Dawson begins a celebration of lights

Story & photos by Dan Davidson

The City of Dawson Recreation Dept. lit up the pre-Christmas season with a Celebration of Lights in the Waterfront Park on the evening of November 20. Citizens were attracted to the lighted shelter and the large bonfire in the pit next to the Tribute to the

The active minded set off on a Santa led glow stick run/walk along the dyke path about 5:55, while other folks arrived to fill up the heated and lit Picnic Shelter for a hot meal and a carol sing with the St. Paul's Youth Choir, led by Betty Davidson.

By 6:30 everyone was well fed and sung and it was time for the main event of the evening. The crowd lined up along the top of the dyke path and counted down 5-4-3-2-1 to the flip of the switch that fired up the new light displays along the park between the Picnic Shelter and the Front Street Gazebo.

Santa and his reindeer (moving even) gave way to several sets of lit figures that have a vaguely turn of the 19th century ambiance that fits in with the town's origins.

The lights will be on for the rest of the pre-Christmas and holiday weeks as part of the town's effort to encourage businesses and residences to light up for the season. A number of businesses have trimmed up already and list of downtown stores were open for extended shopping hours on this night, as part of the Shop Local theme encouraged by the Dawson Chamber of Commerce.

At the end of the season plaques will be awarded for best residence, best business and best block.

This is the first year for the Celebration of Lights, and for this year at least, it has been chosen to replace the town's annual Christmas Open House in council chambers.

Photos (top down and to the left):

- Santa and his reindeer light up the park.
- It was not a terribly cold evening, but a bonfire is always welcome for both heat and light.

Uffish Thoughts: What lessons can we learn from the attack on Parliament?

By Dan Davidson

It's hard to believe that it's been a month since Michael Zehaf-Bibeau shot and killed Corporal Nathan Cirillo in front of the War Memorial in Ottawa and then attempted to storm the Parliament Buildings with his hunting rifle.

While it could be overstating the case to compare this attack to the events of September 11, 2001, for me they have one thing in common: our television was on all morning as the events spooled out. Since it is rarely turned on that early in the day except to check the programming for shows I intend to record, that makes the day stand out in my mind.

This attack, coming as it did, just two days after Martin Couture-Rouleau ran over and killed Warrant Officer Patrice Vincent while injuring his colleague, was a double shock to the nation.

While it's no wonder that the knife wielding Couture-Rouleau and the rifle carrying Zehaf-Bibeau were both killed by the authorities, it is also unfortunate. Since they are gone, leaving only a smattering of Facebook blog postings and the memories (naturally coloured by events) of those who knew them, it's hard for us to know why they became radicalized (a new adjective this year) and what prompted them to do exactly what they did.

It's very much the official line to heap scorn on anyone who expresses a desire to have that sort of question answered, but that really doesn't invalidate the pursuit of such answers.

Of course ISIS/ISIL quickly spewed forth a claim that the killers were part of the Islamist group's larger plans for world domination. The main attack plan of those people is, after all, to scare us with ideas like that and to gross us out with a continuing series of executions.

Never mind that some of the nations we are allied with use beheading as their form of capital punishment quite the same way as we in the West used to use hanging, guillotines, firing squads, electric chairs and chemicals to achieve the same end.

As for the Canadian government, branding these acts as Islamic terrorism fits in conveniently with its own agenda. The party that wants to be tough on all manner of offences, wants to be able to read our emails and monitor us all relentlessly, but doesn't want to know how many long guns we have, has its own interpretation about how we act in the world. Look how quickly they had that new anti-terrorism law ready to be passed by Parliament. See how wonderfully it ties in with the decision to chip in our two cents worth of contribution to the military actions against ISIS.

Do not misunderstand me on this. I have a nephew in the RCMP, uncles who served during WWII in the merchant marine and in the infantry, and a still living uncle who retired as a Major in what has recently been renamed the RCAF (a retcon he considers a waste of money). I have a lot of respect for our people in uniforms – just a lot less for the politicians giving them orders.

In the long run we may learn more about what happened in October by studying Justin Bourque, that other fellow who sought out uniformed targets back on June 4, apparently luring and ambushing five members of the RCMP in Moncton, killing three and wounding two.

The two who killed the soldiers seemed to have quite a bit in common with the Mountie killer. He was different in that it seemed he wanted to be seen as a John Rambo figure, an ironic identification with a fictional soldier first brought to literary life by the Canadian born thriller writer David Morrell.

The soldier killers had recently converted to Islam and had taken their behavior to extremes that worried even those in the mosques they were attending.

Cultural identifications aside, the three men seem to have had a lot in common. They were outsiders who hated authority and two of them had parents who still maintain that their actions had more to do with mental instability than anything else.

