Potoroka Takes the Dawson Race

by Dan Davidson

Wayne Potoroka is Dawson's new mayor, having defeated Peter Jenkins by 292 votes in October 18's electoral contest. He gained 474 votes to Jenkins' 182. It is a resounding success for a campaign which began in April, right after Jenkins announced that he would probably not seek another term, and included a Facebook page, a website and a vigorous door to door and mail campaign.

Potoroka presented himself as someone who would listen to and respect others, offering leadership that would develop a transparent agenda with clearly stated long term goals and objectives.

Jenkins was late into the contest, keeping quiet about his intentions and filing his nomination papers at just about the last minute on the last day. His pitch that there was still too much work to be done that only he could tackle clearly did not resonate with the electorate this time around.

In all, Dawson saw 658 voters cast their ballots for this election: 541 on the actual day, 70 in the advance poll, 10 by mail and another 37 where polling officer Bonnie Barber visited homes to allow them to vote. This is a significant increase over the 529 ballots that were cast in 2009, when Jenkins upset John Steins by a mere eight votes.

At that time the only election was for the mayor's seat and all the councillors were acclaimed.

In the election that brought Steins to office in 2006, he was unopposed and there were 14 council candidates. At that time only 398 voters turned out, so this year's tally is certainly an indication that politics is alive and well in Dawson again.

Incumbent councillors Stephen Johnson and Bill Kendrick were returned to office with healthy tallies of 349 and 330, but the two newcomers to the table outpolled them. At the top of the evening's tally was Kyla McArthur, with 502 votes in her favour. She was followed by former Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in Chief Darren Taylor, who took 470 votes.

The other candidates in the race pulled respectable numbers. Long time residents Johnny Nunan and Dick Van Nostrand took 216 and 255 votes, and even newcomer Hector Renaud pulled in 105.

As the tally sheets began to fill up, Potoroka's lead over Jenkins was obvious from the beginning of the three hour counting session and steadily increased as the evening went on. At the end of the first two hours it was clear who would be on the new council, but it still took another hour to finish the count.

Dawson's New Mayor Hopes for a Brighter Future

Story & Photos by Dan Davidson

Two days past his election night victory, Wayne Potoroka sat down to reflect on the road ahead of him. Having served on three councils, under two mavors, he has a clear idea of what he would like to do and what he would like to avoid.

For the most part, he prefers to phrase these goals in positive terms.

"I believe in bringing different perspectives to the table, cooperating with the organizations and groups in town, with other governments, who can help Dawson with its challenges."

Not that there are no problems.

The lack of an agreement between the territorial government and the town over the Quigley Landfill, an issue that has remained unsettled since the mid 1990s and through six municipal administrations, is high on Potoroka's list. The lack of such an agreement enabled the Yukon Housing Corporation to demolish an entire apartment building in the fall of 2011 and truck the debris out to the land-

"It's unfortunate we didn't have an agreement in place. because maybe we could have done something to lighten the impact that it's having on the landfill."

There is a shortage of all sorts of developable land in the town, especially when it comes to land for residential purposes.

"We need to be exploring a land development protocol with Wayne Potoroka speaking at the AYC AGM in May. He is first VP of that organization and feels it is an effective tool for dealing with the territorial government.

the Yukon government," he says. "If they can help with our lot situation then we should be bringing them a little closer."

This issue was raised by one of the municipal advisors early in the 2009-2012 term, but the proposal didn't gain much traction with council. Potoroka would like to see that change.

"If we have people who want to help us out, let's let them help

In dealing with the territorial government in general he hopes to strike a more pragmatic attitude than has often been the history here.

"We're not always going to agree on things. We're not always going to see eye to eye. We're going to have our differences and maybe even our battles, but you have to put all those things in perspective and appreciate, realize and understand when you need to reach out for a hand."

Potoroka sees his involvement (as first vice-president) with the Association of Yukon Communities (AYC) as a way in which positive things can be accomplished for Dawson and all the other towns.

Uffish Thoughts: Why all the Omnibus Bills, Mr. Harper?

As much as I hate to repeat myself so soon, there doesn't seem to be any alternative. I can, of course, say that Stephen Harper made me do it, though that seems to be a little too close in phrasing to that old cliché in which the devil is the subject of the sentence.

I really don't see the Prime Minister as wearing a red union suit and brandishing a pitchfork, but putting himself at the center of most Conservative pronouncements does tend to paint a target on him.

I mean, nearly every press release or press advisory that appears in my inbox continues to contain the phrase "the Harper Government", as if the nation had undergone a name change over the last half-decade and the notion of a Canadian Government or a federal government had become passé.

That being said, when the government does something one believes to be wrong, and continues to do it even after repeated admonitions by a whole lot of people, many of whom are not members of Her Majesty' Loyal Opposition, one feels an obligation to protest.

The subject of the week is omnibus bills, and the question is why?

News reports indicate that we're now looking at the sec-

Ice may have shut down the George Black Ferry for another year, bu the federal government will still consider the Yukon River a navigable waterway.

ond of these phone book sized monstrosities in six months. It's thicker than the last one and, like the last one, it's full of legislative amendments that have only the most tenuous of connections to the federal budget.

The standout item for the Yukon last time around was the gutting of Parks Canada, but it was also interesting that they altered the protection of fish habitat so substantially that, had this amendment been in place five years ago, Dawson could not have been found guilty of damaging the Yukon River with its waste effluent and there would have been no need to built our new wastewater treatment plant.

I'm sure there were many other items that might have been of interest, and I made an effort to locate a table of contents for the bill so that I could request information about them. I was told that there was no such thing. No table of contents? How is a person supposed to navigate his or her way through all that small print legalese without a finding aid?

This time around Mr. Harper seems out to cut the efficacy of regulations related to navigable waterways by striking most of the lakes and rivers off the list. Why? No one seems to have a clue. This time, at least, the Yukon River has been spared.

In a recent rant, Rick Mercer suggested that Mr. Harper's approach to governance is like that of a grifter running a shell game or a card con. He is annoying us so much with how he is doing things that we are being distracted from what he is doing.

Certainly he is making a farce out of the very notions of transparent and accountable government. Omnibus bills, as Harper himself once said when he was in the Opposition benches, make a mockery of the democratic process. They derail the whole apparatus of checks and balances that our system is supposed to enable.

The Finance Minister may chide the Opposition for "not doing their homework" over the summer by not reading every small print page of the federal budget, but omnibus bills like these two, tied as the Minister and the PM claim, to the federal budget, mean that Conservative Party members don't even have to read them.

Budget bills, omnibus or otherwise, are no-brainers for members of the governing party. Your leader and his cabinet hand it to you and you vote in favour of it, whether it's good for your riding or not, because if you don't, you get shown the door. And if you sometimes feel like a mushroom on the backbenches, imagine how it will be when you're a banished independent.

I wonder if Mr. Harper isn't using omnibus bills at least partly because he's not sure of his caucus. After the strange voting patterns in that free vote on the definition of a human being last month, when he made it clear how everyone should be voting and even some cabinet members went their own way, perhaps he sees omnibus budget bills as a way to keep everyone in line.

