Dawson a Finalist in CBC's National Community Contest

Story & Photos by Dan Davidson

Dawsonites learned rather late in the week that their town had been chosen as one of the thirteen finalists in CBC's "Live Right Now" capital of Canada search. Most would have learned of it only on Tuesday and Wednesday when posters went up at the Post Office and the rec. dept made a formal presentation to council on March 28.

At a community lunch and launch event held at the Art and Margaret Fry Recreation Centre at noon on March 29, Rec. Director Lana Welchman explained that the town had applied to the contest earlier in the year, but had just learned last week that it was one of the finalists.

communities Other Canada included: across Corner Brook, N.L.; Pictou, N.S.; Charlottetown, P.E.I.; Edmundston, N.B.; Montreal, Que.; Cambridge, Ont.; Dauphin, Saskatoon, Sask.; Man.: Edmonton, Alta.; Kamloops, B.C.; Iqaluit, Nunavut; and Yellowknife, N.W.T.

Accord to the CBC website, "In six months thousands of Canadians and dozens of communities came together to take more than 92,000 challenges, share their success stories and support each other to Live Right Now."

Live Right Now is built around the idea that people can have a big impact by making small changes to the way they move and how they eat. Communities were asked to demonstrate the ways in which they were active.

The ultimate winner of the contest will receive a $100.000 natural playground courtesy of the Canadian Wildlife Federation, Parks Canada and Bienenstock Natural Playgrounds.

The thirteen finalists are all expected to hold final events. after which the winner will be crowned and featured on CBC later in April.

Dawson's final entry in the contest was themed Just Another Day in Dawson. It kicked off at 10:45 with an outdoor assembly by the Robert Service School, after which the classes separated to take on a variety of activities: hiking to Moosehide; skiing, snowboarding and coasting at Moose Mountain; skating at the arena; mushing in the YTG Campground across the Yukon River; and other activities on the school's playground.

For the community at large there was a lunch and launch event held in the rec. centre at

The goal of Just Another Day in Dawson, said Rec. Board President Peter Menzies, was to highlight how active the town already is, with some 40 or more volunteer organizations in the community, many of them connected to recreational activities.

"We will also be telling the unique story of living active in Dawson as well as featuring volunteers who make recreation possible," Welchman said.

Guest speakers at lunchtime launch

Mayor Jenkins and volunteer spokespersons for soccer, figure skating, snowmobiling, women's hockey and bush living.

Shelly Brown, who lives in West Dawson and skijors to work, a trip of about 20 minutes, each day in the winter, shared several amusing anecdotes about her daily commute.

Uffish Thoughts: Adjusting to the Daylight Savings Daze

by Dan Davidson

Okay. We're three weeks past the late winter ordeal that forced us to lose an hour's sleep on a Sunday morning. We're actually supposed to change our clock settings at something like 2 o'clock in the morning, but I suspect most people do it before they go to bed at night and if, like me, you typically get to bed just after midnight, you've already lost that hour.

That's assuming you actually remember the rubric correctly and "spring ahead". On this particular Sunday one lady arrived at the Richard Martin Chapel around the time our Easter choir practice was starting, having set her clock back instead of ahead.

When I was teaching there were always a few students who dragged themselves into school an hour late on the Monday morning after the big change, the explanation being that the entire family was late for everything that day because no one had managed to hear any of the warning announcements.

I always found that a little hard to believe. If nothing else, the fact that none of their favourite television right time on Sunday ought used it. to have been a major clue.

Most people don't realize that the Yukon is actually on double daylight savings time in the summer. Until 1975, the year before I arrived, the territory had its own time zone, which it shared with a small portion of Alaska. After that date we switched to Pacific Standard Time. I've been told it was a decision driven by the needs of the business community in those days before faxes and then email became common means of communication.

So in the summer time we move to being two hours out of our originally designated time zone, which means that if you really want to see that famous Midnight Sun in Dawson, you should be prepared to stay up until 2 a.m., because that's the real midnight.

Daylight Savings Time is not practiced worldwide. Wikipedia notes that it is most commonly used in North America and Europe with some representation in South America, Africa, and part of Australia. It's no longer used in Russia or most of the former Soviet Republics and large portions programs were on at the of the Far East have never Even where it is used, it is not uniformly applied. The online Encyclopaedia Britannica (soon to be the only Britannica, but that's another column) reminds me that we run both early and late in North America, following the lead of our American cousins, and that most of Western Europe will not change over until the end of March, while they will revert to Standard time a week sooner in the fall.

We've all recovered by now and the seasonal advance of the sun has rendered the entire exercise moot in our Yukon.

By the time you read this, Dawson will be enjoying nearly 14 hours of daylight and the temporary loss of morning light will be a thing of the past. While one is tempted to say that the longer evenings are worth it, a quick calculation or look at the Environment Canada website should pretty quickly convince you that the advantage also lasts only about a fortnight, and the seasonal tilt of the planet becomes much more significant than the settings on our clocks.

City's Golf Cource Acquisition Moves Fore-ward

Following a letter of permissionfromtheterritorial government, Dawson's council was able to give second and third reading on March 20 to a bylaw giving itself the right to own the Top of the World Golf Course. The "Bylaw to Authorize the Ownership of Extra-municipal Property" was necessary because the golf course is actually outside the town's boundaries.

When the bylaw was given firstreadingbackonDecember 9 it was understood that it could not be completed until YTG provided a document with terms and conditions that would form an appendix to the legislation.

"We received a letter on Monday from the Minister of Community Services basically saying that we own the golf course," Mayor Peter Jenkins said at the council meeting. The appendix is no longer necessary.

The bylaw, in itself, defines the use of the property as being restricted "to that of a golf course authorized by the Yukon Government" and specifies that it "will be open to the public on terms and conditions established in a Operating Agreement with a third party and adopted by Council resolution from time to time."

Councillor Bill Kendrick initiated a discussion as to whether the terms of use in the bylaw were not too restrictive. What if, he asked, the golf course did not require the entire parcel of land? Perhaps some other use, such as a community-farming plot, might be allowed there?

Other councillors expressed some sympathy with this point of view, but were cautioned by Jenkins and city manger Jeff Renaud, that the land in question did lie outside the town's jurisdiction except for the specific purposes outlined in the bequest.

Council has stated repeatedly that it has no intention of running the golf course itself, or of having it run by the recreation department. Just what third party will step in to run the facility is not yet known, but there is a Dawson Golf Association, and it seems will be involved to some degree.

Concern over the fate of the golf course heated up in February when it appeared that nothing had happened since December.

Subsequent to those complaints being aired at a chamber of commerce meeting, MLA Sandy Silver reports that the Minister of Community Services, Elaine Taylor, and her department "have done a really good job at expediting this process.

"As it stands now, now that likely that this organization the bylaw is finished, it's a matter of getting the title to the property back to Greg Hakonson, and then, for a dollar, his lawyers and the däna Näye Ventures lawyers have an agreement that will 'launder off the encumbrance' with a discharge."

> "encumbrance" The question is the remaining $450,000 that was still owed to the territorial government at the time that golf course owner Bill Hakonson died. The government had handed the debt, one of the few remaining from some outstanding government development loans dating back decades, to däna Näye Ventures for collection.

In the end it was decided to accept the $55,000 in personal assurance that had been offered earlier by Hakonson senior, and write off the remainder.

Mayor Jenkins originally announced that Hakonson wished to give the facility to the town at a chamber of commerce meeting on July 13, 2011. It has taken until now to make that a reality.

Getting Paid on "Dawson Time"

To the town of Dawson,

I have been living here since 1983. I grew up in the bush. Every job that I have had, I have always been honestly employed, I have honestly been paid ON TIME.

A few months ago (October?) I got hired by a B.C. company to work for the hospital. Worked me ass off for them. I didn't get paid ON TIME for 2 pay periods. Not only that, I didn't get paid my final pay! So ... I quit.

So later I get hired by another B.C. company and I didn't get paid until 2 1/2 weeks after payday.

What is it with these B.C. companies? They come up here with their B.C. guys, pays them, hire locals, AND don't pay them!? I mean who the hell does that? If I hire someone, local or foreign, then I will find a way to PAY THEM ON TIME.

Like C'mon Guys, who are we hiring? Locals or Outsiders?

Government Launches Anti-violence Social Marketing Campaign

WHITEHORSE—The Minister responsible for the Women's Directorate Elaine Taylor today launched a campaign designed to change social attitudes and behaviour toward violence against women and

The social marketing campaign called Am I the Solution? is designed to get Yukoners to think about the effects of violence in our communities and what individuals can do to address it.

"Violence against women and girls is a societal issue and each of us has an important role to play toward its elimination." Taylor said.

The campaign was developed by an interagency working committee comprised of representatives from Kaushee's Place, the Department of Education, the Department of Justice, and three individuals representing youth, men and First Nations women.

The creative concept is built on an approach that uses hand-drawn images of ordinary Yukoners. The social marketing campaign will be promoted across Yukon through radio and print ads, posters, banners, online media and Facebook. The campaign engages a number of target groups including men, youth and young families.

