with a war story. Second was a woman who went to an island in Greece and had an affair with an Adonis. Then, with great reluctance, she went back to Toronto with a vow to return next year. Things became hectic in Toronto preventing her return for yet another year, filled with expectations of renewing bliss; her Adonis was with another woman in their house in their village on their beach. Next story teller is a sparkling faced young woman who works in a store and had given me directions. Man, her aura is gold linen. Lo, what once thought lost has returned. Got so hung up looking at her light her words passed right on through my skull. Only two words are remembered, pregnant and pregnancy. After that came seven more, all of them went over the 5 minute limit. Outside twilight starts to smudge the day. I'm introduced by the princess. Despite a case of nerves for having to read in front of my largest audience since my Beat days, I managed to manage.

"Um - Hi - I'm Robin Platt a retired copper miner electrician from Globe Arizona - I would like to tell you why I am up here - Norms my wife of forty four years passed on two years ago and it has not gotten out of my head - went up to the circle to try and figure it out - long meditation has given me a grip I'm trying to keep - about two years after our silver anniversary we were at a gathering at a friend's house - in a crowded living room I'm asked what is your wife's favourite color - I did not know - several women looked at me in abject despair - at home that night I scratched out this poem - left it on the kitchen table and never saw it again until I cleared up Norms personal papers - forgive me but I'm nervous and have to read it instead of from memory.

TO THE WOMEN WHO DESPAIRED OVER ME FOR NOT KNOWING MY WIFE'S FAVORITE COLOR

I know she is tomorrow and all of yesterday

I know she's every moment of every single day

And I know there's always poems and know there's always art

*And I know there's always music
when I feel the beating of her heart*

I know she understands me when what I do don't turn out right

And I know she's right beside me when we got to knuckle down and fight

*I know she walks in kindness and feels the anguish of those in pain
And gladly gives of herself not expecting any gain*

I know she is the morning and a cold beer in summer noon

*And know there is no darkness
when she walks into a room*

I know she's right beside me standing at my side

And know she is a river running through me deep and wide

*I don't know why Norms loves me
it couldn't be my face
Both my feet are off the ground
my head is out in space*

I don't know her favorite color or her shoe and blouse size

All I know is when she smiles, I see forever in her eyes."

A thunderous ovation carries away the heaviness in my heart.

Dawson City is made of bricks and wood. It is people who make Dawson City. Were its people to leave, overnight every structure would crumble, land would turn to desert while lamenting its loss of heroes who enjoyed life and its living. Dawson City has an incredible vibe. One that made me feel good just being there. Not only that, I read my poetry where Robert Service wrote and read his poetry. Man, I am here to tell you, it don't get any better than that.

Since I had it in my head to drive up to the American Arctic Circle, I asked earlier at the visitors center what Top of the World Highway is like. To explain: Top of the World Highway has been cut into Top of the World Mountain Range. I am shown a weather map like airline pilots and ocean navigators must get. Everything about weather on that day from the Arctic Ocean, Bering Sea, North, South, East and West weather is documented and broken down into components I never knew it had. "To sum it up," explains the energetic young woman, "As of now a huge rainstorm makes its way across Alaska heading this way. Should be at Top of the World Highway between one and two a. m."

"I'll just stay over tonight and leave in the morning."

"You might have to stay two days. Let the road dry out a little. Then come back here and find out if the road has been washed out. If it has, then you will have to go back down through Whitehorse and over to Alaska. Or wait here for how ever long it takes until repairs are made."

Visitor information centers have my full respect. Their staffs know their country inside- out.

Though I want to stick around after the poetry read, maybe talk some poetry, a 1,000 mile detour down through Whitehorse over to Tok, Alaska, makes it prudent to leave. By going over Top of the World Highway it is less than 150 miles to Tok. Goodbye Dawson City. I will not soon forget your kindness and the help you so willingly gave. Dawson City is the only place I would like to revisit and stay longer, much longer.

FAMILY NEWS

with Tim Taylor

Voyages

I have received many interesting comments about my personal story that I sent to the Klondike Sun a few weeks ago. Many of you are wondering why I wrote such a story and as some of you said, "You bared your soul!" and "How brave of you, but why?"

The answer is I love to write about my life's adventures, whether in prose or in poems, and I took a leap of faith to finally publish my writing. I also felt that I had something worthwhile to share, to write about the trials, tribulations and joy of family, hoping my audience could identify with some of the themes I was describing and experiencing.