Could We Save $ on the George Black Run? To whom it may concern:

This past summer my wife and I had the pleasure of taking a carcamping vacation from our home in Yellowknife to Dawson City and back. It was a fun trip. While we were in Dawson City we took the ferry across the Yukon River. It occurred to both of us that the Highways and Public Works of the Yukon could realize significant longterm savings by either replacing or converting the present ferry at that location with a reaction ferry, which uses the power of the river current to move the ferry across the river. I have observed this type of ferry in British Columbia in Lytton, as well as in Europe on the Danube River in Germany and Austria. It is very efficient.

While some costs would be associated with installing the cables and retrofitting the ferry, I believe the savings described below would offset these costs over the long-term operation of the ferry.

The savings would be realized in a number of ways. Fuel costs would be reduced or eliminated due to the fact that there is no motor to propel the ferry across the river. By association there would be no risk of fuel spill with no motor. A reduction in maintenance costs due to fewer moving parts on this type of ferry is another. A reduction in insurance costs due to the smaller risk of fire, again because of the lack of motor.

Some power will be required for lights. This could be supplied with batteries charged by solar panels as I have observed on the ferries in Europe. The European ferries utilized electric motors powered by those same batteries to raise and lower ramps on either side of the crossing as well as for controlling the cable and steering systems. The Lytton ferry in B.C. simply used a hand-cranked winch for the ramp raising and lowering purpose.

I don't know if this proposal has already been suggested but hope it will be received with the intention of helping communities and by extension the governments that serve them.

Sincerely, Eric Diller, Yellowknife

Roadside Bottom Feeders in the Yukon? To the Editor:

I've driven the Dawson to Whitehorse return trip countless times over the last 35 years under every conceivable condition. I even fancy myself a skilled Yukon driver prepared for any challenge the road might put in front of me.

On Friday, October 12 I had the misfortune of going off the road, rolling my Toyota 4Runner one and a half times while coming to rest on my side in a rather steep ditch. I had the good fortune of not injuring myself or anyone else, and for that I'm very thankful.

It all happened 12 kilometres south of Carmacks on a stretch of curling rink ice that sanding trucks hadn't reached yet. It was definitely driver error that caused the accident, so I'm not blaming anyone else except myself.

I am blaming the person or persons that helped themselves to the contents of my vehicle while I was back in Carmacks reporting to the police and arranging a tow truck.

Within an hour of the accident, thieves scrambled down the ditch, jumped in through the broken windows and took out four very expensive winter tires mounted on aluminum rims destined for my wife's Toyota Matrix. An easy $2,000 score. They also removed my fancy lime green duffle bag containing clothing that belonged to my deceased father with deep sentimental value.

Isn't this the worse kind of "kick you while you're down" bottom feeding that's supposed to happen elsewhere and never in the Yukon? I suppose if I were lying there lifeless they would have simply nudged me aside to get at my wife's tires and whatever other booty they could grab.

I don't know if they were locals, tourists or drifters. Or whether they were desperate or had to feed an addiction; who knows. I suspect the robbers were simply opportunists emboldened by a very low intelligence quotient and a lack of self esteem.

On the positive side I want to thank Tim for the lift into town, Constable Paul Miller of the Carmacks detachment for being exceedingly helpful, Lee Bodie at the Tatchun Centre and Bob at Carmacks more service oriented over the last three years than it was during his first experience on council from 2000 to 2004.

'The increase to the Municipal Grant, which was recently announced, was the result of working together with them. There'll be changes to the Municipal Act, or at least a refreshing of the Municipal Act. That's been the reults of that relation-

"They're testing out new ways of helping out communities when they need a hand with 'community development teams'. These muster folks from every department to come together and help a community with a specific issue they've been facing."

Looking back at the 2009-2012 council, Potoroka credits it with putting in place a solid administrative team which has created a number of useful tools, including a capital plan which forecasts 10 years ahead to predict spending needs.

'This makes it easier to plan for the future, easy to decide how much money to put away so that you've got the cash on hand when you need to replace a vehicle."

Potoroka intends that his administration will be about the future, "about setting a positive tone and tenor for our community. It's about planning for the challenges that Dawson's fac-

He has an impressive mandate going into this term, with the highest polling numbers that have been seen for the mayor's office in many years, and more than he has ever received in his council runs, although his personal numbers were always strong.

Part of the increase would be that more people voted this time out. Going back to 2000, there were 533 voters; 2003 saw 494. The council that was returned in 2006, after the two-year trusteeship, was elected by just 398 voters. In 2009 there were 529. This year there were 658.

Potoroka reflected more on the overall pattern than on his 474-vote victory.

"I really think that what we saw on Election Day - the real story there - is how many people turned out to the polls. For me that was really encouraging because it said that people were taking an interest in their municipality and taking an interest in being a part of where their community is heading.

"Dawsonites are starting to get engaged, and when you get an engaged community, it's tough to hold them back."

Municipal politics in Dawson over the last 15 years have been dominated by clashing personalities and old battles that were continually being refought. Potoroka is determined to steer clear of these pitfalls and forge ahead in a positive manner.

"It's a new day, and there are a lot of new people walking the streets of Dawson City. We need to be working for everyone and making this the best community it can possibly be."

A Letter of Thanks

Thank you, Dawson City. Your support in the recent municipal election was truly humbling.

My successful bid for Mayor would not have been possible without the backing of my wife and kids—who did without Dad for much of the election period—and the many volunteers who helped with my campaign. Thank you, all. This would not have been possible without you.

I'd also like to thank Peter Jenkins for his many years of service to Dawson City and for giving this town an election. It was a great chance for everyone to discuss the important issues.

I'd like to thank outgoing councillor Rick Riemer for his hard work over the past few years and applaud everyone who let their name stand. Congratulations to new councillors Kyla MacArthur, Darren Taylor, Stephen Johnson, and Bill Kendrick.

We have an excellent new team, Dawson, and a fantastic future. There's a lot of work ahead of us. And I'm keen to get started.

Top of the World Transfer is Complete

at Last by Dan Davidson

The saga of the Top of the World Golf Course has had some twists and turns but both former Mayor Peter Jenkins and YTG's Director of Finance Bill Curtis agree that the story has reached a positive end.

"It's a good news story," Jenkins said at the very last meeting of council on October 17, the day before the municipal election.

Curtis wanted to clear up some confusion about details in the Release and Settlement Agreement. This was originally dated July 16, 2012 and appeared, at that time, to be agreed upon by all the parties, but certain clauses in the document relating to the involvement of members of the Hakonson family came to be seen as contentious and these clauses have been dropped from the most recent version of the document, which is dated October 15, 2012.

The document begins with a two-page summary of the history of the Top of the World Golf Course, which has been approved by all the parties to the agreement.

The golfcourse was controlled by Hakkon Enterprises Ltd., of which William Hakonson was the sole shareholder until his death on August 12, 2012, after which the title passed to his son, Greg.