All of these men are distinctly different from people like James Roszko, the small time pot grower and petty criminal who ambushed and killed four Mounties in Mayerthorpe, Alberta, in March, 2005. However heinous his crimes, he is at least easier to understand than the other three.

There is much to be learned from the study of people who commit such acts, and the pursuit of this knowledge is more likely to aid in preventing further tragedies than simply ramping up the terror watch and chipping away at our basic civil liberties.

More from the Celebration of Lights...

LETTER

An Open Apology

This is an open apology to the citizens of Dawson,

I broke into Arctic Inland on numerous occasions over the last few years to support my drinking and poker playing. It came to between 10 and 15 thousand dollars. I would like to apologize to everyone at Arctic Inland: Helen Bowie, Heinz Naef, Louise Blanchard, Karl MacDonald, Daryl Buckley and especially to the late Bill Bowie. All these people are my very good friends.

I would also like to apologize to all my family, the rest of my friends, and everyone else that I've let down.

I would like to thank John and Gail Hendley for giving me employment through all this.

I've written a letter to Gertie's barring me from playing poker and gambling, and am taking counselling for my problems. All monies that were taken are in the process of being paid back. This was dealt with through a circle conference, and I heard how everyone was hurt by all this. This included everyone at Artic Inland, my son Ryan, Dave Morin from the RCMP. My wife had another urgent family matter and was out of town, but wrote a letter.

Once again I would like to apologize to everyone in general. Sincerely,

Wes Peterson

Amendments to Pioneer Utility Grant Act accepted

WHITEHORSE (November 13, 2014) —The Yukon legislative assembly unanimously agreed to modernize the Pioneer Utility Grant Act.

Designed to assist seniors with their home heating costs, the Pioneer Utility Grant is a subsidy program for Yukoners 65 and older who rent or own their own home.

"We met with a number seniors groups and representatives who had voiced support for the suggested changes," Minister of Health and Social Services Doug Graham said. "I am pleased we are moving forward with these amendments which will help our seniors, particularly those living outside of Whitehorse where utility costs tend to be higher."

Amendments that will modernize the act include:

- moving the initial application date from October 1 to July 1;
- increasing the grant amount for rural residents;
- updating the eligibility requirements, such as a oneyear minimum residency in Yukon;
- specifying grant application basics, such as net income; and
- expanding regulationmaking powers to support implementation of the act.

Changes will be in effect for the July 2015 intake.

All applicants must now be 65 to be considered eligible for the grant and have lived in Yukon a minimum of 12 months before applying.

Proof of residency and annual income are now submitted when applying for the grant. Amounts subsidized will reduce as net incomes approach approximately $165,000 for couples and approximately $114,000 for individuals. An income-testing model will be introduced to the subsidy program within the next year.

These modernizations of the Pioneer Utility Grant Act will ensure flexibility and sustainability of the program so that the needs of Yukon seniors are met.

OBITUARY

JACK GERALD SAILOR May 29, 1935 to October 16, 2014

We are indeed saddened at the loss of our beloved husband, father and grandfather . . . yet we rejoice at his going home to see his Lord and Savior, his family members and myriad of friends.

Jack was born in Watrous, Saskatchewan, the fourth child of John and Mary Sailor. At the age of 10, he accepted Jesus Christ as his Lord and Savior and upon his confession of faith was baptized at Nokomis Baptist Church.

During his final year in high school he met (and later married) the

The Lord graciously blessed this union for 57 years and generously filled their home with love and laughter at the births of two sons – Jack Jr. (his wife Tracy), Gerald (his wife Lisa) and a daughter, Jo-Ann (husband David Fortnum). Seven grand children, Janna, Jonathon, Alysse, Timothy, Graeme, Matthew, and Daniel, brought even more exuberance and sheer joy into their visits with Grandpa and Grandma.

Following his graduation, Jack joined the Regina Police Service and served for 18 years. In 1973 he surrendered his badge and his rank as a detective for the call of God to mission service with SEND International. Together with Ella, they served for the next 16 years in the Yukon and Alaska, where many hours were invested in preaching, teaching, counselling, and encouraging young believers in the faith. The Lord blessed His Word and Jack and Ella's work as many came to Christ.

In the joy of the Lord and in His time, the plans for a new church building became a reality. With the help of his brother-in-law, Gerald Ohrt, plans were laid, and a new church building began to emerge. Help and finances came from many across the United States and Canada, and within the following two years the entire building was completed and paid for.

In the following 10 years, Jack served as Director of Personnel for five years in Alaska and five years in the Canadian Head Office in Ontario. After retiring from SEND International, he pastored for the following five years in Komoka Community Church.

