Ice Bridge declared closed

Photos & story by Dan Davidson

The sign says "Ice Bridge Closed." This means residents have been advised that the Ice Bridge across the Yukon River should be considered to be not safe. This is about three weeks earlier than last year, but three or our days later than the year before.

No one seriously thinks that this will stop people from using the river crossing - not yet, anyway. I watched two vehicles cross from Dawson to the west bank this morning, when the world was still moderately crisp, and another come the other way much later in the afternoon when I found my feet sinking into the thawing soil down by the ferry landing.

It's been a weird year for those who need to cross the river daily. The regular passage never did freeze solidly enough to make a good path, and portions of that long open lead that were iced over a week ago have now opened up again.

The crossing that was established was further south, about level with the RCMP detachment, and folks originally got to it by taking the lower dike road that comes out just across Front Street from the Gold Village Restaurant. It was a onelane access road and people had to be nice to each other to make it work.

When the Dept. of Highways did get involved, they widened and thickened that ice trail on the river and diverted the access along the thicker ice north to the ferry landing, matching the lanes on the other side of the river.

Just three days ago I visited with a family that was doing a little ice fishing and having a picnic down near the beginning of that lane, and noticed that as it moved south I was looking at some fairly impressive puddles. I wondered if that was still passable.

When I left them I saw that vehicles were once again using the lower dike road access, so that answered my question.

Today, while my son and I were out delivering the new Klondike Sun to the stores that distribute it, I saw the sign I mentioned back at the beginning. Deliveries done around noon, I parked out car and walked down the dirt track to where it empties out onto the river crossing. The ground was soft and the last 50 metres or so was full of some very large rocks. This was a truck access only, and you'd want lots of clearance.

Three trucks made the trek from opposite directions while I was walking and yes, they were being nice to each other again.

Dawson's streets are full of puddles just now and the back lanes are getting pretty sloppy. If these warmer nights continue it won't be long before river crossing reverses its fall pattern, going from 4X4 trucks to snowmobiles and finally to foot traffic before it ceases altogether.

The sign on top of the dike advises people not to drive on the Ice Bridge.

This crossing could be reached from the lower dike road or from another ice road leading from the ferry landing.

Uffish Thoughts: Dawson Coffee Houses are a good time for everyone

The first week of every month is a musically intense time for me. If I haven't found time to haul out my Ovation guitar and tune up my fingers during the rest of the month, that's the week I had better get at it if I want to be ready for the Open Mic/Coffee House at the Oddfellows Hall.

These monthly sessions have been going on for five or six years now and feature a wide variety of musical styles and ages at the front of the room. Each performer gets the chance to perform three tunes, maybe four if the list for the evening is short.

Material suitable for younger listeners is usually scheduled for the first hour of the evening, with the second hour being aimed more at the adults.

Recently pride of first place on the program has been given to the nimble fingers of Peter Menzies' young fiddle group, a project of the North Klondike Highway Music Society. They're getting to the point where they can almost accompany Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in elder Victor Henry's jigging group, assisted by Tiss Clark on piano.

Menzies became a fiddle enthusiast a few years ago and says that he manages to keep just a few lessons ahead of his students. They meet weekly for lessons and, when possible, have more experienced fiddlers visit town for intense weekend workshops. Not all of the students are kids; a number of adults participate as well.

Quite a number of the performers at these events write their own tunes and use the opportunity of having a live audience to polish their presentations. Both Driftwood Holly and Noosa, who have performed regularly over the years, have released CDs in the last few months, and Noosa held her local release concert during one of the recent monthly events.

Me, I offer a selection of folk-rockish material culled from the last 45 years or so of my life: lots of Cockburn, Dylan, Lightfoot, Young, Rogers and venerable folk songs. Some songs are older than you might think. With a high number of youngsters near the front at the last coffee house, I changed my set list a bit and dropped in "The Cat Came Back". This is best known in Fred Penner's rendition, but the song goes back to the first quarter of the 19th century and people keep adding verses.

The house band for the coffee houses is River Bends, currently composed of Nijen Holland, Luke Holland, Ian Nyland and Jim Taggart, but with a loose membership that often includes Mike Perry and Clive Betts. Lately they've also been acting as the backing group for several women who like to sing but need some accompaniment.

As Nijen puts it, this exercise has really forced the band to open the boundaries of their usual repertoire.

Students at the Yukon School of Visual Arts often like music as well as art and a number of them have been regular performers over the last few years, some staying well beyond their foundation year at YSOVA.

Other evenings have featured sampling and electronic music as well as drumming sessions.

High school students have pitched in as well. Some years there have been junior and senior rock band performances and last year the senior choir group appeared a couple of times. This year has been a little sparse on that front, but one grade 12 student, Victoria Holmes, has appeared several times this season, singing her own songs and some cover tunes.

Victoria is about the same age now as I was when I first took an interest in performing and joined with friends in both rock and folk groups. I hope she gets as much pleasure from it in her life as I have in mine.