About the IAP and how to apply

• Help completing the application

On September 19, 2007 the Indian Residential Schools Settlement became effective. An important deadline is now approaching.

Under the terms of the Settlement, September 19, 2012 is the Independent Assessment Process (IAP) Application Deadline. Applications submitted after this date will not be accepted. The IAP is a complex process. Do not wait until just before the deadline to begin, as the application form can take time to complete.

What is the IAP? The IAP is an out-of-court process created to resolve claims of abuse at Indian Residential Schools. People who suffered sexual abuse, serious physical abuse, or certain other wrongful acts which caused serious psychological consequences while at a recognized residential school may receive money through the IAP. Awards are based on a point system for different abuses and resulting harms.

Is the IAP different than the Common Experience Payment? Yes. The IAP process is separate and different from the Common Experience Payment (CEP) application process. The CEP is a payment to those who lived at a recognized residential school. The IAP provides payments for specific abuse suffered while at a recognized residential school. Under the settlement, former students could apply for the CEP, or for the IAP, or for both the CEP and IAP. The CEP application deadline was September 19, 2011; however, where former students can establish that they were unable to submit their CEP application due to disability, undue hardship or exceptional circumstances they can still apply for CEP up until September 19, 2012.

Which schools are included? The list of recognized Indian Residential Schools has been updated. Decisions regarding a number of other schools are in progress. A complete and updated list of recognized residential schools is available at www.residentialschoolsettlement.ca.

Who can apply? You can apply for the IAP if you experienced (1) sexual abuse, (2) serious physical abuse, or (3) certain other wrongful acts which caused serious psychological consequences, while you were either (a) living at a residential school, (b) a student at a residential school, or (c) under the age of 21 and allowed to be at a residential school to take part in authorized school activities. It is not a requirement to have lived at one of the recognized residential schools in order to make an IAP claim for abuse that may have occurred there.

How do I apply for IAP? To apply for an IAP payment you must complete and submit an application form by September 19, 2012, to Indian Residential Schools Independent Assessment Process, Suite 3-505, 133 Weber Street North, Waterloo, Ontario, N2J 3G9. Applications after this date will not be accepted. The IAP is a complex process and it is strongly recommended that you hire a lawyer if you wish to submit an IAP application. Do not wait until just before the deadline to begin, as the application form can take time to complete. To get an application, please call 1-866-879-4913 or go to www.iap-pei.ca or www.residentialschoolsettlement.ca.

Do I need a lawyer? All of the parties who developed the IAP believe that claimants should have a lawyer to represent them as the IAP is complex and involves difficult legal concepts and processes. It is not required, but it is strongly recommended that you hire a lawyer to help you. For a list of lawyers, visit www.residentialschoolsettlement.ca. If you do not wish to hire a lawyer you can call 1-866-879-4913 to obtain information about the support available to you.

What if I have already applied for the Independent Assessment Process? If you have already applied, and have not received any information or have questions about your IAP application, please contact the phone number below.

How can I find out the status of my application? There are 3 ways to find out the status of your application:

- 1) Contact your lawyer or legal representative;
- 2) Call 1-866-879-4913; or
- 3) Send an email at info@iap-pei.ca

Premier Accepts 9/11 Plaque on Behalf of Yukoners

WHITEHORSE (March 22, 2012)

United States Consul General Anne Callaghan today presented a bronze plaque to Premier Darrell Pasloski in appreciation of Yukoners' support and generosity, following the terror attacks in the United States on September 11, 2001.

"The Government of Yukon is proud to accept this plaque on behalf of all Yukoners, particularly officials and first responders who were called to action, as well as those citizens who stepped up to assist the passengers from two Korean airplanes," Pasloski said. "Yukoners can always be counted on to provide help when help is needed."

Whitehorse residents were profoundly affected by the terrorist attacks on September 11. Two 747 Korean Air flights, one cargo and one passenger, were diverted from American airspace and arrived in Whitehorse under escort by armed U.S. and Canadian fighter aircraft.

This unexpected stopover meant that over 200 passengers and crew originally bound for New York spent two days in Whitehorse. Their immediate needs for food, clothing, lodging and medical care were provided by Yukon government staff along with volunteers from the Salvation Army and Red Cross.

Government officials, translators, local cultural community groups and individual citizens also rallied around the passengers to support them during their stay, including hosting various social activities and events. The passengers, who ranged widely in age and language, were grateful for the thoughtfulness and care during that time of uncertainty.

"Like all Canadians, we felt a deep sense of loss and sympathy as we viewed the shocking television images on that day," Pasloski added. "We share much more than borders with our American neighbours and we thank them for this expression of remembrance and appreciation."

The plaque is one of a number commissioned by the U.S. Embassy and its consulates in recognition of the extraordinary assistance that Canadians lent the United States on and after September 11, 2001.

Callaghan attended a series of meetings and toured the Yukon College, Kwanlin Dün Cultural Centre and the new Whitehorse Public Library as part of her inaugural visit to Whitehorse from March 20 to 22.

PET OF THE WEEK

with Andrew Lewis, Humane Society Dawson

River

The beloved pit bull we all know and love, River, has flown south like so many other fair-weather Dawsonites.

He was with us at the Humane Society since March 2011, and had become such a gentle and loving dog - a big change from when he came.

River is a wonderful success story to show that any breed or dog no matter their reputation can be a wonderfully gentle dog given the right attention and love. With the help of the staff, over the year that River was here we were able to transform him into a great dog, full of loyalty and care.

With a bit of out-of-the-box thinking, Katie posted River on Victoria Adoptables, a website dedicated to animal adoption in the lower mainland area of BC.

A lovely gentleman contacted us and after speaking with him and doing a home inspection, we agreed to send River south to Victoria.

Now he is enjoying long walks on the beach, warm weather and blooming flowers. I will miss the drool stains on my legs and the howl when he gets a bone, but I am so happy for River.

I want to share the note that was send to us from his new owner a week after the adoption.

Thank you to all that support us this is what your donations can achieve.

River is settling in well. We go for 3-4 walks a day, 6-10 km. Does well off leash, he seems to enjoy other dogs. I think I mentioned several dogs on the ferry, and again here at home, have lurched and growled/barked at him and he was a total gentleman, showed no aggression at all. We work daily on sit, stay, come type of obedience, and he is awesome. Fishing is another story. River seems to think the rods are a stick to play with, he gets over excited tries to pick them up. We will work this out. He seems happy to greet me, we are doing some gentle floor wrestling, trying to help him not get too rough, seems to understand well. River seems happier every day, and I can not thank you all enough for such a great buddy. I will send some pics soon.

Best Wishes, Bryn & River.

Wild Cards: Deuces Down

Edited by George R.R. Martin Ipicturebooks 306 pages $22.00

Back in the 1980s a concept in publishing called "the shared universe" was born. This involved a group of writers getting together and writing stories that occurred in a similar background, sometimes borrowed from the work of an established writer's series, sometimes original.

Actually, it's not such a new idea. Comic book companies have been working in shared universes for years. It's how Superman and Batman have adventures together, or Spiderman and Wolverine. But it was a fairly novel ('scuse the pun) idea in book publishing.

George R.R. Martin, better known these days for his massive fantasy saga (and HBO hit series) which began with A Game of Thrones, was instrumental in starting one of these series, called Wild Cards, of which there are now some 21 volumes of novels and short stories.

The original authors were comic book and science fiction fans, so it naturally took that turn. What, the series asks, if there were really people with super abilities? How could that happen? What would that be like?These days, when TV shows like Heroes, Alphas, Misfits and the like are exploring that side of the question (not to mention a decade of Smallville), while two versions of Being Human (UK and USA) and several series about vampires explore the supernatural life, this might not seem so unusual, but it was in the late 1980s.

Martin and his fellow writers created an alternate world, one in which a game changing event took place right after World War II.

On September 15, 1946, a biological weapon created by an alien race was detonated by accident above the streets of New York City. The mutagen in the bomb killed millions on contact and, entering the jet stream, circled the Earth. Because of its effects, it became known as the Wild Card Virus. It rewrote the DNA of anyone who came in contact with it, 90% of whom died very quickly and painfully.

The remaining 10% were changed. Aces acquired avariety

BOOKENDS

with Dan Davidson

of super powers while remaining human in appearance. These were a small percentage of the changed humans.

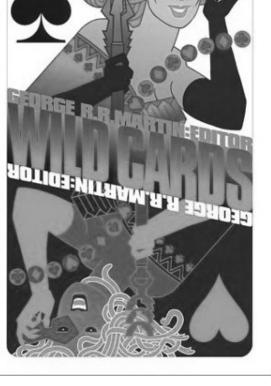

Deuces gained very minor, almost useless, abilities. Jokers, majority altered humanity, w e r e physically transformed, perhaps deformed, would be a better term, in a myriad of ways. Nats (or Naturals) were people who were immune to the virus.

