An unexplained fire took the home of Janice Rose and Todd Dewald on Pierre Berton Drive during the afternoon of Tuesday, May 12.

Live Words 2015 kicks off the Yukon Writers' Festival in Whitehorse

Story & photos by Dan Davidson

Live Words, the public reading portion of the 2015 Yukon Writers Festival, returned to the Old Firehall for this year's opening event on April 22, with five writers appearing before an audience of around 50 people.

Emcee Al Pope noted that the festival is supported by Yukon Pubic Libraries, and Public Schools Branch, with other financial support from the Canada Council for the Arts, the Writers' Union of Canada, the Writers' Trust of Canada, Westmark Whitehorse, Mac's Fireweed Books, and Haines Junction Arts and Music.

Patti Flather, journalist, short story writer and playwright, took up the theatre when she moved to the Yukon, and cofounded Gwaandak Theatre with her husband, Leonard Linklater. Her latest play, Paradise, opened in the Yukon at the Yukon Arts Centre in March.

For her reading she chose a short story, "Black Street Stairs", which she has been working on for about a year. Her reading introduced us to several distinct groups of people who are in that area of the city for a variety of different reasons. She left her audience at the point at which the groups were beginning to intersect, with this teaser, "They get stuck on the stairs with bears."

Jacob Scheier, the current House writer-in-Berton residence, is a Toronto based poet and essayist, whose very Blair. first volume of poetry, More to Keep Us Warm, won him a from her first road trip, took Governor General's Award in 2008. Since then he has shifted his emphasis to prose, both journalism and creative nonfiction. # Yukon River let go in spite of low water

Despite low water levels, the Yukon River in front of Dawson let go at 6:41 p.m. on May 4, sending the ice pool tripod sailing off down the river towards Moosehide and littering the shoreline with metre and a half thick chunks of ice.

River watchers alerted the Fire Hall, which sounded the siren at 6:50 and the dike was lined with spectators by ten minutes later. Joyce Caley, the IODE's keeper of the clock, sprained her ankle over the weekend and was unable to make the trek down to the Dänojà Zho Cultural Centre to check the clock.

It's connected by a cable to the tripod, and the cable stops the clock when the tripod moves a significant distance.

IODE secretary Helen McCullough retrieved the clock, snapped a photo of it for the records and reported back to Caley's house. The closest selected time they could find on the raffle tickets was 6:40, with the next closest five to ten minutes off in either direction, so the winner seemed clear. This year's winner was Kirsten Davis.

It wasn't a dramatic break-up. In recent years the second flush when the feeder upstream lets go has produced higher water levels. In the realm of statistics, retired engineer Stephen Johnson's chart and graph of breakups came very close this year. He predicted there was a 14.1% chance that the event would be on May 4, but his time of 5:59 p.m. was 42 minutes early. Last year's breakup was at 1:19 p.m.

The George Black ferry went into the river early on the morning of May 15, 11 days later.

Guy Davis brings joy to the blues

Guy Davis brings joy to the blues. He enchanted a packed house at the Odd Fellows Hall ballroom on the evening of April 28, and would doubtless have sold out copies of his latest CD, Sweetheart Like You, except that he had sold them all in Whitehorse during his concert at the Yukon Arts Centre.

Small wonder.

Davis is a happy go lucky blues guy, who proved himself equally at home on six string, 12 strong, finger picking, strumming and slide guitar, as well as being a whiz on the harmonica during his two sets that evening.

He knew his audience too, Didn't wait to be clapped to an encore – just announced it and launched into it, coaxed them to join in the foot stomping, clapping, and the simpler choruses, as he had through the evening.

For all that this might sound like pride, Davis came across like a humble minstrel, as well as a folksy story teller, mean interpreter of many blues standards and polished purveyor of his own additions to the genre.

"I've never heard such a happy blues player," I told him after the concert.

"It's the playing," he replied, adding that although being on the road can be wearisome, performing before an appreciative audience makes it all worthwhile.

Davis had visited Dawson some years back, when he was travelling with his son, who was about 12 at the time. He recalled staying in a trailer (Dick Van Nostrand corrected him: "It was a camper.") and that his hosts rented a bicycle for his son and the boy had a great time.

Davis is a bit of a one man band, setting up foot stomping rhythms with that pumping left leg, whether standing or sitting. Got a little too rambunctious on one song and bounced his coffee cup right off the small table to his left, where he had deposited it along with his harmonicas and his harp holder ("my sister's retainer" he joked as he doffed his hat to slip it over his head).

