

Can This Really be The End of Dredge No. 4?

Parks Canada chose to celebrate Dredge No. 4's celebrity status with an impressive display. Note that the float shows the “janitor” cleaning up at “the end” of the float, reflective of the fact that it will be closed to the public at the end of this summer.

Discovery Days Wraps Up the Summer

Story & Photos
By Dan Davidson

With both the 34th Dawson City Music Festival and the 11th Moosehide Gathering out of the way, you might think that Dawson City was about to settle down into its pre-autumn jog after running all summer. A peek at the lineup of events due to start up on August 16th, just clearly indicated that this assumption would be wrong.

Some events began early and simply concluded between August 16 and 20.

The Klondike Visitors Association announced the topic of this year's Authors on Eighth writing competition a couple of months ago, and the winners for the poetry, non-fiction or fiction contest (up to 2500 words on a theme of Yukon Wildlife) were announced at Berton House, the last stop on the tour of the Writers' Block, which began at the Jack London Centre and continued past the refurbished grounds of the Robert Service Cabin.

The same day saw a Goldfields Extravaganza at Gold Bottom Mines, Dredge No. 4 and the Discovery Claim, as well as the Gallery Hop, which kicked off the 12th Annual Riverside Arts Festival. This included a look at the entries for the Parks Canada Photo Contest.

Friday saw the Arts Fest's Open Studio events beside the Dike, the KPMA BBQ and Dance (featuring the launch of the book about J.J. Van Bibber), as well Sheila Heti's lecture and a filmscreening at the Oddfellows Ballroom, organized by the Klondike Institute of Art and Culture.

Also on Friday, the Dawson Daily News Building began to be the site of the three day Print and Publishing Symposium, sponsored by Parks, KIAC and the Dawson City Community Library. Eight artists used the building's facilities to produce work on a variety of themes. On both Saturday and Sunday there were readings and a roundtable discussion on related topics.

Finally, Friday saw the beginning of the annual Fastball Tournament, held at the Minto Park. This continued all weekend and concluded on Monday.

Saturday is always the time for Dawson's biggest parade of the year, one that makes the Canada Day event look like a dry run. Before the parade St. Paul's Church offered a pancake breakfast at St. Mary's Catholic Church, while the Curling Club had one just down the street. After the parade and the awards there was a BBQ and kid's games.

A Tribe Called Red hosted an afternoon music workshop at the Front Street Gazebo over the noon hour and then gave a concert at the Palace Grand that night. In between and after there was a YOOP open house, Indian Bingo at the Dänojà Zho Cultural Centre, and another film screening at the Oddfellows' Hall.

The messiest event of the weekend is one of the most popular: the Klondike Valley Mud Bog.

Sunday saw two sets of talks. The first, called Spread the Word, was about publishing and was held at the Daily News.

The second, called The Grand Old Soapbox, took place at the Palace Grand and featured the music of Old Time Machine and a series of "talks by local and regional non-experts on random subjects."

After all that, there's the Outhouse Race and things will begin to calm down as September approaches.

Uffish Thoughts: The Current Search for Franklin's Ships Comes at a Bad Time

By Dan Davidson

*"Oh for just one time
I would take the Northwest
Passage
To find the hand of Franklin
Reaching for the Beaufort Sea
- Stan Rogers

Now as much as I love Stan Rogers' music and enjoy covering some of his songs myself, including the a capella "Northwest Passage" if I can find a couple or three good voices to work the harmonies with me, Stan got it wrong, as do most of the monuments to Franklin around the world.

He did not discover the Northwest Passage. He was a poor example of a Northern Explorer whose results seldom justified the expense lavished on them. He led four expeditions to the North. On the first he was defeated by pack ice and had to turn back. On his second he lost half his 20-man crew and it is probable that some of them starved off starvation by cannibalizing their dead mates.

His third expedition was a river journey on the Mackenzie and seems to have been his most successful.

Before his next he was briefly the Governor of Van Diemen's Land (Tasmania) and, while the record seems to say that he was an enlightened fellow there and did good work, the government terminated his appointment after just seven years.

He is remembered primarily for his disastrous fourth Arctic Expedition, in which all hands and his two ships, the Erebus and Terror, were lost. Trapped in the ice in 1846, they never sailed again, and a note that was eventually found indicated that Franklin died the next year. The entire crew perished from starvation, hypothermia, tuberculosis, lead poisoning and scurvy.

This was confirmed by a study of some of the bones from the crew in 1997, but Dr. John Rae, exploring on behalf of the Hudson's Bay Co., found out what happened to them in 1854. However, his report included evidence of cannibalism (also confirmed in 1997) and Lady Franklin enlisted the assistance of no less a wordsmith than Charles Dickens to make sure that no one took Rae's report seriously.

Over the next 40 years no less than 25 expeditions, some of which also came to grief, went in search of Franklin's missing ships and crew. As mentioned, some remains were discovered on Beechey Island, along with remains of material goods which certainly called the sanity of the crew into question.