Jack's love for the wilderness, outdoors, fishing, camping, hunting, skiing, curling and golfing, was only surpassed by his love for the Lord, for his family and for all who came to know him. He referred to many of these activities as God's way of building character, both for himself and his com-

Dad's passion was in serving the Lord and using his many gifts from God to serve others. One of his favorite organizations who truly are the hands and feet of Jesus is Samaritan's Purse.

For it is by grace you have been saved, through faith – and this not from yourselves, it is the gift of God – not by works, so that no one can boast. Enh. 2:8 & 9

Fire Chief advises caution as the Yukon River ice stops moving

By Dan Davidson

(November 19) The ice in the Yukon River had stopped moving by Monday, November 17. While there were still small open pools steaming in the -20 temperatures, the main portion of the river between the two ferry landings looked very much as if commuters from West Dawson and Sunnydale could expect a more normal route this year once the ice thickens enough to create an ice bridge.

Fire Chief Jim Regimbal says that the Klondike River is still showing a lot of open water by the Ogilvie Bridge and for some distance on from there. He is troubled by reports of posted photos showing people walking across the Yukon on what would be very thin ice at this point. He says there's no way that the fire department or emergency services would be able to rescue anyone who got into trouble while out on the ice this early in the

The ferry ceased operations on October 29 and he expects that, after last year's long isolation, people are hoping the river will firm up much faster this year, but he advises waiting till at least the end of one full week before making that walk.

CABIN FEVER Into the Cold

By Chuck Rhodes, California, Missouri

The summer so short. Fall again beautiful colors pour And display a jester's court.

Awoke with a chill too soon The ground white to the cabin door Can't see past my window by noon.

No matter, the wood is stocked. The ole pot-belly glows red hot; And I can always get crocked.

Damn I say! Will it not stop? It's now thirty days. I'm in a heck of a spot. The queen's face is only a dot.

Night or day, day or night? Makes no difference, the cabin is locked. The creaking roof brings new fright.

> Heard a knock at the door. Jumped from my bed in shock. Is my mind becoming poor?

Trembling hands opened it wide There stood mother with a smile... But...I thought she had died.

"Hello my son, please come home, Your father forgives your denial." "Oh mother, don't leave me alone."

"Come in from the cold, Sit by my fire and warm your bones. Tell me of all that is old."

Our visit went so well Mattered not the stove was as stone. On her lap my head soon fell.

> Now I lay me down to sleep, I pray...the Lord.....my Soulto keep.

By Alisa Nemirovska, Dawson City

It's starting to get darker.

The tourists are long gone and the streets are empty of their bus sized summer homes again.

It's not yet four o'clock, but the day is cold and the warmth of the ice-cold beverages is enticing those around to enter through the sleepy doors of the pink building down on Third.

She watches as the locals start to gather up their young and the loose adults of the underground emerge.

The lights are dizzying inside.

The music is sombre and The Pit hosts ten souls; dedicated to ending yet another night in a drunken slumber.

The clock strikes another hour yet the scene remains the same. She watches those around her greet one another in a manner that only those who've shared the cold can, and takes notice of the shy faces that have stepped into a world that they did not know existed.

A young man stands in a corner, taking in what's rightfully not his. Set out to prove his worth by surviving the sub zero; he realises that it may not be the cold itself that is to be the biggest challenge of the Yukon.

He stands alone, watching those around him sitting in groups of quiet solitude and begins to wonder how the silence of the group can be so loud.

She watches him. And waits.

The streets are covered in a wall of white.

It did not take long for the town to transition from a bustling summer destination to an eerie place where foxes are the only predators of the night.

The young man has stood in his spot for over a month now, engaging only with the ones who feed his liver toxins, all the while observing the growing silence of the town and the deafening emptiness that now surrounds him.

It's time for her to say hello.

She appears beside him, in a way that only she can. A suggestive whisper that causes a chill to run down his spine, entices him outside into the peaceful darkness of the day. He follows her towards the river; watching her long skirt flutter in the wind and the edges of her long sleeved shirt, melt into the scene around her.

She waits for him to stumble over and watches as he follows her into the not yet frozen river.

He's not her first and certainly not last.

She treasures her boys in a way that only a mother can: saving them from life ahead and forever injecting them into the history of Dawson.

She remembers her first time, the one where a lost dog was all it took for her inebriated son to cross the icy river to his eternal

She watched as his face surrounded the streets and eventually made its way onto a wall in a shabby hotel, right where it started.

She found peace when she followed him, into the silent cold.

KNHS wins a further season extension

When the federal government decided to allow Klondike National Historic Sites to extend its season by two weeks beyond the nationally mandated Victoria Day weekend to Labour Day weekend in 2014, Dawson's tourism operators greeted this with enthusiasm. As the season came to an end the question was, did the pilot project succeed and would it be extended?

