Election Forum Draws a Large Crowd

Story & Photos By Dan Davidson

A turnout of between 75 and 80 citizens and the presence of eight of the nine candidates seeking office in this month's municipal elections indicates that local politics has lost some of the stigma it suffered after the 2004 removal of the council that was elected in the fall of 2003 when the town was declared bankrupt.

Mayor Peter Jenkins, who has declared that unfinished business caused him to reverse the very public assertion that he would not run again, made at the Association of Yukon Communities AGM here in May, pronounced this a good thing during his closing remarks at the election forum on October 9.

Jenkins said little that would explain his late date decision to file nomination

Mayoralty candidates are Wayne Potoroka and Peter Jenkins. Council candidates are incumbents Stephen Johnson and Bill Kendrick, followed by Hector Renaud, Darren Taylor, Johnny Nunan and Kyla McArthur. Dick Van Nostrand was unable to get back to Dawson in time for the forum due to undergoing medical treatment.

papers, which he had previously said he would do only if someone "really pisses me off", but he did speak to the issues which he feels he needs to be there to wrap up.

include These the building of a new recreation centre with artificial ice, improvement of the potable water supply, resolving issues with YTG over the Quigley landfill, developing affordable building lots, achieving affordable wastewater treatment and district heating, finalizing the new Official Community Plan and gaining control of mining activity within the town boundaries.

He felt that the outgoing council had inherited an administration in which only the fire department was running up to par, and that his > council had done a lot to put in place effective more financial controls and work towards more enforceable bylaws.

> Wayne Potoroka, who has served on this last council as well as an earlier one, agreed with many of these points and actually introduced a number of them as he spoke first.

Potoroka, who has been running for the mayor's office since May, presented himself as a cooperative and approachable person with a history of consulting and working effectively with others. In his view cooperation, rather than confrontation, is the way to accomplish positive results.

Running down the same list of priority items that Jenkins would list just after him, Potoroka noted that very little had been accomplished on any of them over the last three years, and that the town lacked any

Uffish Thoughts: Tourism Cuts Reconsidered in Nova Scotia

After the tenth or eleventh "I don't suppose you're coming home this year" from my octogenarian aunts and uncles, we decided we had better check out our Aeroplan points and see what we could do. So here I am, writing from Nova Scotia, where it seems that it's not only the federal government that can make really stupid policy decisions when it comes to promoting tourism.

I've written here before of the Ship Hector, a magnificent reconstruction of the 18th century vessel that brought 189 displaced Highlanders to a spot near present day Pictou, Nova Scotia, in 1773. In the 1980s and 90s a replica of the Hector was constructed and established on the Pictou Waterfront, which is quite pleasant when the effluent from the pulp mill across the bay isn't blowing that way. There's a commemorative museum, the Hector Heritage Quay, which is as good a site as anything comparable that I've seen, and a tourist store to go

We've visited the site several times and were shocked, two years ago, to discover that people could no longer tour the actual ship. The Town of Pictou, faced with a hard choice of building a sewage treatment plant, had cut its funding as the quickest means to meeting its other obligations.

It's open again now. After a year of this, a local non-profit group purchased the site from the town for $9 and took over the running of it. They are heavily in debt and running mostly on volunteer labour, but they are determined that the town's main tourist attraction should not have a padlock on its gangplank

Ironically, the town still advertises the Hector in a major way on its own website (http://www.townofpictou.ca/hector heritage quay.

html) and attempts to bask in its reflected glory, but the real credit goes to the Hector Quay Society (www. shiphector.com) for taking the project out of the hands of people who lacked vision.

I'm not suggesting that a similar plan might salvage the damage done to tourism in Whitehorse, Haines Junction and Dawson City by the cuts to Parks Canada operations in all three communities, but it does inspire one to seek solutions outside the box.

Leaving Pictou we motored to Yarmouth, where a motel just north of town bore the following sign: "No ferry. No of building a sewage treatment html) and attempts to bask in visitors. No business. 50 wasted plant, had cut its funding as the its reflected glory, but the real years."

The short version of this story is that the ferry from Yarmouth to the USA was cancelled by the current government (NDP) in 2009 and tourism from the USA has fallen off quite dramatically since then. Apparently the traditional route was to land at Yarmouth, drive around the Maritimes, and then head home by road via New Brunswick – or the other way around. Either way there was a loop.

An older, aging ferry was replaced by one that really wasn't suited to the route. The passenger load dropped and instead of addressing the problem the province cancelled the subsidy that kept it running and the ferry service shut down.

Now someone seems to have realized that this was a mistake and there is talk of getting the service running again. A feasibility study, which should probably have been done three years ago before the service was scrapped, has concluded that with a revamped business model and a ship better suited to the type of traffic it needs to haul, the service could be successful.

Of course, even if it isn't, it could be the sort of loss leader that actually creates hundreds or thousands of other economic opportunities from Yarmouth down to Pictou and beyond as a result of its existence.

The math is interesting. The province has saved $6 million a year since the ferry service ended, but it's going to cost them an investment of at least $21 million to get it underway again, not to mention the cost of the study. In the end, was there an actual saving? It doesn't seem so.

Like so many cost cutting initiatives, by so many levels of government, these ones seem to have been ill considered, less effective than intended, and freighted with lots of apparently unforeseen collateral damage.

- Wayne Potoroka: After serving on councils under two mayors, Wayne Potoroka thinks he has a new approach to offer Dawsonites.
- * Peter Jenkins: In spite of announcing his retirement at the spring meeting of the Association of Yukon Communities, Peter Jenkins is looking for another term as Dawson's mayor.

kind of long term strategic and has a special interest in plan to make them a reality. Such planning would be key to any administration he led, he said.

Each of the six candidates who were present introduced themselves and made a brief pitch for their candidacy.