Cut off at the Flood Wall

This letter is about a surreal situation that took place beside the river, it involved a combination of government inflexibility and a private contractor's unwillingness to save the City from embarrassment.

We had commemorated Good Friday morning by running with Caribou Legs a few kilometres towards Whitehorse alongside several other Dawson people who wanted to support Brad Firth in his quest to raise the profile of the Peel Watershed

When we came back, we did a few errands in town then parked down by the trail across the river, the walking trail that starts at the city dock so we could take a trip home to West Dawson and return with some rapidly thawing frozen food for our freezer in town

Less than an hour later I was back at the dock only to find that the flood wall was partially in and I could not get off the beach!

I leaned over the partially installed wall to find out what was going on. The contractor who generally does this told me that the City hired him to put in the wall and that is what he was doing. He went on to say that a couple of the city workers had agreed to call us and alert us that the wall was going up (Dawson is a small enough town that most people recognise most vehicles). But no one ever did call us. No one placed any sign, similar to the one that goes up when the dock is installed or removed. No one placed a notice on our truck asking us to move it ... or else.

The solution the City arrived at was to try to plow out the lower road outside the dike from the ferry slips to the dock so I could drive out that way.

This would under the best of circumstances have taken much longer than phoning us (which was not in fact needed as I was already on my way back over to move the truck); it would have taken far longer than removing the few sections of wall that had been installed when I arrived. Diligently, the contractor completed their designated task, diligently the City backhoe tried (and failed) to clear the trail to the dock, it slipped off the too narrow trail and had to get rescued by yet another contractor and other City staff.

Eventually, the City re-hired Van Every to remove the flood wall on Saturday, allow us to drive out, and then re-install it!!!

One wonders how much this fiasco cost City tax payers; all these folks running around on a holiday weekend racking up overtime...

Sincerely, Sebastian Jones

86th Annual Reunion Banquet

At the Vancouver Yukoners' Association

By Palma Berger

We had all seen to our bookings, our tickets, our hotel rooms, and now we were on our way to Vancouver.. We met up with co-travellers in Dawson, at Whitehorse airport.

Even on the plane we managed to bump into old Dawsonites like May and Brian Gudmudson. When we alighted in Vancouver we were still talking to long-time acquaintances. At the River Rock Casino where this event was to be held we could barely get to our rooms for talking to others who had passed through the Yukon over the years. Checking in was one evening, and the banquet the next night.

At the banquet the speeches were short but interesting. Last year's Queen of the Sourdough Rendezvous in Whitehorse chatted about the joy of wearing the crown. Kathy Henry (Tizya) spoke of staying at St. Paul's hostel in Dawson while attending school here. She had her daughter Bonnie with her.

Residents object to YTG proposals to bail out placer operation

The City of Dawson held a meeting last night to consider residents' appeals against a Development Permit issued to the Yukon Government Highways and Public Works for the relocation of the Dome Road and Mary McLeod. The Yukon Government is relocating the roads at tax payer's expense to allow the owner of the Slinky Mine access to the ground under the current highways. YTG stated the proposal was submitted on grounds of public safety and to help resolve the land use issues in the area.

The proponent, YTG Highways and Public Works, was not in attendance. The department has advised that it will host a public meeting in the community prior to issuance of any tenders. A YTG Community Services Community Advisor was present.

Council received 24 letters of appeal and around a dozen residents attended the meeting. Six residents presented to Council, highlighting:

- YTG erroneously spending $1-2M tax payers' money to bail out an ailing miner
- An inappropriate, potentially more dangerous, new road layout
- Public safety being compromised to maximum access to mining claims
- Undue haste in trying to push the proposals through
- Legal and practical uncertainty over any agreement between the proponent, YTG and City to relinquish claims when work is complete
- Concerns over the cost of the whole project to tax payers
- Work is scheduled to take four years, subjecting residents to construction and mining activity for 12 hours per day, 7 days per week
 - A complete lack of communication from YTG on the proposals
- The proposals do little to resolve the ongoing issues of mining within the municipality
- The 'right to mine' seemingly having precedence over the rights of the municipality to govern

One resident spoke in support of the right to mine, but had concerns over tax payers' dollars funding the road relocation.

A discussion period followed the Appeal Hearing adjournment, where residents and Councilors discussed concerns. "Residents are aware that this permit application is solely to aid the Slinky Mine operation. The design YTG has submitted reflects this and is unacceptable", stated long-time Dome resident Glenda Bolt.

Dawson resident Jim Taggart added "In its proposal, and its actions to date, YTG is effectively telling Council and residents that the right to mine is more important than the right of to govern. That is unacceptable and can't be allowed to continue. These circumstances are the 'perfect storm' around which to finally resolve the issues of municipal authority and mining within municipalities. Council must take a stand and fight for its and residents' rights."

Council will make its judgment at a separate 'in camera' meeting and provide a written explanation within the next ten days. A resolution formally adopting the decision is likely to be made a subsequent meeting of Council.

Waste Water Treatment Plant failed in March

This plant is not operating as advertised, and has not since it began operating.