He was most appreciative of the audience member who ran up clutching a handful of paper towels.

"Thank you dear lady 'cause I got to keep stomping and there would be coffee all over the place."

Davis is an actor as well as a musician and has appeared in movies, television, and on the stage. He brings that talent to his patter between tunes, to his short histories of some of the older material and his anecdotes turn a concert into something like a conversation with a group of new friends. The performance in Dawson was presented by the Dawson City Music Festival and the Klondike Institute of Art and Culture. Dawson's own Jesse Cook (teacher, bus driver and musician) opened for Davis, who is one of his musical heroes. He was thrilled.

Ministers attended 2015 Dawson City Gold Show

WHITEHORSE (May 14, 2015) — Minister of Energy, Mines and Resources Scott Kent attended the 29th Dawson City International Gold Show last weekend along with Minister of Economic Development Stacey Hassard and Minister of Environment Wade Istchenko.

"The Yukon government's commitment to the placer mining industry is strong," Kent said. "I look forward to meeting with placer miners and the Klondike Placer Miners'
Association while I'm in Dawson. We will all continue our work for the benefit of the industry, our economy and all Yukoners."

The Yukon government supports the placer industry through the Yukon Mineral Exploration Program. Earlier this month, 15 placer projects received a total of $416,000 in funding to help locate, explore and develop their projects to advanced exploration stages.

"Placer mining has been an economic mainstay in Yukon for more than a century. Local businesses have always been, and always will be, a core component of this resilient industry," Minister of Economic Development Stacey Hassard said.

The Dawson City International Gold Show, organized by the Dawson City Chamber of Commerce, took place this year on May 15 and 16.

How does World Heritage designation benefit a community?

One of the oldest stories in Canada is highlighted at the Joggins Fossil Institute in Nova Scotia, one of Canada's newer UNESCO World Heritage Sites. Joggins has already walked the walk that is now being followed by the Tr'ondëk/ Klondike project toward a UNESCO designation. Jenna Boon, Executive Director of the Joggins Fossil Institute presented a talk entitled "The Benefits of UNESCO World Heritage Sites for Community Economic Development and Visitor Experience".

Joggins, a former coal mining town, has a number of things in common with the Klondike, including a family connection. Sir William Dawson, father of the George Dawson after whom Dawson is named, spent a lot of time and academic interest in the fossil finds at the site in the 19th century. It is those fossils, evidence of the evolutionary transition between aquatic life and life on land, which give Joggins its significance.

While the abandoned coal works are not a part of the natural significance in the sites statement of Outstanding Universal Value (OUV), it is a combination of the industrial activity and the tidal action of the Bay of Fundy, which exposed many of the fossils along the cliffs beside the sea.

"It's not just about protecting and promoting that."

Joggins is a natural site and the focus is on the nature of years old," she said. the area.

Klondike residents rally to assist fire damaged farmers

By Dan Davidson

The Dawson Firefighters' City Association running a fund raising campaign http://www. gofundme.com raise up to $15,000 assist Grant Dowdell and Karen Klondike Digby, area farmers production whose greenhouse burned last weekend.

"(They) went through something none of us ever want experience: a fire wiped out a significant portion of their production greenhouse," wrote Fire Chief Regimbal in Jim website's introduction. Sadly, they will not be in a position to supply us with the quantity of vegetables, herbs, and bedding plants we have come to enjoy – something (that farm has) been doing for over 30

Dowdell and Digby's three-acre farm is located approximately eight miles upstream of Dawson City on a small island in the Yukon River. It produces a variety of vegetables, herbs and bedding plants, which they sell during the summer, along with a number of other farmers, at the Saturday Farmers' Market held in the stalls along Front Street.

"Grant and Karen make tremendous contribution Yukon's agriculture and the damage to the farm is a huge blow to the Yukon," Regimbal posted.

Interviewed on Thursday afternoon he said he did not have any specific details about the fire – how it started, the extent of the damage, etc. - because of the difficulty of getting to the site just now. He has heard that their house was not damaged.

"Basically, all their seedlings that were ready to be put in the ground were destroyed."

In addition to the gofundme plan, Regimbal has also set up an account at the local CIBC for those who might not be linked to the other appeal by the Internet.