Now we're off looking for Franklin again – well, for the ships at least. Prime Minister Harper referred to them recently as "our greatest undiscovered national historic site."

I don't object to searching for these ships. I'm sure there's a great deal of oceanographic data that can be collected during this attempt, Science, and perhaps even our knowledge of history, will be advanced, no matter what the outcome.

But this year? Now? It is surely fiscal folly to engage in this type of expense in the same year that the federal budget has gutted Parks Canada across the nation, reducing staff, eliminating the capacity for on site curatorial care across the nation (Dawson's hundreds of thousands of artifacts will be looked after by two persons from Ottawa), shutting down visitor access to Dredge No.4 and both the SS Keno and the SS Klondike (which are National Historic Sites of which we do know the locations), and terminating skilled workers left, right and center.

Apparently, under the new rules, Parks will retain the ability to tell the stories that make up the history of our nation, but lose the ability to know if they continue to tell the story correctly, or add to it by significant new finds.

Park employees who have not yet been terminated have been gagged by order of the Minister, Peter Kent, but when the local superintendent is forced to go to Dawson's town hall to ask the council to consider forgiving Klondike National Historic Sites the $11,000 bill that it costs them to be part of the town's fire monitoring system on its two dozen buildings, and further notes that he will probably have to downscale the security contract on KNHS properties when the current season expires, then you have to conclude that something is massively wrong and that Mr. Harper, Mr. Kent, Mr. Leef and Mr. Lang need to give serious thought to their policy on Parks Canada and revise their talking points.

I'll be happy to lend a hand, pro bono.

Dawson's Council and Chamber Question Northwestel's Plans

Story & Photo
By Dan Davidson

Neither the City of Dawson nor the Dawson Chamber of Commerce are enthusiastic about the proposed Northwestel Modernization Plan that the company is proposing to the Canadian Radio-Television Commission.

The August meeting of the chamber heard a litany of complaints involving telephone, internet and cellphone services, all of which have some connection to Northwestel. Dropped calls, slow data load times and inconsistent service were major complaints, as well as the service interruptions caused by damages to the single cable that carries all the telecommunications services on which Dawson relies.

There was no argument around the table when one business owner suggested that the service would only improve and the rates only go down when there was competition in the territory.

One of the major drawbacks in terms of the cellphone service available here in Dawson is that it cannot handle the newer "smartphones", including those which are standard issue for employees of the senior levels of government who may need to travel to Dawson for business.

At the town council meeting the same evening, council went well beyond simply complaining and approved the sending of a letter objecting to the entire $40 million dollar plan.

The letter which went out under Mayor Peter Jenkins' signature, made three major points.

"1. The application lacks the detailed information necessary for public support."

Jenkins stated that too little was known about the benefits that Dawson might enjoy for council to support the plan as stated. Nor did it indicate what the cost of service to clients was likely to be.

Dawson needs "more affordable cost of service, greater bandwidth availability and more reliable service" and the company has "consistently underperformed" in all these areas, he wrote.

"2. The utilization of the Astral Public Benefits finds to implement the Northwestel Modernization Plan would be a misuse of those funds; and

"3. The application appears to be yet another attempt by Northwestel to utilize external funding to continue to prop up immense profit margins."

Both of these points emphasize the public funding which has gone into the company's previous upgrades, citing in particular the $21 million investment of YTG funding that went into the CONNECT YUKON program during the first decade of the present century.

"Had it not been for the contribution of the Yukon Government, rural Yukoners would likely still be on dial-up service," Jenkins wrote.

Victor Henry Receives Jubilee Medal

Mayor Peter Jenkins presents the Queen's Diamond Jubilee Medal to TH Elder Victor Henry.

By Dan Davidson

The City of Dawson was one of the agencies given the opportunity to nominate an individual to receive one of the medallions being handed out to commemorate Queen Elizabeth II's Diamond Jubilee. The occasion for the presentation of that medal arose on the evening of August 22, when Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in Elder Victor Henry was invited to appear before council.

"We were presented with the opportunity to recognize one individual in the community for outstanding service," Mayor Peter Jenkins told the small audience, which included Chief Eddie Taylor, MLA Sandy Silver and Ranger Sgt. John Mitchell.

"Council unanimously supported Victor Henry for that wonderful medal. It's my privilege this evening to present Victor with that medal.

"As we all know, Victor was born and raised in Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in traditional lands, spent a great deal of time up the Dempster with his family, and he's been a stellar example with his involvement with the First Nation. (He's been) kind of the heart of gold that gives it all, does everything that he's asked to do and more."

Victor is noted for his participation as a lead singer in the Han Singers, the group that has done so much to foster pride in the TH community as well as the larger Dawson community. They have been acclaimed for their performances here and elsewhere in both Canada and Alaska.