Dawson's new wastewater treatment plant is still not dong the entire job it was built to do and is still being operated by Corix, the design/build contractor. Norm Carlson, the town's Super. of Public Works reported on the shortcomings to council in early April.

"Results of samples taken March 25, 2014 by Water Resources/ Yukon Environment failed in Total Suspended Solids and Biological Oxygen Demand," he wrote.

"The toxicity test passed, although one of the fish died which is unusual for March when our wastewater is normally dilute. Clearly the plant is not compliant with our Water Licence even in March. It should prove interesting to see what the results will look like in May and June."

Dawson's water and sewer system was an experimental design when it was originally installed by YTG nearly forty years ago. It requires a constant water flow to keep the contents in the pipes from freezing. In the winter that means turning on the bleeders in every household attached to the system, thus the winter effluent is more diluted than it is in the summer. There is also less of it to start with, since most of the major hotels are not open from mid-September through to late May and there is no discharge from the three RV parks.

"It's very disconcerting," said Mayor Wayne Potoroka, a few days later, " that it's failing at a time when it, quite frankly, shouldn't be. When you get information like that from your public works supervisor, it gets everyone concerned for sure."

Carlson said that though the town was supposed to have taken over the plant on March 16, that has not, in fact, happened yet, something that was confirmed by the Yukon government's project manager, Catherine Harwood.

"There are many construction deficiencies left outstanding such as valving failure and ventilation," Carlson wrote.

"These are still being negotiated between YG and Corix."

The lack of training that was supposed to have been provided to Dawson's staff was partly dealt with lately, Carlson reported.

"Public Works staff completed a one week course in Wastewater Treatment hosted here in Dawson by Yukon College. The course was most valuable and informative."

In a later interview Carlson indicated that his staff were just about where they needed to be in terms of certification, and were already handling some of the basic maintenance at the plant.

As for the handover to the town, his report was blunt.

"I don't believe that Corix has been granted three consecutive months of acceptance testing which would fulfill their responsibilities regarding the construction portion of the design/ build contract with YG. I believe we have not yet received Corix's testing results for February and March yet. It is possible that both the territorial and federal regulatory authorities will become more aggressive now that the plant has proven to be non-compliant with our water licence in both winter and summer."

On the positive side, the plant has begun accepting educted effluent from holding tank septic systems within the town limits. This was an issue raised many times at the council table over the winter. Carlson says the plant is taking up to three deliveries a day now.

Last summer the plant was not at all successful, and Carlson feels that this summer will be "interesting".

"Caribou Legs" Firth feted in Dawson and Mayo

Story & photos by Dan Davidson

Brad Firth, better known as Caribou Legs, took a short break on his 1200 km run from Inuvik to Whitehorse on April 16 and 17 to attend fund raising meetings in the honour of his quest in both Mayo and Dawson.

The Dawson City evening was held at the Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in Community Hall and drew about 60 people to a dinner and a chance to meet the Gwich'in runner and hear him speak about his dedication to the cause of preserving the Peel Watershed

"I was surprised when I came here to find that you people have a real flavour for the Peel. I didn't realize how important it is to you people."

He said he started this campaign when he realized how upset a cousin of his in Aklavik was over the Yukon government's decision to set aside the Final Report of the Peel Watershed Commission and advance its own counter report.

"I wanted to comfort her ease her pain - ease her suffering. She was really disturbed by it, and that was why I formulated this run."

It's not his first long run. Last year he ran from Fort Smith to Yellowknife.

He's been running steadily since he kicked a decades long history of alcohol and crack cocaine abuse that saw him living on the streets in Vancouver before he finally faced what he had become and forced himself to run away from those addictions.

This run started on April 2, and he hopes to complete it in Whitehorse between April 28 and 30. He's carrying a symbolic satchel of letters, which he hopes to present to Premier Pasloski at that time.

He's running with Trixie, his six-month old pitbull/shih tzu, who paces him and sometimes nips at his ankles.

Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in heritage work recognized at ceremony in Whitehorse

Story by Michael Gates

The Heritage Department of the Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in received the 2013 Lifetime Heritage Achievement Award at an awards ceremony sponsored by the Yukon Historical and Museums Association (YHMA) on Thursday April 17th in Whitehorse. The YHMA has been the umbrella organization for the heritage community since it was first formed in 1977.

The Lifetime Heritage Achievement Award is awarded annually to an individual, group, organization, society, business or corporation for outstanding contribution to Yukon heritage. In the case of Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in, it was given in recognition of: "Meritorious service to the preservation, promotion or development of Yukon's heritage over a period of many years."

Accepting the award on behalf of the First Nation was heritage assistant Erika Scheffen, of Dawson City. Receiving a lifetime award sounds like our life's work is complete, said Scheffen, but she assured the audience that there was much more to come.

On hand to introduce the award was David Neufeld, former Yukon and Western Arctic historian for Parks Canada, who has worked in partnership with the First Nation since the early 1990s. He noted that the award is about the future, and so it fell upon a young member of the heritage department to accept the award on behalf of the First Nation.