Hakonson senior had begun developing the golf course "in or about 1992" and had, the next year, obtained a loan of $296,800 to assist in its development. The agreement included a "personal guarantee from William Hakonson in connection with a portion of the YG loans."

Additionally, over the next 20 years, Hakkon loaned $967,061 to the golf course "to assist in the development and operation of the golf course".

In 2004, Hakkon took out a mortgage on the lands "to secure the Hakkon loans".

Over the next few years the government began to make a concerted effort to clear up the outstanding loans which had been given out through a YTG program in the 1990s, and hired dana Naye Ventures to collect on the loans. In January 2010 "YG demanded full payment of the loans from the Top of the World..."

It became clear that Hakkon had not repaid any of the loan (plus interest) to the government, nor had the golf course repaid any of the loans (plus interest) to Hakkon.

In the summer of 2011, prior to his death, William Hakonson indicated that he wished to gift the golfcourse to the community of Dawson, perhaps through the agency of the Klondike Visitors Association, "free and clear of any encumbrances and to ensure the continuing operation of the golf course for the citizens of Dawson City."

The KVA declined to take on the operation.

In May 2011, some months before it was announced at the July meeting of the Dawson Chamber of Commerce, the Top of the World Golf Course transferred the land on which it sits to the City of Dawson.

Negotiations to formalize this arrangement have been ongoing since that time. Arrangements were made for William Hakonson's estate to pay out the $55,000 personal guarantee. Dawson's council passed a bylaw that would enable it to own land outside of the town's boundaries.

Curtis indicates that one of the government's concerns was to ensure that the ownership of the land would not revert to the Hakonson Group in the event that, for some reason, the City of Dawson decided that it no longer wished to own the property. Should that happen, the territorial government has first option to buy the property for a nominal fee.

Dawson's council made it clear from the outset that it had no intention of operating a golf course either directly or through its recreation department. An agreement was reached with the not for profit Dawson Golf Association, which began operations early last summer and has, according to DGA president Gary Parker, concluded a successful breakeven season.

The original version of the final agreement contained two detailed clauses which stipulated at great length that no one in any way connected to the Hakonson family could be involved with the operations of golf club in any manner for a period of 20 years.

The lengthy list included "past, present and future partners, directors, employees, agents, predecessors, successors, assigns, liquidators, liquidator managers, trustees, insurers, owners, shareholders, representatives, heirs, administrators, executors..." and specified that they may not "operate or manage, or participate in the operation of any golf course situated on the Lands."

Greg Hakonson came to feel that these clauses were aimed specifically at him and his family, in retaliation for some public stands that he had taken in blowing the whistle on former Premier Denis Fentie's secret negotiations to sell the Yukon Energy Corporation. The story broke territorially and in the National Post.

News coverage even questioned whether Mayor Jenkins, who was once married to William Hakonson's daughter, would not be banned from any affiliation with the golf course. This called into question the town's involvement, though that discussion has become moot as the result of the October 18 elections in which Jenkins lost the mayor's position to Wayne Potoroka.

Greg Hakonson's cause was taken up by Klondike MLA Sandy Silver, who released the following statement on October 22.

"I was assured in the spring, by both the Premier and the Minister of Community Services, that this issue had been put to bed and the golf course would be turned over to the town, Six months later the government has still not lived up to its commitment to transfer the golf course and instead has picked a fight with the family of the previous owner.

"What could have been a good news story for the government has now become a national embarrassment," Silver said. "Instead of trying to settle old political scores the premier and deputy premier should be moving forward with the transfer as they promised they would. Trying to single out people for punishment because of their last name serves no public good whatsoever."

By this time the agreement had undergone another revision and the offending clauses had been removed. It is still understoodthat the government has first right of purchase on the land over the next 20 years, but Curtis is quick to note that the government has no interest in owning or operating a golf course in Dawson.

Silver indicated that he is happy to hear this, but will not consider the matter to be totally put to rest until there is a press release to that effect from the Premier's office.

Parker was pleased to hear that things had been resolved.

"I'd take that as good news."

Commissioner Phillips Visits Dawson and Presents a Diamond Jubillee Medal

Story & Photos by Dan Davidson

Commissioner Douglas Phillips embarked on a Diamond Jubilee Tour of the Yukon's rural schools during the month of October, beginning in Carcross on October 11 and moving on to Dawson City and Old Crow later in the week. His focus is on meeting students in grades 5 and 6 to talk about his role as Commissioner and the Queen's Diamond Jubilee.

At Robert Service School, the Commissioner arrived on the 15th and met with classes early in the afternoon.

He spoke about the role of the Commissioner's Office, which is similar in function to that of a Lieutenant Governor in the provinces and to the Governor General in Ottawa. Commissioner legislation into law after it has been passed by the Yukon Legislature, delivers the government's Speech from the Throne, swears in the members of the Legislature and serves as continuity if, as during the last transition for the Yukon Party, there is a period when the new leader of the governing party has not been elected to office yet.

Phillips then presented slide shows about the life and reign of Queen Elizabeth and members of the Royal family, as well as archival newsreel coverage of a Royal Visit that took place in the Yukon in 1959.

"She's been Queen of Canada for 60 years," he told the students, "and to give you an idea of how long that is, I was in Kindergarten when she became Queen of Canada."

The year after her coronation in 1952, two Yukon girls, Lena Emma Tzya and Yvonne Russell, were chosen to go to London as part of a six-week tour with the Canadian Girl Guides.

"Lena brought with her a beautiful hand beaded purse ... made by herself and her mother for the coronation. Lena's purse as well as the Girl Guide uniform that she as wearing, are now part of the Yukon's permanent art collection."

That bag was part of the display the Commissioner brought with him to show the students.

Students were also given a poster and a delicious cookie decorated with he Diamond Jubilee crest.

The second part of the afternoon ceremony involved the presentation of a Diamond Jubilee Medal to former RSS teacher Betty Davidson, who was cited for her three decades of work with extra-curricular school choirs in both Faro and Dawson City, as well as her work with the Dawson Community Library Board (where she is a liaison person for the nationally celebrated Berton House Writers Retreat) and her many years with the Dawson Restorative Justice Group. It was also noted that she is an active member of St. Paul's Anglican Church, where she serves as a member of vestry, a Lay Minister, Rector's Warden and member of the Yukon Diocese's executive committee, as well as being a delegate to the Provincial Synod. "It's really my pleasure," said Phillips, "to present this medal to Betty for her outstanding contributionstothiscommunity and to the Yukon. Betty, it's people like yourself that make this place so special."

"When a person is selected for the Diamond Jubilee Medal," Davidson said, "that is an honour for the community as well as the person that receives it. I have been very happy to live in Dawson since 1985. It is my home."

Davidson, who was born the year Elizabeth became Queen, was named after her, and is also in her 60th year.

That evening Commissioner Phillips met with the Dawson Rangers for a social evening at the Eldorado Hotel.