Victor is known for sharing his advice and experience with community leaders and passing along what he was taught as a young person to the kids at the Robert Service School, both at the school and out on the land.

"Victor, on behalf of all of us here on council, all of us here in the community, it's my privilege to present to you the Queen's Jubilee Medal. Just keep up the good work and set that wonderful example as you've done all your life."

Victor received the medal and the congratulations of the gallery in silence, and no amount of prodding could coax any comments from him.

Dawson Increases Rental Fees for a Variety of Services

By Dan Davidson

No one can actually recall anyone wanting to rent a coffee urn from the City of Dawson's Recreation Department, but should that eventuality occur in the future, that service will be charged at a rate of "$10 per day or part thereof".

This was just one of 11 items added to the fee schedule bylaw for recreation equipment at a special council meeting held at the end of July.

Other items that might be rented included bleachers ($50), cross country ski packages ($10), a projector ($10) or screen ($10) and other items that might previously have been loaned out at no charge.

There is not only the cost of replacement equipment to be considered, but also the notion that people tend to look after things better if they have been charged something to use them.

Fees for the use of facilities at Minto and Crocus Parks did not increase, nor did the cost of reserving space at the swimming pool.

It's probably not well known that it is possible to reserve space at both the Front Street Gazebo and the new Picnic Shelter further up the street. There isn't actually a regular fee for simply dropping in and using either of these facilities, but if you want to reserve them with a guarantee that you will have them at a certain time, then the fee is $50, or $25 for a registered non-profit society.

Fees for the rental of city owned heavy equipment have gone up substantially. A backhoe went from $55/hr to $130, a dump truck from $62/hr to $130, and the utility truck (with crane) from $70/hr to $140.

Dock rental costs are increasing from $80/foot per season to $100, a reflection of the loss of revenue that occurred when the Yukon Queen II, which used to cover half the cost of the dock, was withdrawn from service this summer.

Service calls have been adjusted to reflect actual union billing costs. Flat rates of from $45 (regular) to $150 (holiday) have been replaced by hourly rates of $65 and $130 with minimum four-hour charges.

If a fire suppression unit is needed the flat rate of $325 has been raised to $400/hr with a minimum four hour charge. CAO Jeff Renaud says the big adjustment has been made to take into account the increased cost of consumable materials used by such equipment.

It will also cost more to be buried in Dawson, with a regular interment moving from $285 to $350 and a lower rate (from $135 to $165) for interment of ashes. The purchase of a burial plot and perpetual care has also been increased from $200 to $250 for ashes and $400 to $500 for a regular coffin.

HUMANE SOCIETY DAWSON UPDATE

with Katie Pearce, Humane Society Dawson

Kittens!

The Humane Society Dawson has three, beautiful, gray kittens up for adoption. There are two females, and one male. They are eight weeks old, ready to leave their mom, and definitely ready to leave the shelter. If the mother cat (who is also up for adoption,) is any indication of how these kittens are going to turn out, they are going to be wonderful cats! The mom has a great temperament, is good around other cats and dogs, and is very affectionate. The kittens have been socialized with other cats, dogs, adults and children. The kittens are also already litter box trained!

Each kitten has their own personality.

Satine, the smallest of the litter is a female, and she is quite mellow compared to her playful siblings. She is always the first to want to settle down and cuddle. Even if you are just standing in the room talking, she'll find a way to cuddle up on the top of your shoe!

Nigel, the male of the group, is playful and daring. While he likes to perch on your shoulder, he is also not afraid to jump off of it! Nigel really enjoys playing with toys, and wrestling with his sisters. Once he gets tired out, he loves to snuggle up with you for a nap.

Puffin, another female, is the largest of the three and is sweet and adventurous. She likes exploring the rest of the shelter, and meeting all the other animals within it. At the end of the day, she is ready to rest and relax on your lap.

Talk About Extinct!

By Lisa McKenna

Two 230 million old bugs (the Triassic period) were found in amber in northeastern Italy on Monday (Aug. 27th, 2012). Being enclosed within the amber they are very well preserved. Amber resin is from the sap of trees; it contains no water, and it can't be diluted. Older insects have been found fossilized in rocks but they are not so well preserved.

They call these bugs "Gold Bugs". They are actually gold in color and they are encased in golden tombs of amber. This is probably from feasting on trees and getting trapped into the dripping sap; resin is one of the world's oldest flytraps.

They are thought to be related to mites but mites are parasitic to flowers and 230 million years ago there were no flowers, no dinosaurs, and no Atlantic Ocean because the continents were still attached!

The gold bugs have fewer legs than modern day mites and they have a different shaped mouth, probably from eating off of trees instead of flowers. Not much is known about them as they have just been discovered but the scientific community is quite excited.

These ancient bugs may very well lead to answers about evolution/life and how it has actually evolved. I'm excited too! Can you fathom 230 MILLION YEARS? It blows one's mind.