Incumbent Stephen Iohnson emphasized planning and his engineering of involvement in Dawson background as major assets.

Incumbent Bill Kendrick, who works in the Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in's Lands Department, introduced himself as an independent thinker willing to ask tough questions.

There were five new candidates, of which four were present.

Dick Van Nostrand, husband of the town's Senior Financial Officer, Joanne Van Nostrand, and former owner of the Downtown Hotel, was unable to get back to town in 24/7 facility are going to time for the forum.

Hector Renaud, father of city manager Jeff Renaud, spoke of his experience as a land developer in dealing with negotiations at several levels of government.

Darren Taylor, a former Tr'ondëk the of Hwëch'in, and currently employed as the Director of TH's Lands Department, presented himself having experience in both to staff housing for the government and business, Yukon Hospital Corporation as well as having held down was going to put a strain jobs in a number of other fields.

Johnny Nunan has spent six years on the Klondike Visitors Association Board and worked for Parks Canada for many summers before taking on his current job as a mining inspector. He is active in soccer at all levels from local to national sports. He, too, likes to ask questions and find answers.

Kyla McArthur is currently the Administrative Assistant at the Yukon School of Visual Arts, but has an impressive Dawson résumé including bartender, Zamboni driver and researcher for the Across the River Consulting. Her list organizations is a veritable alphabet soup of acronyms. She is new to politics but promised to work hard and listen.

It's not unusual for Dawson election forums to spend a lot of time on issues over which the municipality ultimately has no control. With the new hospital on Sixth Avenue nearing completion (in spite of delays that will push the opening back some months) people are wondering where the increased staff for this

According to mayoralty candidates Potoroka and Jenkins, Yukon Housing social housing units on Sixth Avenue are currently being renovated to house hospital staff. As the question made its way down the line of candidates the number varied from 8 to 12 units, but most seemed to feel that converting social housing on Dawson's already tight housing market.

The surprise question of the evening was asked by Dina Grenon and refined by Shirley Pennell. What was the opinion of the candidates on the issue of a bridge across the Yukon River and where should it go? All were in favour of a bridge, but there was some division on where it should go. Johnson opined that Dawson would have suffered Eagle's fate in 2009 had the bridge been built across the ferry route where YTG wanted to put it before rising cost estimates put the project back on the shelf.

Potoroka reminded everyone that it was a YTG Highways project over which the town had no control, while Jenkins said discussion was possible.

Business owner Bill Bowie brought up the issue of boundary expansion, which most of the candidates converted to a question about voting regulations. Presently, as Jenkins noted, Dawson services all of the Klondike Valley down to Henderson's' Corner. Several candidates felt those people should have some say in how the town is run, but some form of boundary adjustment is the price one would currently have to accept to get that right. Comments about different levels of taxation (keyed to the level of municipal services provided) ran up and down the table.

Expansion was attempted in the early 1900s. Aside from extending the boundary down the valley to Quigley Gulch, it resulted in Dawson being given control of much of the settled area across the Yukon River, territory, which the town subsequently relinquished because it could not service it.

Johnny Nunan tied the building of a bridge and boundary expansion together, which did echo a Municipal Board recommendation from the early 1990s. It would, he

Visitors Disappointed

To the Editor:

With regards to the closing of tourists attractions such as Dredge # 4. Discontinuing boat trips to Eagle, Alaska and other attractions, it is unfortunate that the Federal Government cannot afford funding, staff, to maintain these various attractions.

My wife and I have visited the Yukon several times and found it a very attractive place to visit, and if we are able, will visit again. We have found trips up the Dempster Highway, boat trips up the river, visits to various old mining sites, most interesting, and will be very disappointed if they are discontinued and closed down because of a lack of staff.

Sincerely,

Emil & Lorraine Senft Sherwood Park, Alberta

said, expand the tax base and provide easy access to land for building lots, a topic that popped up in most of the candidates' statements.

Recreation was a topic that emerged from several directions. All the candidates were in favour of improving recreation facilities, Jenkins was most adamant about building a new one, though Johnson was a close second, calling the current building a WRECK Centre. All agreed that the town should not be the only municipality in the Yukon without artificial ice, but Nunan, Taylor and Renaud were prepared to study options for dealing with the existing building before acting.

Thepresentcouncilenacted a tax increase that will put about $180,000 annually into a Rec. Centre reserve fund for the purpose of exploring options and getting started with solutions.

There wasn't much discussion of UNESCO World Heritage Status, though it was raised as a footnote in a couple of responses.

There was general agreement among all the candidates that the issue of mining within the town's boundaries needs to be settled. Johnson noted that the town had had to spend around $60,000 dollars in legal fees dealing with the problems raised by the operations of the Slinky Mine, just off the Dome Road.

Along with several others, Taylor suggested that buyouts, land swaps and other options needed to be looked into, but that ultimately it was up to the territory to enact legislation to put mining within town boundaries offlimits.

Other questions involved the need for youth programs and issues related food security and energy independence.

The forum, sponsored by the Dawson City Chamber of Commerce and Emceed by the Klondike Visitors Association's Bill Holmes, was well mannered and the audience was attentive. Holmes had a little trouble holding some of candidates to their time limits and some citizens' preambles took a while to get to their questions, but the two hours were well filled.

Mayor: Peter Jenkins; Wayne Potoroka

Councillor: Stephen Johnson; Hector Renaud; Katherine Biernaski; Bill Kendrick; Johnny Nunan; Dick Van Nostrand; Darren Taylor; Kyla MacArthur. This is the second of two issues the candidates were given space to state their positions. The election is tomorrow. Get out there and vote!

Johnny Nunan: Candidate for Council

Greetings Dawson City.

My name is Johnny "Caribou" Nunan and I am seeking a council position in the up-coming municipal election in Dawson City.

