"I'm serious about my language," says Award Winning Elder

After four years at the Chooutla residential school in Carcross (1946-49) Doris Roberts returned to Dawson to discover that she could no longer understand her grandmother when the old woman spoke to her.

"'Gramma'," I said, "'I don't hear you' and she said 'What's wrong? What happened to your ear?'"

"I said, ' I don't know what you're talkin' about."

She as about ten years old then, but the damage to her sense of the Hän language had been done. Even down river at Moosehide she found herself unable to get a good grasp of what was being said to her.

She credits her uncles, Jimmy Wood and Stanley Roberts, with having the patience and persistence to work with her.

"They talk away to me and finally it started to come back to me."

At first she could understand what was being said to her but was unable to speak the language.

"'Try' they said to me, and were laughing. Well. I've always said the Hän language is a laughing language. That's what I always told my students later. So eventually it all came back - not all of it, but some of it. It's some kind of frustrating that I really have nobody to talk to.

"My brother, Edward, he's the last fluent Hän language teacher, so if I don't know something I ask him 'how would you say this?"

By repetition they would get to the point where they could write down the word they were looking for.

At various times, when money as available, she's been hired by the Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in to teach language classes, but she says it's been sporadic and rather frustrating, with her program sometimes been cancelled with just a few hours notice when the funding ran out.

Much to her surprise, she enjoyed teaching.

"I never knew I'd have that patience for teaching, because I'm not a patient kind of person, but I did have that patience."

Her uncle Stanley Roberts had told her that one day she was going to teach.

"I said that was too crazy. I'm not gonna teach. I'm too mischievous. Yet here I was. I got the patience. I got the time. I make time. So my uncle was right."

She finds it frustrating that some of the older generation who could still speak Hän didn't seem to try very hard to pass it on to their children, so that it skipped a generation.

"Now, this generation, they're trying to get it back."

She worries that some of the Hän she is hearing nowadays is not accurately spoken. For her it needs to start with the proper and careful learning of the Hän alphabet, which leads to getting both the writing and the speaking properly.

Some of her students went on to become teachers of the Hän language and Roberts says that make her very proud.

One of Roberts major contributions was taking her students over to Tanacross in Alaska, the place where Chief Isaac had taken the songs and dances from this community for safe keep-

Roberts organized a group of her language students to travel to Tanacross to meet with elder Laura Sandford and collect stories from other elders in the community. They learned six of the dozen songs that had been preserved there and brought them back to Dawson.

After series of visits by Sandford (recognized at the Moosehide Gathering in 2010) the group now known as the Hän Singers began to perform them in public and they are now an increasingly lively portion of many public events in the community.

For her work as a language teacher and rediscoverer of the ritual songs, Roberts has been recognized by the both the Council of the Federation Literacy Award recognizes outstanding achievement, innovative practice and excellence in literacy, including family, Aboriginal, health, workplace and community literacy and is given to recognize the excellence of educators, volunteers, learners, and community organizations (including non-governmental organizations) and businesses in each province and territory. Thirteen awards are given out annually across the nation.

Roberts was nominated by both the Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in and Yukon Learn.

"I'm serious - I'm very serious about my language, I always have been. I have great respect

"It's surprising, that award, " she said. "It surprised me."

She said she feels a bit like she didn't do anything.

"Do I think I deserve it? Well, people tell me that I do. They tell me, 'Doris, it took a long time coming, but you did it."

Uffish Thoughts: A Union Saved the Lighthouse this Time

Story & Photos by Dan Davidson

There's a cruise ship at the dock in Halifax and most of the travellers have opted for a tour that will take them to Peggys Cove (they dropped the apostrophe in 1976), that little spit of rock and grass that is home to slightly less than 50 people. Just about 45 kilometres from downtown Halifax, Peggys has been part of the Halifax Regional Municipality since 1996, in one of those amalgamation plans that seems senseless to everyone but government bureaucrats.

The brother of a friend, a retired teacher who acts as a part time tour guide for buses filled with German tourists, tells us that Peggys is a feature of all the tours he guides.

On this day there are seven of those articulated tour buses in the parking lot. I don't envy the drivers who had to guide them along the winding Lighthouse Route. If you want to make time from Halifax to Lunenburg (or on to Yarmouth) you take Highway 103, which is serviceable and quick, but not very interesting. The Lighthouse Route is charming, but it follows the shoreline and has lots of challenging curves.

On this day there's been some fog and rain, and we are almost to Peggys before it all lets up enough to make us divert and take our chances with the parking lot behind the Sou'wester Gift Shop and Restaurant. The last time we were here, four years ago, there were over 25 of the slightly smaller cruise buses in the lot and finding a place to park was a chore. It's not so bad today.

In the absence of maintenance from its owners, the federal government, The Peggys Point Lighthouse got a new coat of paint and some repairs from District 39 of the International Union of Painters and Allied Trades.

When I ask the clerks how the season has been they tell me this is a light day and they're glad of the break. The place hasn't been crazily packed today, but it's been steady. Next week there will be several ships in Halifax Harbour and the action will be frenetic.

Peggys is busy year round and is one of the main reasons, except for the World Heritage Site of Lunenburg, why the buses cruise this route. Sources list the Peggy's Point Lighthouse as being one of the most photographed structures in Nova Scotia and one of the most recognizable lighthouses in the world.

hasn't been crazily packed today, but it's been steady. Next the rounded granite outcrop of rock on which it sits. The overlapping rocky hills, punctuated by tidal pools, invite you to wander, and tease you with the task of finding safe routes from rock to rock. The dry gray rock back from the shore offers lots of traction, but the black rock by the ocean is slippery and could leave you in the undertow from the tide before you could react to save yourself. Signs warn people of the danger, but I always see visitors who ignore them and several people every year end up in the Atlantic Ocean. Some die there.

In spite of its importance to the region, the lighthouse was declared surplus to the requirements of the Canadian Coast Guard by the Dept. of Fisheries and Oceans in 2010 and, along with about 1000 other lighthouses, is due to be disposed of. This is a decision being made by the same people who think that it's okay to run Newfoundland's Search

Tour Operators Dissapointed

To Whom It May Concern:

As an Alaskan based tour operator who has brought thousands of people to Gold Dredge #4 and the SS Klondike over the years, we are disappointed with the decision to close these important historic attractions.

This decision affects us and our clients greatly. These historic attractions are a big part of why we bring visitors to the Yukon. Experiencing the Yukon won't be the same without guided tours, especially Gold Dredge #4. We encourage you to reverse this decision and keep the attractions open to guided tours.

Many tour operators from around the globe include these Attractions in brochures that are distributed globally; including Globus, Cosmos, and Spectrum. These itineraries and schedules are set one to two years in advance.

We are currently researching substitute attractions. Parks Canada will lose out financially as a result. More importantly, the guests will lose an opportunity to see and experience Gold Rush history first hand. Walking through Gold Dredge #4 and the SS Klondike brings the entire story of the Klondike together. So many guests comment on how they read about the Klondike, but they had no idea about the magnitude or scale.

Guests including little 'ol ladies who aren't into mechanics or tools are fascinated with the enormous size of the nuts, bolts, pulley systems, cranks, and gears. Recent repairs and preservation of Dredge #4 has been a great accomplishment and is very well received. What a shame to disregard all of the hard work and efforts put into it.