The community got its answer on November 13, when 20 locals gathered in the Palace Grand Theatre's foyer to hear the news from Member of Parliament Ryan Leef.

"Today," Leef told his audience, "I am pleased to announce that – given the success of this year's pilot project – beginning in 2015 Parks Canada will extend its operating season by three weeks following the Labour Day weekend at the Dawson Historical Complex.

"This means that, in 2015, the sites will be open until September 28."

Leef was speaking on behalf of Leona Aglukkaq, Minister of the Environment and Minister responsible for Parks Canada, who would have been happy, no doubt, to hear the burst of applause that greeted these words.

Leef began his announcement with a mention of his elementary school years, which were spent in Dawson. He left in 1985 when his family moved, but he said it always feels like home when he comes back.

Then he expounded on the Klondike's significance in the story of Canada.

"Few episodes in Canadian history have captured imaginations like the Klondike Gold Rush. Thousands of adventurers and fortune seekers faced the rigors of the trail to moil for gold along creeks feeding the Klondike River.

"And, to this day, thousands of visitors – every year – still come from around world to Dawson City for an entertaining and informative glimpse into the Klondike Gold Rush era.

"As our country nears its 150th birthday in 2017, our Government is inviting Canadians to learn more about the major events that have shaped their country's history.

"Canada's national historic sites enable us to experience our rich history and heritage in a special way and play a big part in the celebration of Canada 150.

"Parks Canada's Dawson Historical Complex – protecting over 24 heritage buildings and S.S. Keno that are associated with the story of the Klondike Gold Rush – is an important part of the tourism offer in the area.

"These incredible locations provide visitors with the opportunity to make real and tangible connections to the past.

"Our Government recognizes the value of the Dawson Historical Complex National Historic Site in contributing to tourism in Dawson City and the unique and important relationship it has with other industry stakeholders."

Leef ran through a few of the obstacles to visitor travel here that have cropped up during his term in office. There was the question of the border hours, which required some negotiation between the two senior levels of government. Then there was a problem with US rental cars not being able to come to Canada, which required more persuasion.

"Then we looked and said, well now the country's open for business, you can bring your vehicles and the border's open – only, we didn't have our sites open as long as we

"I can tell you," Leef said,
"that Parks Canada did great work and the folks here on the ground in Dawson City did great work, to open these venues and these services.
They deserve our admiration and support for what they do here.

"Thanks to the visitor demand during this busy part of the season, Parks Canada sites are able to provide extended visitor services in Dawson City on a costrecoverable basis and at no extra cost to taxpayers."

Another burst of applause followed this speech.

"Our Government is taking concrete action to promote our natural and cultural heritage by extending its operating season at the Dawson Historical Complex," Leef said.

"We recognize the value of the Dawson Historical Complex in contributing to tourism in Canada and the unique and important relationship it has with other industry stakeholders. Our Government will continue working with local tourism operators to develop a vibrant tourism offer in Dawson City. I was pleased to make this announcement here in Dawson City, building on my commitment to make community announcements in the communities."

"I would like to thank all those who have worked with me to ensure that Dawson City's national historic sites continue to be exciting and engaging cornerstones of the local tourism industry and that we will continue to have an incredible tourism offer across the Yukon."

Leef listed the support of a number of organizations that have led to this outcome, including Parks Canada, Yukon's Dept. of Tourism ad Culture, the City of Dawson, the Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in First Nation, the Tourism Industry Association of the Yukon, the chambers of commerce of the Yukon and Dawson City, the Friends of the Klondike Corridor, Goldbottom Tours, the Klondike Institute of Art and Culture and the Klondike Visitors Association.

News & Happenings from the Community Library

In the Library this month

The Library will host a reading by current Berton House Writer-in-Residence Tara Beagan on Monday 1 December at 7 p.m. Refreshments will be served, and admission to the reading is free and open to the public.

Tara has been in Dawson since the first week of October, and has been relishing the experience while she researches and plans her newest work. Her writing reflects her roots, which are Ntlaka'pamux (Interior Salish) and Irish. She is the author of 20 plays, ranging from a short sketch about urban trapping to a fiery adaptation of the classic Miss Julie. Tara has also written and acted for CBC Radio, and has made an awardwinning short film, 133 Skyway. It's sure to be an entertaining evening, so don't miss it.

Large-print books have been gaining in popularity, especially as the population ages, and the Library has been slowly expanding its collection of fiction in this format. Three new large-print works were received this month, and feature a romance, The Autumn Bride by Anne Gracie, plus two mysteries, A Biscuit, A Casket by Liz Mugavero, and Billionaire Blend by Cleo Coyle (which also includes some delicious recipes). The large-print books are located upstairs in the Fiction section at the end of the regular stacks, i.e. following the "Z" authors.