The tour will conclude in Watson Lake on October 30 after stops in Faro, Ross River, Haines Junction, Burwash Landing, Beaver Creek, Mayo, Pelly Crossing, and Teslin.

George Black Ferry Shuts Down

by Dan Davidson

With about 6 hours notice to residents, the George Black ferry made its last run across the Yukon River at 7 p.m. Sunday evening, October 21. While the ferry has been running pretty much from day to day and on reduced hours since just after Thanksgiving, there hadn't been much ice in the river until late the previous week and West Dawson residents were hoping that the service might make it to Oct. 26, which was when it was pulled out of the water last year. No such luck. There is usually a 24 hour notice from the time the sign is posted, but that was not the case this year.

Highways Dept. personnel worked in crisp -17 to -21 weather on Monday, October 22 and had the boat out of the water by late afternoon.

Kill reports and compulsory submissions for most species are due no later than 15 days after the end of the month in which you successfully hunted.

Find out more about compulsory submissions, biological samples and kill reports in this year's Hunting Regulations Summary. Pick up a copy wherever hunting licences are sold or visit the Environment Yukon

Life in a Columbian Village

By Anna Vogt

When I first mentioned I would be living in a small, rural Colombian village on the Caribbean Coast, where the people collect rain water to drink and living conditions are significantly different from those in Canada, to a Vancouver friend, she scoffed and replied, "You are from the Yukon. You'll be fine!"

And in many ways, she was right. Coming from a small town made up of unique people who aren't afraid to live life a little differently has served me

I am currently in the middle of a two year term working with Mennonite Central Committee as part of their Seed program. The program brings together people from across the Americasto live with and accompany Colombian communities as they work for peace, justice and development in their local context. During our time, we have the opportunity to visit each other's communities and to gain a broader understanding of Colombia as a whole. The focus is mutual transformation: of ourselves as outsiders and of our communities as we interact and learn together.

I live in Mampuján, an Afro-Colombian community about 240 families. During the height of violence and armed conflict in this region twelve years ago, the community was displaced by a paramilitary group and have since resettled seven kilometers from their original location. However, in contrast to the more than 5.5 million internally displaced people living in Colombia, the community has received a court order entitling them to both collective and individual reparations under the Justice and Peace Law. A large part of my job means supporting the community leaders in this process as well as trying to become part of the community itself. Change is constant, and flexibility is something I practice every day, perhaps learnt from a life lived in the North.

Just like many communities in the Yukon, family and friendship ties are strong in Mampuján. People depend on each other and look out for each other, because there is often no one else to depend on but the community. Living conditions are not easy. There is no garbage collection or in many homes, running water. The power goes out often and the streets are not paved. Instead of dealing with cold, people try to stay out of the tropical heat as much as possible, walking down the street with umbrellas to avoid sunstroke. However, people make the most of what they have and are proud of who they are and their community.

And, just like in Dawson, art is an important part of life. A local women's group has learnt how to quilt, and uses that technique to sew their own history, stitching their roots as a free people in Africa, through slave trade and rebellion in Colombia, to peaceful life, to forced displacement and kidnapping in 2000. Through this process, they have found healing for trauma, a new way to earn a living, and a different media to express their hopes and dreams.

It has been a great privilege to live here for the past year and I hope to use this space to share stories and reflections from my community with you, my other community. We may live in very different parts of the world, but we hold much in common.

Ed Note: Anna is Jack and Lucy's daughter and an RSS graduate. We can expect occasional updates on her experiences in Columbia.

The Grade Five's First Field Trip to Whitehorse To See The World's Famous Ukulele Player James Hill!

Story by Emma TomTom, Grade 5 Photos courtesy Tim Taylor

One foggy day in Dawson City on October 3rd, 2012, the grade 5 class of R.S.S. (Robert Service School) went on a field trip to Whitehorse. We really wanted to see James Hill, a famous ukulele player who was playing at the Holy Family School! On the way many people were singing, phoning their parents and chit chatting on the bus to Whitehorse. We got there about 3:20.

In Whitehorse we went to the Best Western Hotel and got our rooms. The next day we were in a big hurry as we got a private lesson with James Hill at the Holy Family School. When we were at the private lesson, James Hill was waiting for us. We wondered if he was upset, but was he? No! James was actually excited for us! We started the lesson by playing the songs that we learned with Mr. Taylor. James, Mr. Taylor and Mrs. Rear were very proud of us. One thing that was fun was that James played and taught some of his songs!

After that we went shopping and had lunch at A&W. Shortly after, we had to go to the school concert. The cool thing about the concert was that James was playing the most unusual music I ever heard in my life because he was playing chopsticks on his ukulele and Thunder Struck (AC/DC.) The next day we got up early to go on the bus to head back to Dawson. It was a successful, stupendous field trip with the Grade 5 class!

Outgoing mayor accepts voters' verdict

by Stephanie Waddell in the Whitehorse Star, October 23

Outgoing Dawson City Mayor Peter Jenkins is thanking his supporters and wishing the next mayor and council well as he gets ready to leave office.

Jenkins was defeated by challenger - and current councillor - Wayne Potoroka in last Thursday's municipal election.

"Democracy has spoken," Jenkins said in an interview Monday morning, describing himself as "kind of a cleanup guy" over the last three years.

It's easy to listen to what people say and say 'yes'; it's much harder to listen to what people say and say no, he said.

The town's finances are stable, he noted, and Dawson has an Official Community Plan that will steer it "in the right direction."

In seeking re-election, Jenkins opted not to put up any signs or advertise, instead opting to make a donation to the local women's shelter.

For the next council, he noted, there will be a lot of work, with the heritage and zoning bylaws up for consideration.

As for what's next for Jenkins, the father of a 12-year-old daughter said he's involved with a "multitude of things" that he will continue to work on, as well as enjoying more family time.

Great Leaders: Queen Victoria

by Lisa McKenna

Born in 1819, Victoria presided over the British Empire for 63 years. Although she had no official power she became one of the greats of the 19th century.

She succeeded to the throne in 1837, was crowned in 1838 and married to Prince Albert in 1840. They produced four sons and five daughters, but unfortunately Prince Albert died in 1861.

She was instrumental to the success of the "Great India. Becoming a symbol of held in the Crystal Palace (which was made almost totally out of glass) in Hyde Park, London, England.

After her loss of Albert she fell into a deep depression and went into seclusion for many years. All though she remained in contact with the running of the government she stopped attending all public events. This caused her to become very unpopular.

But in 1876 she was declared the Empress of India though, in fact, she never even visited Exhibition" of 1851 that was imperial power she gained the love and respect of her people.

She kept journals that had within them numerous water colours of her children and some of her favourite scenic views.

She still did not have her Albert and regardless of her duties she was a lonely queen. She died in 1901, still lonely. I guess one can have only one true love and Queen Victoria's love, best friend, and chief advisor was Prince Albert.

This statue of Queen Victoria can be seen in the park just outside the gates of Windson Castle, in the heart of London.