Two days after he established the crowd funding site, 92 people had already contributed $9,725, more than half of the subscription. Regimbal said he had never set up one of these before and picked $15,000 as an arbitrary number, a sum than could be increased later on if the response is good. He estimates it would take more than that to

"This is a good reminder of how integral local businesses are to community well-being. No bedding plants means some local landscapers are scrambling; no local produce means less options at our restaurants and stores; and no Dowdell and Digby at the farmers' market means less

In 2009 Dowdell and Digby Lang, who was Minister of Mayor Wayne Potoroka has Energy, Mines and Resources also joined the appeal, urging at the time, praised them in the Legislature.

"They are recognized and much admired for their contribution to Yukon's agricultural sector and through that contribution to everyday life for those in their local community of Dawson City.

Regimbal says he has already heard from people in the department boats equipment who are ready when needed to ferry supplies and materials to the island and come to their assistance.

Late Thursday night a friend of the couple posted this on Facebook at their request

An Atheist grapples with matters of the spirit

The Demonologist By Andrew Pyper Simon & Schuster 337 pages $9.99

Andrew Pyper has accomplished something I didn't think possible. He's made me want to reread John Milton's Paradise Lost, a poem I haven't really cracked since I was in university. It is a famous work of literature of course, and between it and Dante's Divine Comedy we can account for nearly all the tropes about heaven, hell, the afterlife and the names of angels and demons that are currently cluttering up the television channels.

Milton and Dante gave us way more demonic lore than anything you can find in the Bible, and it's kind of sad that some people have taken what is essentially fiction for Biblical

I think that's a statement that Professor David Ullman would probably agree with when we meet him at the beginning of his story. He is a top Milton scholar and a devout (if that's not a contradiction in terms) atheist. Like Houdini, who knew so much about the tricks of the trade that he could never believe in the paranormal, Ullman knows his literature so well that he is unable or unwilling, to believe in God.

As a scholar he is at the top of his game, and his studies have made him the master of all sorts of demonic lore and literature. so much so that some see him as an academic demonologist, even though he does not himself believe in such things.

Not at the beginning anyway.

Churchill called the Black Dog, a nameless depression, that may spring from events in his childhood - the death of his brother and his father's suicide. His daughter Tess, seems to have inherited the tendency from him, although some of what's bothering her could be the state of her parent's marriage.

As with many driven individuals, Ullman's personal life is a mess (Pyper seems to like this sort of protagonist). His wife has been having an affair for some time now and wants a divorce. Ullman has been having what is almost an affair of his own with a colleague named Elaine O'Brien. It's purely platonic. They get together to chat, have a beer and watch Rangers games. They have regular "dates". And yet, while they are absolutely essential to each other, they have never crossed the line into sex.

When Ullman is approached by the Thin Woman to go to Venice to witness a "phenomenon" and interpret it in the light of his specialty, he decides to go and take his daughter along for the trip. What he sees there is absolutely terrifying, and seems to be nothing less than a case of demonic possession. The victim, he realizes later, is another Milton scholar, someone he has

That's not all, however. Some force takes possession of Tess, takes her to the top of their hotel and drops her in the canal. They never find her body.

Eventually Ullman has to return, alone, to New York, haunted by the feeling that Tess is somehow still alive and that he has to find her. Various cryptic clues come his way, sending him on a road trip that moves him

Ullman suffers from what across half the United States and finally up into his native Canada. Accompanied by O'Brien, who joins him part way through the quest even though she is dying of cancer, he evades the pursuit of a hit man, encounters ghosts and demon possessed mortals and has his view of the world completely shaken.

> Many of the clues relate to passages in Paradise Lost, and are references that only an expert could possibly recognize. The only other consistent references are to the Hitchcock film, North by Northwest, in which Cary Grant plays an innocent who is caught up in events against his will and has to rearrange his view of the world in order to survive.

> The book's ending somewhat low key and I had to go back over that last chapter a couple of times to decide that it really was an ending. Ullman has a particular goal throughout his quest, and he achieves it, even though other things are left unresolved. Life's like that a lot of the time.

> Pyper, who was a Berton House writer-in-residence back in 1997, and a mentor author at the Young Authors Conference a few years later, has a backlist that includes a lot of haunted protagonists. His novels always have an element of the thriller/ mystery in them. This was, I think, his first foray into the distinctly supernatural, though he has certainly borrowed some tricks of the horror trade in some of his earlier books.

> And, as I mentioned at the beginning, he made me want to reread Paradise Lost.