With just a month to go until Christmas, you may want to check out our special holiday display. From timeless Christmas stories for children to tips for holiday decorating, crafting, and entertaining, there are all sorts of great books to help make this special time of year even more fun for everyone.

For more information about any of these please contact the Library at 993-5571 or e-mail dclib@klondiker.com

PUBLIC MEETING RESCHEDULED

The Government of Yukon is undertaking the development of agriculture lots in West Dawson/Sunnydale in accordance with the local area plan.

A public meeting is planned to provide more information:

New Date: Wednesday, December 3, 2014

Time: 7:00 – 9:00 p.m.

Location: Downtown Hotel meeting room, Dawson City

NOTE: Meeting date is pending safe river crossing on the Yukon River ice bridge. Please see the website agriculture.gov.yk.ca for more detailed information on the proposed Sunnydale agriculture land development, and for any necessary updates on the public meeting date.

Representatives from the Agriculture and Land Planning Branches of Energy, Mines and Resources will be at the meeting, so please bring your questions, concerns and ideas.

> For more information, contact David Murray, Manager Agriculture Land Resources, Energy Mines and Resources at 667-3699.

Yukon government recognizes excellence in mining practices

(L-R): Hugh Kitchen, Yukon Chamber of Mines, accepting on behalf of Chevron Resources Canada; Isaac Fage, president GroundTruth Exploration Ltd.; Tao Henderson, vice-president GroundTruth Exploration Ltd.; Will Fellers, Fell-Hawk Placers; Melanie Fellers, Fell-Hawk Placers; Minister Scott Kent; Gerry Murdoch, project manager for Sä Dena Hes Operating Corporation.

(November 18, 2014) —The winners of the 2014 Robert E. Leckie awards were announced yesterday evening at the 42nd Annual Geoscience Forum & Trade Show banquet.

This year's recipients were GroundTruth Exploration Inc., Sä Dena Hes Operating Corporation and Fell-Hawk Placers.

"The Leckie Awards acknowledge companies who have demonstrated excellence in environmental stewardship, outstanding social responsibility, leadership and innovation in mining practices," Minister of Energy Mines and Resources Scott Kent said. "This government values the outstanding work and efforts and nominees."

The award for responsible and innovative exploration and mining practices in quartz mining was awarded to GroundTruth Exploration put forth by both the winners

Inc. Recognized for developing state-of-the-art technologies that cause minimal environmental impacts, such as a flying drone to capture base line data on claims, they also created a light-weight rubber-tracked vehicle called a Geoprobe that can traverse land with minimal impact.

Sä Dena Hes Operating Corporation received the award for excellence in environmental stewardship in quartz mining for their work towards permanent closure of the Sä Dena Hes mine site. This work includes the removal of the mill and camp and reclamation of waste rock storage, tailings management facilities and mine entrances.

For their commitment to the highest operational standards for water conveyance structures, new roads and trails, camp construction and the final reclamation of the Ballarat Creek site, the award for excellence in environmental stewardship in placer mining went to Fell-Hawk Placers.

An honourable mention for excellence in environmental stewardship in quartz mining went to Chevron Canada Resources for the important rehabilitation work they have undertaken at the Crest Iron project at Snake River in the Peel region.

"The decommissioning and reclamation work that these companies undertake speaks volumes to their dedication to sustainable practices and demonstrates the balance that can be achieved between resource development and stewardship of all Yukon lands," Kent added.

The awards are given in honour of Robert (Bob) E.
Leckie, a Mayo mining inspector and innovator who was dedicated to the development of progressive land use practices for mining.

Fire Department receives training on new Fire Truck

Submitted by the Fire Department

"How many times have we heard that one must train, train, and then train again to be more proficient at something - especially when it revolves around life-safety," said Dawson Fire Chief Jim Regimbal. "That makes complete sense to me and has throughout my career in fire fighting. But how many times have you stopped and wondered if you are training correctly?"

That is why Gregg Geske, the compressed air foam (CAF) systems product manager of Waterous, travelled from St. Paul, Minneapolis, to provide us with the proper training and use of the new OneStep CAF system that is on our new fire truck.

"The entire OneStep CAF system is pre-engineered so that (fire truck operators) don't have to think about it," Geske said. "It's all about ease of operability."

"That ease of use also translates to fast, effective and safe fire fighting operations," Geske said. "Operators aren't wasting valuable time on the fire ground trying to calculate the best foam ratio or the proper pump pressure – and they're not wasting even more time trouble shooting when their calculations aren't correct."

Geske also commented on how conscientious the members of the department are. To come in on a weekend to receive training says a lot about your commitment to the community you serve. Klondike Valley and Mount Lorne were also on hand for the training.