Generally speaking, you only got changed by direct contact with the virus, but the children of two infected parents were likely to undergo some sort of change when they hit puberty. They could die, or they could become Aces, Deuces or Jokers. They are known as Suicide Kings.

Most of the books are made up of braided short stories, written by individual authors, who usually maintain control of the characters they create. These may be woven together to make complete story arcs, or may simply be individual tales set against this background. Some are complete novels by one author. These have often been used to resolve loose ends and dangling plot threads from various earlier tales.

There were 12 books between 1987 and 1993 in the original series published by Bantam Books. From 1993-95 Baen books published an additional trilogy. There was a gap and then an experimental publisher called iBooks (not the current Apple company marketing e-books) published two more in 2002 and 2006. In 2008 TOR Books revived the series with four additional books between then and last year, and a fifth is due out this year. In addition TOR has acquired and is reprinting the original series.

The volume at hand is one of those from defunct publisher iBooks, which can still be obtained as a paperback online, but which I found in an e-book version that was readily available for Kindle and Kobo.

Most of the series has dealt with the adventures of the Aces, with some Jokers thrown in. The seven writers who produced the stories in this book decided to look into the lives of the lesser lights, the Deuces. These are tales in a minor key, stories of people whose lives have not been enhanced by their abilities. What do you do if your power is simply to be able to turn into a puddle of water, or to smell the presence of a super power in another person? What if you can create a lighter-sized flame with your finger or make your hands really hot, but you always get burned when you do? What is your life like if you and another Wild Card had a child and you are burdened by the fear of what may happen to her in just a few years?

The stories in this book all seem to take place just off to one side of major events that occurred the original series, with references to some of those events having influenced the live of these people. I hadn't seen anything in this series for probably a decade, and bumped into it again while I was doing some research for a review of another Martin book. It was interesting enough that I expect to look for some more of them.

Junior Rangers participate in Advance Training in Alberta

by Captain Steve Watton, 1 CPRG, Unit Information

Yellowknife, N.W.T - Sixty Junior Canadian Rangers (JCR) from the north, including two JCRs from Quebec region, two from British Columbia region, and three JCRs from Newfoundland and Labrador experienced opportunities of a  $lifetime at the {\tt EnhancedTraining}$ Session - Advance (ETS) offered by the First Canadian Ranger Patrol Group (1 CRPG). The one week, advance training was held at the Tim Horton's Children's Ranch in Kananaskis, Alberta from February 20 to 25, 2012.

JCR training centered on core values in traditional, life and Ranger skills. All youth receive the opportunity to participate training concentrated in the areas of Ice Rescue, emergency first aid, computer familiarization, cross country skiing, responsible leadership, komotik (traditional sled) building, a cultural day to BANFF and participation by three JCRs, one from each territory, in Rick Hansen 25th Anniversary In Motion Relay.

The emphasis of the ETS was to provide JCRs with the chance to interact and experience cultural differences while building self-esteem and self-confidence through practical implementation of skill activities in a fun, safe and secure environment.

"The JCRs were exposed to opportunities that are not normally available in isolated or remote communities." said Major Jeff Allen, Commanding Officer, 1 CRPG, "The Canadian JCRsmakevaluable contributionstotheir communities and become active and responsible citizens. Participation in this training helped JCRs learn to make healthy choices and safe decisions.

Safety was a big part of camp life and emphasized throughout every aspect of training from ice rescue to first aid. It helps them understand what they can do to assist in their communities and builds self-confidence.

"The youth learned valuable skills that will last a lifetime," said Captain Sharon Low, JCR Officer. "We challenged them with new experiences, enhanced their Ranger and life skills, while respecting and incorporating their individual cultural and traditional skills."

Through the JCR programme, the Government of Canada is investing in today's youth and Canada's future leaders.

Musical Roving with Ian Tamblyn

Story & Photos by Dan Davidson

An evening with Ian Tamblyn is a tour through landscapes and musical styles. Karen Dubois' living room was crowded on March 15 as Tamblyn took the 20 plus members of his house concert audience from one end of the country to the other, from North to South, from the Arctic to the Antarctic.

Tamblyn's return to Dawson City was part of what his website referred to as the IanPossible Tour, a trip that included 12 stops in the territory and blended in Adventure Canada Tours to Ireland and the Northwest Passage. Tamblyn selfdeprecatingly allows that the music business has been so good to him that he has to do adventure tours to make a living, but the tunes produced from all these trips makes it seem like he actually tours to find new material.

Certainly, he's playing a couple of folk festivals, a number of concert dates, two adventure tours and a residency at Torngat National Park in Newfoundland and Labrador between now and early October.

Just listening to the man with eyes closed, it's hard to believe that there's only one guitarist sitting behind the microphone. You hear chords, fingering patterns and lead notes all happening at what seems like the same time.

His songs are about landscape, about being on the land, about Canadian icons and history. There's one love song in the set, and it too, is unusual in its theme and development. His first set of the evening featured older tunes from his repertoire and he moved to newer material for the second set. Unusually, the second set was just as long as the first, and he seemed quite reluctant to bring the evening to an end.

"This tour has been frustrating for me," he said near the end, "because I get to the second set and I'm only starting. At this point I have maybe 1500 to 2000 songs."

Part of the charm of his live performance is the patter between the songs. Not every song has a story, but those that do are memorable. There is the revelation that evergreen cones just won't cut it as a replacement for toilet paper in the bush. There is the tale of his family having an original A.Y. Jackson charcoal painting sitting above the fireplace at their cabin.

"And it stayed there until, one day, my brother needed something with which to start the fire. So he started it with an A.Y. Jackson sketch."

There is the story about meeting as an adult the boy who had been the subject of one of his earlier songs ("The Ballad of Marc Jarareuse") along with the story behind that song and the story that came after that song, as the residents of the village tried to figure out who he had written about.

Tamblyn is also proficient on the hammered dulcimer. The instrument he ferries around with him on tour is a brute of a thing that must be torture to lug around. I can't imagine having to tune it. He plays with a variety of different hammers, including a pair taken from inside a piano. The music is atmospheric and perhaps a bit "new Age" but there are definite melodies in the tunes and they do make sense of their titles, bringing to mind candling ice, misty fiords and oriental gardens, among other things.

He also plays a moody flute, and treated his audience to an untitled tune.

The evening ended with a tribute to "Goodnight Irene", called "Irene's Goodnight" from his award winning (Singer-Songwriter of the Year Award) 2010 album, "Gyre".

CELEBRATE INSPIRE REMEMBER RELAY FAMILY FOR LIFE FIGHT BACK

Event Update

After hearing from many community supporters and consulting with past years' leadership volunteers, we are excited to announce that the Dawson City Relay For Life will now take place as a biannual event, alternating years with the Moosehide Gathering. The next Relay will take place in the Spring of 2013, with no event occurring in 2012.

To ensure 2013 is the biggest and best Relay yet, we well begin forming our Volunteer Organizing Committee this summer. To get involved, contact Shay Kokiw at skokiw@bc.cancer.ca or 334-6175.

To take part in the 2012 Whitehorse Relay on Saturday, June 2nd, register at relaybc.ca.

DeWolfe Races Begin in Brisk Weather

Story & Photos by Dan Davidson

It may have been only about -17 at the corner of King St. and Third Avenue on Thursday morning at 10 a.m., but it was bitterly cold in the breeze as Gaby Sgaga and Sarah Lenart announced the invisible departure of sled number 1, in honour of Percy DeWolfe, after whom the Percy DeWolfe Memorial Mail Race is named.

It's not a strong year for the Percy. There were only six entrants in the main race, the lowest number of teams since 2007. Last year there were 14 teams at the starting line, and the race has generally been in the low to mid teens since 2007

The majority of the spectators arrived from the Robert Service School and the town's daycares just as the mail sack was handed off to Number 2 musher, Brian Wilmshurst by Postmaster Robert LePage and RCMP Corporal Dave Morin. Number 2 carries actual mail, letters purchased as part of the race's fund raising efforts.

Two minutes later the next team, driven by Maria Hernetkoski of Whitehorse, headed down King Street to Front and then off over the dike to the river and on North to Eagle.

Following in succession were Kyia Bouchard of Dawson City, Yukon, Gerry Willomitzer of Whitehorse, Dyan Bergen of Yellowknife and Will van Randen of Whitehorse.

The race is a 210-mile (338 km) run, mostly following the Yukon River, to Eagle, Alaska, and back. Mushers take a mandatory six-hour layover in Eagle, plus an additional 2 hours in either Fortymile or Eagle. Running times for the race are between 20 and 30 hours.

Only Willomitzer and Wilmshurst have run this race before, the usual list of race veterans being absent this year. Willomitzer has come second and first in previous races. Wilmshurst has placed seventh and fourth.

By 10:30 Thursday night the race updates were showing Wilmshurst leading the pack and that Kyia Bouchard had scratched.

The Percy Junior Race and the Percy Skijor launched from the north side of the ice bridge at noon. Jonathan Lucas or Whitehorse was the only entry in the skijor competition and he headed north with his three dogs at noon, arriving in Fortymile to spend the night 7 hours later.