Van Bibber Book Launched at KPMA Barbeque

By Dan Davidson

Since a good portion of J.J. Van Bibber's middle life period was involved with Placer Mining in the Dawson area, it was only fitting that the official launch of his book, I was Born Under a Spruce Tree, was held at the Klondike Placer Miners' Association's annual barbeque on August 17.

The book is not exactly an autobiography or memoir, but more a collection of stories – of which there are many, many more, though not perhaps as many as the thousands of photographs that J.J. and his late wife, Clara, left to the Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in Heritage Dept.

After the excellent meal, with steaks prepared by the Dawson Volunteer Fire Department, Clara (generally known as "Sis") Van Bibber took to the stage with 13 members of the extended clan to explain the book and its origins and give thanks to those who helped it come into being this quickly.

Much of the work had been done by the time J.J. died last January, but the final layout, design and printing took money that the family had not managed to raise.

During the spring granddaughter Shannon Van Bibber, who took the reins of the project, appealed to the community at large.

"Grandpa J.J.'s book is close to becoming a reality. But for this book to come to life, we need to raise $30,000 for layout, design, editing, printing, and distributing..."

The book, along with the exhibits of J.J.'s photography, came out of his association with the TH Heritage Department, which he sort of adopted as a second home after the death of his wife of 64 years, Clara, in 2004. Chapter 22 of the book talks about his relationship there and is called "They made my life worth living." Printing the book, however, was a product of the family itself, since TH just doesn't have the resources to go into the publishing business.

"This is Dads' story," Clara told the crowded arena, "told in his voice and compiled by Niall Fink, a young anthropology student from Alberta, and illustrated by his own grandson, Shane Van Bibber."

It is also crowded with dozens of photos from the Van Bibber collection. Nearly every page either has a picture on it, or is facing a full page shot on another page.

"For those of you that knew Dad, his stories will not disappoint you," she said. "For those of you that did not have the opportunity to meet him you will find in these pages an amazing story of his experiences and life along the Pelly, Mayo, Dawson and North Yukon area. He had a remarkable life and a remarkable memory, which is filled with vivid details of Yukon history."

"Throughout the book here is love between Dad and his brothers, his courtship and marriage to his life-long love, my mother, Clara, and also his treasured time spent with us, his family..."

Clara went on to talk about her father's employment history, which included, trapping, road construction and mining.

"This history of the economy of the Yukon can be aligned with whatever the Van Bibber brothers were doing."

There are stories of such unique events as building moose skin boats or rafts just to get across a river.

"There are keen memories of every place, river, stream and mountain, and a lot of the ridges of the Yukon."

"Photography was a passion for Mom and Dad and in this book lie many of their images, accumulated over several decades."

"As David Neufeld, who is here tonight, Yukon's own historian, so eloquently wrote in the epilogue,

"J.J.'s stories describe a romantic world where skilled and diligent people worked hard, where wealth and happiness were not measured in money or consumption, but where satisfaction and a fulfilled life rise from a close and loving family and the exercise of skills and talents for the benefit of the community. It is a world that exists and J.J.'s stories are a map to find it in our own lives."

"J.J.'s siblings, Alex, Pat, Lucy, Kathleen (are here tonight)," Clara continued, "(as well as) Dad's children, Steve and myself, and grandchildren and great grandchildren to celebrate this wonderful occasion. All are available to talk to you if you have any questions."

Special thanks were offered to the following people who supported the project in so many ways: Pat Van Bibber, Sr., Steve Van Bibber, Laurel Perry, Jo de Beaudrap, Lulu Keating, Karen Dubois and Jackie Olsen. These were cited as people who encouraged the project and helped to give it shape.

David Neufeld, Teresa Earle, the Yukon Archives and members of the Community of Dawson were given special thanks.

A list of two dozen key donors to the project is contained in the book but Shannon singles out Kaminak Gold Corporation for a $5,000 donation, fully half of the $10,000 that had been raised by the time the book was ready to go to press.

"This book was J.J.'s initiative, but it was only with support from (many people)," Clara said, "that this dream has come true."

Clara described another donor, Raymond Caley, at some length, calling him "like another another grandson" to her parents.

"Raymond was the first to come forward and offer a financial contribution. When it looked as though this book was not going to be completed, the thought of having to return his money and tell him the book was not going to be done, would have been extremely heart breaking for all of us. Raymond's contribution kept us going. Thank you for that, Raymond."

Much money remains to be raised, as the family borrowed the remaining funds to have the book ready. Part of the evening was a series of bucket draws to raise money for the project and the book itself was on sale at a $10.95 discount off the $49.95 cover price for that evening only. Items for the draws included enlarged landscape photos from the Van Bibber collection, paintings by local artists and items donated from businesses in both Dawson and Mayo.

"Thank you all for supporting J.J. Van Bibber's legacy and making this dream come true," Clara said.

She concluded with a special presentation to Shannon Van Bibber, who Clara said "came to my rescue" when the project was looking to be in a precarious state.