The mission of Parks Canada is to; "protect and present nationally significant examples of Canada's natural and cultural heritage and foster public understanding, appreciation and enjoyment in ways that ensure their ecological and commemorative integrity for present and future generations." The decision to discontinue guided tours goes directly against the mandate. Guided tours present the history of the Klondike Gold Rush and foster public understanding.

Additionally, we are disappointed in the lack of communication to tour operators about the budget cuts and closures of the Parks Canada attractions. We have heard rumors of the closures all summer, but we were never officially notified. Why has Dredge #4 continued to be repaired this summer if there are no plans to offer guided tours in the future? The decision to invest in the attraction, but not offer guided tours, leave guests and tour operators perplexed and mystified.

We urge you to keep Gold Dredge #4 and the SS Klondike open for guided tours. If you must focus your energy and funding on one for budget purposes, please know that we bring more guests to Gold Dredge #4 than to the SS Klondike. Thank you for your partnership over the years and being an important part of the visitors' cultural experience.

Part of the result of this impending abandonment was that virtually no planned maintenance has been carried out on the lighthouse for several years. News reports speak of Reports indicate that there are negotiations afoot to have the province take over the maintenance of this tourism resource, but there was a deadline back in late May, and so far nothing has been announced.

On this day a young piper still busks in the light mist and the tourists still flock around the lighthouse. I can only hope that someone will make sure this picture will look the same the next time I visit here.

Why Aren't These Voices Defending Our Territory?

I have been following the news of the Dawson dredge and SS Klondike closures with disbelief at the lack of support, intelligence and vision our federal bean counters have displayed in shutting down two of the most popular tourism sites in the territory! What are they thinking?

Both venues have been recently upgraded.

Both venues are thoroughly enjoyed.

Both venues are major destinations for tourists.

We pour millions into advertising our territory and then, when the tourists come, we have shut down two of the most popular sites! Does this make sense/cents?

Where are you, MP Ryan Leef and Senator Dan Lang, when it comes to fighting this? Why aren't we hearing anything from you both?

Do you think Erik Nielsen would have taken this lying down? I don't think so!

And I hope our territorial government is working behind the scenes to keep these sites open, but we haven't heard anything so far. How about it

Mike Nixon? Any creative ideas? Since you are the Minister of Tourism and Culture, I would have thought you'd be all over this one.

Looking forward to hearing from you, Ryan, Dan and Mike!

2012 MUNICIPAL ELECTION

For the space, the cadidates purchased a minimum ad size as a commitment to help the Sun meet our printing costs.

Residents of the City of Dawson have the opportunity to elect a new mayor and council on October 18. The candidates running in the 2012 Municipal Election

Mayor: Peter Jenkins; Wayne Potoroka

Councillor: Stephen Johnson; Hector Renaud; Katherine Biernaski; Bill Kendrick; Johnny Nunan; Dick Van Nostrand; Darren Taylor; Kyla MacArthur. This is the first of two issues the candidates can state their positions. Our next issue is October 17, the day before the election.

Kyla MacArthur: Candidate for Council

Hil

I'm Kyla MacArthur, and I am running for council in the upcoming municipal elections.

Like many Dawsonites, I wasn't planning on staying past the summer when I first arrived in a chilly April. And, to be honest, at the time, part of me was wondering, "where am I?" That was almost 13 years ago.

Dawson City! A town far away with a diverse cultural story, thriving business sector, vibrant arts community, and rich history- where people are welcoming, smart, and funny; where opportunity abounds. As I got more and more involved, I started to become part of something bigger than me. I don't know when it hit me that this was home... In a canoe on the river? When I "met" the fire department at -40 after a chimney fire? I have experienced so much more than I ever expected from this community — it's humbling.

So why am I running for council?
The short answer: I love this place and that we are all in it together. I want to give back to the community that has taken me in, taught me a lot of valuable life lessons, and accepted me for who I am.

As councillor, I will represent you with a strong voice and an open door.

Accountability, honesty, integrity: these are my values. As a citizen of Dawson, I have, at times, felt frustrated with the lack of consultation on important issues. I, like many, have felt underrepresented at the city level. I want our voices to be heard. We are facing challenging and exciting times. If elected, I will strive to move forward with thoughtfulness. With hard work and commitment to consultation, we can tackle the issues facing us as a community. I am ready to get to work!

I look forward to representing you, and listening to what you have to say.

Stephen Johnson: Candidate for Council

My name is Stephen Johnson and I am seeking to be re-elected as Town Councilor in the upcoming election on October 18, 2012.

I have been a member of this community since January 1999 when I came here to take over the position of Production Superintendent at the Brewery Creek (formerly Loki) gold mining operation. Later promoted to Site Manager, I directed part of the reclamation phase of the operation, for which I take a great deal of pride. This mine serves as a model for how reclamation should be carried out.

Prior to these Dawson years, I lived in many parts of Canada, England, Germany and the United States.

I hold a Bachelor's and Master's degree in engineering (mining) from Queen's University, and I am a registered professional engineer in the Yukon with some 37 years open pit experience in the mining industry. A mining engineer is a generalist and, as such, I have an understanding of "engineering things". I fully support environmentally responsible and safe mining.

When the wind is right, I take to the sky in my paraglider and rejoice.

I am fully committed to the historic preservation of our town, while being committed to property rights of owners.

I am pleased to support the efforts of the Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in who develop and stage programs and events for our young people and the entire community. Our arts ventures strengthen and grow with each year, bringing the world to Dawson and Dawson to the world and I support them all.

Thank you for your attention and please vote for the people you believe will do the best job for our marvellous town. In that regard, I hope I receive your approval.

Bill Kendrick: Candidate for Council

I bring a varied and knowledgeable background to the Council position, and ask for your support in the upcoming election.

I first arrived in Dawson over 20 years ago, and the people, spirit and potential continue to inspire me. I have worked in the construction, energy and film/video industries, and am currently employed in the TH Natural Resources Department.

The City should move faster on building lot availability. Let's spend our money where housing and services can be built at relatively low cost, rather than chasing the problematic areas it seems the City has been focusing its attention.

I'm a big supporter of enhancing our recreation facilities and promoting healthy activities for our youth, adults and seniors. During my first months on Council, I did my part to keep the road hockey and tennis court in Minto Park when it was slated for removal.

I will fight for a fair tax and service fee structure for residents and businesses. As we improve our infrastructure and work with other levels of government to help pay for it, we have to be financially sustainable for our City and citizens.

I think it is important for council to think long-term, not just short-term. The integrity and longevity of our landfill, food security and continued economic development are all long-term issues. Our new Official Community Plan (OCP) is a forward-looking document that is a step in the right direction. With the Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in and other levels of government, let's go after UNESCO World Heritage status while maintaining Dawson City as a mining center, cultural capital and regional adventure hub.

City Council is made up of five people; it's a team. We share ideas and come up with the best solutions. I'm a team player who can still ask tough questions and think creatively for the betterment of Dawson. Vote Kendrick for Council.

2012 MUNICIPAL ELECTION

Wayne Potoroka: Candidate for Mayor

There is no better place in the world to live, work or raise a family than Dawson City. Keeping it that way is why I'm running for Mayor.

Dawson's strength is its people. Keeping residents engaged and informed about municipal matters is something you can expect from me as Mayor.

I'm also committed to building respectful, positive relationships with organizations and other governments who can help move this town forward. My time on Council and as Vice President of the Association of Yukon Communities has given me the experience and connections to make that happen.