Mason Talks Art and Culture with SOVA Students

Story & Photos By Dan Davidson

Michael Mason speaks passionately about his art, which he says flows from his connection to his family. his ancestors, the Yukon and stories he was told by his mother. It is seldom that he makes a piece of art that does not have some link to the land.

One recent piece, however, departs from his usual comfort zone to make an artistic statement about the way in which history and national boundaries that have developed since the Gold Rush have affected his people.

Mason is Han Athapascan and has relatives in both Dawson and Tanacross, in Alaska. The cultural links between the two groups of people are strong, and it was there that Chief Isaac took the Han songs and dances for safekeeping. It is with the help of elders from that community that much of the Han revival amongst the Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in has taken place since the settlement of their Land Claim.

'This painting shows our families being united after so many years of being separated because of the Gold Rush and the border. We couldn't get together because of the distances we had to travel and because of problems getting across the border. There were issues."

A status card used to be enough to smooth a border crossing but since the terrorist attacks in 9-11 it has become more complicated than that.

"Now you have to get a passport, and for that to happen takes a while.

"This painting here is Gold Rush, centralizing on the pick and shovel and alcohol. Alcohol played a big factor on our culture. That's how we lost our language, that and Mission School and the pain we had from losing our families on both sides of the border."

There are clusters of people looking at each other on both sides of the painting, separated by the two flags that seem to grow from the gold pan crossed by a pick and shovel in the center of the picture. A crack, like a

"one-line" style developed partly in reaction to the closed lines and circles that he saw in Haida art. He wanted to keep his work open. He says that he feels his creations are all part of a single line and fissure, divides the image, running to the bottom and through the mountains at the top of the picture. Fish, caribou and other totemic animals crowd the margins behind the human faces.

that they could all be linked together.

'There is no beginning and no end; it does not stop."

Neither does Mason, who has over 400 designs to his credit at this point and is

Mason told the visiting students from the Yukon School of Visual Arts that his always working on several pieces, both carvings and paintings, at once.

No Caribou Hunting on Dempster Highway

Environment Yukon has ordered an emergency conservation closure that prohibits the hunting of all caribou in five game management zones: 2-16, 2-23, 2-27, 2-28 and 2-39 to protect the Hart River caribou herd.

The closure will be in effect from November 1, 2012 to July 31, 2013 and includes the Dempster Highway from kilometre 77 (North Fork Pass) to kilometer 195 (Ogilvie River Bridge).

There are no Porcupine caribou along this stretch of the Dempster Highway right now so the risk of overhunting the Hart River caribou in the area is very high. This emergency closure applies to Yukon resident and non-resident hunters.

Caribou in these sub-zones are not considered Porcupine caribou, and harvesting rights under the Porcupine Caribou Management Agreement do not extend to these sub-zones at this time.

Help conserve the Hart River caribou herd.

History Hunter: Will Yukon's MP Champion Yukon's Threatened Heritage?

According to the official website for the Parks Canada Agency, "An important part of Parks Canada's mandate involves protecting the health and wholeness, or commemorative integrity, of the national historic sites it operates. This means preserving the site's cultural resources, communicating its heritage values and national significance, and kindling the respect of people whose decisions and actions affect the site."

With recent Parks Canada budget cuts and staff lay-offs in the Yukon, this mandate has been compromised in ways that previous cuts have not. Will these cuts leave Parks Canada able to sustain a bid for World Heritage Site status for the Klondike?

I composed an inquiry and sent it to Ryan Leef, MP for the Yukon. I am not a political animal, but I turn to my Member of Parliament, whatever his or her political stripe, when I feel that I need an ally or a champion for something that affects the Yukon

Here is the text of my message:

As one of your constituents, I want to voice my concern regarding recent cuts to the Parks Canada budget and personnel in the Yukon.

Many have voiced concern about the issue of closures of Dredge Number 4, and the elimination of guided tours on the SS Klondike, so I won't linger on them.

I am concerned that major cuts in personnel in Dawson City leave significant national treasures vulnerable to mishandling, mistreatment, theft, loss and deterioration. The entire unit of staff dedicated to the care and display of collections has been eliminated. I think that the quality of our current exhibits will decline, and our ability to develop new offerings of non-personal interpretation to the public has been crippled.

Parks Canada houses a quarter of a million artifacts in Dawson, most of them site specific nationally significant treasures. Also housed are documents and reference material that help to make clear the meaning of these resources. They are not replaceable. Many of them are associated with national historic sites like Dredge Number 4, The Commissioner's Residence, The Dawson

Daily News, Bigg's Blacksmith Shop, The Red Feather Saloon, and so forth. The remainder, in large part, contribute to the interpretation of the themes that represent the messages of national significance.

Over the past four decades, the collection has been organized, rationalized, placed in proper storage with proper means for cies has now been lost.

You may be aware that there are over thirty displays in Dawson that showcase the treasures from the Parks Canada collection. They range from simple display cases to fully furnished historic buildings like the Commissioner's Residence, which was opened by the Prime Minister in 1996. These showcase the story tracking their locations and their histories. That work will unravel very quickly without the staff to maintain order and proper care. The way in which the work was done has resulted in a very cost efficient means of caring for them. At a cost of two cents per annum per artifact to care for the collection, it would take 2500 years of care before the cost of removing them from the collection would be recovered! In other words, it's a bargain to continue caring for them.

The furnishing of the Red Feather Saloon was led by curatorial staff in Dawson City, who have now lost their jobs due to the federal cutbacks.

The collection had a full time conservator. If interventions were required to treat an object, many could be done on site. Now they are going to have to wait in the queue in a conservation lab 3,000 miles (five thousand kilometres) away. Artifacts often receive more damage in transit than they were originally sent away for. Would you want to send your flat tire to a tire shop in Ottawa for repair? I don't think so, so why would we consider this approach as a viable alternative for the national treasures housed in Dawson City?

In the flood of 1979, much of Parks Canada's collection was immersed in water. Fortunately, at the time, there was a trained conservation professional working site. Help didn't arrive from the outside for more than a week. The measures taken before their arrival ensured the survival of many valuable treasures from the collection. That capability for immediate response to emergen-of the Klondike gold rush, and are world class in quality. They were all designed and developed by staff on-site who have now been eliminated. That capacity is now gone. At a time when we are being told that the staff reductions will result in non-personal interpretation of many of our attractions, I don't understand why the personnel who were responsible for such work have been eliminated when they will be even more needed.

One of the Dawson personnel who was eliminated, was recently awarded recognition of excellence by the CEO of Parks Canada. Among her accomplishments: bringing in a quarter of a million dollars of money from outside of the Parks Canada Agency, and the participation of several other agencies and interest groups. Isn't that the kind of staff that we should retain? So why the cut? Since then, the site has had to turn back another quarter of a million dollars of money, from outside of the Agency, for a virtual museum project that would have fulfilled all of the criteria for cost effectiveness, and reaching citizens all across the country, as well as around the world.