"We are very grateful for her. We cannot thank her enough for all the hard work that she has done to make this happen. We are forever grateful as a family and we love you dearly, Shannon. Mähsi Cho."

Hate Crimes and Christianity; Part 2 of 3

I wonder how leaders among White Supremacists (mostly members of the Southern Baptist community), who had grounding in Christian Scripture, could come to the conclusion that only white Protestants were acceptable to God? It seems to me that they take only what they like from Scripture, and dispose of any parts that do not conform to their beliefs. Still, their Hate is linked to their Christianity and they see this as a Divine Right. Any action, taken against another human being in Hate, is a crime.

The members of these groups, in effect, are homeland terrorists. They attempt to strike terror and fear among the populace, especially those who are not white Protestant. This group will hang, shoot, burn and murder by any method, any person simply because they are a different race or creed. The only real difference between this group and the KKK, is that this group does not wear a hood to cover their faces, though some will wear handkerchiefs over their mouths and noses in a way similar to the old Wild West bandits.

Nazi beliefs are very closely related to those of White Supremacists. They hold fast to the same belief system as those mentioned previously. The difference here is that they will proudly bear the swastika as a tattoo or on their clothing, and they deny the reality of the Holocaust. They will proudly hoist the Nazi flag, and in a similar fashion to the KKK, they will hide their faces. To me this idea of hiding one's face says clearly that they are fully aware that their actions are in extreme error. They know that what they do is not legal, and hide their faces so as not to be easily identified. These people have the desire to resurrect Hitler's ideology – the Master Race, eliminate the Jews, eliminate all non-white people, and destroy all mixed race relationships. They will kill in order to achieve their goals. And yet all of their Hate is also linked directly to Christianity.

Now, what about all those homophobes? How can Christianity be linked to these? Homophobia is directly associated with Christianity. So-called Christians preach loudly the profanity of homosexuality. They correctly use the appropriate Scriptures to support their viewpoints, but incorrectly and indirectly authorize their followers to abuse, beat, ridicule and murder homosexuals. It seems to me that when they read or study Scripture they read only about how the act is an abomination to God, and forget the main message of the Scriptures – FORGIVE! They seem to forget that Scripture tells them in simplest terms to Love the Sinner (person) and Hate the Sin (action). How can you Love the sinner if you are so focused on the act? Where is the Love when you beat a homosexual to death? By my understanding, Love is for all people regardless of their life-style. Consider this, if you cannot Love ALL people, you are NOT a Christian! Love is supposed to be the centre of the Christian Faith, yet so many attempt to make Hate the centre of their Faith.

This is just my opinion . . .
To be concluded . . .

Valedictorian's Speech 2012

By Cheyenne Rear

Good afternoon family, friends, faculty and fellow classmates. Today is the day. It has finally arrived, that the class of 2012 depart on our separate ways from Robert Service School. I've often wondered: how do you cram 5 years of being an RSS high school student into a few minutes? As I pondered this question, the poet within me took control. I call it "The RSS Experience":

*As we stand here today in our black, green and white
We reminisce about being an RSS Knight
Robert Service, Robert Service, oh where would we be?
Without you to teach us how to achieve
YES! The morning announcements! You better tune in!
And listen to Mr. Laszlo's awful jokes and still grin.
Every teacher has taught us so much in unique ways
Waving goodbye today is a very sad day
Robert Service, Robert Service, we bid you farewell.
Thanks for all the memories, because of you we'll excel.*

When I think about my favorite experiences at this school, I don't just think about the volleyball trips to Whitehorse, or going to Rock Creek Campground for the last day of school when we were little kids. I think about all the people I have met. So many have come and gone from Robert Service that made my experience here one to remember.

All the teachers that I have had were great in their own ways. But what each and every teacher had in common was that they wanted to pass down their knowledge to us.

Whether it was instructional, motivational, or personal. Whether they were helping with extracurricular activities or the coaches of sports teams, or your counselor, they were always there for you. I can personally say that the influence of all of my teachers has affected who I am today.

Six years ago, we were celebrating the same thing: Graduation from Elementary school to high school. And in that time, we also had some apprehension and fear for the future. Entering high school is a milestone that everyone must endure. The most intimidating part about high school at RSS, for me anyway, was Mr. Sutherland, who would stand outside his classroom between classes with his arms crossed and you never really quite knew just what was on his mind.

The difference between now and then is that we're not only starting on a new road of our lives, but merging onto the highway. We may run into a few dead trees on the road, or even a couple traffic jams. But we can only hope that the hard work we have put into these past few years, have helped shape us into capable adults. While some of us will further our educational development in graduate school, today marks a turning point for many of us that we can't ignore: we're headed out there into the real world. Should we be nervous? Not after decades of experience in school. But a little apprehension is understandable.