I do not know where this is all going, but I would like to continue writing on the family theme and see where it will take me and you. Bon voyage!

Last I wrote in my Family News column, we got married last summer, flew back from Montreal and settled into our familiar surroundings and baby routines. As the old adage says, "home sweet home", definitely took on a new perspective, as we were finally able to enjoy the end of summer in our new home.

I recall my two-year-old son, Kai, appreciating being home the most, as he was so engrossed and playing with all his favorite toys. He spent so much time independently reconnecting to his little cars, his favourite books and especially his little truck that he sits on and whips around the house. He is forever reminding me of the simplicity of life, to be fully engaged, to be always in the moment. He is so engrossed in what he is doing, it is such a lesson for me to remind myself to slow down and enjoy those moments.

As family life settled down in Rock Creek, it was full-on house maintenance and renovations! We had been gone for six weeks, had rented our house for our friend's wedding, and being new home owners, everything happened at once. The pipe leading out to our septic field cracked and then bubbled up onto our lawn, we were losing our fight against carpenter ants and a leaky faucet in the kitchen and in our roof sang its drippy song!

Once the children were asleep or being taken care of by a CPNP worker, we both took on the nasty business of fixing our septic pipe! Once that was done, my wife took on the kitchen, fixed the leak, prepped the entire sink and counter to be replaced by a new sink and a stainless steel counter top, while I was busy with putting in new screws on the house and garage roofs.

The weather had been rainy, as we all remember from last summer, but it was a glorious and warm September and October. My mother flew in from Montreal to spend time with us for three weeks, we had our third wedding reception at our house, and renovations abated as we focused on preparing the house for winter. Hence, my first purchase was a 351 Husquervana chain saw, while I bought my wife a DC 970 DeWalt electric drill! So with our new toys, grand-mama taking care of the children, I sought out a friend to cut, haul and stack four cords of wood. My wife, the carpenter of the family, took on renovating her lair, the kitchen and its old counters.

You would think everything was going well in our little family unit, but continuous disruptive sleep was our best friend and patience our enemy! My new wife and I were still decompressing from the crazy last few months and our patience was at an all time low. Zia Rose, our six-month-old daughter, once again, was setting the pace.

So what do we do? We decided to fly down to Melaque, Mexico for a six-week honeymoon!

Helmut Schoener

by Dan Davidson and Sun Staff

There are indications of a partial resolution in the dispute between the federal Medical Services Branch in Whitehorse and Dr. Helmut Schoener. Sources close to the dentist and to city council indicate that a deal is in the works, though nothing has been committed to paper at this time.

The most recent private meeting in the dispute was held on March 3. Dr. Schoener met with Dr. Richard D'Aeth, Acting Director of Medical Services, and

Dental Clinic solutions under discussion

Ron Pearson, another MSB official.

It was determined that the dental clinic, along with its waiting room, could remain in its present location at the rear of the Father Judge Nursing Station and not be moved to new quarters on the other side of the building which have already been prepared for it there.

City of Dawson sources indicate that MSB and the city are close to a final agreement on relocating the public health room which would have been placed in Schoener's clinic premises had he been forced out as intended.

Dr. D'Aeth has accepted Schoener's contention that having him in place in Dawson as a permanent part-time dentist over the last 12 years has actually been more cost effective than serving Dawson in some other way. However, there is as predecessor, the late Dr. George Walker. Such agreements were common under Walker, but have become a problem for Dawson's doctors and dentist over the last couple of years (see Sun coverage in Dec. 1991, vol. 3, no. 8 for details).

Negotiations still have to resolve the question of rent for the clinic space along with other details, and more meetings are scheduled in the future. This is still progress of sorts, since we are now well past MSB's original deadline for relocating Schoener. In addition, there are negotiations taking place now, whereas before there were simply demands and counter-demands.

Privy Council rules on Moosehide

by Dan Davidson

The area of the Yukon River bank between the boundary of the City of Dawson and the Han Indian village of Moosehide has been withdrawn from staking for mining activity under either the Yukon Placer Mining Act or the Yukon Quartz Mining Act under the terms of federal Order-in-Council P.C. 1992-194. The lengthy technical description accompanying the Feb. 6, 1992 federal cabinet order designates 446 hectares of land north of Dawson City as protected from any new staking or prospecting.

The order does not affect any existing claims which are recorded and in good standing.

The federal actions have been taken in response to representations from the Dawson First Nation and the City of Dawson after an attempt was made to stake the area by Richard Semple in the spring of 1991. The Indian band petition, backed by city council, stated that the area should be set aside from mining as a potential heritage site.