Dawson does face challenges, like operating an expensive new sewage plant. And there are still old concerns to deal with. It's been three years since the last election, and there's still no agreement in place with Yukon Government for operating our landfill, we're not much further down the road towards a new recreation centre, and the town hasn't produced one much-needed in-town lot for sale.

And after three years, there's still no game plan for tackling these issues.

It's time for a new approach.

A Mayor's primary role is leading the Council team. As Mayor, I'll ensure we fulfill our duty to plot a direction for Dawson—a plan we can share with residents, and one you can hold us accountable for.

This town has a great future. As Mayor, I'll help realize that promise by encouraging dialogue with residents and pursuing good ideas. I'll listen to all sides of an issue and lead sensible Council discussions that lead to considered decisions. As Mayor, I'll focus on what we can do; not what we can't.

I am passionate about Dawson City, its people and its history. I would be honoured to work for

I humbly ask for your support on Oct. 18.

Taking Learning Outside the Box

Students, teachers and parents of the Robert Service School wave a welcome from their new outdoor classroom.

Story & Photos by Dan Davidson

September 7 saw the official opening of a new classroom at the Robert Service School. The "room" is new in a number of ways, not the least of which is that it is outside. Łenähjin Tr'ëdëk, or the Gathering Place, as it has been named, is the result of year's planning inspired by RSS Hän language teacher Melissa Hawkins (herself an RSS graduate) who said, "Wouldn't it be great to have an outdoor learning setting right here on the school grounds?"

With some encouragement from former principal Joe Karmel Hawkins and CELC Jill Delany applied for funding to the World Wildlife Federation and received a $5,000 grant that got the project started. An additional $3000 came from the Toyota Evergreen Learning Grounds to purchase native trees and shrubs for the area.

The design was collaborationamong several groups. Grade 3 contributed design ideas that were realized by Miranda Adam's Little Lady Landscaping, as well as Gammie Trucking, Mike Crelli's CnD Landscaping, John Lenart's Klondike Valley Nursery and the Grade 9/10 Shop class and the Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in.

The site includes a fire pit surrounded by benches, a canoe set on a simulated shoreline, a wall tent (which can be heated and used even in the winter) and a selection of trees and shrubs along a gently landscaped small

Since much traditional learning took place outside, this will provide a convenient space to pursue some of those goals in all seasons of the year.

The entire school and many interested parents and locals turned out on the Thursday to participate in a short dedication ceremony led by Hawkins, who is on maternity leave this fall.

"Our idea snowballed," she told the gathering, "and became this amazing project you're looking at right now."

New principal Ann Moore and TH Elder Victor Henry cut the ribbon to open Łenähjin Tr'edek. Everyone filed into the new area through the antler-crowned gate, past the gorgeous sign in both Hän and English on which elder Percy Henry was quoted as saying, we need to teach out children today, so our way of life will live on."

Angie Joseph-Rear opened the ceremony with a prayer, followed by a song from the Hän Singers. Finally the entire assembly turned to face the school building for a large group portrait.

Galaxy:

A fitting name for such a wonderous cat

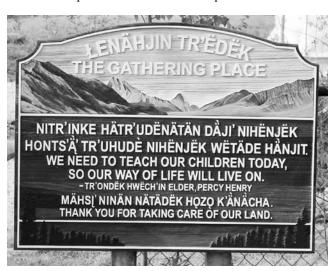

When people first come into the shelter and see our black cat, Galaxy, their first impression is almost never a good one. Galaxy is not the type of cat that will walk straight up to you and sit in your lap, nor the kind you can go right up to and start petting. Galaxy is a bit shy, and it takes her time to warm up to new people. This is probably why after over two years of being at the shelter, Galaxy still hasn't found a home.

My first impression of Galaxy was the same as everyone's. I thought she was kind of mean and not very friendly. However, I have worked here for over a year now, and I have gotten to know Galaxy much better. It turns out that Galaxy is the sweetest, softest, most beautiful cat I have ever met. She loves to climb onto my lap and rub her head right underneath my chin. She will purr non-stop if you scratch her right behind the ears. After months of coxing, she is spending more time on the ground, and has even taken to having a nap in a comfy cat bed every now and again. (This is a huge improvement as the poor cat had open sores on her legs from hiding up on our rafters.)

Galaxy is a diamond in the rough. She can still be a little temperamental at times, but I've come to realize it's mostly from the stress of living in a shelter for two years. She's an older, timid cat who would prefer a bit of space. Unfortunately, she gets picked on by other cats at the shelter, and she's constantly scrambling up high to get away from dogs. That would make anyone a little grumpy.

Galaxy deserves a chance in a home to prove how lovely she can be. She is looking for her forever home, so come take the time to get to know Galaxy at the shelter today.

Thanks Yukon!

By Kath Selkirk

Trucks do not often travel up the sandy track to the Maasai village of Elerai in Tanzania. The road is narrow and rutted. Traffic generally takes the form of donkeys, bicycles and motorbikes all over-laden with goods and passengers.

So when a large transport truck makes its way up the hill to stop outside the village elementary school, it attracts a lot of attention. The pupils crowded round, eager to help with the unloading of sacks of rice and pails of cooking oil.

In early August we sent an appeal to the Yukon for urgent help. The School Lunch Program had run out of funds, and the store room was almost empty. The children were due to start back at school after their summer holiday. We needed to do something quick.

And Yukoners responded in their usual generous way!

We are fortunate that EMAYO, the local Maasai Youth Organization, is partnered with The Kesho Trust, a Canadian NGO, which has a website and Paypal facilities. The Kesho Trust's Founding Director, Yukon resident Bruce Downie, was able to fast-track your donations to EMAYO so that the store room could be quickly re-stocked.

During this time the village was not idle. Villagers had been working on making the stores rat-proof - not an easy thing in an area where you can't get planed wood, and a "tool kit" consists of a machete and something heavy and metal to use as a hammer. Donations of maize from the recent harvest had been dropped off by parents, a bucket or half-sack at a time. The children had been out collecting firewood for cooking fuel, carrying the bundles back on their heads.

The first delivery of food is now safely stored, and in Dawson City the fund raising continues, to ensure that this school year these children can think about their lessons, not their empty stomachs.

Dawson Aids Maasai School Children; Food for Thought

Story by Maureen Abbott Photos by Maureen Abbott and Karen Dubois

KIAC hosted the first Dawson Master Chef Cook-Off on Friday September 14. Five pairs of Dawson "chefs" competed for the coveted prize of two Golden Chef's Hats. Their purpose was to raise money for school lunches for the Maasai children of Elerai Tanzania. Kath Selkirk, Jim Taggart and Maureen Abbott, all from Dawson, volunteered in Elerai this past winter for The Kesho Trust, and the Maasai stole their hearts. (www.keshotrust.org is a mostly Yukon-run organization.)

Chefs Jim Regimbal and Sue Parsons came prepared for rogue fires, having dressed in firefighter's jackets and boots. They proudly toted a small fire engine that spewed fake smoke.

Their chef station was lit with flashing lights and indeed, if there had been a prize for the best props, they would have won it. Their final dish was served on flattened fire hose and was definitely not burned to a crisp.

Glenda Bolt, an Emcee along with Eldo Enns, eloquently described the other contestants.

Sandy Silver and Xander Mann were the "Kubasa Kings of culinary concoctions". The "spice of life on every table in town was the Salt and Pepper mix of Lue Maxwell and Charles Hume". The chef and his muse - um nurse - were Gord MacRae and Ann Bragg - "the Poster Children for Canada's Food Guide." Lastly, "the Duke and Duchess of Delicious representing their homeland deep on West Bank of Dawson", were Marta Selassie and Mark Dauphinee.