I would like to take this time to thank everyone, big and small, who has helped each and every one of us to get here throughout the years. Whether it is a parent, a grandparent, a guardian, an aunt, an uncle, or a neighbor, you have inspired and made it possible for us to get here. A generous thank you is well deserved.

Fellow graduates, and now as you walk across the stage, in The Palace Grande Theatre itself, where years and years beforehand so many RSS students have taken their last steps as high school students, think back to all the important people that have had an influence on you. Know that these people will always be with you no matter where you go. Whether your journey in life takes you to ups and downs, there will always be a time where you can say, "This was my high school life and I am proud of it."

And lastly, congratulations to all of my classmates for successfully completing high school, and becoming the graduation class of 2012! I have a few words of wisdom by Dr. Seuss before I leave you today:

*"You have brains in your head.
You have feet in your shoes
You can steer yourself any direction you choose.
you're off to great places!
Today is your day!
Your mountain is waiting.
So... get on your way!"*

Thank you

Ed Note: Somewhere back in June this item got lost. Here it is, in time to inspire whoever gets this honour for 2012/13.

Interim Staking Withdrawal Extended for Peel Watershed Region

W H I T E H O R S E (August 30, 2012) - The Government of Yukon today issued a temporary extension to the interim withdrawal from mineral staking for all lands in the Peel Watershed region.

"We anticipate that the final stages of the consultation in the land use planning process for the Peel Watershed region will begin this fall," Minister of Energy, Mines and Resources Brad Cathers said. "The temporary extension of the interim withdrawal until May 4, 2013 will allow additional time to complete the process of developing a fair and balanced land use plan."

The interim staking withdrawal will apply to subsurface mineral staking administered under the Quartz Mining

Act and Placer Mining Act until May 4, 2013. Work on existing mineral claims is allowed.

"Ideally we would like to see the land use plan for the Peel Watershed region completed before we would lift the interim withdrawal," Minister of Environment Currie Dixon said. "However we have been clear that this withdrawal has always been intended to be temporary, and we are most certainly not interested in an indefinite withdrawal."

Rights for oil and gas, and coal will not be issued in the region during this eight-month period.

Current regulatory processes for surface activities will continue to apply throughout the region.

The ongoing interim withdrawal enables continued progress on the region's land use planning process and does not pre-determine any outcomes in the land use planning process. The interim withdrawal was set to expire on September 4.

The Government of Yukon is working collaboratively with the Na-Cho Nyäk Dun, Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in and Vuntut Gwitchin First Nations along with the Gwich'in Tribal Council to enable completion of a Peel Watershed Regional Land Use Plan.

For more information on the Peel Watershed regional land use planning process, visit www.emr.gov.yk.ca.

Dawsonites Face Discovery Days Daze

by Dan Davidson

"Now I know why they call it Discovery Days instead of just Day," said the Klondike Sun's student reporter, Joanie Veitch. "I've been in a daze all day. There's just so much going on."

One thing was certain, even if the weather didn't cooperate for the entire weekend, there was enough of the good stuff to allow most of the key public events to be carried off without many changes to the schedule.

Commissioner Ken McKinnon and Minister of Tourism Art Webster are both claiming credit for halting the drizzle on Friday evening. While recreation director Peter Menzies was running around checking microphones and saying, "It's not really raining, folks. Just keep thinking that.", Webster stepped to the microphone and announced that the rain would be stopping in two minutes. It did, in spite of the fact that weather isn't in his cabinet portfolio.

The Commissioner, however, stoutly maintains that it stopped raining because it was his turn to speak. "I did the same thing at the Commissioner's Tea in June," he noted in support of this claim.

Whatever the reason, Friday evening cleared up and allowed time for speeches, a concert by the Grand Prairie Marching Band, a can-can demonstration by the hometown Bonanza Babes, and the opening of the fastball Tournament in Minto Park. Even the travelling carnival with games and mini-rides along the dyke was a hit.

Saturday kicked off with a pancake breakfast, and moved quickly into 5 and 10 km Fun Runs for the athletic types. At mid-morning the old Bank of Commerce building received a commemorative plaque from the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada. Then people moved off to view the Horticultural Show and get ready for the big parade. The new route, focussing more of the attention in the downtown area, seemed to be a hit with everyone.

Then, while horseshoes and fastball continued in the park, the kids games, parade awards and other contests moved down to the Front Street Gazebo and the greenbelt behind the Visitors' Reception Centre, keeping people happy and animated.

Billy Carmack, great grand nephew of gold finder George Carmack, was presented with a gold pan, a magnet and gold vial by Commissioner McKinnon.

Carmack said he had intended to visit the Yukon this year anyway, before all the fuss started. The quiet spoken man, who seemed out of place in the spotlight of public attention, said he wished he had been able to sneak into the territory and enjoy his sightseeing without all of the hullabaloo, but allowed that he was having the time of his life and an experience he would never forget.

McKinnon said he has been coming to Discovery Days celebrations for 35 years now, missing only a few since he first arrived in the Yukon, and he is always glad to be at another one.