The federal order states as its primary reason for withdrawal "that the land in the schedule to the annexed order may be required for a historic site."

Youth Conference takes Dawson by storm!

by Clayton Berriman

The "One Voice Conference for Youth" started on Thursday, February 27, and it ended on March 1, 1992.

Twenty-two Dawson City teens hosted thirty-nine young people from around the territory for a total of 61 youths in attendance!

It took place in Dawson City and in Moosehide. The workshops took place at the Indian Band Hall, Band Offices, Robert Service School, and in the cabins at Moosehide.

I think that the youth conference was extremely well organized. The workshops and the games were enjoyed by all. The majority of the participants of the games played, chose as their favourites the game called "Fruit Basket" and "Winking Games".

I really learned a lot of information this past weekend although I was the unexpected photographer "Clayton Berriman". Personally, I enjoyed the food and the dance was the best dance I ever attended in Dawson

The Sun obtained funding in late 2009 from the City of Dawson, YTG's Heritage Branch and the Community Development Fund to conserve and archive early issues and make them available once again in the public domain. This is a great resource for students, writers and historians, and also for prospective tourists with an interest in Dawson City's life. Each month, we are re-printing our front pages from 20 years ago (seen above) as a souvenir of our lively history.

Past issues are available for download on our website, <http://klondikesun.com>. More will be added periodically throughout the year!

Klondike Visitors Association Shows a Slight Profit in 2011

Story & Photos
by Dan Davidson

The last couple of years have been a bit tough for the Klondike Visitors Association. In 2010 the organization posted a loss of $92,150.80. This year was much better with a profit of $30,167.00. This improvement was not accomplished without considerable belt-tightening and budget revision during the year, but it did allow executive director Gary Parker to begin on a positive note.

"It was another interesting year for KVA," he told the nearly 20 people gathered at Diamond Tooth Gerties, "full of challenges and opportunities. It was a success financially, socially compared to recent years, most especially compared to last year.

"It was a success in terms of changing directions, with some new staff in new positions and renewed energy at the board level. I'm optimistic going forward in 2012."

"The last two or three years have really been a wake-up call in some ways for KVA, and we're still fragile in terms of financials. Everything we do is generated from net results of the money that comes in through this building. That puts us in a dependent position in a way, but it also makes us self-supporting. There's been a lot of hard work by board and staff to make sure that we are stable and I think we achieved that this year."

The draft audit shows Gerties' bar receipts were up by about $24,000 over last year and slot machine revenue increased by $84,714.00. It wasn't all positive. Games declined by $40,159.00 (though both Blackjack and Poker were up) and the amount taken in during community gaming nights (used to support community organizations) was down. Community groups scored $23,000 in grants from the KVA's activities.

The KVA is a major player in terms of employment and economic activity in Dawson. In 2011 wages and benefits amounted to $1,295,000, while local purchases and contracts paid out $461,000. The Yukon government profited to the tune of $282,000. Events and attractions in town cost the organization $60,000 and it invested $262,000 in regional marketing.

2011 was the first year that the KVA assumed management of the Trek Over the Top, one of the major sources of winter tourism in the Klondike. It works with the Dawson Sled Dawgs and the Alaska Trailblazers to make this happen.

One of the big changes during the year was the inauguration of the new Online Reservation System, which allows potential visitors to book both hotel rooms and events over the internet. The system was also used to book Trek reservations for this year and may be used to book tickets for this coming summer's Dawson City Music Festival.

In addition to running Gerties, the KVA operates numerous events and attractions which, of course, do not make a profit. These include the upcoming Thaw di Gras spring carnival, the Commissioner's Klondike Ball, the Yukon Goldpanning Championships, the Klondike International Outhouse Race and assists in bringing events such as the Nutcracker to Dawson.

The KVA operates the Jack London Cabin and Museum, and assists the Writers Trust of Canada and the Dawson Community Library Board in the operation of Berton House and the Writer-in-Residence program.

Uncontested board elections saw Marc Johnston, Lesley Grant, Debbie Winston, Eric Zalitis and Peggy Amendola either returning to the board or elected for the first time. Four other directors – Johnny Nunan, David Rohatensky, Brian Stethem and Carolyn Wong – still have a year to go in their two-year terms. The KVA staggers its board elections to create continuity.

About 20 people attended the KVA's annual general meeting.