The teams were given four secret ingredients and were allowed to bring three of their own.

They shared a common pantry of foods and spices and in one hour, had to create a meal that would be judged on Presentation, Flavour and Creativity. This was a demanding task to be performed on only two hot plate burners each and one BBQ that was outside and down the stairs. All along, the KIAC staff crossed their fingers that a fuse would not be blown. This was no over-equipped kitchen.

The live CFYT radio commentator team of Paul Robitaille and Steve Laszlo left their hockey jabber behind and used their culinary curiosity to keep track of the action at the chefs' stations. Deliberations and discussions ensued as the pairs of chefs hunched over their mystery ingredients and perused the pantry, followed by choosing, chopping and cooking - by various methods - a wide variety of very tasty morsels and concoctions. Big fingers delicately arranged the plates with care and finesse.

The five judges picked by raffle were Karen Dubois, Allie Winton, Spruce Gerberding, Sebastian Jones and Gord Zacharias. They took their job very seriously, looking, tasting, chewing thoughtfully and carefully hiding their scores from the other judges. At last the winners were announced - and much to their surprise, the poster children for Canada's Food Guide - Gord MacRae and Ann Bragg were crowned with the gold lamé chef's hats, created by Debbie Winston. The pair claimed their win had much to do with their fabulous presentation of delicately carved cherry tomatoes, a coconut rice boma (mud hut) on spinach leaves, a colourful vegetable array of madras curry, a dry rub on the BBQ'd lamb and a spotted glaze on the white plate, of raspberry hot pepper jelly laced with birch syrup.

Scrumptious indeed.

The event could not have happened without the dedicated volunteers and the generosity of the prize donors. Bonanza Market donated the secret ingredients and the General Store gave $100 of food for the pantry. Twenty-two prizes were donated by individuals and businesses in Dawson and Whitehorse and we thank you for your generosity and spirit. These prizes were raffled off to the crowd and added greatly to the excitement of the evening. See our Facebook page "Meals for Maasai Dawson Celebrity Chef Cook-Off! Fund Raiser" for descriptions of the fabulous prizes and generous donors and for more pictures of the evening.

MOST IMPOR-TANTLY, the town of Dawson raised $3350.00 for the 320 school children of Elerai, Tanzania. This will provide the children with lunch for 2 years (the parents contribute half) and will make a huge difference in their ability to learn. Some of the children walk 8 kilometres a day to school on an empty stomach and without the school lunch, many would not eat or drink until

These are lovely kids, polite, big smiles and they are definitely grateful for this meal. Some of the money will be put towards a rainwater collection tank at the school so the children can have water at lunch as well. THANK YOU DAWSON - all the volunteers and donors and organizers for making a BIG DIFFERENCE in the lives of the MAASAI Children of Elerai, Tanzania.

The donors were Air North, Aurora Inn, Antoinette's Whitehorse, Klondike Kate's, Bombay Peggy's, The Drunken Goat, Miche Genest, Bev Gray Aroma Borealis, Upriver Fisheries, Dänoja Zho Cultural Centre, Klondike Valley Nurseries, Klondike Drawing Company, KIAC, Forty Mile gold, and individual artists, Debbie Winston, Maureen Abbott, Sharon Edmunds, Shelley Hakonson, Lynn Fezette, Julie Frisch.

Joanne Bell is the author of two young adult novels, Breaking Trail (2005) and Juggling Fire (2009) as well as numerous short stories. She is a teacher and wilderness interpreter. This is the first part of her 2600 word submission.

slightly lowered, while I kneel. Then they step silently back into the forest. In a moment, they're gone, swallowed by the green.

Wolves are beautiful as long as you're not their prey. Since then, when scrubbing dishes in mountain creeks, I've glanced up to see if wolves are watching.

They never are.

Years later, I'm climbing Blueberry Hill, picking berries. I have picked berries up this hill for more than half my lifetime. Before starting out, I scan for bears with my binoculars. The sky is mostly blue with stacks of thunderclouds mounting on the southern horizon. Construction noises from the new center are rising in the still air. The roof shimmers in the summer sun. A raven flies overhead with a screech like grating metal.

Spying berries, I chuck my pack into the moss and kneel. The raven circles again, this time diving toward my head. I throw my pack up. My heart is racing. He has come so quickly, talons falling from the hot, blue sky. The raven returns and drops straight down swerving at the last second.

He lands to my left, settles his feathers and begins to gobble crowberries. The crowberries are plump and plentiful. I've never been attacked by a raven before. I wonder if the noise from the new center is making him cranky. Ah ha! Maybe that's why crowberries are called crowberries! I'm in his crowberry patch, and truth be told, was about to toss berries into my bucket. I don't care to pick anymore. I slip and jump down the mountain, shoes bouncing around my neck while my feet squelch into the wet ground. It feels very good. "Nor can foot feel being shot," wrote Auden from the London slums a century ago. I think of the raven's outstretched claws angled at my skull. I sing "the hills are alive with the sound of music" but very softly so as not to annoy the raven.

I don't learn anything from the raven except that ravens - at least my raven – eat and guard their crowberries. Humans are often irritated when another human stops their car and asks them if the berries are good. The first humans give explicit signs - both verbal and postural - that they are displeased but they rarely sink their claws into the newcomer's skull. That is because we are civilized, I suppose, but we could also just find out own berry patches - at least when other humans and species are already picking. As a species, we ought to stop encroaching on each other's berry patches!

My husband claims he was charged by a beaver, but as he was not my husband at the time, I can only say he has never lied to me so I must trust that the beaver did, in fact, charge him. He was riding his bike along the old Klondike road when he noticed a rather large beaver waddling directly towards him. He hopped from his bicycle and thrust the frame between him and the encroaching toothy rodent. After besting the bicycle, the beaver continued slowly to the river.

Why a beaver would suddenly rampage about the tailing piles, I have no idea. If I had to choose which wild animal would bite me, I'd never choose a beaver, as their teeth grow throughout their lifetimes and are honed by felling trees.

Also, I love beavers. Baby beaverslaunchfromtheirlodge's sleeping platform, riding on the backs of swimming parents and doting older siblings. If we humans were to land on another planet and find aliens who engineered wetlands, built dams with adjustable water levels, groomed each other in the winter-long darkness of under-the-ice lodges, marked territorial boundaries and who knows what else, we would have front page headlines exclaiming over the finding of intelligent life. "We Are No Longer Alone in the Universe," the headline might scream.

Beavers, while swimming, shadow-box and clench each other in hugs. They seem to be having a wonderful time. I'm sorry my husband was charged by a beaver. I'm also sorry I didn't get to see it. I can't say that I learned anything from it, but then again, I wasn't meant to as it didn't happen to me.

My eldest daughter, Elizabeth, was swarmed by wasps. She was thirteen months old and I'd just carried her over forty miles from the Dempster to our cabin. "Why?" I remember asking myself one particularly exhausted moment when I wanted to sleep in the moss, "have I been looking forward to this for thirteen months?"

My first husband had gone downriver to bring supplies from a cache. Elizabeth delighted in helping me chink the addition logs with moss. Her baby hands were perfect for this. She loved having a job, and I loved watching her entrancement with everything she discovered there: stones, sticks, ants, fish in puddles on the gravel bar. I had no radio or satellite phone, no means of communication.