His memories of the first few are a little dim as he was one of the summer workers in the bush who used to gather in Dawson to have a season-end blow out before heading back to school. His pleasures are a bit more sedate these days, but he says he always has a good time in Dawson.

His wife, Judy, has her priorities straight, he said, noting that she had loaded up on berries and salmon within hours of arriving in town.

By far the biggest hit, in terms of numbers in attendance, had to be the demolition derby at Callison Industrial Sub-division. Estimates of those in the crowd, watching the metal madness, range from 500 to 700. Fifteen people dared the nearby mud-bog challenge, organised by the Dawson Volunteer Fire Department; and the reported outcome was entrants - 0, mudbog - 15.

A late afternoon canoe race sponsored by the Eldorado Hotel, left some people hungry for the salmon barbecue later on.

Another highlight was the show "Spirit of a Nation", which played to a packed auditorium at the Robert Service School. Put on by the Canada 125 sponsored group, Experience Canada, the show started with a loose concert of favorite tunes kicked off by

What's Inside Discovery Days Wrap-Up

CIBC Repairs in Limbo as Ownership Dispute Continues

By Dan Davidson

It will take until next April to settle who actually has care and control /ownership of the Old CIBC building that sits crumbling on Dawson Front Street next to Parks Canada's SS Keno, but that isn't preventing the two sides in the argument from each continuing to maintain that it's theirs.

Mayor Peter Jenkins announced that the town owned the building in "fee simple" back in July of 2011, but the reality of the situation has not proven to be anywhere near that cut and dried.

The town does own the land on which the bank building sits. That deal was negotiated with the territorial government during John Steins' administration and seemed, for a time, to give the City of Dawson some leverage in dealing with contractor Mike Palma, who acquired the building itself from the CIBC back in the 1990s.

While Palma has maintained that he would happily fix up the building if a potential tenant approached him with a proposal, the fact remains that the building has continued to run down over the last twenty years, with bits of the tin siding and decorative facades falling off, and all the windows long since broken out.

Chamber of Commerce members complain about its condition on a regular basis and both the Visitor Information Centre and the Klondike Visitors Association report that they are asked why the building where Robert Service once worked has been allowed to get into such a sad shape.

Some years back the foundation was repaired, so the place is not likely to fall down. Windows were boarded up rather shabbily at one time but further renovations promised by the owner in 2010 never did take place.

In May 2012 City Council, while the matter was still in legal limbo, decided to act under its Nuisance Bylaw #07-03, which allows it to deal with matters of "unsightly property in or on public or private property."

"Part II - Nuisances, Dilapidated Buildings 2. No person shall cause or permit a bldg or structure to deteriorate into a ruinous or dilapidated state such that the bldg or structure: (b) Substantially depreciates the value of other land or improvements in the neighbourhood."

Council issued a request for proposals and eventually a tender, which led to acceptance of a bid for repairs by Williams Construction for approximately $8500.00 worth of remedial work on the building.

This was to include boarding up the windows in an acceptable manner and reattaching some of the tin siding and roofing that has been seem to be flapping in the breeze.

When Williams began work on the project, Palma arrived on the site and, with a lawyer on the phone, ordered him to halt work on the property.

This led the town to pass a further resolution on August 13, once again asserting its ownership of the property and maintaining that, as the owner, it is up to the town to carry out the necessary repairs that have not been taken care of in order to look after the city's legal interests.

The resolution states that "the current condition of the property poses an unacceptable potential liability to the City of Dawson and ... the Council of the City of Dawson, in its capacity as owner of the Property, has ordered that the works required to bring the Property in compliance with the Bylaw be undertaken as a matter of urgency and has a approved a contract to that effect ..."

It is worth noting that the resolution refers to the "property", which the city does own, while the repairs are to be carried out on the building, which both parties claim to

Mayor Jenkins continues to maintain that the fact that the building is permanently attached to the land makes it part of the land, and therefore, since the city owns the land, it also controls the building and that the work needs to be done.

"There's tin on the roof that's flapping in the breeze," he said, "and tin on the north side that's ready to fall off. It's titled to the city so if anybody gets hurt around that building, guess who's gonna get sued."

"We're covering ourselves, plus we're making an eyesore into something that should be much more (safe and attractive)."

The resolution goes on to register a lien on the title of the property to "for the total of the costs related to the works, including, but not limited to materials, labour, equipment, engineering, planning and administration."

The lien will cover the town's expenditures on the project in the event that the court decision does not go in the town's favour.

At the August 22 meeting CAO Jeff Renaud indicated that Jim Williams is not yet working directly on the site, but is preparing materials offsite for eventual installation.

Yet Another Blast that is Back from the Past!

By Lisa McKenna

Two twins got together in Chicago, then they got two of their "bro's" to join them and they started a legend. They called themselves TW4.