"I want to thank the manufacturer of the truck, Fort Garry and in particular Gil Bradet, who is their Yukon representative, and the Dawson City Fire Department for their hospitality," Geske said. "And a special kudos to Chief Regimbal for first initiating this training as a must when he was at the Fort Garry fire truck plant in Winnipeg inspecting the truck prior to its delivery. Well done chief."

New fire truck proves to be an asset at Sunday night's house fire

Dawson's firefighters responded to a house fire at the Sollosy residence at 737-7 th Avenue shortly after 7:30 p.m. on Sunday, November 9. The call had reported one person in the house but when the firefighters arrive the RCMP informed them the house was empty.

"We were able to gain access into the house and extinguish the fire in short order," said fire chief Jim Regimbal.

The cause of the fire was still under investigation at this time of writing. Regimbal advised that there was considerable smoke damage to the property.

"The new fire truck was a huge asset as we were able to illuminate the scene and create a safe environment," Regimbal said.

"A big thanks to the fire department, RCMP, EMS, and the public for noticing the fire and calling it in."

As it happened the emergency numbers were not working that night and Regimbal was reached on his personal cell phone. That problem has since been rectified, but the fire chief notes that this is just another argument in favour of territory-wide 911 service.

Remembrance Day asks us to work to make things better, says RCMP Sergeant

Remembrance Day observances in Dawson began, as always, in the gym at the Robert Service School, and marching in of the Colour Guard, led by Ranger Chris Collin and Sgt. John Mitchell: two Canadian Rangers, two Junior Canadian Rangers and two members of the RCMP, with the remainder of the troops stationing themselves along the room's north wall.

Mayor Wayne Potoroka acted as emcee for the ceremony.

Michael Davidson led in the singing of "O Canada", followed by a recording of "The Last Post". After the Two Minutes Silence, the recording continued with "Reveille" and Myrna Butterworth recited the "Act of Remembrance."

Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in elder Angie Joseph-Rear repeated the Act in the Han language and Betty Davidson recited "In Flanders Fields."

TH Chief Roberta Joseph delivered the Prime Minister's Statement, in which Mr. Harper tied the day into the coming celebrations for the nation's 150th birthday in 2017.

"It is our duty to remember the Canadians who so selflessly defended our freedom. That is why the commemorations of the 100th anniversary of the First World War and the 75th anniversary of the Second World War are two of the major milestones on the Road to 2017. As we recall our proud history, let us also remember how early Canadians, First Nations and Métis people fought together like never before in the War of 1812 to repel an American invasion, laying the foundation for an independent Canada.

"Remembrance Day also provides an opportunity to pay tribute to the daunting sacrifices made by Canadian families who were forced to endure their loved ones being away at war and dangerous missions abroad. Let us recall the unfailing support they provided to those on the front lines, the thousands of letters and care packages, and the dedication of those who worked in support of the effort

Sgt. Dave Morin remembered his grandfather, a WWII veteran.

Rangers and Junior Rangers at the cenotaph.

back at home."

The guest speaker for the day was the newly appointed Dawson Detachment Commander, RCMP Sgt. Dave Morin.

"I think that for most of us when we hear the name of our country – Canada – spoken, it invokes a feeling of pride and happiness; pride in the accomplishments of our nation over the years, and happiness at the prospect of our families and children realizing their dreams and enjoying peaceful and productive lives. We are indeed blessed to live in this country, the true north strong and free, and owe a debt of gratitude to those who fought to protect what we have today.

"Remembrance Day in an opportunity for all of us to give thanks and show our gratitude to those who served our country in two world wars, the Korean War, and to those who continue to serve today. It is important that their sacrifice not be forgotten, that the values they fought and died for be not taken for granted.

"As a young boy it was easy for me to connect with the idea of Remembrance Day, as my grandfather served overseas in the Second World War and was wounded in action. This resulted in one side of his body being paralyzed and so he walked with a prominent limp and was unable to use one arm. From as early as I can remember, I always understood that he had been wounded fighting for our country, to help others, and because of that he was one of my earliest heroes.

"As the years went on, my experience of having a direct link to the war, through him, was not the experience of people younger than I. At one time we all personally knew a friend or family member who served overseas in one of the great wars, but now every year the number of our veterans gets smaller and smaller, in our own community and across the country. And that saddens me. But it also saddens me that the number of our veterans may increase, as our men and women again stand on guard at home and around the world for what we value and hold so dear.

"This was made painfully clear in recent weeks, with

Placer Mining: Fell-Hawk Placers

Operating on Ballarat Creek in the Dawson mining district until 2013, Fell-Hawk Placers are recognized for adhering to an extremely high operational standard. This was demonstrated in a number of areas including water conveyance structures, new roads and trails, camp construction and the final decomissioning of the site.