We were picking cranberries when I heard a plane. The plane turned into a swarm of wasps around her, rising up from a hole in the bank. Elizabeth calmly crammed berries in her mouth.

I picked her up like a football and sprinted across the clearing to the cabin. Before I slammed the door, one wasp squeezed in. I squished him.

Then what? Elizabeth was plainly bored. I fed her graham crackers with cheese and a smidgen of honey. Bees have their own way to deal with an invading wasp. They form a ball around the intruder and vibrate their abdominal muscles so quickly that the wasp suffocates, overheated. I learned many things from those wasps: I needed a radio, I could pluck my baby from a swarm without thinking, and it's boring hiding in the cabin all day!

And then I stopped learning anything, at least explicitly. We lived for years in the mountains, sometimes for eight months at a time. We rarely saw another human. The years went by and something shifted in my perspective. I kept thinking about the news program, "The World at Six". I thought, "What a strange name - it isn't about the world at all, just the human part." This felt extraordinary to me. Why do we mistake the world for such a small part of it? I wondered.

Animals became neighbours whose lives I wanted to know more about. An awful lot of communicating was going on in the Yukon wilderness and I was oblivious to almost all of it. I didn't have the nose or the ears. I noticed caribou or wolves, but hardly even thought about the subnivean world under my snowshoes, the tunnels of the smallest mammals snug in their subterranean cities. What was it like to BE a vole? What did the earthen passages smell like under there? For that matter, what was it like to be the upside-down chickadee pecking seeds from a tree?

Sometimes, when we broke trail, the animals followed our snowshoe tracks. Other times, we followed theirs. Winter nights, wolves howled in the cabin clearing. Our sled dogs huddled in their houses when the wolves circled about.

Lorenzo Grimard: Dawson's Oldest Resident

Lorenzo was walking quite sprightly along the sidewalk the other glorious autumn evening, and a chat with him revealed him to be 96 years old. He had certainly been around Dawson for many, many years. Now comes the realization that he is perhaps the oldest person in Dawson.

In further conversation he revealed more of an eventful life. He was born in 1916 in St Gabriel, Quebec. His father passed away when he was 2 years old. Times were not easy back then, and as his mother could not get work sufficient to support her children he was given to an uncle to raise. This lasted until he was 18, when he went to Montreal. looking for work. That was the beginning of a life of much moving back and forth across Canada.

The Depression was a bad time and he speaks of taking three years to get enough money together to buy a bicycle, and later of riding the rails. He said he was fortunate as he found a friend in a big man who could protect him.

He was working at Sudbury for Hollinger mines when war broke out. In those days you had to have a very good reason to quit a job, so he tried to join the army. This was acceptable, so they let him go. He doesn't know why but he did not pass the initial exam to get into the army, and could not join up.

Then he met a Norwegian fellow and together they came North and got jobs working for the Gold Company, (Y.C.G.C.) in Dawson.

But they never made enough to get out, so they stayed.

He worked around Dawson for various mining operations getting experience and knowledge and enough money to go out on his own. Later he and partner, Emil Fouchier, joined together and mined over at Sixty Mile. They bought a building from Secony Mobile as they were shutting down, to be their camp quarters. So this must have been about the mid-sixties. Their mining lasted many years.

In the intervening years he took trips back to his home town. Even wintering in Haiti with a friend until the political situation there made it unsafe.

Now that he is retired to Mc-Donald Lodge, he is well looked after. Although he gives a grumble about the annoyances of health problems as he ages.

He has kept up his contact with his Quebec roots as the local French Association has found him, and Lorenzo's eyes lit up as he described how they took him "to a Carnivale" held at Sunnydale where there were families and kids, and good food.

So Lorenzo, with all you have seen and all the places you have been, which is the best spot? He grinned and came back with a definite "Yukon is the best place."

SOVA Receives Continude Support

WHITEHORSE—The School of Visual Arts (SOVA) in Dawson City has been awarded $1.42 million to continue its fine arts curriculum for the next three years Education Minister Scott Kent announced today.

"The Government of Yukon is pleased to continue supporting Yukon College and the School Of Visual Arts with funding that will cover the costs of program delivery, personnel and administration," Kent said. "SOVA has a strong presence that contributes to Dawson City's arts and culture community, attracting students from near and far to study in the Klondike region."

SOVA is an art college accredited through Yukon College and located in Dawson City. Students who successfully complete its Foundation Year Program receive a visual arts certificate from Yukon College and may block transfer this certificate into a Bachelor of Fine Arts Degree at any of the five Canadian art colleges and institutions partnered with Yukon College.

Fifteen students successfully completed the two-semester program in April 2012, five of which were Yukoners. This year SOVA will host 15 full-time and seven part-time students from within the territory and across Canada.

"I am pleased that we have the continued generous support of the Yukon government for SOVA," Yukon College Dean of Applied Arts Deb Bartlette said. "The program has been very successful in attracting students locally and nationally and making a name for Dawson City and After five successful years of the foundation program, we have many students completing degrees across Canada and working or studying in the arts or related fields in the Yukon and beyond. Yukon College looks forward to the continuing evolution of SOVA in the coming years."

The Foundation Year Program is offered in partnership with the Dawson City Arts Society, Yukon College and the Tr'ond'k Hw'ch'in through a cooperation agreement signed in 2005. SOVA is governed by a governance council comprising these part-

Extinct Animals from the Last Hundred Years

By Lisa McKenna

The Arabian Ostrich: its last sighting was in 1966.

The Atitlan Grouse: the last sighting was in 1997.

The Bali Tiger: they were the smallest subspecies of tigers but during WW2 the annihilation of these species began, with the help of human encroachment, and they were lost in 1931.

The Barbary Lions (also known as the Atlas lion): They weighed up to 272 kg, or 600 lbs, making them the heaviest lion. Unfortunately they were driven into extinction due to excessive hunting practices.

The Bubal Hartebeest: which was domesticated by ancient Egyptians to use in their sacrifices. But by the end of the 20th century the French discovered them, they were shot, or put into zoos (where they died). The last Bubal was seen in a zoo in Paris in 1923 bringing an end to an awesome species of antelope.

The Bush Wren: a small bird native to New Zealand until the arrival of the Mustelids (related to the weasel) arrived. The Stead's Bush Wren was annulated by feral cats on another nearby island and so they are gone now.

The Canarian Black Oystercatcher: this was a shoreline bird that was desimated by humans and rats!

The Cape Verde Giant Skink: this reptile lost its habitat due to man, was extensively hunted for food and skink oil. They were officially declared extinct in 1914.

The Caribbean Monk Seal: the last of these magnificent creatures was seen in 1955, man destroyed the rest.

The Carolina Parakeet: this was the only species of parrots that were native to Eastern U.S.A. but they died off due to deforestation, caused by man, they were hunted, by man, for there bright plumage, farmers thought of them as pests. The last wild one was shot in Florida in 1904 another died in a cage, in a zoo, in 1918.

The Caspian Tiger: native to Western and Central Asia this beautiful cat (also called the Persian Tiger) was systematically exterminated by the Russians at the beginning of the 20th century.

The Caucasian Wisent: (related to the bison) thrived until the 17th century. Their only predators were tigers, wolves, and bears. Then man came along and started slaying them for their hides and their meat. The last one was killed in 1927.