The Percy Junior teams took off in a raged version of what was to have been a mass start at about 12:30. The starting line up included Whitehorse mushers Gaetan Pierrard, Erin Stevens, Melissa Schenke and Deb Knight; Christina Reeves from Tagish, and Dawson City mushers Shelley Brown and Anezka Kolafova.

Jo van Randen from Whitehorse had signed up but withdrew.

The mass start for this race was more like mass confusion. The volunteer with the red flag was so far away from the teams that no one could hear him for the noise the dogs were making and it appeared that everyone had forgotten what time it was in the confusion of controlling their dogs, so no one was looking.

With eight or nine photographers out of the course shouting "go" in unison with the starter, Shelly Brown's team finally charged out of the gate, alerting the other mushers to the fact that it was time, after which they peeled off down the river one by one over a period of several minutes.

According to the race updates online, everyone but Kolafova had reached Fortymile by 7:51 last night

All the Percy Junior racers and Lucas spent the night at Fortymile and were scheduled to begin the run back to Dawson (for a total run of 100 miles or 160 km) at 10 on Friday morning.

Willomitzer Wins the Percy DeWolfe Again

Story & Photos by Dan Davidson

Gerry Willomitzer added to his list of Percy DeWolfe wins with a finishing time of 24 hours and 14 minutes on Friday, March 23, pulling into Dawson at 6:28 p.m., just three minutes ahead of the second place finisher, Maria Hernetkoski. That she was his handler in the big races this winter, and was running another of his teams, means that the Blackjack Racing Kennels really owned the Memorial Mail Race this Willomitzer was the 2008 Percy Champion, and ran in second place in 2011. He has run the Iditarod six times and the Yukon Quest five times.

The third down to fifth place finishers were Will van Randen (25:22), Brian Wilmshurst 25:23) and Dyan Bergen (30:34). As there were only five teams that finished this year, everyone was in the money. In fact, there was some left over and the organizers decided to spread it among the seven finishers in the Junior Percy.

In descending order they were Gaetan Pierrard (12:31), Schenke Melissa (12:46),Anezka Kolafova (13:31), Deb Knight (13:44), Erin Stevens (13:45), Shelley Brown (14:15) and Christina Reeves (14:34).

The sole skijor racer was Jonathan Lucas, who had the very respectable time of 13:21, faster than some of the dog teams.

The pot was also sweetened for the two winners of the Vets' Choice awards. Joe and Wendy Fellers donated two gold nuggets to the Percy committee to use as they saw fit. So the committee decided they would go to the winners of the Vet's Choice awards.

Brian Wilmshurst, from the main race, received a nugget worth about $1500, and Melissa Schenke, from the junior event, received worth about $700.

The Rookie of the Year. in a year when nearly all the racers in the main event were rookies, was Maria Hernetkoski, who also managed to win the anorak in one of the door prize draws. She said she was returning to her home in Norway with some unique memories and a unique piece of clothing.

Gerry Willomitzer received which is voted on by all the mushers.

The race suffered in registration this year, with only six teams in the main race, half of last year's number. There would have been two more, but a couple of mushers travelling together from Alaska were prevented from attending when one of them had issues at the US/ Canadian border.

Altogether there were 15 teams registered for the three events, with 14 actually running and 13 finishing.

"There wouldn't have been much of a race this year if it wasn't for the rookies," said Race Marshall John Borg. And that was true. Willomitzer was the oldest veteran of the race and Wilmshurst was running for the third time. The list of regulars who have raced here for years was almost completely depleted.

Organizers feel that many veterans, who usually attend this race after the two big races, and always speak of it as a nice way to end the season, were prevented by the Iditarod being held later that normal this year. Gerry Willomitzer advised the organizers and the other mushers not to be discouraged by this year's low numbers.

"It was a small field ... but that doesn't mean that's easy for anybody who is in the race. I remember in 2006 we had six teams in the race and then a few years later it was 15 or almost 20. It cycles up and down so, for all the organizers and volunteers, don't be discouraged by the small number this year. I'm sure there will be more people next year."

The Percy Committee was only a trio this year, but some 50 volunteers stepped in when needed to actually carry out the plan, including trail making,

Race winner Gerry Willomitzer and Race Marshall John Borg. This is Willomitzer's second win, although he has been in the top three a number of times preparing the starting chutes, making sure King Street still had snow on it for the start, setting up the Oddfellows ballroom for the banquet, selling tickets and staffing the merch table.

Beginning as a memorial run in honour of the Iron Man Mail Carrier in 1977, the event morphed into an actual race in the 1980s and has continued with some ups and downs ever the Brian Wilmshurst and Melissa Schenke were the surprised recipients of gold nuggets for winning Sportsmanship award, the approval of the three vets attending the race

TWENTY YEARS AGO IN THE SUN

DAWSON CITY, YUKON

THE KLONDIKE SUN

THURSDAY, APRIL 9, 1992

VOL. 3 NO. 12

60 CENTS

COMMENTARY:

Bear Creek besieged again

submitted by Palma Berger, a Bear Creek resident

In 1985/86 Bear Creek had a protracted debate with the Water Board over allowing mining effluents to settle into our Bear Creek slough. This would silt up our wells.

Bear Creek did not win. The Water Board made no decisions as to whether they would consider small domestic water users such as Bear Creek important enough to ensure clean domestic water supply for their use. The matter was resolved by the Territorial Government building a diversion at Hunker Creek to allow the water to enter the Klondike River.

(The Territorial Govt. was criticized for this by the Water Board for not applying for a water license, as per the Northern Inland Waters Act! The same act that governed our domestic use, we thought!)

Now once again, a mining company has applied for a water license to mine an area adjoining Bear Creek rural residential subdivision. Once again, Bear Creek residents have a stressful summer preparing a protest against miners, Water Board and their lawyers

In this case we would still have this problem even if the Territorial Government had followed the recommendations of the Klondike Valley Land Use Plan. The Plan recommended that the Federal Government withdraw from staking the whole of the Klondike Valley. No use! These claims were staked many years ago, and just now are being activated.

Apparently we are not large enough users of domestic water to warrant a water license and thus automatically be included and protected in any process when a water use application is presented. We have to continually watch the papers and keep alert as to when a water use application comes up. In some CONTINUED ON PAGE 2

Klondike Valley residents say NO!

by Dan Davidson

If the matter were left strictly up to the residents of the Klondike Valley, there seems to be no question that the present proposal to annex the area to the City of Dawson would be dealt a resounding defeat.

Of the 120 people who attended the March 25 hearing of the Yukon Municipal Board there were probably not more than a handful of people who supported the original proposal, and most of them sat on the municipal council.

There were 49 written interventions to the expansion proposal when the Municipal Board arrived in town. Board member Geoff Latin says he can't recall seeing that many ever in such a case. There were more speakers at the evening meeting, and while some of them were the same people as those who wrote, still there were more than 40 people who walked up to one of the three microphones in the Trondik Hall to express their opposition to the proposal.

Nearly every one who spoke against the city's plan to expand its boundaries south along the Klondike Valley to Flat Creek and across the Yukon River to West Dawson was applauded and sometimes cheered.

Rock Creek resident Glen Bowers was cheered when he requested that a vote be taken of Valley residents. Henderson Corner resident Ron Ryant got applause when he spoke.

"I moved out (of the city)," Ryant said, "to escape most of the bylaws."

"Why don't you leave us

The Sun obtained funding in late 2009 from the City of Dawson, YTG's Heritage Branch and the Community Development Fund to conserve and archive early issues and make them available once again in the public domain. This is a great resource for students, writers and historians, and also for prospective tourists with an interest in Dawson City's life. Each month, we are re-printing our front pages from 20 years ago (seen above) as a souvenir of our lively history.

On Thaw di Gras weekend, Berton House writer in residence Lawrence ("Larry") Hill bit the cold and took part in the 17th Annual Chili CookOff.

On a team with Bobbie Milnes, they got served 3rd place! Larry says he was taken by surprise when Bobbie took off to run the Sunnydale Classic, but he stayed the course in spite of freezing his bum off.

Next year, Hill warns he'll be back for the win ... but he knows he'll have to figure out a way to bump off Mike Fraser and family first.

Thaw di Gras Anticipates the Coming of Spring

Story & Photos By Dan Davidson

March 16-18 saw Dawson celebrate another Thaw di Gras. The name of the Klondike's spring carnival is a play on the idea of Mardi Gras, which actually took place a month earlier on Shrove Tuesday.

Can it really be a "spring" carnival when temperatures hovered between -7 and -15 and there was enough wind to put an edge on it?

Well, the street hockey players on Third Avenue outside the Westminster thought it was okay, and several teams braved the chill to create snow sculptures opposite the Oddfellows Hall on Second Avenue.

In the parking lot across from Diamond Tooth Gerties kids and adults spent Sunday afternoon at a variety of outdoor activities, including axe throwing, log sawing and tea brewing.

The One Dog Pull, made famous in Jack London's Call of the Wild, took place across the street from the Eldorado Hotel.