Not all the board members were able to be present, but the head table included executive director Gary Parker, vice-chair Brian Stethem, and board members Johnny Nunan, Eric Zalitis, and David Rohatensky.

The KVA is running the Trek Over the Top weekends for the second year. The first group of 75 arrived on March 1. The second group will arrive on March 8. Numbers are not high this year, with only about 165 in attendance in total. The Trek used to see that many on every one of three weekends. KVA folks put it down to the difficult economy in the United States, which is where most of the trekkers come from. This year registration was via the KVA's Online Point of Sale system and two additional hotels signed on to take trekkers.

TARA'S BIRDS

with Tara Borin

Spruce Grouse

One of my dog's favourite activities when we're out walking in the woods is to chase critters. If it isn't a squirrel she's got cornered up a tree, the chances are good that it's a Spruce Grouse.

The Spruce Grouse, Falciennis canadensis, is the most common grouse found in our forests. They measure about 41 cm (16") from beak to tail, with a rather chunky body. Males of the species have a black throat and breast edged in white; and red eye combs, which they erect during courtship display. Both males and females are mottled brown, black and white with chestnut coloured tips on their tail feathers.

Although the Spruce Grouse is sometimes called the "fool's hen" because they are so unafraid of humans, Robert Frisch notes that the male's courtship display is carefully hidden and rarely observed. During mating season (April – May), males will fan out their tails and puff up the feathers on their neck and breast, raising their red eye combs and rapidly beating their wings, producing a snapping sound, to the delight of the females.

Like all grouse, the Spruce Grouse doesn't fly far. They are a non-migratory bird, living year-round in spruce forests. Their main food source comes from the spruce tree: in winter, they live almost exclusively off of spruce needles and buds. They build their nests on the ground, usually at the base of a spruce tree, lining the nest with dried grasses and leaves.

It is my personal observation that no matter how shrilly my dog may bark at a Spruce Grouse in a tree, the grouse will not be persuaded to come down. This is clear evidence that the Spruce Grouse is far superior in intelligence to my dog.

Extinct Animals of the North: Realities and Myths of the Saber Tooth Tiger

by Lisa McKenna

The Saber Tooth tiger grew up to 5 meters (15 feet) long and weighed upwards of 200 kg. (440 lbs.) ! It's upper incisors (eye teeth) grew to lengths of 30cm (12 inches) ! And they could open up their jaws 120°, that's comparable to a modern day snake and twice the size of a lion's mouth! Fossilized bones have been found in the La Brea Tar Pits of Los Angeles, California and are believed to be over 10,000 years old. Sabers were native to the Pacific Coast of North and South America. Scientists think that they lived on a diet of mammoth, antelope, deer, giant sloths, prehistoric horses, and buffalo. When feasting on the larger game (mammoth and buffalo) the tigers would form packs to bring the beasts down. It is thought that they feasted only on the juveniles and disabled of the larger game because they had very weak jaws and were not real fast runners. The Saber Tooth would pounce on the backs of its prey from a low lying branch, sinking its teeth into the unfortunate being, and then with its extremely strong arms it would hold on while the prey bled out. Saber Tooth Tigers are thought to have lived in packs, unlike the tigers of today, because fossilized remains have shown elderly and infirm tigers that could not have possibly lived on their own.

These tigers had a long reign on Earth, starting from the Pliocene Epoch (1.8 to 5.3 million years ago) and ending some time in 10,000 B.C. , around the time of the last Ice Age. The earliest saber toothed-like carnivore was called a nimravids, this is Greek for 'armed murderer'. These were primitive, vaguely cat-like carnivores (meat eaters) who lived over 35 million years ago.

These animals were thought to have developed extremely warm and thick fur in order to help them survive the Ice Age. Unfortunately the Saber Tooth did not survive, whether this was due to a lack of game, the inability to survive the cold, or they fell prey to man ... it is not known.

There are a few myths surrounding these magnificent creatures. One is they don't like water but in fact they were excellent swimmers. Another is that they are TIGERS ! When in fact they are CATS ! More closely related to the modern lion than the modern tiger. I don't think I would like to find one purring on my pillow!

Myth and Medium Returns to Dänoja Zho

The Hän Singers welcomed a full house to the first night's events.

Story & Photos by Dan Davidson

The Dänoja Zho Cultural Centre was a hive of activity from February 21 to 23 as the Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in Heritage Department revived its long dormant Myth and Medium program and packed both the Gathering Room and the auditorium for a series of lectures, presentations and discussions around the idea of story telling.