The Columbia Grebe: this is an aquatic bird native to Columbia (hence the name) that was last seen in 1977. Their nemesis was a Rainbow Trout! (And hunting by man).

The Crescent Nail-Tail Wallaby: this furry creature, native to Australia, was found everywhere until the 20th century. With in ten years their population declined, rare sightings lasted till the 1920's but the last was caught in a Dingo trap in 1927. A few were still in the wild but the red foxes got them all by the 50's.

The Golden Toad: also known as the Monteverdi or Orange toad is from Costa Rica but due to climatic change this amphibian disappeared in 1989.

The Grand Canyon Thrush: although this bird was a favorite for bird collectors, its demise came from a loss of their habitat and a series of bad hurricanes. The last sighted was in 1938.

The Guam Flying Fox: as a small fruit bat they were considered a delicacy and were hunted for food. With a huge loss of their habitat and the introduction of the Brown Tree Snake the last Flying Fox was seen in 1967.

The Hawaiian 'O's: these beautiful birds where sought for their bright feathers, sold as song birds (which led to their death), The last one was seen on Mt. Mauna Loa, a volcano in south central Hawaii in 1934.

The Heath Hen: a relative of the prairie chicken this bird made it's home in New England. Due to man's excessive hunting for food their population dropped severely in the mid 19th century. They became extinct on the mainland but continued to hang in there on an island. By the beginning of the 20th there were less than a hundred still living but a combination of a fierce forest fire, unusual predators, and blackhead disease they were all gone by 1932.

The Japanese Sea Lion: this awesome creature was brought to an end by man's lust for their furs and oils; even some of their internal organs were sold to Oriental Doctors. By 1915 there were only 300 left, by 1930 there were only a few dozen left, in the 1950's a colony was spotted, and in 1974 a single individual was positively identified.

The Javan Tiger: this was a small tiger that was destroyed by hunting and a loss of its habitat (due to man). In the 1950's there were only 25 left in the wild. The last sighting of these incredible cats was in 1972.

The Kauai's '0's: one of the smallest honeyeater birds. With the introduction of Black Rats, domestic pigs, and mosquitoes (which carried an avian flue) whipped out the last one, it was last heard in 1987.

The Laughing Owl: also known as the white-faced owl, was native to New Zealand. But due to man's collecting them as specimens, their loss of habitat, their population declined in the late 19th century. Then cats were introduced and the owls died out in 1880 though one was sighted in 1914.

The Laysan Rail: often referred as the Laysan Crake, was a tiny bird that was wiped out from the damages of W.W. 2. In 1910 there were only 2,000 left, in 1923 there were less than 10. But an U.S. Naval ship crashed off the coast, the rats swam to shore, and these little birds are no more.

The Little Swan Island Hutia: this was a Guinea Pig type rodent that was virtually wiped out by a hurricane and then the introduction of domestic cats the last Hutia was seen in the early 1950's.

The Palestinian Painted Frog: Also known as the Israel Painted Frog was led to its demise by the draining of the marshes destroying their natural habitat. The last single individual was found in 1955. They were declared extinct but Israel still considers them as an 'endangered species'.

The Paradise Parrot: from Northeastern Australia, was a very colorful bird and was heavily sought after by bird collectors. With a loss of habitat due to over-grazing and land clearing, and cats! This beautiful bird was virtually extinct by 1915 with the last known sighting occurring in 1921.

The Passenger Pigeon: Once one of the most common birds in North America, with flocks ranging into the millions, was a favorite food of Native Indians as well as European travelers. Basically this large-scale hunting cleared them out with the last sighting in 1912.

The Pyrenean Ibex: Ibexes are a type of wild goat. They were unable to compete with the other species and put together with extensive poaching by man, the ibex dwindled to a mere 100 individuals by 1900. In 1910 there were only 40 left so conservation practices were put in effect and the Ibex hung on till 2000 when the last one was crushed by a falling tree.

The Roque Chico de Salmor Giant Lizard: They lived in a small islet within the Canary Islands. At first their only predators were feral cats but then man came around and began to collect them for scientific research. Several attempts were made to revive the species but, unfortunately, the last one died in the late 1930's.

The Round Island Burrowing Boa: A reptile that was native to Round Island off the coast of Mauritius (an isle off the southeast coast of Africa) they had a very small habitat, 1.5 to 2 square km. Overgrazing by various herbivores (vegetarians) triggered soil erosion caused the loss of the Boa's natural habitat and their eventual extinction by 1975.

The Ryukyu Wood pigeon: this bird lived towards the southwest of the Japanese mainland. Its extinction can be directly related to a loss of their habitat due to deforestation for agricultural and housing. They began depleting in the first decade of the 20th century and by 1930 deforestation of the island was complete, by 1936 they were no more.

The Santo Stefano Lizard: this was a small lizard that used to live off the coast of Italy. With the introduction of predators, like the feral cat and various snakes, a drastic decline was noted. With the arrival of an epidemic of an unknown pathogen in the mid 1950's the last lizard was seen in 1965.

The Schomburgk Deer: native to Thailand they were lost due to the conversion of the grasslands and swamps into fields for the production of rice

Murder Down Through the Years

Though Not Dead

By Dana Stabenow St. Martin's Paperbacks 461 pages $9.99

When last I met Dana Stabenow in Skagway three summers back I had just reviewed one of her Liam Campbell mysteries. She thanked me kindly and requested that next time I tackle one of her newer books. I hadn't noticed that Liam's adventures were on hiatus (though the preview of the next Kate Shugak novel in the back of this book has him as one of its characters) and had been treating myself with his adventures as a change after having read the first ten Shugak books.

So here I am, jumping seven books past where I left off. suddenly discovering Kate's lover, Jack Morgan, is dead and that she has begun seeing Chopper Jim in what seems like a pretty serious relationship. Worse, Old Sam Dementieff, about whom I didn't recall that much detail, has died and her foster son, Johnny, has grown up amazingly.

It was almost like starting out with a series I'd never read before, but the Park, and the Alaskan setting kept me grounded, and the way she put the story together told me everything else I needed to know.

This is a mystery novel with several layers, one of which is the life story of Old Sam, beginning with the flu epidemic of 1918, before he was even a gleam in his father's eye. Sam lived to a ripe old age and had a life that very few people knew the details of, back to and including the secret of his parentage. We return to Old Sam's story every few chapters throughout the book, including a portion that is supposed to have been written by Dashiell Hammett (The Maltese Falcon and other stories), who Sam met during World War Two while they were both serving in the army in Alaska.

(This is one of those unusual mystery novels that has a short list of a dozen reference books at the end of it. From the note there I'd say that some of the ideas for this novel have been rattling around in Stabenow's noggin for many decades.)

When Sam died he left almost all his land and property to Kate, and named her as the executor of his will to distribute the rest of it. It was while packing up his books that things began to go awry. Waking up with two black eyes from being whacked on the side of the head with a piece of firewood was Kate's first clue that she was in for trouble. Before too long there's a murder to be solved and Kate has been run off the road in the middle of a snowstorm, a further indication that it seems to be personal.

Meanwhile, Jim has had to return to California to attend his father's funeral, and deal with other unexpected family developments. It seems there are some mysteries to be solved in his past also. Indeed, his quest is a bit like the one that Sam went through when he was about the same age. This is the smallest thread in the tapestry of this novel, but it is interesting.