As someone who has been in this community for 26 years, is growing two beautiful girls and who has a fantastic and supportive wife named Jennifer, it would be my honour to secure your vote and serve as a voice for you on city council.

I am seeking your vote and if elected by you I will be:

- open and transparent from council to citizens.
- following the processes in place for outstanding issues
- reasonable and utilizing a common sense approach to current issues
- trying to increase local recreation funding because we need to continue to provide lifestyle choices for living healthier lives: ie recreation department kids programing, Top of World Golf Course, and of course, hockey, soccer, volleyball etc.

 experienced in board meetings (Robert's Rules) at a national, territorial and local level A quick look at my community involvement:

- Board of KVA for the last 6 years
- Chair of Diamond Tooth Gerties Committee
- President Yukon Soccer Association for the last 4 years
- Director Canadian Soccer Association 4 years
- President's Forum Member Canadian Soccer Association
- appointed in January to the YRAC Board (Yukon Recreation Advisory Committee)
- Vice President Dawson City Minor Soccer and Coach

If you vote for me, I thank you and promise to serve your interests and reflect the best interests of Dawson City as a whole.

I'd also like to thank all the candidates running in this year's election. Isn't it fantastic to have a choice???

Stephen Johnson: Candidate for Council

My name is Stephen Johnson and I am seeking to be re-elected as Town Councilor in the upcoming election on October 18, 2012.

I have been a member of this community since January 1999 when I came here to take over the position of Production Superintendent at the Brewery Creek (formerly Loki) gold mining operation. Later promoted to Site Manager, I directed part of the reclamation phase of the operation, for which I take a great deal of pride. This mine serves as a model for how reclamation should be carried out.

Prior to these Dawson years, I lived in many parts of Canada, England, Germany and the United States.

I hold a Bachelor's and Master's degree in engineering (mining) from Queen's University, and I am a registered professional engineer in the Yukon with some 37 years open pit experience in the mining industry. A mining engineer is a generalist and, as such, I have an understanding of "engineering things". I fully support environmentally responsible and safe mining.

When the wind is right, I take to the sky in my paraglider and rejoice.

I am fully committed to the historic preservation of our town, while being committed to property rights of

I am pleased to support the efforts of the Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in who develop and stage programs and events for our young people and the entire community. Our arts ventures strengthen and grow with each year, bringing the world to Dawson and Dawson to the world and I support them all.

Thank you for your attention and please vote for the people you believe will do the best job for our marvellous town. In that regard, I hope I receive your approval.

Dawson Joins Daycare Protest

A dozen concerned citizens turned out on October 5 to protest the lack of an increase in the Direct Operating Grant (DOG) given to daycare facilities in the Yukon. Workers and board members at the Dawson Daycare were joined by parents and concerned citizens, as well sympathetic members from the Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in's Tr'inke Zho Daycare.

demonstration The began on Front Street and worked its way around to Fifth Avenue, in front of the Robert Service School. It was not that the school had anything to do with the issue, demonstrators explained; there was simply more traffic there.

Drivers along the street waved and honked in a friendly show of support for

The government subsidizes daycare operations by means of a Direct Operating Grant which the association says needs to be increased to meet the needs of both the daycares and the families which make use of them.

Hence, there was a mixture of messages in the signs: "The D.O.G.'s Leash is Too Short", "No Daycare = No Work", "Families Need Support".

Dawson Daycare Board member Lupin Bulmer complained that the support from the government for daycare operations just hasn't kept pace with increasing costs, especially in Dawson City, where those costs are even higher than they are in Whitehorse.

"We pay a lot more for all of our supplies, for housing, for food, etc., and yet we're getting the exact same amount as Whitehorse. That's our own small town

"Almost everywhere else in Canada has that title, except for the Yukon," Smidts said. "Educators would like that recognition."

One of the signs in the protest bore the message "ECE is the acronym for me."

Childcare workers in the Yukon are required to take a minimum of 60 hours of course work to be registered as a Level 1 provider. After thatadditionalcourseworkis expected to have the person move through Levels 1, 1A, 2, 2A and up to Level 3. Course work includes training in Health, Child Development, Self-Esteem, Methods and a Field Placement at each level.

The goals of the protest recognition, include improved funding and a simple formal response from the government. This issue has been on the table for a few years and the YCA feels issue, but it goes for all the small communities where there are daycare programs running."

Daycare workers, board members, politicians and concerned citizens protested shortfalls in early childhood education funding on October 5 between 9 and 10 a.m.

"This is about getting recognition of how important those years are for the kids who go to daycares," said Lindsay Smidts, who works at the Dawson Daycare and is a member of the Yukon Association Childcare Board.

The YCA would like to see daycare workers classified as Early Childhood Educators in light of the role they play. That wording can be found on the government's Health and Social Services website, but is not used in either the Child Care Act or in the Guidelines for Child Care Professional Level Designation.

it is not being heard.

"There's been no response," said Smidts, "and that was a major reason why the Yukon Childcare Association wanted to do this, to get a response to letters that have been sent."

The YCA had submitted proposal regarding remuneration and health benefits to YTG, but it was dismissed, she said.

"The Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in are leading by example," said Klondike MLA Sandy Silver, who was part of the demonstration. "They have good wages for their staff in general and they include in that the daycare."

In Dawson the daycares did not shut down in order to facilitate the protest.

Final Briefs from Dawson's Council

Story & Photos By Dan Davidson

The last session of the present Dawson municipal council dealt with a number of commonplace matters, belying the fact that it was the last time this particular group will sit together.

The only special item on the agenda was the presentation, by CAO Jeff Renaud, of certificates of recognition to all the members, thanking them for their "exemplary leadership and dedication" to the tasks council had faced since taking office in 2009.