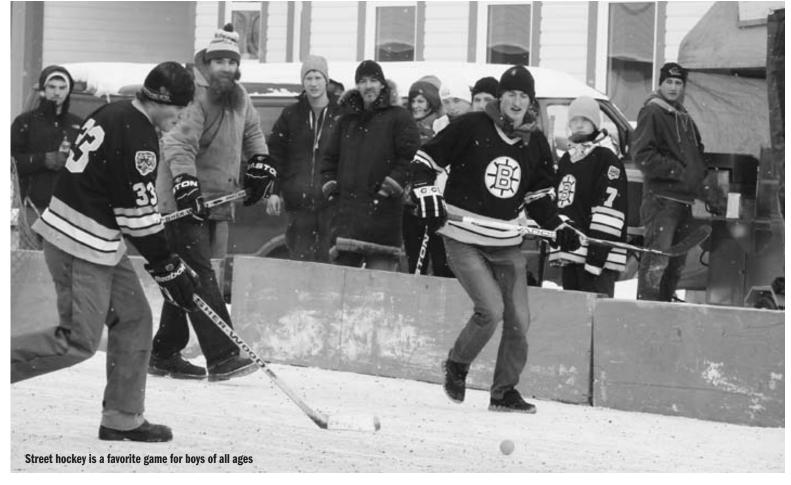

Out on the ice bridge the Percy DeWolfe Committee ran the Sunnydale Classic dog race.

Adults and kids showed off their air band talents in lip sync events on Friday and Saturday nights, and just about all the hotels in town had indoor events, including ping pong, arm wresting, hat tossing, hot dog races, x-box Olympics, and tricycle races.

Lovers of both canines and felines got to show off their animals at Bombay Peggy's and Gerties, and there was even a fireworks display on Saturday night.

The weekend brought the two week March Break to a close and it was back to school for students and teachers on Monday morning.

It may not actually be spring yet, but Dawsonites can see it coming.

Talking Vaginas

by Justin Lemphers

Listen carefully, vaginas are speaking.

It's not often a vagina finds its voice. Rarer still would there be a chorus of them, speaking uninhibitedly about what it is to be a vagina. So when they talk, be sure to listen. Listen to their moods, their concerns, their desires, and their statements on trust and boundaries.

This recent case of vociferous vaginas occurred March 9th at the ODD Fellow's Hall. Eight local women took the stage and assumed the mantle of vagina ambassador; Bo Yeung, Caroline Hasse, Carol McBride, Teely Piercy, Heidi Bliedung, Daisy Maguire, April Bartlett and Kathryn Foran.

But I'm getting ahead of myself, because in order to get to the stage, understanding the setting and space is crucial in appreciating this production of The Vagina Monologues.

I had the agreeable opportunity to man the door for this show. The 'door' in this case was an ingenious curtain ensemble, hung and pinned with care. It was a cloth vagina, fabricated with materials in shades of pink, red and purple. Patrons had to pass through it to enter the room (or womb). Once inside, they were greeted by softly glowing candles and décor all done in black and red. The women of show, who were mingling with early arrivals, echoed the black and red theme in their attire. It truly was womb-like – a safe space for women to speak their piece about vaginas; the happy facts and unhappy facts.

I have had the good fortune to take in several presentations of The Vagina Monologues in the last ten years and I love witnessing how each group of women takes ownership of their presentation. For example, this was the first time I saw someone stomp their way up to the microphone for the "My Angry Vagina" piece. Caroline was wonderful in her rant, the body language combined with the grand entrance made it one of my favourite interpretations.

April and Bo took on the task of coordinating the show, in fact April credits Bo with inspiring her to bring The Vagina Monologues to Dawson. Of all the performers only Daisy and Bo had any previous experience with the show, as actor or audience member. Not to suggest this was an impediment, or resulted in anything other than a well-flowing and positive production. Even the grimmer bits of the show, facts on female genital mutilation, rape and violence, were received with respectful and sober applause. Heidi's reading of "My Vagina Was My Village" was one such piece and she executed it powerfully. This piece always sears my soul and her strong and unfaltering delivery brought tears to my eyes. The applause she received was well deserved.

Another personalized flavour of the show was offstage and yet received its own due share of spotlight attention. Cupcakes adorned with frosted vaginas. The idea for the cupcakes was inspired by an orchid leaf fondant which was creatively tweaked to become vaginas made from icing. These (and other) tasty treats were available on a donation basis, with proceeds going back to the causes supported by the show. The success of this imaginative confectionary was easily measured by the number of people standing around the table and the very few cupcakes that remained at the end of the evening.

Proceeds from each showing of the Vagina Monologues go to a selected cause (chosen by Eve Ensler, creator of the show) and to a local non-profit. In this case the Women and Girls of Haiti Campaign and Dawson

Women's Shelter shared in excess of $300.00, a respectable amount given the affordable ticket price of eight dollars. Simple math (and taking ticket money at the door) speaks to the generosity and donations of the 30 people who attended the evening's performance.

A word of caution: as much as I enjoyed the show, it may not be within everyone's comfort zone. The Vagina Monologues is not a show where issues are danced around. Vaginas in all their variants are spoken of, euphemisms are embraced and used freely and passionately. Stories of self-discovery and fulfillment are paired with stories of rape and abuse. The plain language evokes powerful images and may well be beyond the scope of what some consider acceptable content. Personally, I think this squeamish-factor validates the need for the Vagina Monologues and makes them current and relevant despite having run for more than a decade now.

An English heavy rock band hit the waves in 1969. From 1971 to 1980 they had 13 studio albums and 2 live albums. In their 43-year-old history they amassed 23 studio and 3 live albums with more yet to come.

In Finland, in 1972, they were #1 on the charts for 14 weeks!

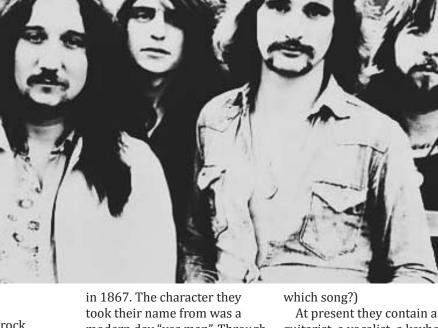

In December 1987, they were the first western band to play in Russia!

Their name came from a Charles Dickens novel, David Copperfield that was published in 1867. The character they took their name from was a modern day "yes man". Through this character's feigned humility and his insincerity he manages to study law and take over his Master's business. Greed is his main motivation.

The band I am talking about was less than greedy; they brought a new dimension into Heavy Metal, as their albums were heavily linked with medieval mythology.

(Did you know that the term Heavy Metal comes from a song by the Canadian band, Steppenwolf? Do you know At present they contain a guitarist, a vocalist, a keyboard player, a bassist, and the drums.

I would like to introduce to you one of the masters of gothic-inflected heavy metal: Mick Box. With a classic line up, in the 70's, of Mick, Lee, David, Gary, and Ken; and a present line up of Mick, Bernie, Phil, Trevor, and Russell, medieval/gothic rock lives on under the name of Uriah Heep. (Adults! Please explain to your kids who they are. And buy them a copy of Demons and Wizards!)

Dragons' Den Seeks Dawson Talent

The Dragon's Den website describes Molly Duignan as the Den's "border guard" for her "uncanny ability to boss people around and tell The Dragons what to do."

In an interview during her high school reunion at Shawnigan Lake School a few years ago, she described her job as "putting the 'real' in reality TV."

Duignan was hanging out at Bombay Peggy's

Molly Duignan has been producing Dragon's Den for the last six years on March 15, interviewing possible prospects for the show.

'We try to extend our reach every year to different cities," said Duignan, who is a producer with the show. "I've always wanted to come here, and if we were already in Whitehorse, why not come to Dawson too?

"We switch it up every year at some new cities. We go to about 40 places. We try to go where our audience is, and we've had a couple of successful applicants from the Yukon in the past.

"Elvis Presley pitched last year and Samson and Lewis Hartland of Yukon Smoked Salmon were on, so why not see what else is up here?"

At the mid-point of the afternoon she had seen three potential contestants, promoting a medical aid, some artwork and a piece of winter outdoor recreational equipment.

Duignan has been with this show for six years now, and has also been involved with such programs as Test the Nation and Canada's Next Great Prime Minister. She began her CBC career in Yellowknife as a reporter for two months and has visited there as part of the Dragon's Den audition tours, which often take her to 24 locations over the six week search for possibilities.

"It's fun to go to new places for me, and we try, as a truly Canadian show, to at least be available for people to see."

Any successful applicants from the half dozen in Dawson will know quite soon.

'We film from April 12 to May 14, so they'll know. They'll be invited to Toronto to pitch to the Dragons."

The show doesn't pay the cost of the trip, but it does help.

"People don't seem to mind that expense. They get tremendous exposure and it would cost $300,000 to make an infomercial, after all.

"We find it inspiring to showcase Canadian innovation, so hopefully we'll have someone from Dawson."