Neufeld acknowledged that from the gold rush onward, Chief Isaac organized events of celebration that were shared with the entire community. Chapter 13 of the Final Agreement, he said, is today the source of one of their most important commitments, not just to the First Nation, but everybody in the territory – in recognition that "we live in a pluralistic society, two cultures walking hand in hand."

In its citation for the award, YHMA referred to the many and organizing events like the Moosehide gathering and the Myth and Medium conference, which provides an opportunity for heritage workers to gather, celebrate and learn together.

"The Dänojà Zho Cultural Centre is a model of public programming delivery with yearround displays, workshops and events," states YHMA, which also acknowledged the First Hunt and First Fish projects, which have been added to the to the curriculum as credit courses, and elders camps as other significant projects.

Other recipients of awards at the ceremony held at the Yukon Archives, included Art and Ione Christensen, who were presented the Annual Heritage Award for their involvement in the publication of the book Whitehorse: An Illustrated History by Whitehorse mayor Dan Curtis and Yukon Minister of Tourism and Culture Mike Nixon.

It was through their leadership and commitment to the project that a society was formed, a team assembled and the book was created and released in November of 2013.

Mary Bradshaw was presented with the 2013 Volunteer Award by Minister Mike Nixon for her efforts in organizing and hosting the 2013 conference of the Canadian Museums Association in Whitehorse.

The final award was the 2013 Heritage Conservation Project of the Year Award, given to the Kwänlin Dün First Nation for the restoration of two Whitehorse area cemeteries. This award was presented by Barbara Hogan, manager to the Yukon government's historic sites unit, to Jessie Dawson, councillor for the Kwänlin Dün First Nation.

The keynote speaker for the event was Judy Oberlander, principal of Judy Oberlander and Associates of Vancouver. Oberlander is a fund development consultant in the non-profit sector. Her presentation was titled "Heritage Passed or Past?"

Attention all people with glasses! We need your help. If you, your parents or grandparents wear glasses, there is probably a pair of spare glasses in a junk drawer somewhere. DONATE THEM TO US!

The grade 5/6 Intensive French class at Robert Service School are doing a clothing unit and we wanted to do something that made a difference in the world. Originally we wanted to collect clothes for some place like Haiti, but that was too expensive to send by mail. So we did some research and found that The Lions Club International has eyeglass collection boxes all over Canada and the US, including Whitehorse. They send the eyeglasses we collect to poor people all over the world. What an awesome idea!

Poor people who need glasses in other counties can't work because they can't see. They can't live a normal life and do things like drive, read, watch TV and play video games. With every pair we donate we can help so that they can live without the fear of going hungry (or falling off a cliff!). We are saving lives by doing this and we feel good about it. You could too.

So please...go right now and raid your junk drawer and ask your family and friends to do the same. Put that extra pair of glasses in your bag and bring them to the RSS office from April 23rd to May 9th. You'll feel awesome too!

"It ain't gold, but it's close!"

Trixie, Brad "Caribou Legs" Firth and Angela Sabo beside their support truck in Dawson.

"She soothes the pain and she makes me laugh."

An example of this is the day that Trixie got distracted by piece of caribou carcass at the side of the road. It was a while before Firth and his driver, Angela, realized the dog was missing in action. When they went back about a kilometre and found her she had to be pried away from her feast.

"I just had to laugh. What can you do, right?"

On this leg of the run his companion in the support vehicle (which was loaned to him for the run) has been Whitehorse resident Angela Sabo, herself a bit of a runner.

While in the Klondike the trio stayed at TH's R-22 camp just a few miles up the Dempster Highway, returning there at night after side trips to Dawson and Mayo and after the first few days running from the Dempster Corner.

"I feel really strong right now," Firth told his Dawson audience. "The two days I had off just now - it feels like a week. I'm so used to pounding the pavement every day that these two days have just been dragging on."

What has been good about it has been the chance to meet lots of people who understand and are supportive of his cause.

"You guys have been with it since day one and I just showed up a couple of months ago. It's through your hard work and your continued support - I'm just adding to what your guys have already done, right?"

Firth likes to cover 50 to 60 km a day when conditions permit. They don't always. So far on this trip he's had to face rain and mud and snow."

In the Blackstone Uplands he was joined by a contingent of runners from Dawson, and others have joined him from other communities along the way. Leaving the Dempster Corner on Easter Sunday he was joined by 14 runners ranging in age from 9 to middle age. On that day, his Facebook blog records that he ran 50 km before returning to R22 for the night.

Asked why he started running in the first place he related taking the advice of an elder who helped him when he was first overcoming his addictions.

"He told me to go back to what I used to do when I was a kid. And I couldn't answer that, I couldn't think of that. And he asked me, 'What did you use to do as a kid?' And I said, 'I don't know.' And he said, 'You ran.

You ran as a kid. We all run as kids.' And I thought about it and "I ran from high school, and the police and, when I was little, from my grandmother," he said jokingly.