Rick Riemer is the only member not seeking reelection on some sort, though any of them might be eliminated on October 18. Stephen Johnson and Bill Kendrick face competition from five other candidates, so they might not be back. Peter Jenkins and Wayne Potoroka are vying for the Mayor's chair, so one of them will not be back.

While the Biomass District Heating Plant located behind the new Wastewater Treatment (WWTP) Plant is still under development, council has decided that it is not satisfied with the memorandum of agreement under which it will use the heat in the WWTP and voted to give YTG the appropriate 60 days notice that it is terminating that agreement.

The issue, as Mayor Jenkins explained during question period, is that the MOA was gong to require the town to purchase a fixed amount of heat from the plant whether it needed it or not. Council and town administration want to have to pay only for the heat that they actually use to heat the town's potable water supply and the WWTP.

The town is still in favour of the project; it simply doesn't like the fee structure.

Folks will have noticed work going on at the town's wells, located between Front Street and the dike. Superintendent of Public Works Norm Carlson's report indicated that all three wells have had their electric motors replaced and that an electrical power monitor has been installed to chart any voltage fluctuations that might affect the performance of the pumps. Carlson notes that there have been fluctuations since Yukon Energy put Dawson on the hydro line from Mayo and this has caused problems with some types of equipment.

It was noted in the same report that YTG has just about finished the contaminated soil removal from the site of the old Korbo Apartment Building on 6th Avenue. Heating oil from the spill there "has spilled onto 6th Avenue ... (and has) most likely migrated down our water and sewer service trenches and has followed the pipes on the street."

Carlson says this problem will be dealt with by the Yukon Housing Corporation, most probably in 2013.

Continuing the review of city bylaws, council decided to repeal two more. Bylaw#164 adopted the City of Seattle, Washington State, as a "SisterCity" in 1972, at the request of Seattle. Bylaw #245 likewise adopted the City of Bendigo, Australia, as a Sister City 1977.

Seattle was, of course the place where the news of the Gold Rush first hit the world 1897. Bendigo had its own gold rush

Retiring Councillor Rick Riemer has served a term and a half and is the only councillor not running again.

While both places have some significance in what historian Douglas Fetherling has referred to as "The Gold Crusades" (in his 1997 book of that name) neither connection seems to have been made much use of since the original bylaws were passed, and so the process of repealing them was begun. It will be left to the next council to finish the process.

of tourism and our business neighbours are intimately aware of the special needs and wants of the travelling public, and how hard one must work to ensure that those expectations are met.

The Dawson City Chamber of Commerce presented the Business of the Year Award to Pat and Diane Brooks of the Gold Rush Campground RV Park.

"They serve the community throughout the summer (from late April to mid September) by providing our tourists and locals with excellent service," read Karla Mather.

" They always come to all of the chamber lunches (in season) and provide insight within the business community to what tourists are looking for while travellingthroughouttheYukon Territory. They want to see Dawson City be successful and prosper in the tourism industry and we would like to honour them with this award today to show our appreciation for their dedication to the Dawson City Chamber of Commerce."

The Brooks had been notified of their award and sent the following response.

"What a wonderful surprise to complete another season in Dawson City and receive the news that we have been nominated as the Chamber Members of the Year for 2012.

"This is particularly meaningful recognition as many of the chamber's members are associated to the business

"It is so heartening to work in a community where the daily support between businesses is very much the norm and we have been able to reach out to those resources to assist us and enhance our level of service. We thank you for the nomination, and further, every member of the Chamber of Commerce and the business community in Dawson City has helped us to achieve this special recognition.

Thank you all."

"It was an easy task to pick the Chamber Member of the Year Award," said Helen Bowie. "The recipient of this award has been a long-standing member of the Chamber and she's recognized by everyone here. It would be hard to miss her and she is the first one in line when it comes to volunteering her time and money towards any project chamber is involved in.

"If we had to reimburse her for the hours she has committed toward our Chamber we would be bankrupt, and she continues to refuse any monies for the endless hours she has given us.

"Just recently she devoted that the last couple of weeks to organizing our financial statements. She has refused any recognition for hard work, but she is getting it anyway. Here's to you, Dina Grenon, our Chamber Member of the Year."

"Thank you very much," Grenon said. "I don't do it for recognition; I do it because I believe in the Chamber of Commerce."

Joanne Bell is the author of two young adult novels, Breaking Trail (2005) and Juggling Fire (2009) as well as numerous short stories. She is a teacher and wilderness interpreter. This is the second part of her 2600 word submission. The first part dealt with wolves, beavers and wasps.

A few years after the wasp attack, we built a new cabin one spring almost at the top of a pass. We lived in a wall tent. I covered the ground with spruce boughs and the tent smelled like spruce needles and coffee and Labrador tea. We had two girls now and they straddled the log walls pretending they were horses. They made bough beds for the dogs and chinked the cabin logs. They were two and four years old, and the sun bathed the new clearing. We knew we should get to town, but we were too happy where we were.

Every day, the wolves sang. We thought they had a den across the creek. "I want a baby woo," said baby Mary earnestly, and she who always stayed in sight toddled defiantly down the trail towards the wolves, time and time again. I scooped her up repeatedly, sorry that she had only us to play with. Small children, I thought, perhaps didn't distinguish between a wolf cub and a child as a potential friend.

And then my husband left to break trail to another cabin. The wolves didn't make a sound while he was gone. I lay in the wall tent in the dark with the girls breathing about me, and missed the calls of my neighbours. The cabin, the country, seemed lonely without them.

"They followed me," said W. when he returned. I heard them howl beside me when I broke trail. I heard a bark in the night. A wolf was sitting in the clearing staring at the door."

Was there really a wolf den with baby woos? If so, did anyone stay and look after them?