In addition to all of these points, consider that the positions that were eliminated consisted of people highly trained and experienced. These same people also did the inspection and maintenance of artifacts at all of the sites in the Yukon field unit, not just in Dawson City. Thus the collections housed in Haines Junction (Kluane National Park) and in Whitehorse (SS Klondike) are now vulnerable. A janitor or a site interpreter won't be able to do the job, but they are the only ones left at the sites now.

In their eagerness to meet targets set by your government, someone, or some people in management have made decisions that do not make sense, and which leave a major national collection vulnerable and uncared for. Long distance care from a service centre three thousand miles away just won't do it.

Mr. Leef, I know what I am talking about, and I know what is at stake. I was Curator of Collections for Parks Canada in Dawson City for many years, and worked in the heritage field my entire career. Our national legacy in Dawson is at risk, and I think that something should be done to reverse or minimize the damage of some bad decisions before it is too late.

I received a reply in due course, which really didn't answer my questions. I repeat my request here in my column in the hope that it will elicit a more focused reply. Cutting the entire collections staff for the Yukon was a bad management decision that will seriously harm the commemorative integrity. What will be done to rectify the decision?

Here is Mr. Leef's reply: "To my constituents:

Recently I have received a few inquiries in regards to the cessation of guided tours for Dredge #4 in Dawson City.

I fully agree and support that Dredge #4 is an important Yukon historical site. Not only is it important for Yukon, it is also an official National Historic Site. The educational value that it represents, for Yukoners and international visitors, is something that we should absolutely be proud of.

As many of you know, the cessation of guided tours of Dredge #4 is part of the budget reduction facing Parks Canada. I will continue to work with the government and Parks Canada, in an effort to identify this as an important endeavour, and work towards a solution that is mutually beneficial.

Thank you for bringing your concerns forward to me.

Sincerely,

Ryan Leef"

The Up Girl By Shelley O'Brien

Romantic Raven

By Nessa Goldman

Shelly O'Brien is a ukulele songstress who spent part of the summer in Dawson City, working with the Rec Staff for Northern Nature Songs, a program that used nature both for inspiration and instrumentation! Participants created instruments, and wrote songs that will be recorded on CD. Shelly is a recording artist whose latest album is Vivarium. While in Dawson she submitted this poem to the Authors on Eighth contest, where it won the poetry prize.

The Up Girl By Shelley O'Brien

she was reaching her hands up into the dawson-blue sky, so high!
contemplating pulling the corners down, around her face and tying them into a smart bow under her chin when

two jet-set ravens circled and circled click-clacking voices closer and closer and with no mistake they raked bunches of her cherry-red sleeves into their clawed crow's feet

"sweep
sweep"
with great gusts
of dirt and dust
they plucked her from the earth, the ground, the up girl rose above the town watching the trucks turn into toys she left behind the girls and boys and smiled as her shoe dangled then fell showing off one wool sock, so colourful her raven men swooshed and swooshed again four shiny black eyes matching the four shiny black buttons on her cherry-red dress she knew. the sky was already her bonnet. these birds, already her wings she went up. with ravens, she went up. Sticky sweet strawberries stain my finger tips. Warm winds, possibly the last of a summer too short, bellow gently lifting my fringe to cowlick precariously. Succulent aromas entice awaiting olfactories, dispersing on updrafts. I want to drink the air around me but I know, it will only pale next to the juice of a plump, ripened berry. Peaking it's rosy face from beneath it's protective leafy shield. I am not the only one who has noticed the arrival of the summer harvest. A solitary, precocious raven knocks from a nearby tree. She is the only one I hear, but she is not alone. Her song echoes in the woods, a warning. I too, have been noticed.

Such wondrous melodies
the coos of communication.
A plethora of jargon, human ears only detect a fraction of the tapestry that composes raven's rich birdsong.
Unparalleled refrains convey intricate directives, commands and tuitions.
There are two birds I can see now perched from various posts
each with one eye on me, and the other roving.

Looking for what, I have not yet perceived.

Here in the long grass,
my vision is short sighted.

I take comfort under the watch of the black winged seraphs.

In this moment, I know I am but a witness to what comes next.

Hopping from poplar to evergreen a flirtatious encounter begins.

The romantic raven imparts practical notions, on glorified emotions, like love.

Their courtship dance, I cannot help but admire.

With passionate ardor, they swoon in complex choreography.

Entwined in synchronicity. It is an entrancing waltz.

This could be a new pair, or an old flame, still with fervor.

I could stand to learn a thing or thing or two from this demonstration of devotion.

I want to love like raven, but feel limited in my human capacity. With two feet clinging to the earth and ears that only understand words, how can I begin to comprehend such instinct.

Here, hunched over inefficiently peering into the bushes plucking morsels, one at a time. There might be a better way, but I have yet to discover the means. I have ten fingers to pick with, but none to fly on.

The pair ascend in pursuit of one another, out of the trees and over the open meadow.

The swoop of their wings command my attention, and they have it. My senses are inarticulate, and my words fail me.

Gathering the last red ripe berries, imparts what I cannot ignore. Summer is making it's exit on the wings of the raven.

Dawson is promised school expansion

by Dan Davidson

There's been no public announcement as yet, but the Robert Service School Council would like everyone to know that the Minister of Education has agreed to a 3 room expansion of the school building, to be budgeted in 1994 and built in 1995. This isn't really soon enough for Fletcher Hunston, one of the two council members on the expansion sub-committee, but it's much better than the answer he and Bonnie Nordling have been receiving over the last year, so he's fairly happy about it.

In his letter to the council Piers McDonald thanked the members for their patience while waiting for his response:"As explained, a number of studies had to be undertaken before I could take action on any of the aspects we discussed. Primarily we were concerned about additional teaching stations in the school due to an increase in enrollment, in moving the parking facilities for the staff from the playground area of the school, and increasing the size of the playing field available to the pupils."

McDonald went on to say that parking was to be relocated across Fifth Avenue to the lot adjacent to the CFYT-fm/DCTV station. This was to have been accomplished before the first snow but, as Hunston noted, that arrived about a month early this year and Education can't be held accountable for that.

The Dept. of Community and Transportation Services is in the process of acquiring additional land for the school across 4th Avenue behind the Eldorado Hotel. McDonald anticipates a successful outcome to these negotiations.

Hunston anticipates that this might take about a year to put together. The council wants to see that portion of 4th Avenue turned into a cul de sac, with the school occupying the land along Princess Street from 5th Avenue to the Eldorado. That would provide room for expansion of the playing field and the school building itself.

The building expansion posed what McDonald called the biggest problem. The $10 million school was constructed with fewer classrooms than the local building committee had advised, but it was to have been designed so that additional rooms could be built on above the industrial arts shop on 4th Avenue. In a recent letter to city council the architect of the building confirmed this arrangement, but noted that the actual construction had not conformed in all ways to his design. Hunston says he has been told that a second floor addition, as originally intended, has now been ruled out by government engineers. The changes were so extreme, Hunston says, that it would have cost $900,000.00 to put the classrooms where they were supposed to have gone.