Events began on Tuesday evening with welcoming songs by the Hän Singers; presentations by Angie Joseph-Rear (a prayer and a story); a talk, "The Afterlife of Stories" by Julie Cruikshank; and some storytelling by Sharon Shorty, speaking as herself rather than her familiar Gramma Susie persona.

Wednesday was a full schedule, beginning with Parks Canada's overview of its new emphasis – people stories – presented by Interpretation Coordinator Carrie Docken.

Dawson City Museum Director gave a multi-media talk on the role of museums as social institutions and catalysts for local debate.

A heritage round table gave each of the two dozen attendees in the Gathering Room circle a chance to talk about their organization's role in preserving and passing on heritage. There were presentations from Mayo, Old Crow, the Yukon government, Parks Canada and TH's Heritage Department.

That afternoon the action moved to the TH Community Hall across the street for hours of hands on workstations showcasing Métis finger weaving, making dry meat, willow bark rope making, sewing, and brewing tea from bush herbs.

In the evening it was showtime, with a selection of Dawson home movies from the TH Archives, as well as the animated Dawson youth production "The Story of Crow" and a number of films brought by Vuntut Gwich'in filmmaker Mary Jane Moses.

On Thursday morning the sessions were called "We've got something to tell you about." It was anthropologist Julie Cruikshank's turn again, and she spoke about her relationship with a pair of Dawson elders: Mary McLeod and Pat Lindgren.

Parks Canada historian David Neufeld presented a multi-media talk about navigating the Yukon River and the cultural differences in thinking about maps and directions.

A mid-morning treat was a Rap throw-down between two members of TH staff and two groups from the Hän Language class at the Robert Service School.

Old Crow's Mary Jane Moses showcased the work of the Vuntut Gwich'in Heritage Committee and showed off some of the curriculum publications that have been produced.

The final afternoon took the group outside on a sunny day for story telling around a campfire in the YTG Campground across the Yukon River as well as a fine walk across the frozen surface on the many trails.

The final event was a feast and fiddling evening called "The Men Know How to Cook It" at the TH Community Hall.

It had been eight years since the previous incarnation of Myth and Medium. It seems likely the next one will be sooner than that.

(The Sun will present more detailed reports on some of the presentations in following issues.)

Rapping in Hän is one way to learn the language.

Home Routes Performers Delighted to be Here

Story & Photo
by Dan Davidson

Dawson's house concert season continued on February 15 with a joint concert by Colleen Eccleston & John Gogo, held at the home of Tara McCauley.

House concerts are intimate events, a treat for a living room packed with about 20 people. The music is up close and personal and generally needs no sound equipment at all. Eccleston and Gogo alternated songs while backing up each other with vocals and trading a mandolin back and forth.

Whether finger picking or strumming, on guitar or mandolin, Eccleston and Gogo are fine players and complemented each other's work beautifully. It probably helped that they have worked together before.

Eccleston has a powerful voice, which is at home in a variety of styles. In person her vocals are more in the folk tradition while she achieves a harder edge on her latest CD, "The Garden of Chaos".

"People have been telling me my music is all over the map," she said, "and I guess that's true."

Gogo professes to lean towards an old country style, but his living room is a folk style and his latest CD, "One of these Days" is not radically different.

The songs were a mixture of story tunes, love songs and songs about the state of the world. Most of the two sets were drawn from their recent recordings.

For both performers this visit to Dawson was a first, though Gogo has a family connection here. His sister, Marie, used to perform at both the Palace Grand and Diamond Tooth Gerties, and put out her first album while she was living here in 1992. John was amused to be introduced to the audience as Marie Gogo's "little brother".

The Gogos are a musical family. Brother Paul plays keyboards with Trooper and cousin David is a well-known blues singer and guitarist.

Aside from a fine evening of music, the day was also marked by the appearance of a white tailed deer in downtown Dawson. They've been seen on the Dome before, but not downtown.

When Whitehorse Rocked Dawson

Story & Photos
by Dan Davidson

Luke Doucet and Melissa McClelland thought they ought to practice for their appearance in the capital city when they played in Dawson.

"Why are you guys called Whitehorse?" Doucet yelled out. "You don't even live here."

After which he babbled a bit about beautiful words and geography but didn't really answer the question.

McClelland, on the other hand, talked about the awe-inspiring drive they had had from Whitehorse to Dawson that day, more spectacular than most of the tour travel they had recently completed, in little places like Holland, Paris, through the UK and southern B.C.