The Fellers family undertook tremendous planning and foresight in order to accomplish the high level of reclamation that was completed on Ballart Creek.

On behalf of the Yukon government, industry and Yukoners, thank you and congratulations on your award.

Daycare Bazaar launches the Christmas social season

Story & photos by Dan Davidson

By noon on Saturday, November 15, all parking spots on Fifth Avenue between Princess and Queen Streets were full, including the lot for the Robert Service School. Vehicles had spilled round the corner and into the Westmark bus lot, as well as down Queen to the lot across from Diamond Tooth Gerties.

The Dawson Daycare Christmas Bazaar is the longest running and largest of a month's worth of bazaar events. It attracts the largest crowds and has the widest range of goods preserves and jams, baked goods, all sorts of items from the Anglican Thrift Store, items from gift catalogues, calendars, colouring books, toys, and fund raising pitches from a number of organizations, including the graduating class of 2015, which had several raffles and draws in motion during the five hours of the bazaar.

The craft tables brimmed with homemade toques, glass mosaic work, jewelry, jars of

For the youngest (and their parents) there was a chance to have their picture taken with Santa Claus up on the stage.

There's always a lot of meeting and greeting at these events, during which the gym becomes a sort of indoor open air market, filled with people making deals or just standing about chatting with each other in groups.

the killing of our service men, Corporal Nathan Cirillo and Warrant Officer Patrice Vincent, right here in Canada.

"ISIS, ISIL, Fundamentalists, extremists - the world is turning into a pretty scary place, it seems. But there have always been those who would terrorize, oppress and hate, just as there have always been those who would protect, relieve and safeguard.

"'To you, from failing hands, we throw the torch. Be yours to hold it high.' These are more than just words from a poem. They are a message for all of us: carry on, be courageous, stand up for your beliefs, admonish wrongdoers and don't remain silent about injustice. By remembering our veterans we honour their sacrifice, but I think it's important to remember that it's not just in memory we honour them, but also in living. The values they fought and died for have been left to us, for us to live our lives by. Standing up for freedom, democracy and human rights, treating each other with respect, that's how we honour their sacrifice."

Following the laying of wreaths the benediction by the Reverend Laurie Munro, the assembly broke up. Many headed straight to the reception at the Dänojà Zho Cultural Centre, where the special event was the slide show by Erin Hilliard, who had travelled to Europe on the 75th D-Day Commemorative Tour this year.

The Rangers and Junior Rangers proceeded to the cenotaph in Victory Gardens, where they assembled for the "Act of Remembrance" and to lay their poppies on the wreaths, which the students at the Robert Service School had placed there the day before during the school's observances.

2014 Robert E. Leckie Award

for Responsible and Innovative Exploration and Mining Practices

Quartz Mining: GroundTruth Exploration Inc.

GroundTruth Exploration places a priority on developing exploration methods that capture base line data on claims prior to commencing work and following reclamation. Groundtruth has also constructed a lightweight, rubber-tracked vehicle called a Geoprobe that can traverse land with minimal impact in order to avoid the construction of trails. These are just a few of the new and exciting research methods developed by

The innovative research and development ideas explored by Groundtruth will influence the way exploration methods and practices are performed across the industry.

On behalf of the Yukon government, industry and Yukoners, thank you and congratulations on your award.

Youth Art Enrichment marks its 14 year

Story & photos by Dan Davidson

The Youth Art Enrichment program presented by the Klondike Institute of Art and Culture completed its 14th year during the week of November 4 to 9. Thirty-six students from Carcross, Whitehorse (FH Collins, Académie Parhélie, the Individual Learning Centre, and Porter Creek) Mayo and Dawson assembled in the Klondike to spend four days studying print art, carving, animation and improv theatre.

Meshell Melvin mentored the printing group in the Odd Fellows Hall ballroom.

Ken Anderson was in the downstairs classroom in the same building.

The Yukon School of Visual Arts lent the Confluence Gallery to Dan Sokolowski to set up his animation studio, using stop motion techniques. The results were shown at the Saturday evening finale.

George Maratos put his students through their paces in the Gathering Room at the Dänojà Zho Cultural Centre, which was also the site for their finale show, along with the animation productions.

The program, says KIAC's Programs Coordinator, Ange Bonnici, is funded and supported by a few different sources: KIAC's core funding, the Department of Education and the Department of Justice through the Youth Investment Fund.

This year a new sponsorship with Northern Vision Development saw the program sponsored for 20 hotel rooms at the Downtown Hotel.

The Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in made its community hall available for the group's meals and final banquet, along with the print and carving displays.