"I used to cross country ski and play hockey."

Getting back to being active helped him kick his bad habits.

He said he just seems to have been built for running. While he may be tired and sometimes sore at the end of a day, 8 or 9 hours sleep seem to be a reset button for him. He gets up in the morning ready to go.

At one point he was told that someone in Whitehorse was looking into whether he needed a permit to do this highway run.

"I said, 'Are you kidding?' We just laughed at the idea."

They asked how long it might take to accomplish this and were told it would be three weeks. Firth expects to take not much longer than that to complete the entire run.

"I told Angela that if the cops pull us over and shut us down, we'll just run at night. We'll put the headlamp on, get Trixie all lit up, and we'll run at night."

It doesn't seem likely it will come to that.

Sixty or so people came out to the feast for Caribou Legs.

Exercise Beaufort Rangers

Story by Ranger Sgt. John Mitchell Photos by the Rangers

On April 5, 26 members of the 1st Canadian Rangers Patrol Group (1CRPG) returned safely to Dawson after successfully completing a skidoo patrol to Hershel Island.

Beginning on 25 March with deployment from home communities, Yukon Rangers from the Atlin, Beaver Creek, Aklavik, Carcross, Dawson, Faro, Haines Junction, Mayo, Old Crow Pelly Crossing and Whitehorse Patrols conducted Exercise Beaufort Ranger.

The intent of this exercise was to conduct a joint reconnaissance patrol to provide navigational information, situational awareness and demonstrate a Sovereign presence in a little traveled area of the Yukon.

The concept for Exercise Beaufort Ranger was conceived in the Yukon and, following the approval of 1CRPG Command, the Rangers themselves took the lead in the planning, obtaining land use permits, issuing of orders, pre-deployment drills, conducting the patrol operations and all other details with oversight but minimum direct involvement from HQ. This approach was a first in Ranger operations.

The Rangers mobilized by trucks and trailers with all equipment from their home communities to an RV (rendezvous) in Dawson City and on to a deployment point at Eagle Plains on the Dempster Highway. They then initiated a patrol by skidoo to travel over 1500 km. to Hershel Island and the final destination of Fort MacPherson. During the course of the exercise the Rangers traveled continuously on a daily basis until their return to home on 06 April.

The patrol was primarily conducted in an area that was totally unfamiliar to the participating Yukon Rangers and on a route that led them above tree line, through the Arctic Barrens and on to the sea ice where only a very few had any previous experience.

En-route the Rangers dealt expediently with numerous equipment breakdowns and limited logistical support.

The Dawson Patrol contribution to the operation was significant; Sgt. "Mitch" can be blamed for conceiving the Exercise and acted as Exercise Coordinator/Senior NCO throughout.

MCpl. Mitchell Strid, led a an advance Reconnaissance Team composed of MCpl. Bob Blanchard, Dawson Rangers Pete Jensen, Kyler Mather, and Brad Whitelaw, as well as two Old Crow Rangers and one member of the Whitehorse Patrol

The Team did an outstanding job of path finding a route through the challenging terrain from Eagle Plains to Hershel Island.

The goal of putting Rangers on Hershel was achieved on 01 April 2014.

This was the first time the Yukon Rangers have ever conducted joint winter operations in this area and patrolled jointly with Rangers from the NWT.

Officially: The Exercise met and exceeded all Mission goals.

Further, it opened the door for future enhanced operations in the Northern Yukon.

From the Ranger Point of View: It was an awesome trip of a lifetime.

Newton is such a lovable guy!

He's only a year-and-a-half old so he's still a bit of a puppy, but he's pretty well-mannered.

This guy gets along with other dogs and seems like he'd be good with kids. He already walks great on a leash, and he's extremely smart.

You could probably teach him how to back flip while doing the hula and balancing on a beach ball with enough time and attention.

Newton loves attention and needs lots of love, just like any other dog. He will be your most faithful companion.

15th Dawson City International Short Film Festival filled more seats more of the time

Story & photos by Dan Davidson

Four days and 125 films later, the 15th edition of the Dawson City International Short Film Festival flickered to a close and the lights came up on the packed ballroom at the Odd Fellows Hall.

There were a number of changes to the festival this year, not the least of which was the pre-festival showing of two longer films on Thursday night.

Current Klondike Institute of Art and Culture (KIAC) artistin-residence Michelle Latimer was on hand to show her film Alias, about the difficult lives of aspiring rap artists in Toronto.

Former Berton House writerin-residence Charles Wilkins followed her with the film Big Blue, in which he is the central character and narrator. It is the story of 16 people and one unique rowboat on a trip from Africa to Barbados.

Another innovation was the Shortwave Video Challenge, which saw three teams of aspiring film makers produce five minute films on shoestring budgets under the tutelage of Ingrid Veninger. The results were shown to enthusiastic applause at the end of the festival while the Audience Favorite ballots were being counted.