A couple of years before wolves children, having surrounded W. and me. We were walking one spring night up the river. The snow was heavy slush, impossible to move through during the day. We didn't like being cabin-bound, and that night the sky was clear and the snow had frozen back into grains and we could walk on the crust. We wandered along, our two huskies chasing squirrels close by.

We didn't feel like going home. There was another cabin in ten miles. We searched our pockets and found a tea bag. With caffeine taken care of, we thought perhaps we could keep walking. We had matches and there was a pot at the other cabin, and there wasn't any particular reason to turn back. Except, of course, we might not be able to get back; the snow would have melted again by noon. We sat on the river bank, legs dangling over, listening to a dipper sing and talking this over. The dogs barked.

They burst from the trees and pressed against me.

"Wolves," said W.

There they were, a pack of perhaps seven or eight, and there we were with two fat young dogs. The wolves stood across a dry slough, watching.

"Go, go!" one of us shouted and we stood up, though the dogs did not. We waved our arms and the wolves backed away.

They milled about in a huddle, then fanned out and walked across the slough toward us. We were yelling; both of us were yelling now, but the wolves kept coming very slowly with their yellow eyes locked on to ours.

I was about to witness something that was said to never happen: wild wolves attacking people. Would they brush us aside and eat our dogs? If we didn't move, what would happen?

A shot zinged over the head of one wolf. It's stressful when you have a gun and have to decide if you should use it. I don't like to be the person with the gun. I like to have bear spray and bear bangers, but when the wolves marched across that slough, neither was yet in use.

"Don't shoot!" I said. "I want to see what happens."

W. shot. A wolf stumbled, dropped and the rest of the pack ran. From behind us, another wolf howled.

We had been surrounded.

Skinned, the wolf smelled putrid. Nobody would want to eat a wolf. It looked so beautiful - like an athlete, I thought, with a high waist, marathoner's legs and powerful shoulders. Wolves don't live long in the wild. I love to lie in one of our dark cabins with perhaps a kerosene lamp glowing with wick turned low, and listen to wolves in the distance coming closer and closer as the night wears on. I like to call in the dogs and lie so I can see the stars out the window and the wall of forest drenched in moonlight. I like to listen to the molten cries of wolves, my neighbours.

How I wish they could be my friends, the pitch of their cries rising with the wind in the tops of the spruce trees, my life lovely around me.

Once, long before children or husbands, I squished a mouse – I think it was a mouse. I didn't look carefully. I squished it in my bed while asleep. I probably turned in a dream and it suffocated slowly under my stomach and I never even knew the moment of its death. I didn't want to go to bed again. I didn't want to squish mice while I slept. It was horrible for me, though worse for the mouse. For days, I tucked the blankets in so hard and tight I couldn't move, and therefore couldn't sleep.

I'm sorry, mouse, but you would have been dead a long time ago now anyways. I'm sorry if you didn't have any children. I hope you had children before you succumbed. I picked you up by the tail with toilet paper and flung you into the snow. Probably somebody ate you, but I'm not sure who. I didn't mean to be disrespectful; I just didn't like the thought of inadvertent slaughter in my sleep. Your intestines were smeared on my sheets.

I haven't mentioned bear encounters. I'm hesitant to, as I'm grateful to the bears I've encountered over the years, because they haven't taken a swipe at me or my children, not even once. Nor have they attempted to eat us. They have only stood on back legs and woofed and shook their heads, making my heart beat faster and my voice slow and deepen. Bears have watched me and I have watched them. Thank you, bears I have met, for not killing me. Please don't thank me for not killing you, as it's your home in the first place. I'm sorry that I too feel so at home there. I'm sorry you haven't been able to get rid of me, and hope that I haven't been too much of a

At this moment, we are deciding how best to "manage" such a land. As one species, we may end up deciding the fate of many others. Can we at least know who they are? Can we imagine what it's like to BE them? As stewards of this wild and beautiful land, can we imagine what the forest floor looks like from the perspective of a wolverine, or what the wind smells like to a fox kit sunning in its den entrance? What is it like to be a caribou ranging across the tundra while the first snows fall?

Over all the years, this is what I most remember. This is what has most moved me: caribou skylined on a ridge-top while my snowshoes sunk into the slush, wolves that surrounded me and many, many more who simply made the night lovely with their cries.

May they always remain.

Andersen Dazzles with Guitar Work and Vocals

Matt Andersen plays heavy acoustic blues. Considering the size of the man, that could be taken as a bad play on words. He's a big shaggy bear of a fellow, dressed in a loose shirt and baggy jeans. He's grown a beard for this visit to Dawson City and it goes well with his heavy metal hair. He makes a large concert sized guitar look small, and when he hunkers down into a solo you get an idea of what the Muppet's Fozzy

Bear might have looked like if plenty flexible and long enough he had played a guitar.

Does he ever play that guitar! The pickers in the audience really have trouble deciding which hand to watch. Will it be the right hand, where he switches between fingering styles and has a knack for hiding that flat pick between two fingers while using all the rest of them to do something else? Or will it be the neck, where the man who calls his website stubbyfingers.ca, proves over and over that his digits are to do anything he wants?

Then, of course, there's the voice. I'm not entirely certain he actually needed the microphone, in spite of the constant chatter from the folks at the very back of the ballroom who apparently came to drink and talk rather than listen and get in the groove. When Andersen really decides to let loose on a note, the hair goes flying back and he aims his vocals at the ceiling, which does not seem to diminish them by many decibels.

It doesn't matter whether he's playing his own compositions or covering tunes by Bruce Springsteen, Curtis Mayfield, or Charlie Rich, Andersen has the sort of voice that can do all of that and make it sound natural. He owns every song he plays and sings.