Not every good idea will necessarily work on the show, and a big part of Duignan's job is deciding how an idea can be pitched.

"It might make a great pamphlet, but does it make great TV?"

The Language of Violence

by The Dawson Women's Shelter

Language is powerful, and we use it every day to communicate with each other, and further, to assert ourselves, to maintain or seek superiority and respect.

Those who have experienced domestic and sexual violence undergo trauma when their experience is communicated by other people using a language of violence, a victim blaming language.

While this trauma and negative impact is not always intentional, it is important to note that while we stand for the elimination of violence against women and children, we must understand that our words are very much wrapped up in these efforts.

It is important we recognize the power and influence our language has. This is where the term victim-blaming enters.

Victim blaming is secondary victimization and serves as additional suffering on behalf of the victim- making them relive the violence not only as the victim, but as the passive participant of the crime perpetrated against them.

Victim blaming language assumes that the victim of violence holds responsibility for their attack or suffering, whether it was their language, actions or lack of action.

It can occur before and after a victim discloses to us what crime has been perpetrated against them.

Victim blaming is a distortion of information, and can be found in the negative social reactions to a crime, from friends, family, community members and those in the legal, medical and mental health professions.

Most powerfully, victim blaming exists in the language used to describe, account for or explain the crime. This is referred to as victim blaming language, or, mutualizing terms.

Violence is a unilateral act; it is perpetrated by one individual to another without their consent and against their will and well-being.

So, we think about the language of violence as unilateral versus mutualizing terms. Mutualizing terms such as 'kiss', 'abusive relationship', 'sex', 'intercourse', and 'personality conflict'.

The unilateral, and more fact based terms are 'forced his mouth into hers', 'assault', 'attack', 'beating', and 'forced vaginal penetration'. When we use the mutualizing terms we mutualize the crime, allowing the victim to become a participant, ignoring the fact that a crime has been committed against them, against their will and wellbeing.

The result of our choosing mutualizing terms in response to violent and sexual crimes cause victims to experience further trauma, what we refer to as secondary victimization. Our negative social response to the crime committed against them causes the individual to experience further distress, become less likely to report further violence and abuse, and become more likely to engage in self-blame.

Our negative social responses can be changed however, in the language we utilize.

We must understand that our reactions to a crime affect the distress a victim endures. When our social reactions are positive, victim distress is lowered.

Victims who experience negative social responses experience lasting distress, which grows stronger with the additional negative responses they experience. These victims are also more likely to blame themselves for the crime.

Negative social responses and victim blaming also affect the future responses of a victim. When they have a traumatic experience while seeking help, they will be less likely to contact those authorities when a crime is committed against them.

Victim blaming and our negative social responses to a crime and a victim are rooted in misinformation and false assumptions, linked to the crime, the victim, the perpetrator, or all.

One step we can take to eliminate negative responses is to understand violence and learn to identify resistance. This means finding the resistance in the actions of the victim.

Asking her what she did, what her actions against her abuser were, and staying away from a line of questioning that asks her how the abuse made her feel. This means using a language of resistance instead of a language of violence and effect.

Violence is social; involving perpetrator and victim, and it is also unilateral, committed by one person against another. Violence is deliberate and it is intentional. Resistance can be found in the actions and responses of every victim, it is a response to the violence and not an effect.

Our language can be a catalyst for a change in social responses to violence and abuse against women. We need to identify when we or other use mutualizing terms.

It is no longer tolerable to sum up horrible acts of violence as a response to someone's actions. Now, we must acknowledge the power in our language and the harmful effects of secondary victimization and victim blaming terms.

March 28, 1946-March 3, 2011

A whole year has passed since we said goodbye to you. You are dearly missed. You will live on in our hearts and through your grandchildren who will remember a Grandfather who loved them and taught them about gardening and so much more. We will remember a husband and father who was always there to help, support and give advice and to show us love. You will be in our hearts and memories forever. You can never be replaced.

The family of the late Charles "Chuck" Bullen would like to express our sincere gratitude to all those who generously gave their time, energy and support to help during Chuck's illness and over the last year since his passing. We know Chuck would have appreciated all the kind gestures. Thank you all so much for your kind words, generous time and most of all for your friendship to our family

Free Falling or Forced Suspension at the ODD Gallery

The ODD Gallery is once again surrounded with blackout curtains for Paul Litherland's Force Majeure, the latest exhibit at the gallery.

Entering though the curtains, the visitor finds a couple of lawn chairs placed beneath five large flat screen monitors. The chairs are slanted enough that a person sitting in them can easily view the screens.

For the most part, the screens show blue sky and clouds, but every so often a person, or a glimpse of a person, would appear on one of the screens. Sometimes the person, clearly very wind blown, would appear to fall through the screen, or be blown off to one side.

Litherland's description of the exhibit puts it this way.

"A body is suspended in mid air. Either the person is falling,

This windblown man appears to be flying across the screen along with the camera operator, or the wind is holding them up. It is an incredible amount of air. Their skin ripples frantically, their clothes look like they will disintegrate. I am interested in understanding how people maintain a sense of self while suspended in the air. Does a viewer empathize or reject someone who is about to lose control and is struggling to regain it?"

The film clips repeat about every six minutes, although there are so many images to keep track of, along with the mixture of drum rhythms and vocal sounds in Nancy Tobin's soundtrack, that it takes several repetitions before a person can recognize that, yes, that man or woman has been on that screen

"Force Majeure" literally translates as the "greater" or "superior" force but one would be hard pressed to decide whether, in this context, the term applies to gravity or to the force of the wind against the players.

"What happens to a person's self-image when physical forces outside their control alter the borders of the body?" Litherland asks. "What does it mean to be the observer?

"This work refers to emotions many of us chose to avoid: humiliation due to lack of control, a sense of being exposed, or being out of one's element. We don't enjoy being vulnerable, but wanting to fly, being free from gravity, and escaping, as all dreams we commonly hold."

Force Majeure will be at the ODD Gallery until April 13.

Film Fest Funding Comes Up Short, but the Show Will Go On

by Dan Davidson

The Dawson City International Short Film Festival is ready to go on Easter weekend in spite of the loss of $5,000.00 in corporate funding that the committee learned about as late as March 5.

It was a surprise, says director Dan Sokolowski, and it has meant that he had to rework the budget for the event, but he has managed to balance things in spite of the loss.

He prefers not to name the sponsor that bowed out, other than to say that it had not been one of the festival's long time supporters and that he hopes the company will change its mind in future years.

One of the major changes that had to be made was to turn some of the free showings into paid showings. Free showings do encourage people to try out some new aspect of the festival, but they have to be paid for somehow.

"If there are 10 films in a free show, that's $1000 for us to run that screening, so if we make that a free screening, that money has to come from somewhere else."

Sokolowski says some of the former free screenings will now cost $5, about half of the regular price, and that will help with costs.

In addition the committee has held a couple of successful fund raising events during March, included a showing of Sokolowski's own work, which raised some money for the event.

The board has also chosen to launch a last minute donation campaign on its website, http://www.dawsonfilmfest.com, sending the appeal out through Facebook links.

"As with all small festivals," runs the appeal text, "the budget is already stretched to the limit. If you can help us out with any amount, it would be most appreciated. Here's a link to the film fest website -- click the "donate now" button on left hand side of the home page, and then select the film festival category in the fund/designation dropdown menu. Please indicate in the message box how you heard about this appeal. Your donation is tax deductible. Thanks for your help!"

The festival is now just a few days away from its launch on Friday, April 6.

Special guests this year include Peter Lynch (Project Grizzly) who will lead a master class and screen his latest short film "Paahtomahsikimii"—The Lakes Which Go Into The Mountain. There will be a rare screening of Lynch's 1999 film The Herd on the Thursday night preceding the official opening of the festival.

Other guests include film editor Caroline Christie, (Republic of Doyle, The Awful Truth, Cyberman and more), veteran Yukon filmmaker Carol Geddes, and a special spotlight on the short films of Québec, with filmmakers Guy Édoin and Matthew Rankin in attendance. Numerous other filmmakers from "outside" will be joining the festival, including current KIAC artists in residence, filmmaker Andreas Horvath (Austria) and animator Joanna Priestly (USA).

Yukoners are strongly represented in this year's festival with two jam-packed screenings of new works from established and emerging regional artists. The Youth Program also has some budding Yukon filmmakers lighting up the screen.

The weekend will also include the 4th Annual 1 Minute Film Challenge, with the films being made on 1Pads that the festival will provide for the purpose. The completed films will screened at Diamond Tooth Gerties on April 14th.

There will also be an outdoor BBQ on Sunday afternoon with some Arctic Karaoke led by festival guest Curtis Grahauer (filmmaker and sometime lounge lizard). Full details and a downloadable program for the weekend can be found at http://dawsonfilmfest.com/program12.html.

Dan Sokolowski hosted a screening of two of his films at the Oddfellows Hall ballroom on March 22.