Coming up in May

Current Berton House Writer-in-Residence Jacob Scheier will give a reading at the Library on Tuesday 2 June at 7 p.m. The event is open to the public and light refreshments will be served.

Jacob, who was the winner of the 2008 Governor General's Award for poetry (More to Keep us Warm, ECW Press), recently read some of his poems at Dawson City Council at the invitation of Mayor Wayne Potoroka. The event was part of The Mayor's Poetry City Challenge, a nationwide celebration of UNESCO's World Poetry Day and National Poetry Month in April. Born in Toronto, Jacob is a poet, essayist, and journalist who, in addition to two published volumes of poetry, has had works appear in journals and magazines across North America, and on CBC radio.

While enjoying the Yukon experience, Jacob is working on a collection of essays about Jewish secular identity and grief.

Summer is here, at least unofficially, and that means only one thing. Okay, it actually means a lot of things, but one of them, is bikes! To help celebrate the world of two-wheel transportation the Library has created a special Bikes double display. Now, by bikes, we mean not only bicycles, but motorcycles as well. There are how-to guides, repair manuals, encyclopedias, kids' stories, biker biographies, histories, and even a few DVDs. Whether you're commuting across town or planning to bike up into the mountains, we have something for you.

Summer also means the Library will be offering extended hours during June and July. On certain days of the week (yet to be determined) we will open at 10 a.m. (instead of noon) and will be open for a few hours on Saturday afternoons. Stay tuned for details.

Diamond Tooth Gerties is now a Municipal Heritage Site

Diamond Tooth Gerties is an iconic Dawson building and the cash cow that finances most of the operations of the Klondike Visitors Association. As of January 27, 2015, it's a bit more than that. It's a Municipal Heritage Site.

In the somewhat stuffy language that seems to define municipal bylaws, the council has determined that "The building known as the Arctic Brotherhood Hall and the land on which it stands as defined by the legal limits of Lots 1, 2, and 20, and the westerly 8 metres of lot 19, Block S, Plan 8338A C.L.S.R. in Dawson City, YT is hereby designated as a Municipal Historic Site. The building is located at 1001 Fourth Avenue."

As a gambling operation, Gerties is not nearly as hot as it used to be when it was the only legal entity of its kind in Canada. Casinos are now a dime a dozen all across the nation. Even the addition of slot machines back in 1993 did not entirely restore the allure. As they, too, began to pop up everywhere, and get more and more sophisticated, the ones at Gerties really began Gerties was originally the from its membership. The Brotherhood folded in 1925 and the building became a community hall. Then, in 1929, it was repurposed as the home Eagles, who had lost their building to a fire. Their aerie continued to use the building until 1943, when the last of its members took flight.

Association of Yukon Communities marks 40th anniversary at annual general meeting

WHITEHORSE (May 11,

2015)—Community and government leaders and officials gathered in Haines Junction this past weekend for the annual general meeting of the Association of Yukon Communities (AYC). The event also marked the 40th anniversary of the association.

"This was a great opportunity to meet, learn, engage in important dialogue and honour an organization that makes a difference in our communities," Deputy Premier Elaine Taylor said.

AYC President Wayne Potoroka said: "We always enjoy the opportunity to come together and discuss community issues, challenges and successes. I want to thank our local hosts - including Mayor Crawshay and Chief Steve Smith of the Champagne and Aishihik First Nation - for their hospitality and support of this important event."

It also presented an opportunity for the Yukon government to sign agreements with eight participating municipalities to extend the Domestic Water Well Program to eligible property owners.

"We took the opportunity while we were all gathered together to sign the necessary agreements so that eligible

The AYC annual general meeting is a key gathering of municipal and Yukon government officials. It provides a forum for dialogue between governments, as well as opportunities for workshops and policy discussions on matters of importance to municipal governments and local advisory councils in Yukon.

Fire along the highway

By Dan Davidson

The Yukon Energy diesels on Fifth Avenue have been running since that power outage on May 14. That was when the power cables behind the hills above the Klondike Highway hit the ground and set off the fire that blossomed from five hectares to 48 in a very short time and spread smoke across the highway about 500 metres south of the Dempster Corner.

Crews were on it quickly and, assisted by cooler evening temperatures on a day that saw thermometers in the Klondike nudge well into the 30s, managed to beat it back from the scenes shown in the photos above, which were taken by Andreas Pohle.