We'll forgive them that bit of audience buffing, however, since they played and sang beautifully and proved that they are, in fact, a performing unit and not just a pair of successful artists trading songs back and forth on a stage. They are married in their stage presence as well as in their life off stage.

Both have played Dawson before, as part of the Dawson City Music Festival lineup. They have supported each other in the past, and he has produced her last three solo albums, while both have worked backing Sarah McLachlan.

During their lengthy set before a packed Oddfellows Hall on February 16 they played most of the tunes from their recently released self-titled CD as well as material from their extensive repertoire.

The pair clearly enjoyed working with each other and communicated that enjoyment to the audience.

Dawson City Music Festival songwriter-in-residence Colin Huebert, formerly of the Great Lake Swimmers and currently with Siskiyow, was the evening's opening act. Working with the odd combination of guitar, bass drum and high-hat cymbal, Huebert provided an intense, somewhat sinister set of tunes.

Dawson Women's Hockey Team Strikes Gold

by Sedina Gomez

The Dawson City Women's Hockey team made local history and folklore last weekend at the Rendezvous Hockey Tournament held in Whitehorse.

This was the first tournament ever for a lot of the women playing on the team, and for many players this season was only their first or second season playing hockey. This helped to earn the team a misguided reputation for roughness, as some of the players' inability to stop was viewed as rough-play.

It was also a first for many playing on artificial ice- the ice in Dawson is natural and harder than its rink counterparts to the south, churning out tougher, well-bruised hockey players.

In their first tournament, the Dawson Women defeated Whitehorse's Wild Things (the tournament favourite) 7-2 in the final of the women's division. Earlier in the tournament the Dawson Ladies were defeated by the Wild Things, 4-2. Dawson went on to beat the Eh Team and Puckin' Eh giving them a second shot at defeating the Wild Things in the playoffs. Joanne Anderson's pass-turned-goal in the early part of the first period set the scene for Dawson domination. The Wild Things retaliated with a few goals of their own, tying things up at one point during the game and keeping it very close during the first period. The Wild Things then came back with a vengeance in the second period, but by then the Dawson ladies had gelled into a hockey stick-yielding warhorse. The defense lines- Helen McCullough, Joanne Anderson, Tara Rudnickas and Annie Morrison- prowled the Dawson end with the instincts of mother bears protecting their dens. Not that she needed guarding- goalie Veronique Lafond seemed to be pulling pucks out of mid-air, stopping shot after desperate shot. The forwards- Carrie Docken, Jenna Roebuck, Lupine Bulmer, Natasha Dunmall, Marjorie Logue, Franny Krivensky, Chris Kirk, Aubyn O'Grady, and Laura Grieve- kept relentless pressure on the Wild Things' defense with an absolute barrage of shots, passes that were as quick as lightning, and some fancy dangling in front of the net. Grieve, a ringer brought in from Whitehorse, helped turn what was a close game at halftime into a legendary victory with five goals in total. Dunmall, another Whitehorse hot-shot, took a beating in the first period but managed to shake it off and score another point for the Dawson team.

The team's coach, Chris Johnson, split his time between the ladies' games and his own games on the Dawson's Men team. He coached with a red passion, pushing the girls out of the tiny bench doors, and arguing the ref's calls like a champ. Ben Shore, a Rendezvous spectator, also stepped in to coach and helped the team kill off a few penalties with swagger.

If it was a hockey fan tournament, the Dawson team still would have still brought home the gold. Some say that the bells and the yells of the Dawson fans could be heard all the way at the bottom of Two Mile Hill. The fans even recruited a few Whitehorse locals into their cheering squad.

And later in the day, as if one victory wasn't enough, the Dawson Men's team had fans on the edges of their seats during their final game- holding off defeat until the very last moments of a shoot-out. A big congratulation goes out to the boys and their valiant efforts.

The Dawson Women's Team would like to extend a huge thank-you to the City of Dawson Rec Department, Yukon Lotteries, their very supportive fans, to Schmidt mining for providing the team with new jerseys, the Rendezvous Tournament organizers, to the Wild Things, The Eh Team and Puckin' Eh for making it such a fun tournament, and to their new honorary Dawsonites: Laura Grieve, Chris Kirk, Natasha Dunmall, and Veronique Lafond.

They would also like to thank John and LMFAO for providing the soundtrack to their half-time breaks.

Congratulations to the Dawson Women's Hockey Team! Wiggle wiggle!

Whitehorse ringer, Laura Grieve scored five goals in the second half of the tournament final against Whitehorse's Wild Things.