The first film was a short four-minute production called "From the Ashes". Shot in 2009, it followed forest fire trail along the Klondike Highway, and is described as "A film about the rejuvenation of life from the ashes of forest fires. A forest is re-imagined and rejuvenated through mixed media, live footage and hand-painted images create a textural visual experience."

Visually the fires are rendered as animations

 $\label{eq:continuous} \textbf{Dan Sokolowski was presented with gifts at the close of his screening}$ while both the burns and rejuvenation speak for themselves.

The music on the film is by George McConkey. The entire firm can be viewed on Sokolowski's website: http:// www.sokcinema.ca.

"Degrees North" is a much more ambitious work which has taken Dan and Laurie Sokolowski 14 years to complete from the initial filming in the Badlands of Alberta in August of 1997 to the final shooting in Dawson City in December, 2011. This 63 minute feature documentary takes the viewer to nine sites on a journey from Pelee Island (42 degrees north) to the Arctic Circle (66 degrees north), with stops at North Granville, Superior North, the Mingan Archipelago, Castle Butte, the Alberta Badlands, Lakelands, Athabasca and the Yukon.

Once again it is a mixture of live action landscape, photography, animation, and music, featuring a soundtrack by Peter Togni, Sanctuary, Rebecca Campbell and Ian Tamblyn.

Proceeds from the admission were donated to the Klondike Institute of Art and Culture.

Name of DJ(s): Georgia

Name of Show: The High Cost of Low Living Day and time the show airs: Fridays, 5 to 6 p.m.

On CFYT since: On and off, since 2007

Brief (approx. 50 words or fewer) description of your show.

I usually play a mix of country, folk, classic rock, with occasional forays into 50's, 60's, 80's and 90's pop hits.

What do you do when you're not on the air? (Job, hobbies, etc.)

I cook, for a living, as a volunteer, and at home. All the time. Besides cooking I spend a lot of time taking pictures (mostly of food), I enjoy camping and hunting, making jokes, and the internet.

Ten songs for a MIXTAPE?

- 1. Neil Young "Natural Beauty"
- 2. Dr. Dre "Let's Get High"
- 3. Emmylou Harris "Timberline"
- 4. Willie Nelson "Red Headed Stranger"
- 5. Notorious BIG "Big Poppa"
- 6. Wings "Jet"
- 7. Fleetwood Mac "Save Me a Place"
- 8. Sam Cooke "Bring it on Home"
- 9. The Beach Boys "That's Not Me"
- 10. Tom Petty "You Don't Know How it Feels"

What do you like best about community radio?

I love the freedom of being able to play what you want, but also the challenge of trying to decide what Dawsonites might want to hear on a Friday afternoon. I love the potential for community coverage and input.

Do you have a favourite on-air moment?

I was away for this event, but I think the greatest moment on CFYT has to be the live coverage of the Nuggets vs. Ottawa Senators game in the spring of 2011 - it was so well done and such a fantastic moment for Dawson and hockey.

I was in my teens when the original rematch happened in Ottawa and I remember vividly the excitement and importance of that game - it was the first time in my life I really got a sense of what hockey means to people.

When I listened to the CFYT broadcast of the 2011 game (all the way from Halifax) all those memories came rushing back to me and I was so proud of Dawson and honoured that CFYT was able to participate.

Does your show have a website/Facebook page/blog? Provide any related URLs.

I have a profile on CFYT.ca.

64 Degrees North Techno Tour: Part 2

Story & Photos by Robin Og Bretland

Editor's Note: In our last issue we saw Robin arriving in Iceland and getting the feel of the place. His story continues.

Tor of Doom:

After bedding down in Reykjavik for a few nights it was time to join my first tour, which took my small international contingent through bubbling mud pools, where through eerie clouds of steam, one could witness the planet fart a gastronomic mix of sulfur, silicates and vulcanized mud. These can be hazardous areas to walk, as on occasion people have had the ground beneath them collapse and have been boiled alive! The reward is hot springs; find a stream further away from a steam vent and bathing is a good way to

On the way there was a Hydrothermal plant. Famously, Iceland, like New Zealand, has harnessed the Earth's energy. This is one advantage to being close to the planet's mantel, thus feeding the land with cheap eco-friendly electricity and hot water, all recycled. The drinking water is naturally filtered through Basalt Zeolites; how about that? Carmacks and Haines might have an edge in the Yukon.

Later, I was standing on the Mydraljokull, a glacier to the south near the town of Vik. What made this icy conveyer belt special? Well beneath lies the volcano Katla, which is currently viewed as a time bomb, making last year's eruption of Eyjafjallajokull seem a slight nuisance. The authorities are well prepared and seismolologists constantly monitor the daily earthquakes.

The Island has a history of being disruptive to the world's climate over the centuries; one example being the famine in France which brought about the "Revolution". With my trusty crampons I marched about the Glacier learning about the hazards of the structure, cleaved and cemented as it moves along, sometimes creating crevices.

The wind and rain form holes or even caves. The danger is that like the frozen rivers of our territory with their overflow, one might step onto a fragile layer of ice and fall through, getting wet. The glacier is less forgiving than the possibility of frostbite, as you might fall to your death, perhaps drown at the bottom or slowly be crushed by billions of tons of ice. I was glad for my prickly footwear!

With the current warming trends, Iceland's glaciers, as those in Greenland, are receding. What impact will this have in the centuries to follow?

P(th)ingvelur incontenents

Ironically one will note the giant lush green cliffs rising from what once was the ocean floor miles inshore. This in part is due to the melting glaciers allowing the land to rise; the land beneath, fat from volcanic ash, with Viking horses charging freely, their long manes flowing. There are barns built into giant Trolls (protruding rocks) and waterfalls commonly cascading over the cliffs edge along the coastline.

This is a strange and magnificent land. Jules Verne was inspired to write Journey to the Centre of the Earth and famously, JRR Tolkien's vision of Middle Earth for his Lord of the Rings epic was born there. I was to return to one of those waterfalls; Skogarfoss (pronounced: Skorfosh), which would leave me astounded.

Spuddy Tour:

Days later I sat on a coach tour, something that from childhood I would shrink from; associating it with driving endless miles in Briton to somewhere as dismally unimpressive as where we had begun, being given five minutes to drink tea and race a cake down your gullet before returning. This, it has to be said, was a little different in that the landmarks were of some great symbolic and scientific value in knowing our planet.

Gulfoss (Golden Waterfall) is known as the queen of all waterfalls in Iceland and quickly was turning the nearby trail into a skating rink. Where were my crampons now? We were speedily transported to Geysir, which all others are generically named after. These were believed to exist only in Iceland for many years, as the First Nations of North America and New Zealand were keeping theirs secret from Europeans.

The spouts are formed by super-heated steam, roughly 300 C beneath a layer of water. Eventually, as the pressure builds up, an eruption ensues. I was joined by a group of Parisians who after 30 minutes became excited by the silence and began to go," Ooeer, Ooher, Oh tabanac". As nothing happened, and then it did, giant plumes of water gushing into the air.

Back to the bus and off to the Mid- Atlantic Ridge. Apparently the Island is the only place on the planet w,here without getting wet and wearing a suit like that featured in the movie Abyss, you can stand on the two continents, Eurasia and North America. I took a grab sample as earlier a fellow passenger I had been talking with had his daughter give me a rock chip to inspect. So out with my monocle, looking business like and in an informative tone announced the discovered sample to be Basalt. Looking at its structure I thought there to be silicate intrusions and demonstrated the hardness of the species, where upon it

"Hey this isn't rock at all, it's Bitumin from the paving."

Tricky kid, I thought. But not to lose face I grabbed a piece of the Atlantic Ridge which was definitely Igneous rock. Well, with all that done it was time to return to the city.

Bjork:

Bjork Day came. Biophillia is her new work. Beyond the stage

Katla on ice - Mydralsjoküll

she has created an interactive program on the theme of combining music composition, visual art and science. It's a celebration and understanding of life and its formations from virus to Nebula, creating an artistic revolution. The stage setting was intimate, but I was unable to invite her for Christmas, since she just kept singing.

Gone with the Wind:

I returned to the backcountry alone. With my camping gear in Canada, all I had was a chopper flag, Bivvy bag, and an emergency blanket - oh and a bit of northern invention. Off I went beyond Skogarfoss. Immediately after the waterfall was the Skogar river which carved through a deep winding canyon, furnished with dozens of impressive waterfalls. As it began to darken, I figured it best to create a shelter. I found a hole in the lee and the walls led any water away. My blanket became the roof and the volcanic sand, bivvy bag my bed for the night, a candle for a little warmth in a rock pile. With a little meal of smoked Lamb and Salmon I went to sleep quite content.

During the night the weather broke with howling winds and driving rain, the roof held but I discovered the bivvy bag to be shredded and letting in water. Fortune had it that I had a foil blanket in my med pack, so all was well. Listening to the gale and waterfalls roaring, I could only imagine what it would've been like for the early settlers interpreting this mythical land.