They were extremely famous in the late 70's and early 80's with their mixture of hard rock guitar and American musical theatre. They had 4 consecutive Multi-platinum albums (which means they sold at least 2 million albums per record).

They were Men Of Miracles within a Grand Illusion.

I grew up with them and so did you; they were a breakthrough to modern music and they changed the face of Rock and Roll.

They still continue to play and they are even better than they were first born! Named after a river in Greek mythology that flowed between Earth and the Underworld they became the legend. The rivers of the underworld are known as Lethe, Eridanos and Alph-eris. You should come sail away with me and look into my crystal ball and you just might find Styx!

Authors On Eighth Tour Walks the Block

By Dan Davidson

Given the importance of the written word in spreading and maintaining the legend of the Klondike, it is more than fitting that one of the highlight events of the Discovery Days celebrations should be a leisurely afternoon's stroll along the Writer's Block that is 8th Avenue.

The block begins at the corner of Eighth Avenue and Firth Street, where journalist and author Dick North caused a portion of Jack London's Cabin to be deposited after it was rediscovered on Henderson Creek. Later Dick's collection of London memorabilia and documentary proofs (many of which are now displayed at a computer workstation) inspired the creation of the Jack London Centre, which is run by the Klondike Visitors Association.

The collection is currently interpreted by Dawne Mitchell, who welcomed some 45 visitors to the first stop on the afternoon's tour, gave an abbreviated version of her usual daily lecture and inspired the creation of a progressive story (which made very little sense, but was kind of fun).

Moving along to the newly landscaped grounds of Robert Service's Cabin, the crowd got to sit on the newly constructed visitor seating (roofed against the rain, but still not proof against the glare of the mid-afternoon August sun) and listen to Parks Canada interpreter Sam Coxwell explain some of the history of the cabin (which he did not build, in spite of what you may read elsewhere – he rented it) and give an overview of the poet's life.

It's worth noting at this point that London was the best known, highest paid writer on his era and Robert Service certainly made more money from his verses than just about any other poet in the 20th Century. Both drew their inspiration from the Klondike.

Just across the street from that cabin is the modest house in which Pierre Berton spent half his boyhood, the part that seems to have inspired a great deal of his life. As most of the guests on the walking tour were not Canadians, it was necessary to explain something of Berton's life and significance and how the home, which is now a Writers' Retreat under the management of the Writers' Trust of Canada, has come to house 60 guests since it opened in 1996. This background was provided by a local journalist.

This year the summer time guest has been Joan Thomas, who was the host for this part of the tour, reading some from one of her novels, and assisting KVA staff with the giving out of some prizes.

Thomas also assisted by announcing the winners of the annual writing contest. This year there were 18 entries in the contest, which was themed to require stories, poems or essays that featured Yukon animals. The winners, who were announced at the Berton House stop, were Joanne Bell for her story "Wolves" and Shelly O'Brien for her poem "The Uppgirl".

Bell is a local author with numerous published short stories and two young adult novels to her name. O'Brien is an artist, writer and musician who has been visiting in town this summer, having lived here on two occasions in the past.

Thomas allowed a tour of Berton House, which is not usually open to the public, in spite of the odd tourist who ignores all the signs. The afternoon tour was a complete success and almost the entire starting group made it to the end of the afternoon.

The Sun will begin printing the contest winners and entrants with our next issue. You have some fine reading in store.

6 is for SIXES!

Do you remember being six? You were a big girl, or boy, and you were starting school!

A hexagon is six-sided shape, kind of like a honeycomb or the pieces on the back of a turtle.

Do you know that ants have six legs and locusts, the fastest flying bug, have six legs as well!

Ants live in colonies and every ant has a specific job. There are worker ants, female, which fetch the food, take care of the young ones, and search for food. Soldier ants that protect the Queen and the nest, and last, but far from the least, there is the Queen. The Queen is the only ant within the colony that can lay eggs. Queens can live for many, many years and produce millions of babies!

Locusts eat everything in sight and are known to completely destroy a farmer's crop and any other vegetation nearby, turning the land almost into a desert.

Then we have the Tree Lobster that is the size of a human hand. Six legged creatures are called hexapedes, the 'hexa standing for the number six and the 'pedes' meaning legs.

JUST FOR FUN

Watch the tree lobsters hatch out of a little, little egg. It's kind of freaky but you can find it on Google by entering Hatching of the Lord Howe stick insect.

Tree lobsters, which at 12 cm long are the heaviest flightless stick insects in the world, were found on Lord Howe's Island off the coast of Australia. In 1918 a ship was wrecked close to the island and they were stuck there for days. During this time a few black rats made it to shore and they found the tree lobsters were easy prey and good eating!

Soon there were no more tree lobsters to be found. Then 80 years later 24 were found huddled around the only surviving plant on Ball's Pyramid, an island rock that towers 1,844 ft above the ocean between Australia and New Zealand. Four of them were taken away, two of these four died but the other two have produced over 10,000 offspring.