Whitehorse's Laura Grieve, Chris Kirk, Natasha Dunmall, and Veronique Lafond joined the Dawson Women's Hockey Team for the victory.

Do You Know Your Rights?

by Lisa McKenna

As you grow, so do your responsibilities to yourself to protect your rights. It's your body and your choice !

Although, by law, the age of sexual consent is 16, there are still exceptions. Did you know that your 14 or 15 year old child can have sex with anyone who is under 5 years older than them? That means that an 18 year, and 364 day, old person can lie with your 14 year old daughter, or son. 14! But that's not all. A 12 or 13 year old can lie with anyone less than 2 years older !

It's sad to see young people behaving in this way but even sadder to see the adults take advantage. Sexual assault takes many forms, from being touched where you don't want, being forced to touch someone where you don't want to, having sex with a relative

(if you are under 21), getting drunk or high and passing out while someone, or many ones, have sex with you without you knowing. It can even include forcing the minor to expose themselves or encouraging the child to touch him/herself.

Sexual harassment, on the other hand, is more difficult to prove. Sexual harassment is any behaviour that is unwanted or unwelcome, is sexual or related to sex, or sexual orientation. Usually this type of harassment is done by people who have direct power over you, like a teacher or boss, or it is done by people who have indirect power as in older students and co-workers. More often than not harassment escalates to sexual assault.

So what should a person do when they find themselves in uncomfortable situations? TALK. Tell the person who is harassing you to stop, put it in writing, keep records. Ask for support from friends and co-workers; they may be victims as well. If all else fails ... report the offence to your local law enforcement agency.

Sexual harassment is not the only kind of harassment. You can be 'stalked'. Stalking is when someone follows you around or always seems to show up where you are. It can be phoning you all the time, even when you tell them not to and hang up. It can be constantly texting, putting you on Facebook or Twitter without YOUR consent. You can be constantly teased for having a handicap or wearing glasses or being short. You can be constantly put down by your employer.

Basically, ANY UNWANTED ATTENTION CAN BE HARASSMENT.

Blast From the Past

by Lisa McKenna

Abacadabra ! It's Dutch Rock and Roll !

Although they stuck to a basic core of four throughout the years, they had members such as Thijs van Leer, Pierre van der Linden, Eef Albers, Ruben van Roon, and get this one...Niels van der Steenhoven ! They also had a Steve Smith and a Bobby Jacobs, but no women.

Their 1st album was released in 1970 but it wasn't a really good hit. Their 2nd album, in 1971, fared better. In the second album they used an accordion, an alto flute, falsetto voices AND YODELING !

They played from '68 to '78 with two reunions in 1990 and 1999. This caused them to join up again in 2001 and they are still playing today.

They never used any lyrics, except of course, the yodeling. It kind of went "ladi, ladi, ladi da pom pom awww, awww, awwwwww (in falsetto).

But if you ask me it's just a lot of Hocus Pocus that is in FOCUS.

Smoked Out

This article is directed to All Smokers in Canada. It is time to take a Strong Stand against the discrimination directed at Smokers. My original article on this topic was killed by the "Powers that Be" at the Sun, as it had been deemed "Too Offensive". As a result I am Forced to transcribe this less offensive version.

Smokers, are you aware that you are the Only citizens in Canada who are not people? You/we have No Rights, No Freedoms. A citizen is an individual who has Rights and Freedoms in this Nation. By my previous statement, not only are smokers Not people, they cannot be citizens of Canada, as only recognized people can be citizens. It matters not that you were born here, or if you immigrated here, if you smoke, you are a people without Rights and Freedoms.

The Canadian Bill of Rights and the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms Guarantees these Rights and Freedoms to ALL Citizens of Canada. Even the Human Rights Act Guarantees these Rights and Freedoms To All People. EXCEPT People Who Smoke!

How is this even possible? Simple, it is only because Smoking or Smokers are not listed as a group entitled to Rights and Freedoms, but here is the curiosity, Non- Smokers Are Listed. Because of this Discrimination, and Prejudice, Smoking Bans are being permitted, and are beginning to go to EXTREMES. So I Implore ALL Smokers, To let Your Voices Be Heard! The Powers which Enforce and Create these Bans Only obtain their Power Over Smokers because Smokers Do Not Speak Out. It is Time to Take authority against these Injustices, Speak Out Loud and Clear. Smokers Want and Deserve Their Rights Too! We want to be Counted among the Citizens in this Country! We Live Here, yes, We Work Here, yes, But with No Voice We Do Not Count, we are Irrelevant. Unless we Speak Out Now, Gain Our Rights and Freedoms, there will come a time when we will not be permitted to smoke Anywhere.