Sam left Kate a few clues as to what she needed to look for. One was the cryptic instruction to find his father. Another was the legend of a missing Russian Orthodox triptych icon, stolen before he was born. The other, the one that people seem to keep coming after her for, is a map, one that appears to show the locations of number of gold claims, all of which are located within the tract of wilderness property that is part of her inheritance from Sam. Some how all of this is also tied into the machinations of a man that Kate had captured and put it prison few years earlier (in one of those books haven't read yet). This man is still in prison (though awaiting an appeal of his sentence with great optimism) but has clearly managed to mastermind a plot to find Old Sam's hidden treasures – whatever they may be. He is not the only one looking though, and the fact that there seem to be two sets of bad guys does serve to drag quite a few red herrings across the trail.

with Dan Davidson

Checking things out, it doesn't seem to matter a lot whether Stabenow's books are in actual physical print these days. I've picked up one of the earlier books I missed as an eBook and another as an audio book. I expect to enjoy that one while on my next trip to Whitehorse.

Northern_stores

Northern Stores may be coming to Dawson. By this writing a Northern Store in Dawson, but good number of the homes in Dawson have already been visited by a representative of Chief Isaac Inc., carrying an extensive survey form designed by the Northwest Company to test the consumer waters in the town. In the event that the company does decide to open an outlet here the Dawson First Nation will probably be a partner in the venture through its business arm.

According to Jeff Cook, Chief Isaac's manager, the Northwest Company, which took over the running of the northern line of Hudson's Bay stores a few years ago, and subsequently changed the name to Northern Stores, first approached the Dawson First Nation last fall, even before the Whitehorse branch was closed.

"Three months ago, " said Cook, "they contacted us and asked us if we would be interested in a Northern Store opportunity as a First Nation. We are presently considering some kind of involvement if they decide to build a store in Dawson.

"It's very preliminary, but we're administering a survey on behalf of Northwest Company. Approximately 250 surveys - done door to door - is what we're ultimately

The survey questioned people not just on their desire to have a on their buying habits, total family income, use of mail order catalogues, frequency of trips to Whitehorse, perceived need for services and what types, and their concerns about what a major new store in the community might do to other businesses here.

Northwest will do the analysis and make the decision.

Cook said, "I think ultimately they're trying to decide on what kind of product to bring here."

As Cook understands the plan, the proposed store would be about half supermarket and half everything else, from hardware to furniture and clothing, an operation similar in form, if not in scale, to the sort of operation that the Hougen's company used to run in Faro in the late 1970's and early

Cook's understanding is that Northwest might break ground next spring and be ready to open in the fall of 1993 if the survey results are positive. The Han First Nation has an eye on some four-lot spaces that such a store might occupy if it were to be

"We're negotiating how we might participate," Cook said.

Circling

by Brent Morrison

In March of this year, in the eastern Siberian town of Uelen, Graeme Dingle, Kim Price, and Tolya Chernishov set off on a journey that would take them around the world, while remaining north of the Arctic Circle.

Known as Expedition Ark-tikos (Arktikos being the name the ancient Greeks gave to the constellations around the North Star and the lands beneath them), the three men headed west on Russian built snowmobiles that were equipped with low pressure tires. The machines quickly "Fell part leaving us walking." Dingle. The group was forced to return to Uelen which is the area of Siberia nearest Alaska, and begin again, this time in a tractorlike vehicle which Dingle describes as being, "Basically a

On May 11 they reached Dudinka, the westernmost point of Siberia, they could reach overland, but were prevented travelling further west to Murmansk because of the ice break-up. Eventually they gained passage on an ice-breaking cargo ship.

From Murmansk they hired a small Russian research ship which took them to Southern Greenland. The group had planned to cross the ice-cap of Greenland but found themselves in a Catch-22. Ice around the island's monstrous coast prevented them from sailing to shore, but weeks later when the ice would have been els from Moscow sufficiently melted to allow them to land, the ice-cap could not be crossed. The group decided to go around the southern coast of the country using a six metre inflatable boat equipped with out-

After travelling 2,000 kilometres up the West Coast of Greenland in mid-summer, the group ran into more problems, the ice in the North-West Passage had not broken and they were unable to continue in their boat. Graeme flew to Inuvik to continue up the Mackenzie, while Kim remained at an American base in Greenland to secure transportation of their boat. To complicate matters further, Tolya's visa had expired and he faced deportation. It has now been extended until the end of September while a new one trav-

THIS IS JUST MY OPINION

Hate Crimes and Christianity; Conclusion

my previous articles, I can state with an almost perfect certainty, that "so-called" Christianity is both directly and indirectly responsible for All Hate crimes committed against human beings everywhere. Country Leaders, claim their faith in Christian Scripture directs their actions against other Nations. Religious Leaders claim that by their faith, their followers should take action. Leaders of various organizations, with similarities to, and including the KKK, defend their actions based upon their faith in Christian

Am I stating here that it is only Christians who commit Hate Crimes? No! I fully acknowledge that hate crimes are committed by all races, all nations, and all religions of the world, and yes, even Communism is a religion. However, while most of the worlds religion agree in teaching a version of the Golden Rule "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." It is only the Christian faith ... through the Christian Bible that states plain and clearly "Love thy enemy and pray for them that use you and abuse you (paraphrased)."

It does not anywhere in Christian Scripture state...Love thy enemy by eliminating him. Or Love thy enemy by making war with him. Or Love thy enemy by destroying him, through finances, through rumours, through embarrassment, through physical contact, or through vicious retaliations of any form.

In fact Paul in his farewell to the Corinthians, the second letter, states quite plain and clear, "Finally brethren, farewell. Be perfect, be of good comfort, be of one mind, live in peace; and the God of love and peace shall be with you." 2 Corinthians 13: 11KJV. Further Paul has written these words, "For though we walk in the flesh, we do not war after the flesh: (For the weapons of our warfare are not carnal, but mighty through God to the pulling down of strongholds.) 2 Corinthians 10: 3,4KJV. These are some of the very Truths that dispel the notion that Hate is approved by God. Christians do battle in the spiritual realm, not in the natural realm. These Truths are only found in Christian Scripture, and are not found in any other religion.

Most of today's so-called Christians in truth are not Christians at all. Please do not misunderstand my words here, there are a few who call themselves Christian who really are, but sadly and truthfully most others who call themselves Christian are not! If Heaven and Hell are indeed real, literal places, (and in my mind they are) then there will be many surprises upon our arrival in either one. Both places are sure to contain individuals we never thought belonged in either place. Many individuals will be surprised themselves, when they awaken in Hell, especially those who sincerely believed that they were Christians, and that they were actually doing God's Will in their life on earth.

But if they do not have Love for ALL people, at ALL times, they will Never see Heaven! Hypocrisy, even in ignorance, is no excuse to Hate if you call yourself by the name of Christ! It is proper to preach against sin, but I suggest do so with Love - Let your preaching inspire others to Love - teach your congregations to work in Love. Have you never read, "I desire Mercy not Sacrifice!"?

Whenever I see an ad in the paper that almost shouts angrily at homosexuality, I foresee

Based upon the observations I have made in a Hate crime occurring shortly thereafter, and commonly but sadly a hate crime does occur within a couple of weeks following the appearance of the ad . (It is possible to write the same ad and yet instill Love rather than Hate. Instead of focusing on the act, focus the attention to the individual.)

> It is my belief that not only should the person who commits the actual Hate crime be tried, but the instigators also. The person who placed the offensive ad in the paper should be tried for the Hate crime, as well as the preacher who taught the person who placed the ad. Only then might we see a reduction in Hate crimes committed by supposed Christians. Penalties need to be made more severe for Hate crimes. Any person found to be guilty of any Hate crime, regardless of how little or how severe, the punishment should be Life in prison.