This year's Lodestar Winner was Destroyer by Kevan Funk from Alberta, in which a young hockey player struggles with his conscience after witnessing his teammates commit a sexual assault. This award featured $500 in cash and a Sterling Silver DCISFF pin handcrafted by Sharon Edmunds.

The Audience Favorite Award went Mohawk Midnight Runners by Zoe Hopkins, from Ontario. Based on a short story by Richard Van Camp, three young First Nations men decide to commemorate the death by suicide of their eccentric friend by going on naked midnight runs. The Yukon Brewing Audience Favorite Award gave $500.

MITY (Made in the Yukon) Award was presented to Kathryn Hepburn of Dawson for her Self-Portrait with Migraine. First prize in the this category included $1000 cash, a $1000 equipment rental from the Northern Film and Video Industry Association (NFVIA) and a guaranteed screening at the 2013 Tromso International Film Festival in Norway.

For the second year in a row the MITY Award (Runner Up) went to Arlin McFarlane of Whitehorse for My Friend Anne. In this short film a woman named Anne moves to her that perhaps it was not a great idea. Second place in this category offered $500 cash and $500 worth of video equipment rental from the Klondike Institute of Art and Culture (KIAC).

The MITY Emerging Artist Award went to Like a River by Erin McKnight, the story of her canoe odyssey across Canada to raise awareness about mental illness. First prize included $300 in cash and $500 worth of KIAC video equipment rental.

The MITY Emerging Artist Award (Runner Up) was presented to Deal With it Sister daughter's house and finds out by Julie Robinson. This is the film of Mallory Pigage's wholehearted rant about her life's struggles and triumphs. Second place received $200 in cash and $400 worth of equipment rental.

The MITY Youth Award was given to Kyle Nixon for You Don't Know Jack, a film about his efforts to understand his autistic younger brother. The award was for $100 in cash, provided by KIAC.

The weekend featured 15 screenings, running about 90 minutes each. Most were at the ballroom, but the First Artists group of films ran at the Dänojà Zho Cultural Centre and another batch ran at the Confluence Gallery in the Yukon School of Visual Arts building.

Special non-visual events included a workshop on sound design for film by Normand Roger and Daniel Janke; another on location recording by David Hechenberger; and information sessions from both the Canada Council and the Yukon Film and Sound Commission.

During both Saturday and Sunday the Cold Cuts Video Festival was running in the ODD Gallery on the main floor of the Odd Fellows Hall.

Prior to the awards ceremony Dawson City Arts Society (DCAS) president Peter Menzies summed up some of the activities to which KIAC (DCAS's program arm) is connected in some way.

"Since I spoke last year four CDs have been released and another one is due in June. The radio station (CFYT-fm) has been part of a national effort of community radio stations that did documentaries about residential schools. The Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in (TH) had an incredible conference - Myth and Medium - a four-day conference with artists and storytellers. Another student from Yukon SOVA has won a national award. This cluster - just 17 years old is really doing something very special right now and I think we should pause and celebrate

"For us, collaboration is key," he said, noting that the latest big project, begun last summer in collaboration with TH and Parks Canada, is to reopen the Palace Grand Theatre for a variety of regular performances during the summer season.

After the screening, Film Fest producer Dan Sokolowski gave special — and much appreciated — thanks to Front-of-House Manager Karen MacKay (whose tireless and long-standing volunteer efforts will see her receive a Public Service Award at the Commissioner's Tea in June) and to Allie Haydock and Blake Cameron, the inspired caterers who provided festival goers with delicious, and considerately healthy, eats all weekend.

Film Festival Dan Sokolowski was very happy with this year's edition of the event, and especially pleased that with the number of seats that were full even during those post-meal times that often produce a lull in the daily attendance.

"We actually had to bring extra seats up to put along the north wall so people could sit there, so that says something."

Nellie and Dwayne Backstrom, this my underwear. They never forgot.. year's Mr. and Mrs. Yukon told their story. Gillian Campbell led us in the singing of "Oh Canada".

One of the speakers noted that there was to be an anniversary of the Girl Guides starting up in Dawson. It was appropriate that Jim Cook was present as his mother Jean gave much of her time to the Girl Guides in Dawson.

From Winnipeg came Doris and Howie Gates. They lived up here when Clinton Creek asbestos mine was operating.

The evening went on with lots of reminiscing and retelling, or telling for the first time, the many stories. Betty Miller (Burdeck back then) was my neighbour when I first moved to Dawson...and conscious of my position as a new teacher. She and her kids offered me a trip up Bonanza Creek. I eagerly accepted. At one stage I had to get out and use the outdoor facilities, i.e. behind a bush. Back into the car, but I became very uncomfortable. Had to ask Betty to stop once again, Behind a bush again. This time to let out the grasshopper that had hopped a ride in

There were some "Senior Yukoners" there. Percv de Wolfe who will be 99 in November was there as well as his niece Bonnie Barber (and her husband Chuck), but she is not yet in the Senior Yukoner bracket.

Other Senior Yukoners were two van Bibber brothers, Alex and Pat Sr., and sister Lucy, ages ranging from 92 to 98.