"The Dawson Community has been and continues to be a great supporter of the program, Bonnici said. "this year more than 35 people were cooking meals, providing baking, helping with set up and tear down and evening activities."

Classes ran from 9:00 to 4:00 every day and evening activities filled up most of the rest of the structured day. These included yoga, a storytelling session at DZCC, a artist's talk at the ODD Gallery, talent and games night at DZCC, movie night at the Dawson City Museum and an open mic folk concert at the Alchemy Café.

There were always two options for students to chose

"The SOVA students got involved in a big way this year," Bonnici said, "by hosting an art night 'Collage Party' for the Youth Art Enrichment participants in the 3D room at SOVA. This night allowed both sets of students to get to know each other in an informal environment, also giving the YAE participants a glimpse into life as an art student.

The program may get a more formal recognition from the Department of Education next year. The department has already provided credit status to the modules in its own Rural Experiential Model program, which borrowed very heavily on the format and structure of YAE in the two years it has run.

"We're currently working with the Department of Education to accredit the program," Bonnici said. "This has been spearheaded by the DCAS Board President Peter Menzies and it's looking positive for implementation by next year.

This was my third year coordinating, said Bonnici who was assisted by Catherine LaLonde. "As always, it's a busy but fun week. I always have a great time getting to know the youth and seeing the cool work that they come up with."

- Ken Anderson coaches a student through a tricky bit.
- Several animation teams worked at the SOVA building.
- The improv students try out variations on a hitchhiker skit.

Quartz Mining: Sä Dena Hes Operating Corporation

Teck Resources is the managing partner of the Corporation and has been working closely with the Liard First Nation and Ross River Dena Council to decommission and close the historic lead-zinc mine site located 45 km north of Watson Lake. Full closure will be completed by the fall of 2015.

Recognized achievements at the site in 2014 include the incorporation of a risk assessment framework to improve the site decommissioning plan, the removal of the mill and camp, and the reclamation of waste rock storage, tailings management facilities, and all mining entrances. Teck has also completed slope stability, surface flow and erosion control work to ensure the stability of the site for the long term.

On behalf of the Yukon government, industry and Yukoners, thank you and congratulations on your award.

Meshell Melvin, Dan Sokolowski, and George Maratos sum their own experience with the students and their supervising teachers.

The elusive rhythms and percussive melodies of Myriad3 may not be everyone's cup of tea, but the Toronto based trio impressed the Odd Fellows Hall ballroom crowd with their energy and musicianship in their Jazz Yukon sponsored concert on November 19.

Formed pretty much by accident four years ago this trio has already produced two albums and stamped even the classic tunes they sometimes cover with their own distinctive sense of syncopation.

Chris Donnelly on piano, Daniel Fortin on double bass, and Ernesto Cervini on drums, have put their own spin on the configuration that is usually called a piano trio, generally because the keyboard player tends to dominate the mix. That description doesn't fit Myriad3 very well.

All three players write and arrange. A particular tune may be started out by any one of them. They play with quirky timing and sudden pauses in the flow of a tune, managing to fool most of the audience into premature applause at least once during the two sets.

Donnelly does most of the talking, giving brief introductions to the tunes and bantering a bit, but it is clear the others are not sidemen.

The group leans towards modern jazz and by the time they have rearranged some of the more traditional tunes to their liking, even aficionados would be hard pressed to say exactly what they have done to the tunes - but they have clearly been altered in form and tone.

The concert made for an enjoyable evening and one could not help but admire the skill with which the three young men wielded their instruments. It may not be the sort of sound destined to flow from my speakers anytime soon (I prefer Miles Davis' Sketches of Spain to his Bitches Brew), but it's good to hear different sounds once in a while.

Yukon Police Council invites input for 2015-16 policing priorities

WHITEHORSE (November 13, recommendations that reflect 2014) —Last week the Yukon Police Council held a meeting in Whitehorse to gather input from Yukoners on emerging community safety issues in order to identify policing priorities.

"Stakeholders from more than 30 organizations attended the meeting to discuss important community safety issues," Deputy Minister of Justice and Yukon Police Council chair Thomas Ullvett said. "Input from citizens is critical—the feedback we receive ensures that the council develops the needs and values of our communities."

At the end of the month the council will provide recommendations for policing priorities to the minister of Justice. In turn, the minister will review the recommendations and communicate the 2015-16 Yukon policing priorities to the commanding officer of the Yukon RCMP.

"We appreciate the participation of the community so far and are encouraging the public to share their recommendations before November 26," Yukon Police Council member Michael Riseborough said.

A citizen based group, the council provides opportunities for community members and service providers to participate and have a role in shaping the police service Yukon receives.

The Yukon Police Council was established in response to a recommendation from the Sharing Common Ground final report, an outcome of the review of Yukon's police force in 2010.