Andersen says he came to his particular take on the blues by way of Eric Clapton, B.B., King, the Chicago electric and Mississippi Delta sounds. He is adept whether strumming, fingering or sliding on his instrument and has been building a steady reputation over the last decade with a series of albums and stage performances with the likes of Randy Bachman, Bo Diddley, Little Feat, America, Loverboy and April Wine. He has been a regular guest on Stuart McLan's

"Vinyl Café", has toured in the United Kingdom and won Memphis's famed International Blues Challenge in 2010. This led to festival dates in France, Italy, and the US, where he toured with Old Crow Medicine Show. In 2011 Andersen was honoured with the Maple Blues Awards for Entertainer of the Year and Acoustic Act of the

Home Routes Kicks off with a Lively Pair

Sarah Jane Scouten and Kristen Berkel love to play together when they can, and Sarah Jane's Home Routes tour in the Yukon, which ended in Dawson City on October 5, gave them another chance to get together.

Sarah Jane was the headliner, with her new CD, Magpie Waltz, ready for sale in the merch case between sets in Peter Menzies' living room. Kristen provided harmonies n instrumental backup on accordion and banjo, while Sarah stayed Jane mostly on guitar. They switch did instruments several for tunes, and Kristen also had a couple of solo numbers.

They did amazingly well, considering that Kristen had had to learn most of Sarah's material and work out arrangements while they were driving to the Yukon from Vancouver. They met there from their respective starting points in Winnipeg and Montreal.

Both young women are into roots music, blending bits of folk, bluegrass and country in their choice of cover material and in the songs they write themselves. They have appealing voices and a clear joy in their presentation.

There were about 15 people at this particular concert, the first of six in this series. C.R. Avery and Robert Sarazin Blake will behere on November 1, followed by the Crooked Brothers on the 30th. In the New Year we will see and hear Qristina and Quinn (Feb. 16), the Express Company (March 17) and Scott Cook (April 16). Times and places will be announced by either Peter Menzies or Karen Dubois, if you are not already on the email contact list for this series of pleasant evening events.

Rangers Celebrate 65 Years with a River Trip

Story & Photos By Dan Davidson

"Thank you for allowing us to come in and invade your small town here today," Brigadier General Kelly Woiden said to Mayor Peter Jenkins on October

He was referring to the assembly of First Canadian Ranger Patrol Group (CRPG), who were in Dawson City to celebrate the 65th Anniversary of the Canadian Rangers. Dawson was chosen as the place to celebrate this due to the patrol here being the first to "stand up" after the Rangers were created on September 4, 1947. Dawson's patrol began its existence on September 22 and the patrol in Whitehorse followed suit after this.

Woiden described Rangers as a case of "members of the community serving the community".

Jenkins replied that they were welcome any time.

The red-garbed Rangers had arrived in town about a half hour earlier, having concluded a Type 3 (Joint) River Exercise on three rivers while the Canadian Ranger National Authority was meeting in Dawson.

The river patrol was a threeday exercise with Rangers departing from three different landing sites.

Captain Steven Watton, Unit Public Affairs Representative, explained that Rangers from seven Yukon communities (Carcross, Carmacks, Dawson, Haines Junction, Pelly Crossing and Whitehorse) were represented in the exercise. There were also members from Atlin, Hay River, Gjoa Haven, Newfoundland and Labrador and Ontario.

The three patrols departed by boat from Minto Landing, Pelly Crossing and a spot near the McQueston Air Strip, and were met by a crew from Dawson who went upstream to rendezvous and then accompanied them to the landing near the bank beneath the Dänojà Zho Cultural Centre.

Woiden praised Sgt. John Mitchell for his role in making the exercise successful.

"Thank you very much for everything you've done today in making today happen. I know it just doesn't take overnight to make these things occur. They take a lot of effort and time. I certainly thank you for being a citizen-member of this community."

Dr. Whitney Lackenbauer, who is writing a history of the Rangers, was part of this exercise and Woiden thanked him for his efforts in this regard.

Alex Van Bibber and Percy Henry were part of the original Ranger mobilization in the late 1940s, and the General brought them forward.

"I'd like to thank you two on behalf of all of us. Thank God you stood up in that 1947 time frame and decided to support your community and support Canada. Thank you very much."

Brigadier General Woiden is the Chief of Staff for the Army Reserve and the Canadian Ranger National Authority.

"Today," he said, " I am here to recognize the 65 years since the stand up of the Canadian Rangers. We've been recognizing this by doing the patrol (Exercise: Ranger Origins) up the river. Representatives from all the Ranger patrols across the country are here. We've also had the working group and a series of conferences the last three or four days here in Dawson City."

Woiden is just two months into his leadership role in Yellowknife, so this was a great opportunity "for me to come and meet these wonderful folks ad citizens and the local community."

The Rangers roles, as ground searchandrescueandoperations watchers, has remained the same over the years, he said.

"They are folks who have the capability - who have skill sets that we don't have to train. They have those natural skills sets to be able to work in the environment in their local communities. They can do ground search and rescue with a degree of skill set that you can't really teach; they have it as a natural capability.

"The Army's mission has been somewhat refocused on the North, so the Ranger's mission has evolved over time. Our regular and reserve units are both starting to work a lot more with our Canadian Rangers to provide that capability."

Woiden said the number of Rangers has been growing steadily over the last four to five

"We will be approaching 5,000 Rangers across the country and in the (five) major Ranger Patrol Groups.

"As the government of Canada continues its interest in the North, to shore up its sovereignty, to shore up the interest and ability to work in the North; I think as the Canadian Forces itself gets back into cold weather operations, we'll be using the Rangers much more, because they are the footprint in the community and the ability to operate in the cold operations."