These powers that be, are making an attempt to Control Us! One who is Controlled is NOT FREE! Step Up, Speak Out, Make the Powers Hear that We Will Not Be Controlled any Longer! If All Smokers Unite, With One Voice, Sending the Same Message, they will be unable to maintain control over Us. It Is Time To Fight for our Rights and Freedoms, instead of cowering in a corner and allowing Non-Smokers to Walk all over Us. Fight For Freedom! Fight to establish Rights for Smokers! Fight with Words, letters, and your voices! Fight and be Heard! The only other option, sit in the corner and cower as more and more Bans are established, before Smoking tobacco becomes an Illegal Action. I cannot fight this without Your help. I am Not the only Smoker out there who identifies these subtle Discriminating actions as being Wrong and UNJUST! Speak Out, It is our Only Hope to obtain Rights and Freedoms For Smokers In this Country! I want to Hear From All of you Smokers out there! Speak Out and Share Your Voices, Please. Let them (the Powers that Be) know that We Will Not Be Segregated! We Will Not Be Separated! We Will Not Be Discriminated Against Any Longer! We Refuse to be OPPRESSED! WE WANT OUR RIGHTS AND FREEDOMS!

This is just my opinion.

Stories and illustrations
by Lisa Michelle

is for

Sundogs, or Perihelion (which comes from the Greek language and means "beside the sun"). Sundogs are also called "Mock Suns" or "Phantom Suns".

Sundogs are coloured patches of light that appear on the right, or the left, or even both sides of the Sun.

They, the Sundogs, seem to come from light pouring through hexagonal ice crystals, and they are always 22° North, or South, of the Sun.

These ice crystals act like 'prisms', bending the light to show a 'reflection' of the Sun.

Sundogs can be shown as red, or orange, or even blue!

Aristotle, a Greek philosopher who lived in the third century B.C., mentions what he refers to as 'mock suns' that rose with the Sun and "followed it all day". Have you ever seen a Sundog?

Squashes are part of the 'Three Sisters' planted by Native Americans, the other two being maize (corn) and beans. The maize provided the stalks for the beans to grow up on and the beans and the maize protected the squash with shade. The beans also added nitrogen into the soil.

There are two basic kinds of Squash, Summer and Winter. Summer and Winter squashes do not depend on the time of year they grow but in how well they will store over Winter. Summer squash can be found in the store all winter long and Winter squash starts to appear in late Summer!

Winter squashes include the Acorn squash (that looks just like an acorn), the Butternut squash (that tastes just like sweet potatoes), the Hubbard squash that has a skin so thick that it can be stored for over 6 months and the Spaghetti squash that when cooked peels off the skin in long strands just like spaghetti!

AND last but not the least, the Pumpkin! Have you ever roasted pumpkin seeds? It's real easy. All you do is mix about ½ a cup of seeds with a teaspoon of olive oil and ½ a teaspoon of the seasoning of your choice (seasoned salt, soy sauce, bar-b-q powder and garlic are some popular spices). Spread this out on a tray and pop it in a 250° degree oven for about an hour, stirring every 15 minutes or so, and there you have it... PUMPKIN SEEDS!

You can do this with every type of squash seeds.

Summer squash includes squashes like zucchini. Zucchini can be sliced and fried with tomatoes and Parmesan cheese OR it can be added to a chocolate cake to make it nice and moist!

Sasquatches have a very long history in cultures all over the world. They are most commonly known as a pacific northwestern ape-like creature but there is also what is known as a Yeti.

Yetis are believed to be a relative of the Western Big Foot/ Sasquatch and they are believed to be found in the Himalayan regions of Nepal and Tibet.

Sasquatches are known by many different names:

- Miché - "man-bear"
- Migol - "wild-man"
- Mirca - also known as 'wild-man'
- Kang Admi - 'snow-man'
- and -JoBran - MAN EATER !!!

In 1921 it was named the "Abominable Snowman" and it was apparently spotted on Mount Everest!

Thousands of sightings are reported each year, there are hundreds of feet of film that have, apparently, taken pictures of the Sasquatch. No hard evidence has yet been found. They are spotted all over the world but the highest number of observations seems to be in the western areas of North America (Alaska, B.C., Washington, Texas, California, etc.)