I met Charlie Wilkins in the North West Mounted Police 2005, when he spent part of a chilly winter at Berton House as writer-in-residence. Charlie writes several different kinds of books and articles, one of the ones I've read since I met him was The Wild Ride: a History of 1873-1904. It didn't occur to me at the time that he'd chosen to write about the really early years, stopping at the point where the word Royal was first added to the NWMP name.

Charlie has also produced

Little Ship of Fools

Bv Charles Wilkins Greystone Books 305 pages $21.95

a book about the summer he spent working in a graveyard (In the Land of Long Fingernails), but what he does most is take strange travel adventures and write about those.

Walk to New York kind of describes itself; so does Paddle to the Amazon. The Circus at the Edge of the Earth chronicles his time with the Great Wallenda Circus.

In 2012, at the age of 63, Charlie decided to paddle across the Atlantic Ocean from Morocco to Barbados. He'd heard about this possibility from some friends and had decided it would make a really neat book.

He wasn't going alone and the boat wasn't any old craft. As the subtitle for the book says: 16 rowers, 1 improbable boat; 7 tumultuous weeks on the Atlantic".

Charlie's a healthy fellow by my estimation. He hiked all around Dawson when he was here, and just look at those trips he's taken. He has, on the other hand, what might called an ectomorphic body type: thin muscles, low body fat storage. He writes that he trained for a year and a half to get ready for this trip - lifting weights, eating to put on weight, working out for hours each day on a rowing machine - and that by the end of the trip he had lost one-fifth of his body mass and was told by other people that he looked fragile and haunted.

When he arrives in Dawson this week to do a reading from his book and show the film that one of his crewmates made from the trip, I expect I'll still recognize him, but he will probably be somewhat changed from the fellow I've spoken with and interviewed in the past

Charlie's going to be one of the mentors at next week's Young Authors' Conference (my profile of him for that event has either been in print or will soon be).

Little Ship of Fools is a very engaging travel narrative. We learn about the trip itself, with all its high and low points. We learn the history of the voyage and some of the lore of transoceanic rowing. We learn about the good and not so good points of each of the crew members. and of the inevitable frictions that must develop among 16 individuals trapped in uncomfortably close quarters with no hope of getting any respite from each other, rowing in shifts two hours or and two off in all kinds of weather.

Big Blue, as their craft was called, was a remarkable craft, constructed catamaran-style with two sets of rowing stations separated by a cabin amidships and a little bit of deck space on either side of the cabin. The photos in the book give some idea of the layout. but the colour shots on Charlie's website do it more justice.

The crew's intention as to row down the coast of Africa from Agadir an out into the Atlantic until they could catch the Trade Winds, which would help to speed them on their way. They had a lot of trouble finding the Trades in the first place, and when they did, it was nowhere near the smooth ride they thought it would be. There were waves. There was rain. There was blazing sun. There was first the monotony and then the shortage of food, as the trip took substantially longer than what they had provisioned for.

There was the constant annoyance of loosing irreplaceable things overboard with no way to get them - coupled with the eventual realization that if one of them were to fall overboard, none of their retrieval options would work worth a damn.

You've got to wonder about writing this kind of a book. How personally will your subjects take your observations when it's done? If they decide, part way, that they want out of the deal, what's to stop them from pitched your notes overboard (and what did happen to all those pens anyway?)?

The only thing you can do is to be as hard on yourself as on everyone else, and even that may not be enough. I think Charlie pretty much did that. Any time he records a negative about any member of the crew, he backs it with something positive and he is merciless on his own failings as a member of the crew.

It's a fascinating read and I'm looking forward to seeing the

"Write because you love to," says visiting mentor author Alan Cumyn

Story by Dan Davidson

Alan Cumyn returned to the Yukon on April 1, to take up a three-month residency in Berton House, along with his wife, Suzanne. He was last in Dawson just about two years ago, when he worked with several classes at the Robert Service School and did a reading at the Dawson Community Library as part of TD Children's Book Week.

He will also be one of the mentor authors at this year's edition of the Young Authors' Conference, to be held April 24 and 25 during the Yukon Writers Festival.

Cumyn is the author of a number of books for readers of all ages, including the Owen Skye books for kids, historical novels for adults and young adult novels, 12 books in all between the first one, Waiting for Li Ming (Goose Lane, 1993), and the most recent, All Night (Grass Roots Press, 2013).

"I started writing seriously when I was about 16," Cumyn says, "in the middle of an intense adolescence. Writing was an outlet, a way to express myself without having to actually talk with anyone."

It started with attempts to write song lyrics better than the ones he was hearing on the

"So I wrote my own lyrics, and after a time realized the poems were turning into stories. Then it was a big relief to just write the stories themselves, as prose, without having to worry about rhythm or rhyme. I have been writing fiction ever since."

He was in his 30s, having completed a Masters in Creative Writing, and having had three manuscripts rejected, when the experience of having his baby daughter fall asleep on his chest for several hours one Sunday brought him to a realization.