> In conclusion, so-called Christianity, as it exists today, is Not Christianity at all. It is a fraud, though among the various Christian Faiths, there are a few individuals who are True Christians. These are those individuals who possess, express and extend Love to ALL people, everywhere they are encountered. In fact there are several denominations which go so far as to ordain into ministry individuals who are homosexual, and willingly perform marriage ceremonies for them (Personally, I do not agree with the marriage of homosexuals as it promotes the act and does more to instill hate towards them.).

> I challenge every person, all individuals who call themselves "Christian" to examine themselves, discover the truth of their hearts. If there is just one individual in the entire world whom you Hate, then you do not have the fullness of Love, and you are Not a Christian! It is written, "He that saith he is in the light, and hateth his brother, is in darkness even until now." 1 John 2:9 KJV. Examine yourself, search the Truth out for yourself, and accept the fact that God knows better than we do what is good...what is right...what is proper...and what is Holy. As the early Church Father Polycarp wrote to the Philippians, "He that hath Love is far from all sin."

> I who write this article as a rebuke, am one who calls himself by the Name of Christ, and I do have Love for All people. Though the contents of this entire article may seem harsh or even vicious, it is not. It is designed as a rebuke and a cry to everyone who calls him/ herself by the name of Christ to wake up! Do the things which are right and correct in the eyes of God! As for me, I do not always Love the actions of others, as also indicated by this article, but I do always Love the individuals. Hate the sin – Love the sinner! Stop the Hate crimes by stopping the Hate created by persons who call themselves Christian! This will not stop or prevent all Hate crimes, as it will have little to no effect on those religious people who are not called by the name of Christ, but if Love lives in you, Love can become contagious. Preach the Truth! Preach against the Sin not the Sinner! It is Right, Just and proper to preach against the Sins of this world, but also Preach Love toward the individual to complete the perfection of Christ's Gospel! Otherwise, without Love, how can you expect to lead a sinner unto repentance? "Beloved, let us Love one another.

born of God and knoweth God: He that Loveth not--knoweth not God for God IS LOVE. 1 John chapter 4 verses 7&8 KJV.

for export. Along with extensive hunting by man the last Schombergk Deer was killed while in captivity in 1938 and, alas, they are no more.

The South Island Piopio: also known as the New Zealand Thrush was a very common bird at one point but with the introduction of man and his cats and rats these small birds suffered a rapid decline in the late 19th century. By the last decade of the 19th they were considered a rare sight. Rare sightings occurred up to 1963 but none have been seen since then.

The Tasmanian Wolf: though it is technically called a Thylacine this beautiful creature from Australia, Tasmania, and New Guinea was hunted out into extinction. The last Tasmanian Wolf to be seen in the wild was in 1930 when it was killed by a local farmer. The very last one died in captivity in 1946.

The Thick Tailed Chub: these small fish lived in California and at one point they made up to 40% of the fish in the Sacramento River. Due to dam building, water diversion and agriculture this fish was extinct by the late 1950's.

The Toblache Wallaby: from Australia this animal was hunted by man for its fur and for sport! Combined with predication by foxes and a shrinking habitat they became a rare sight. Attempts to capture one failed and the last one was seen in 1943.

The Western Black Rhinoceros: also known as the African Black Rhinoceros suffered severe poaching by man. There were only a few hundred alive in the 1980's, 10 in 2000 and none in 2006. The poachers could not be stopped.

The Wake Island Rail: this was a flightless bird that lived on a small atoll in the Pacific Ocean, at least until W.W.2. Japanese forces stranded on the island, with no rations, were forced to eat the Rail. They were all eaten by 1945.

Did you know that an octopus is considered a mollusk? However, unlike abalone, scallops, oysters, clams and mussels, octopuses belong to a sub-species called cephalopods, which means head to foot. They are classed as this because their "feet" are attached to their heads!

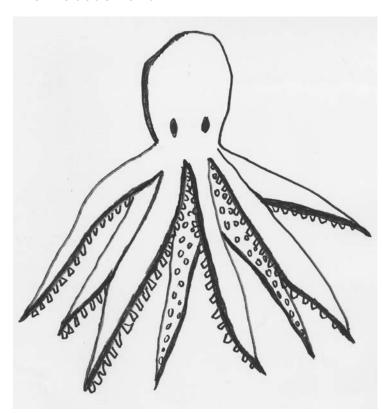

Octopuses have eight legs and they live in all of the oceans of the world.

The Giant Pacific Octopus is the largest octopus in the world and resides off the coast of British Columbia. It can weigh as much as 270kg (600lbs) and its tentacles can reach lengths of 10 meters (33 feet)!

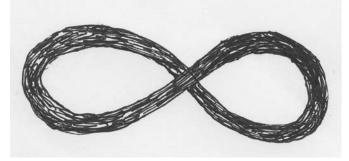

The smallest octopus is found in the Indo-Pacific Ocean and it is only 1.5 cm (less than an inch) long.

Octopuses have NO BONES! And their blood is LIGHT BLUE!

Talk about weird.

Eight is the symbol of eternity (or infinity). Can you imagine eternity (eternity is something that has no beginning and no end)? I can't. It's like counting forever into the zillions!

Spiders also have eight legs.

Spiders are found worldwide,

JUST FOR FUN

Look up "The Sisters

Eight" on your computer it has all kinds of stuff on it

that you might find fun with!

except in Antarctica. Spiders live in all habitats, though they shun the sea and the air.

As of 2008 over 40,000 species of spiders had been discovered. With extinction and new discoveries it is probably the same number as today.

Spiders have NO muscles in their limbs! Their legs are

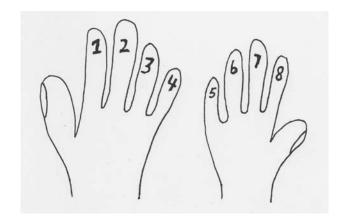

..... run by a hydraulic system using hydraulic pressure. (Hydraulic pressure is about the mechanical properties and pressures of fluids)

> They also "spin" silk threads out of glands in their abdomen that they use to fashion intricate webs.

> Although a species of spiders have been found as strict herbivores (plant eaters) all the rest are predators feeding off of insects or other spiders.

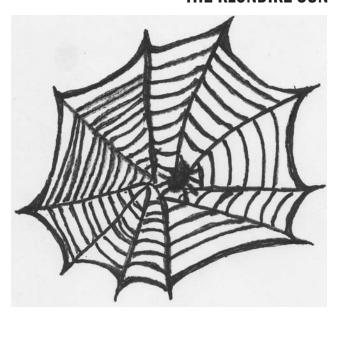

Why do people say that they have ten fingers and ten toes when in reality humans have EIGHT fingers, two thumbs and ten toes? Kind of weird. Insert picture

Then there is the 'Eight Fold Path', which combined with the 4 noble truths, is the essence of Buddhism. They are not a series of 'steps' but an interdependent principle that must be taken in relation to each other.

The Eight Fold Path is:

- 1. Right view
- 2. Right intention (These are for Wisdom)
- 3. Right speech
- 4. Right action
- 5. Right livelihood (These are for Ethical Conduct)
- 6. Right effort
- 7. Right mindfulness
- 8. Right concentration (These are for one's Mental Development)