The Canadian Rangers are organized as follows:

• 1 CRPG is located in northern Canada with a total of 58 patrols in the Yukon, the Northwest Territories, and Nunavut. Headquarters in Yellowknife, Northwest Territories. Number

The CKS Has Resources, but Needs Help

By the CKS Board

We are the Conservation Klondike Society board. We have gone through many huge efforts in order to, cleanup our operation, make it safer and more efficient. As well we have done some work on strengthening our administration. Things look good!! We have means and a lots of ideas but limited time to get involved. All members of our board have complementary personal profiles but we wish and seek enhancement for the CKS's team.

We have seriously been thinking about closing our doors; as a board, we are responsible for the proper operation of the society and there just isn't enough time and knowledge around to guarantee a smooth development of the society.

We are running the recycling depot and providing jobs for our community but the goal is a radio show, developing or beyond this: improve the overall health of our community. Of course there are the trio of: the landfill, hazardous waste and local food development. But there are other fun activities energy, time, and are willing to other than recycling (oh so much more) as organizing

GREAT LEADERS: Chief Joseph of the Nez Percé

by Lisa McKenna

Chief Joseph, or In-Mut-Too-Yah-Lat-Lat meaning "Thunder Coming Up over the Land from the Water" was born in 1840 and died, a young age by today's standards, in 1904 at the age of 65.

A member of the Nez Percé, he was a leader against the white man's encroachment into the Western United States, finally leading his people to seek sanctuary in Canada.

Raised as a Christian and educated in a mission school he followed his father's (also a Christian) footsteps and became Chief in 1873.

As the population of whites increased Chief Joseph became concerned about the validity of their treaties. In fact, a large area of Oregon and Idaho was given to them in 1855 but in 1863, when gold was discovered in Oregon, nearly nine-tenths of this land was demanded back, giving Chief Joseph reason to be concerned.

Hostilities broke out in 1877 when the Nez Percé were forced to leave their homeland in Oregon and move to Idaho. Chief Joseph at first agreed but a band of warriors slaughtered a party of whites and fearing retaliation Chief Joseph decided to lead his people to safety within the Canadian borders. Thus began the 1400-mile (2253 km) long trek. Dodging military patrols along the way, holding several skirmishes and four major battles.

Chief Joseph was known for his leadership, his compassion for his captives and his practice of purchasing supplies en route rather than stealing them. The wisest move he made was to surrender his people to the military after a brutal 5-day siege. Chief Joseph has been quoted to say, "I will fight no more. Our chiefs are killed; Looking Glass is dead, Ta-Hool-Hool-Shute is dead. The old men are all dead. It is the young men who say yes or no. He who led the young men is dead. It is cold, and we have no blankets; the little children are freezing to death.... I will fight no more forever."

Dawsonites Support Sisters in Spirit March

Story & Photos By Dan Davidson

About two dozen men and women lit candles in the crisp Dawson evening on October 11 and marched from the Dänojà Zho Cultural Centre to the Front Street Gazebo to demonstrate solidarity with native women's groups across the country in expressing concern about the violence done to native women.

The Sisters in Spirit movement is an outgrowth of Native Women's Association of Canada (NWAC) and has been going now for nine years. Generally the marches take place across Canada on the weekend before October 4, but Dawson's was a little later this year, partly because a lot of people were tied up with celebrating the Rangers' 65th anniversary on October 4.

At the Gazebo, march organizer Noosa Al-Sarraj explained the event.

"We're here because we want to raise awareness and hope that violence against First nations women will one day end. As you may know, First nations women are three times more likely to experience violence and victimization. That's just not an acceptable statistic. There are hundreds and hundreds of reported cases and even more unreported cases of women who have been murder or who have gone missing.

"There is a small gesture of hope in these candles in this dark time so that we can collectively work together and just pray for those who have gone missing or have been killed."

After a minute's silence, the group descended eagerly on the thermoses of hot chocolate and coffee. It was about -7 in Dawson that evening, but it often feels colder at night.

At this point the Northern Lights suddenly made an appearance with a spectacular display of white bands of cloudy light which one woman was heard to say must be the Sisters in Spirit dancing.

Looking for Sasquatch Stories at Dänojà Zho

Submitted by Dänojà Zho Cultural Centre

What do you really know about Sasquatch? Do you have stories to share? Would you like to hear other people's

Whether you believe in Sasquatch or not, this program will entertain and share new perspectives. Heritage Interpreter Kylie Van Every has been interested in storytelling, Sasquatch stories, and the unknown since she was a child and she continues to research this subject as an adult.

Kylie explains "Sasquatch, Bushman, Woodsman, Stickman, Hairyman, Bigfoot: these are all names for the mysterious creature only some people get to see. You don't always see Sasquatch, but Sasquatch sees you! He lurks in the woods, he makes strange noises that surround your camp, and he throws sticks and rocks. Could it be? Yes it could! Maybe you were so close to having an encounter with Sasquatch and didn't even know. Remember: next time you hear that stick break in the woods, pay attention; Sasquatch could be nearby!"

Kylie will be offering a Sasquatch program and an opportunity to share your stories at Dänojà Zho Cultural Centre on Monday October 29, 2012, from 7 – 9pm. Everyone is welcome – even the sceptics!

Commissioner embarks on Diamond Jubilee community tour

WHITEHORSE— (October 10, 2012) Commissioner Douglas Phillips will visit Yukon schools over the next several weeks to discuss the role of the monarchy and the commissioner's office with Grade 5 and 6 students.

"Thanks to funding from Canadian Heritage, I have the opportunity to visit elementary schools across Yukon to speak with students about the monarchy and the nature of our territorial and federal governance," Commissioner Phillips said.

Leading up to the commissioner's visit, students will participate in an in-class Diamond Jubilee curriculum package developed by Yukon's Department of Education to celebrate the anniversary.

"This is a unique opportunity for Yukon students to learn first-hand from the commissioner about the role of the monarchy and the commissioner's office in government," Education minister Scott Kent said.