The morning was calm for a short while, so marching I went in search of a backdoor route to the nearby glacier. A footbridge crossed the river leading to a trail. I decided not to cross but continue with my heading on the eastern side, as I was wary due to recent warnings of seismic activity in the area. The possibility of Katla erupting was very real in my mind and I didn't want my only escape route cut off.

The topography was so alien; walking along the ridge line didn't always pay off as crevices and dykes abruptly would appear. I was in the mountains now, snowcapped, behind me the lush greenery and gravel moonscape far below. Ahead lay white mountains scarred black with protruding rock. Beneath me for hundreds of feet a cliff of ice and rock leading to the glacier, the source of the Skogar. The Atlantic weather was coming in thick and fast. I had to make a call and decided to trackback. Even with my GPS, there was no certainty of navigating safely through poor visibility and I didn't want to be weathered in either. On my return I met two Canadians, one of whom was friends with a local musher and crewman of the George Black ferry in Dawson City. The Ladies gave me a ride to Reykjavik.

On my last romp into the backcountry, I decided the wind was a battling spirit in that land. I found Ptarmigan and Ravens, though they spoke with a different voice, and Horsetail grass all found in the Yukon as perhaps to be found in Eurasia. Truly the wind brings many things beyond rain.

On departure I dwelt on all that I had experienced: a land very much alive as it is actively forming; a resilient people who possess a oneness that has overcome tribulations and in symbiosis have harnessed the Earth's energy. What lessons can the Yukon learn as we too in generations to come shall face uncertain challenges? The First Nation Elders, I believe, traditionally know this way. It doesn't do to become complacent nor to misdirect our energies.

Next week: Journey to the Centre of the Earth...?

Extinct Animals of the North: The Yukon Horse

by Lisa McKenna

Horses lived in great numbers on the unglaciated areas of Alaska, The Yukon, and N.W.T. 200,000 years ago. The Yukon Horse, as it became to be known, was quite small standing only 1.2 meters (4ft.) at the withers. (The withers are the very tops of the horse's It was then discovered that these horses were covered with coarse white hair and blonde manes and tails and it is believed that that may just be a winter coat, for the remains found no traces of blow fly larva or other insects, strongly suggesting that this particular horse died in winter.

On inspecting the contents shoulder, which is slightly higher than the horse's back)

The Yukon Horse died out about 20,000 years ago and remains have been found with the skin preserved. In 1993, on Last Chance Creek near Dawson City, two placers miners, Lee Olynyk and Ron Toews (as well as Lee's son Sammy), discovered a well preserved Yukon Horse, or at least part of one.

of a piece of a well preserved intestine it was discovered that the Yukon horse had a diet of grasses, sedges, poppies, mustards, and even buttercups and roses. This suggests that they lived in a very pastoral environment. Although evidence has been found on their bones that suggest they were hunted by wolves.

The Yukon Horse is very closely related to the modern horses of today.

Evolution vs. Intelligent Design: Part 2

As stated in part 1, Intelligent Design and Evolution agree concerning the formation of our planet, so to continue. Evolutionists and Science teaches that the plant life then began to grow on the planet. This makes sense, as without plant life there could be no oxygen for other life to breathe (terraforming). The Intelligent Design story says, "Let the earth bring forth grass, herbs yielding seed, and fruit trees bearing fruit whose seed is within itself; and it was so."

As I stated in part 1, Science and Evolutionists state that eventually the ash and dust cleared enough to allow light from the sun, moon and stars to be filtered through the dust and ash cloud onto the earth. As we all know, many plants do not require full sunlight in order to grow; they only require adequate light, temperature, and water to grow. As oxygen began to fill the atmosphere, the ash and dust was forced to the earth, as the movement of the oxygen in the atmosphere created the winds we feel even today, allowing the sun, moon and stars to be clearly viewed.

However; it is at this time that the Intelligent Design story says, "Then two great lights were created, the greater to rule the day, and the lesser to rule the night: the stars were made also."

Next, the Evolutionists teach that biological life began in the oceans, in the primordial soup as it were. This Intelligent Design story states, "Let the waters bring forth life abundantly."

Then the Evolutionists teach that a fish walked out of the water and evolved into air breathing animals, the birds, insects, and all other manner of animals. Then finally human beings walked upon the earth.

In this too does this Intelligent Design story agree wherein it states, "Every winged fowl after his kind was created, let the earth bring forth every living creature after his kind, cattle and creeping thing, and beasts of the earth after his kind."

Now finally, this Intelligent Design story also continues and states, "Man was created with dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, over the cattle, over every creeping thing, and over all of the earth."

Now, herein is the interesting part, this Intelligent Design Creation Story agrees with the exact order of evolution, and was written 4500 to 4000 years ago. True, the time-line differs, but if the time-lines agreed exactly, then perhaps there would not be a difficulty in teaching Intelligent Design alongside with Evolution in our classrooms today.

Still, consider if you will, the ancients had no real concept of time. Suppose they discovered fossils of some dinosaur, they could have assumed that it died only twenty or a hundred years earlier. To them, these strange creatures were still among them, and resulted in the stories about dragons and other mythical creatures.

So, since these two ideas, Evolution and Intelligent Design, agree in all areas except time-line and by some, an Intelligent Designer, why can they not be taught side by side?

By the way, this Intelligent Design story originated from the Biblical story of creation. Somehow, these ancient people knew exactly the order by which life occurred on this planet. If the Biblical story agrees in all of the basic details except time-line with Evolution, then it should be taught in our schools. Perhaps you might discover some other amazing areas, as I have, where the Biblical accounts agree 100% with Science, Archaeology, History and Philosophy, though Religion does not always agree, and can be taught alongside each of these areas of study.

One must understand this one principle, Religion does not often agree with the Bible, so how can Religion agree with any of the True Sciences? What I suggest is this, the Sciences which are recorded within the pages of the Bible, might be able to be taught alongside these other common, accepted Sciences. Compare these sciences (Biblical and Common and Accepted) with each other and allow the researchers to reach their own conclusions from the use of All source materials.

It is my opinion, that to reach an informed conclusion, all evidence must be examined thoroughly, otherwise conclusions reached are not fully informed, and may be flawed and erroneous. Of course, as is always stated in the conclusions of my articles . . .

... This is just my opinion.

Stories and illustrations by Lisa Michelle is for

An upside-down cake? What?

Upside-down cakes were the 1950's housewives dessert of choice and it was always a hit.

Basically butter and brown sugar are melted and poured into a cake pan. Then fruit is added, then the cake batter. One can use peaches, or blueberries, or even apples, but the most famous is the pineapple upside-down cake.

You melt your butter and brown sugar and put them in a cake pan. Then you arrange your pineapple slices on top of the butter and sugar. You fill the centers of the pineapple rings with maraschino cherries, pour your cake batter over it, and bake it till a toothpick stuck into the cake comes back out clean.

U.F.O. stands for an 'unidentified flying object'.

U.F.O.'S have been recorded as far back as 45,000 B.C.! In China rock carvings were found that depicted what seem to be U.F.O.'S. That's as far back as the Neanderthals!

Through out history there have been many 'sightings'. Most were hoaxes, like when someone would throw a hubcap into the air while someone else took a picture and there you have it! An unidentified flying object!

But there have been several sightings that cannot be explained.

Even with today's knowledge of ball lighting, sundogs, and reflections, this myth, or truth, about U.F.O.s is still around today with thousands of sightings every year.

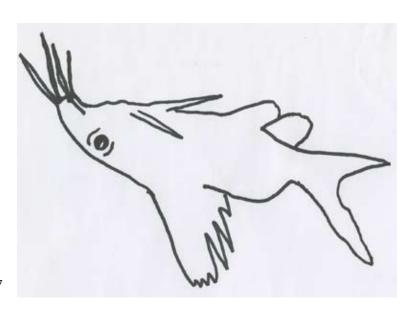

Then... you flip the whole cake on to a plate, leaving it in the cake pan so the cake can soak up the butter and sugar mixture. (This only takes about 5 minutes) NOW, my favorite part, YOU EAT IT!

UPSIDE-DOWN CATFISH

Now if you found the idea of an upside-down cake strange, how about an Upside-down fish?

The upside-down catfish is originally from the Zaire and Niger River systems of Africa. Its picture has been found in old Egyptian Art and it is a popular addition to fish tanks.

This catfish can live up to 15 years but they are only 7 to 10 cm long (3 to 4 inches).

They have dark bellies and lighter backs, which help them to remain hidden when swimming, near the surface because they swim upside down!

The young catfish don't begin to swim upside down for several months. Is this instinct? Or is it learned from watching their parents?

If you want to raise some of these fascinating fishes you should always have at least 3 to 6 of them because in the wild they live in schools (a school is a group of fish).

Your tank should be at least 20 gallons and heavily planted with broadleaf plants, have a few over-turned flowerpots, or hollow pieces of wood. They are very easy to breed and unlike some fish the parents will look after them and they (the parents) do not be moved into another tank.

The Upside-down Catfish is a good eater and will even adapt to fish flakes but it does prefer krill (baby shrimp-like things) or Tubifex worms, or even earthworms! It also eats mosquito larvae and algae.