"As you know," McDonald continued "we are unable to place these additional stations above the Industrial Education laboratory as was the original intention. Alterations were made to the blueprints during the building's construction which negate this possibility."

"Instead a proposal has been made, for our consideration, to extend the foot of the building and place the classrooms at the end of the Industrial Arts education wing. "

This would put the expansion in the area which is the current parking lot, between the two exits on the south end of the building. Hunston and the council see no problem with this as long as the playground area can be expanded in some other direction.

"The capital money for this project is now identified in the five year plan with the work scheduled for the construction year 1995. I hope that you will understand that some $10 million was spent on the Dawson school during the years 1987-89 and therefore, in fairness to other communities who have need of upgrading of their educational facilities, we must give a certain priority to those other communities."

"What we wanted was a date,"Hunston said. "We got that. It's not perfect, because by that year (the school) is going to be really struggling to have any kind of room in that school. But at least we know it's temporary and we've got a date. We're going to send a letter back to him, thanking him saying that we do understand some of the complexities, but that we would like to start planning now for the next expansion and have that in place when it's needed, not four years

"This is a vibrant community, and it's going to continue to grow in the next few years," Hunston said, pointing to the doubling of Dawson's population over the last decade and the incontinued on pg. 2

The Sun obtained funding in late 2009 from the City of Dawson, YTG's Heritage Branch and the Community Development Fund to conserve and archive early issues and make them available once again in the public domain. This is a great resource for students, writers and historians, and also for prospective tourists with an interest in Dawson City's life. # Women's History Month: Strong Girls, Strong Canada

by The Dawson Women's Shelter

In 1992, the Canadian Government designated October as Women's History Month in Canada, after a successful lobbying campaign initiated by Lynn Gough in Victoria, British Columbia. The month of October was selected because it was on October 18, 1929 that women were legally declared to be persons and therefore eligible to join the Senate of Canada. The theme for Women's History Month is selected by the Status of Women Canada, selected because October 11 is the very first International Day of the Girl.

Throughout this month, we have had the chance to recognize, explore and discuss the important roles that Canadian girls have played in our past, about the challenges and opportunities they have faced over the years, and the inspirations they have served as; such roles as leader and innovator, political activist, advocate, and entrepreneur. This day has great importance because it recognizes that yes, attitudes have progressed and changes made, but there is more, still to be done, and that girls' rights are human rights.

Back in December of 2011, the United Nations declared October 11 as the International Day of the Girl Child. Canada was one of the countries that acted as a driving force for this recognition and was responsible for the adoption of this day. Most obviously, it has been recognised in order to keep attention drawn to the international issues of sex discrimination and systemic barriers young women and girls face. At this time we draw attention to the array of issues facing girls and young women presently around the world. The following are statistics from around the world:

- Girls are three times more likely to be malnourished than
- Of the world's 130 million out-of-school youth, 70% are
- Each year, roughly two million girls between the ages of 5 and 15 are trafficked, sold or forced into the sex trade indus-
- Girls are disproportionately affected by a number of harmful practices, including early and forced marriage and female genital mutilation.
- Girls continue to face obstacles in access to education and other basic services.

Currently, the demand for education for all girls around the world is a fight that has been ongoing for more than 200 years. Millions of children don't go to school because they are girls, and this is the case even though the international community now knows that educated girls marry later, have children later, and are able to provide for themselves and their communities because they are able and willing to work. For more information on the international campaign that works to change this can be found at www.becauseiamagirl.ca.

When we familiarize ourselves with the international situation, we no doubt feel at ease in our comparison. Sure, here in Canada our daughters and sisters receive education the same as boys; they are not kept at home to do chores and be caretakers. However, in Canada we face the following surprising statistics:

- Young women from 15 to 19 experience nearly 10 times the rate of dating violence as young
- Young women under 25 experience the highest rates of sexual assault and criminal ha-
- Sexual violence against girls is most commonly perpetrated by someone known to the victim (75 percent), such as a male acquaintance or relative.
- Nearly 70 percent of victims of internet intimidation are women or young girls.
- Girls and young women are nearly twice as likely as young men and boys to suffer certain mental health issues, such as depression.
- Issues of body image and self-esteem remain prevalent among girls.

These statistics reveal the differences between the experiences of young girls and that of young boys. The gender wage gap still exists. There are four times as many men in elected government positions there are women, and women and girls are still much more likely to suffer from violence and harassment than men and boys.

Here in our own community, girls and young women face a set of challenges that have become referred to as unique to rural and remote communities. Some of these challenges include youth unemployment, limited social resources, lack of affordable housing, isolation, a decreased expectation of attending post-secondary, and an increase of families that lack economic resources. These are systemic barriers young women and girls face, they are dangerous undercurrents that take girls away from their potential achievement and their goals for personal success and fulfillment.

It becomes a community effort to support our girls and young women, to teach and encourage them to be leaders and develop and utilize their skills. Supporting girls strengthens communities and keeps them close.

It is the hope of all those who believe in the potential of girls and young women, that the International Day of the Girl Child generates new ideas and actions regarding the opportunities and future of girls in our communi-

Apolcalypse Yukon; Are You Ready?

by Robin Og Bretland

Rumors are a bound that the 'End of the World' is coming, sometime around the 21st of December this year. This is likely attributed to the Mayans, whom neglected to publish a 2013 calendar.

Last winter in this very publication, Dawson City was warned of the impending doom, by our local End of Days expert; how the mighty Chinese PLA would invade, the wrath of God would do some smiting and so on; in his opinion.

Having lived through a few Armageddons myself, notably the 1999 transition to the 21st Century; which one may recall that the so called Millennium Bug would render computers useless. Thus fans across the Globe would be unable to download the latest Britney Spears singles from Napster. The end of civilization as we knew it. Still ... life goes on, so in this edition of the Klondike Sun, I thought to share some survival tips and ask some of our community leaders what their take on it all is. After all, I, like billions of others, am a survivor; sadly we lost Britney.

To begin with I thought to ask Yukon's own Cage Fighter, no nonsense hunter and MP, Ryan Leaf; what will his party be doing at the End of the World? Unfortunately as I had to go into the Bush, I never managed to interview him. With Rvan taking care of things, then what of the military's plan; as billions of PLA troopers lay siege to Dawson? I set out to find a spokesman for the local Rangers, but with true professionalism was told that was classified information. Clearly they have a plan, fighting fiercely to protect our Golden valley from the Oriental Horde!

With all that covered, then what of God? He used to have a bit of a temper in the old days; there's no knowing what he'll do. Wake up on Christmas Day with the streets of Dawson covered in a plague of Frogs. My suggestion is that a few sacrifices be made, starting with the POW's and perhaps reduce happy hour at the Pit to half an hour. It's just an opinion, but what choice do we have?

Now being practical, how does one survive in the Yukon with no mains electricity or running water and what of food? Canned goods seem popular with most survivalists, though it is advisable to check the best before date first; fluffy Hot Dogs don't cut it, when having guests over for dinner in the Apocalypse.