Being a writer wasn't necessarily about getting published.

"I was flooded with intense feelings about 'family' - nothing more specific than that – and wondered whether I would be able to write a book that could summon those emotions for others. It occurred to me that I really wanted to try, whether the manuscript ever got published or not. But I wanted to continue writing, no matter what. And so I guess that made me feel like a writer."

This motivation leads him to try to create what he thinks of as worthwhile experiences for other people.

"For me, that's what a good book does: it takes me out of my skin and into someone else's. and gives me a chance to lead interesting parallel lives. All the skill and spirit I can muster goes into trying to be true to the experience I want to put my reader through."

For a number of years, Cumyn worked for as a writer and researcher for the Immigration and Refugee Board and had to find time to squeeze in some writing in the mornings before he went to work.

"The last several years I have written more or less full-time or have split my time between writing and teaching. So, on a good day, I will write in the morning, and do other work in the afternoon.

"Lately I have gone back to writing by hand in a notebook. Despite using computers since the mid-1980s - or perhaps because of it - my typing is execrable. So I now use voice recognition software to read in my handwritten draft, and then will continue to edit on computer after that.

"It usually takes me about two years to come to a strong first draft of a novel, and then often there are revisions depending on what my agent or editor or other trusted readers have to say."

He enjoys doing workshops and encouraging others to get the most from their use of words.

"We live in an age of increasing professionalization of the arts - we let others make music for us, paint pictures that we pay to see, write the stories and the movies that colour our

"But we're also living in a : Interview by Jaden, Grade 3 time when more people are writing than ever before, and it's exciting to help others open up to the possibilities of creating their own art for themselves and to share with others."

Good writing starts with reading, all kinds of reading.

"So, read for yourself; read what nurtures you; read what scares you, what turns your head, what fills your thirst for love and life; what builds your bones and brain. All those books, all that language, will mix within you to help distill your own voice."

You may find other people who can help nourish your developing voice.

"A lot of writers are helped by fine teachers along the way, so search for your mentors, pay attention, stay open enough to the challenges of a craft that no one completely masters, but that will stay fascinating, if you let it, for a lifetime."

Finally there has to be a desire to write, or you won't. It's not enough to be able to write: you must want to.

"I think good writing has to happen for the love of it, the adventure, the exploration of it. As hard as the work can be, it should also feel thrilling, dangerous, worthwhile. Write because you love to."

Cumyn's last quick visit to the territory made him want more, hence his application to live at Berton House and his readiness to participate in the Young Authors' Conference.

"I was in the Yukon just two years ago on a whirlwind tour with the Canadian Children's Book Center, so I have a good idea what to expect: amazing hospitality, stunning vistas, the refreshing energy, resourcefulness and cheerfulness of the people. This is also a land soaked in stories, and I'm hoping to meet many people and hear what has brought them north, or why they stay."

What's Your Story?

Name: Karen Gabryelczyk

When did you arrive in the Klondike? April 25, 2007.

Why did you come?

I followed my daughter and granddaughter here.

How did you get here?

By truck.

Where were you born?

Winnipeg, Manitoba.

What do you think makes Dawson so special? The Yukon River and the mountains. It also reminds me of where I grew up.

What is something you cannot live without in Dawson? The nature.

Where's your favourite place to take an out-of-town guest? Down the Dempster Highway.

If you could go back in Klondike history, who would you like to meet and why?

I would like to meet Klondike Kate because she would have so many stories to tell.

What is your favourite time of year in Dawson? Why? Summer, because I can plant flowers and plant my garden.

What do you love to do in your free time? I love to garden.

What is your favourite thing to do in Dawson? Sitting around a campfire with my friends.

Would you eat candy for supper? If so, what kind? Yes! Turtles and sour Jujubes.

Have you ever spent a whole day in your pajamas? Yes! I was reading!

If you had a chance to do anything, what would it be? I would own a candy store.

What do you love about living here? The scenery.

How often do you doodle? What do your doodles look like? Three times a week - they look like cubes.

Do you have any hobbies?

Carving burl bowls, gardening and reading.

Something we may not know about you? I am a pharmacy technician.

As part of an enrichment project at Robert Service School led by Tarie Castellarin, Grade 3/4 students are interviewing locals about their stories. The Klondike Sun will be publishing one of these interviews in each of our upcoming issues!

PROCLAMATION WORLD OVARIAN CANCER DAY MAY 8TH, 2014

Whereas ovarian cancer has the lowest survival rate of all gynecological cancers, and is characterized around the world by lack of awareness of symptoms and late stage diagnosis;

and

Whereas on this day ovarian cancer awareness organizations from across the world will aim to have a singular focus and message for ovarian cancer and its symptoms and will unite to educate their communities; and

Whereas for women living with the diseases, and their families and friends, this day will build a sense of solidarity in the fight against the disease; now

Therefore I, Wayne Potoroka, as Mayor of the City of Dawson, Yukon

Territory, do hereby proclaim that May 8, 2014, shall be known as :