By Friday there were no flames visible from the highway and three choppers were nibbling away at the edges of the fire with water buckets.

By Sunday the Wildland Fire reports were indicating that the fire was under control and had been reduced in size to 37.5 hectares

Travellers should be prepared to be patient when fire crews ask them to be careful or to wait before advancing under such circumstances. Most folks were, but some were well beyond rude, apparently a little too anxious to get to the Gold Show - or maybe it was the Burlesque Evening.

Slocan Ramblers

- Tom Power – Host of CBC's Deep Roots and Radio 2 Morning

Genre: Bluegrass Listen: www. slocanramblers.com

The Slocan Ramblers are a young string quartet of charming, handsome bluegrass boys. With Frank Evans on banjo, Adrian Gross on mandolin, Darryl Poulsen on guitar, and Alastair Whitehead on bass, these boys sure know how to channel an aura of the old American West into a tight musical performance that will surely get the audience jigging and singing along.

This band is fearlessly creative and possesses a bold, dynamic sound. They have quickly become a leading light of Canada's roots music scene, built on their reputation for memorable, energetic live shows and impeccable musicianship.

"The Slocan Ramblers put on one of the most vibrant shows of acoustic music I've seen in some time. It's rare for Canadians (especially young Canadians) to play this music with such authority, passion and yet ability for experimentation. Chops galore, and a handsome bunch of fellas"

The old-timey twangs of the banjo, smooth harmonies and upbeat tempo make for quite an enjoyable listen and these boys will be right at home under the midnight sun in Dawson's dusty old-time streets.

Elisapie

Genre: Pop Listen: www.elisapie.com

Elisapie (Elisapie Isaac) is a multi-talented individual hailing from Canada's Northern realm of Salluit, Nunavik. This Inuit pop performer is also a documentary filmmaker, activist, and radio broadcaster. At the mere age of 12, she was performing in Quebec with the Nunavik-based rock band Sugluk, who toured extensively in the 70s and 80s. Since then, she has continued to learn and grow as a musician:

A musical project of hers, Taima, (Inuktitut for "that's all" or "it is done"), a collaboration with instrumentalist Alain Auger won the Juno Award for Aboriginal Recording of the Year in 2005.

Elisapie released her first solo album, There Will Be Stars, five years later and is an eloquent portrait of the past, present and future of her muse, the North. It takes only a few listens to appreciate the perfect balance between depth and nature of this remarkable multidisciplinary artist.

"Inuktitut is a very straightforward language. You don't hear anything super poetic, like you do in English or French. So I had to invent a lot of new ways of talking, like a lot of metaphor. But it's fun to dress my language up and make it beautiful—and it shows that there's new ways of thinking and of seeing things, too."

– Elisapie

DCMF is proud to host a variety of northern performers and artists and is confident that Elisapie will win the hearts of many while she is in Dawson City.

An address to the Y-SOVA grad class

By Mayor Wayne Potoroka

I recently had the pleasure delivering words congratulations from Dawson City residents and City of Dawson Council at the School of Visual Arts graduation ceremonies.

SOVA has put Dawson on the map as the northern capital for arts education, and their students add so much to our local culture. It's such an honour they would choose our community as the first step in their Fine Arts degree, and I wish them all the very best in the next steps of their art careers.

Here's what I had to say at the Good evening. It's an honour to bring greetings from the City of Dawson Council. And a pleasure to say a few words. The Yukon School of Visual Arts Graduation is a favourite event of mine.

In my real-world job, I helped craft the first partnership agreement between the Dawson City Arts Society, Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in, Advanced Education, and Yukon College and sat on the first governance council. It was my small role in SOVA's beginnings. And every time Dawson graduates another cohort of students, I feel just a little bit prouder of my contribution. But that barely registers against how grateful I am to live in a community where an idea like a post-secondary art school in a pocket-sized town can be made real. Thank you to everyone who contributes to the ongoing success of this school.

It's often said, but always bears repeating: SOVA has changed Dawson City. Every day I encounter an example of resourcefulness, imagination, vision that can trace its pedigree back to this school. And every day I'm reminded how better this town is made by the people who keep this school running and the students who enrich our community with their ideas, enthusiasm, and energy.

To the students, I'd like to salute you for successfully taking this step in your art career and wish you the very best with where the next one

I'm going to tell you a story. In Grade Three I realized I was a writer. I wrote a tale for school about three children who find an old, valuable penny. They