If you're the generator and gun type, then make sure you have an up to date hunting permit and Game tags. These can be obtained at the liquor store or at the Conservation office at the Museum.

As for fuel? Even with Stephen Harper's withdrawal from the Kyoto Agreement, petroleum may still be in scarce supply; so why not turn your generator or truck over to wood? You could even ski during the Winter and hike during the Summer months, keeping fit and saving fuel. But then maybe there is no Winter, just a dust bowl where our little community used to be and in the Summer it drops to -70Co with heavy snow. As you can see, the end of the World is a very confusing place, there's no telling. But remember the wise proverbs - there is a silver lining to every cloud; a failure to prepare is to prepare to fail.

Good luck and Happy Holi-

Editor's Note:

"I would never have believed that Armageddon had a plural

- Xander, on "Buffy the Vampire Slayer.

He actually said "Apocalypse", but the point is the same. As they used to say in the Highlander movies: "There can be only one."

THIS IS JUST MY OPINION

by Al Side

Why Are You Afraid?; Pt.1 of 4

So, what have you really succeeded in with your attempt to cheat the apocalypse? Nothing. You will still meet the same destiny as every other person alive. You may only have succeeded in delaying it by just a few weeks, or at best, a few months. Again, no human creature is immune to the effects of a true apocalypse.

As stated in part 1, some people fear the prospect of natural disasters. Yet they live in areas prone to disaster: California, Coastal areas, low-lands, and the prairies. California and the West Coast are prone to earthquakes. The South Coastal areas are prone to flooding, and hurricanes. The East Coast is prone to hurricanes, and the prairies are prone to tornadoes. Other areas are prone to landslides, and forest fires, and of course people reside in all of these dangerous areas. As a result, they fear the possibility of a natural disaster falling upon them.

Nature behaves in its own way. It follows its own laws, and humans cannot control the outcome. They attempt to, by building higher dikes, building earthquake resistant buildings, building stronger sea-walls and so on. These things will do nothing in the long run. Stronger earthquakes, more violent storms, or more severe weather patterns, will bring down man's vain attempts at enduring natural disasters. One again, there is no human on the planet who is immune from these occurrences.

Some people fear loneliness, though it is one thing that everyone must face at some point in their life. It is difficult for them to remain alone for any length of time. These people have a strong dependency on other people. This in effect, causes them to make poor life choices, and they often still end up lonely.

When they are alone they attempt to mask it in any way possible. Some use drugs, alcohol or promiscuity to hide their loneliness, but they are still lonely. When these people are around others, they are often the "life of the party" but when they wake up alone the following morning, they tremble with fear. They quickly become intimately involved in unhealthy relationships, which sometimes produce offspring, and end up in failure. Making poor choices about relationships is a vain attempt to compensate for their fear of being alone. Once again, no human animal is immune to being alone, how we choose to deal with being alone is what makes a difference.

There are people who fear being unemployed or retired. This stems from a feeling of inadequacy or the inability to provide for their families. Many people who suffer from this fear are afraid that when they are not working they will become useless. Many people have not been able to discover hobbies, or activities that would make them feel useful. Strangely, at some point in time, every one will face this, some by choice, others forcefully. Still, once again, no person is immune to being unemployed at some point in life, what we do when that time arrives is up to each individual independently.

A Mellow Blast From the Past

A legend was born on December  $3^{rd}$  1927. A legend died, at 85, on September  $25^{th}$  2012, of bladder cancer.

He recorded 18 gold albums and 3 platinum. He had a T.V. variety show from 1962 to 1971 and starred in numerous television specials. Recently he sang at his Moon River Theatre in Branson, Missouri.

It all began with him and his brothers forming a quartet and by late 1938 they were featured on the radio. By 1948 he had the highest paying nightclub act.

Married in 1961 to Claudine Longet, he fathered three children-Noelle, Christian, and Robert. After a lengthy separation they divorced in 1975. He remarried to Debbie Meyer in 1991. They spent their time between Brandon, Missouri and La Quinta, California (where he was considered an honorary mayor).

He headlined for Caesars Palace for nigh on 20 years! He sang with such greats as Bing Crosby, appeared in four musical films and recorded 8 Christmas albums.

But "I like your kind of love" and "Can't get used to losing you" so "Lets get together with Andy Williams."

Dawson City Receives Five Blooms

Press Release

Dawson City, a finalist in the 1,201 - 3,000 population category of the 2012 National Edition of Communities in Bloom, received a 5 Bloom rating and a special mention for Enhanced Green Space by Recreational Grounds and Schools during the National Awards Ceremonies at the Edmonton Capital Region on October 12th and 13th.

Following their evaluation of the community, volunteer judges Lucy Chang and Roger Younker wrote: "Residents in Dawson City lived, for years, with a patch of eyesore in their community. It was an open, unregulated space that adjoins the Tennis Court, Skate Board Park and the Swimming Pool. It was premium green space rarely available in such a busy tourist resort. In 2012, the decision was made to beautify the space. First it was cleaned up. A small parking area was created with controlled lines and curb, and new turf was laid. This enhanced green space is now a pleasant stopping place for residents and

Communities in Bloom is a national organization dedicated to the promotion of green spaces in community settings. >

Within the actual context of climate changes and environmental concerns, communities involved in the program can be proud of their efforts, which provide real and meaningful environmental solutions and benefit all of society.

Ed. Note: We would have run a photo with this item, but the area is all covered in snow now.

KIDS' CORNER

Stories and illustrations by Lisa Michelle

10 is for TENS!

There is a game called Tenpin bowling where ten "pins" are set up in a triangle and by rolling a bowling ball down the isle you have to knock the pins over.

Of course the best shot would be to knock them all over with your first ball. This is called a strike.

The next best shot would be to knock them all over in two balls. This is called a spare.

The TENS machine (short for Transcutaneous Electrical Nerve Stimulation) is a device that helps to relieve pain by sending electrical impulses to the irritated nerves.

You have to place the electrodes properly so some TENS come with a small bar-shaped tool that can pinpoint the affected nerves.

Relief can last several hours, causing the patient to lessen their pain pills. With a TENS machine there is no chance of addiction and no side effects.

HEY KIDS!

Can you think of anything that is the number 11? Share your stories and artwork! E-mail Lisa at klondikesun@northwestel. net and you could be featured in the next Klondike Sun!

There are also the Ten Commandments. They are a system of moral rules and, if you are not a Christian, they are still good rules to follow.

They are:

- 1. Love God more than you love anything else.
- 2. Don't make anything in your life more important than God.
- 3. Always say God's name with love and respect.
- 4. Honor the Lord by resting on the seventh day of the week.
- 5. Love and respect your mom and dad.
- 6. Do not murder (kill) anyone. (The original word has both meanings.)
- 7. Always be faithful to your husband or wife.
- 8. Don't take anything that isn't yours.
- 9. Always tell the truth.
- 10. Be happy with what you have, don't wish for other people's things.