The 45-minute presentation will include a video about the Queen's life, a presentation about the commissioner's office and a question and answer period. During the tour, the commissioner will also present Diamond Jubilee medals to deserving Yukoners and will meet with local officials, Canadian Ranger corps and community groups.

Commissioner Phillips was appointed as Yukon's commissioner on December 17, 2010. Yukon's first commissioner, James Marrow Walsh, was appointed in 1897. The role of a commissioner is similar to that of a provincial lieutenant-governor.

Phillips visited the Grade 5/6 classes at Robert Service on October 15, and combined that visit with the presentation of a Diamond Jubilee Medal to Betty Davidson.

Roache's corner BY MIKE ROACHE

THIS IS JUST MY OPINION

with Al Side

Why Are You Afraid?; Pt.1 of 4

Before I attempt to speculate on the answer to this question, I must first resolve the answer to another more direct question: what are you afraid of? Different individuals fear different things, and often for similar reasons. There are of course, some individuals who have fears about several things at the same time.

I shall attempt to list a variety of some of the most common fears. Most people fear Death, while others may fear ageing, the end of the world, natural disasters, loneliness, unemployment, raising children, diseases, germs, and there are even a few individuals who fear sleeping.

These common fears are as diverse as the individuals who sustain them, with varying degrees of fear among them. Personally speaking, I believe that every human fears all of these things to some extent or another. However, many individuals hold these fears in abnormal depths. The cause for most (if not all) of these fears is the same: fear of the unknown.

I am of the opinion that there is a commonality among persons who suffer adversely from all fear. This stems from the desire to Control their own circumstances or the circumstances others. In other words, these people fear things or situations that they are powerless over. In vain attempts to thwart Death, as an example, they try to alter their lifestyles. They may quit smoking, change their diet, take numerous vitamins, exercise regularly, attempt to live healthier lifestyles or even alter their appearance through plastic surgery. Yet no matter how hard they try, Death will one day find them. These people are so obsessed with the prospect of Death, that they overwhelm themselves in courageously attempting to defeat Death, to no avail. No matter how hard they try, Death will come when they least expect it to arrive. No human being will ever be immune to Death.

Some individuals fear ageing, because they are afraid of embarrassment. They are afraid that as they age, they will loose their memory, loose control of their bladder functions, have difficulty maneuvering independently, and loose their own independence. Again, ageing is inevitable. It is a basic part of the human condition. No one has any type of control over a person's ability or inability to age. As it is with Death, no human being will ever be immune to ageing.

Numerous individuals fear the apocalypse, the end of the world. They are so afraid that they spend billions of dollars in vain attempts to survive it. They build shelters, stockpile food, water, guns and ammunition. Yet these things will do no good for any of them. As an example, build a subterranean shelter, say in the mountains. The apocalypse occurs, volcanic eruptions everywhere, and you are locked inside your shelter. Without your knowledge a lava flow covers the entrance of your shelter with three meters or more of lava. The entrance may endure the lava flow, but then the lava hardens into rock above your door. Now, you are trapped inside your shelter where you will eventually meet Death by means of starvation. You did not really escape did you? But...

This is just my opinion . . .

A Real Blast

By Lisa McKenna

She died at 27. She was known as the queen of psychedelic rock. She was mourned worldwide. She was loved by most, hated by some, but mostly loved.

Born in 1943, in Port Arthur, Texas, her mother was a registrar at the local business college; her father was an engineer for Texaco. She had two younger siblings, Michael and Laura.

She has been quoted as saying that in high school "I was a misfit. I read, I painted, I didn't hate niggers".

In 1962 a campus newspaper, The Daily Texan, wrote an article about her saying that she "Dares To Be Different. She goes barefooted when she feels like it, wears Levis to class because they are more comfortable, and carries her Autoharp with her every where she goes so that in case she has the urge to break into song it will be handy."

Rolling Stone rated her #46 in the top 100 greatest artists of all time in 2004; in 2008 she was listed as 28th on the 100 best singers of all time. She was also a painter and a dancer. My love goes out to Janis.

KIDS' CORNER

Stories and illustrations by Lisa Michelle is for NINES!

Ever played Nine-ball? It's a version of pool that is only played with (you guessed it) nine balls.

The 1 to 9 balls are used and are placed in to a diamond shape with the 9 ball in the center.

Then there is 9/11. 9/11 is about terrorism.

On September 11, 2001, four commercial planes were hijacked. One was flown into the north tower of the World Trade Center in New York City, one was flown into the south tower, one was flown into the Pentagon in Arlington, Virginia, and in the fourth plane, the passengers revolted causing the plane to crash in a field near Shanksville, Pennsylvania (it was headed for Washington, D.C.).

JUST FOR FUN

Watch the video on YouTube with Star Trek and the band Nine Inch Nails. It's hilarious!

The first player breaks and if he or she sinks one then they start with the 1 ball, and then the 2 ball, etc., right up to the last ball to be sunk, which is, of course, the 9.

When a player fails to make a shot the other player continues until they miss a shot. Then, the stick is passed back to the first player and when they miss it is handed back. This continues until the 9 ball is finally sunk.

It's a lot of fun.

Some flowers have nine petals. I find this quite amazing. It's almost if these flowers, and all other flowers, have brains! Like, how would they know to grow nine petals instead of eight or 10? Gives you something to think about, doesn't it?

Then we have the cat 'o' nine tails. This was an instrument of torture used in the century by to punish criminals and extract information.

It was a cruel and wicked invention, and, fortunately, is no longer in

HEY KIDS!

Can you think of anything that is the number 10? Share your stories and artwork! E-mail Lisa at klondikesun@northwestel. net and you could be featured in the next Klondike Sun!
