A Tribute to the (Extra)ordinary Women of the North

By Aileen Stalker

When I walk through these mossy old gravestones The names that I read without sound.

For Anna, Cara and Lillian

I wonder what life that you found?

Your babies are buried beside you,

As is your man who you followed out west.

Did you enjoy the place that you came to?

Did you find any time for a rest?

The poplars now sway all around you

Wild strawberries are fresh for the taste.

Were your days filled with joy and some pleasures

Or just thoughts of the work to be faced?

Wild rivers swirl past the stone beaches,

Snowdrifts pile high to the door.

Did you enjoy the rough gifts of the landscape

Or despair at the mud on the floor?

For Edith, Mary and Emma,

Did you walk down the street with a smile?

Did you laugh at the many misfortunes

And develop a "try-again" style?

Though Nellie, and Martha and Kate

May have gained reputation and fame

The housewives and mothers in Dawson City

Deserve to have equal acclaim.

They may not have had lives filled with glamour, Been a woman prospector, musher or guide, But their strength built a town with a spirit Where extraordinary northern women reside.

Christmas Eve in Dawson

Saint Paul's is the gathering place for all the church congregations in Dawson on Christmas Eve. This ecumenical service simply takes place in the church with the largest sanctuary, with the clergy and members from all four congregations participating in delivering the service.

The centerpiece of the evening is the retelling of the Christmas Story, which is presented as a PowerPoint slide show, the pictures having been taken sometime during the fall and matched to a narration read by two lay members of the churches.

The 20 member choir, made up of people from all the churches, had been practicing two special anthems since the Sunday after Remembrance Day, as well as leading the assembled congregation in singing the many other Christmas Carols that made up the service.

Additional special music was provided by Saint Paul's Youth Choir, led by Betty Davidson, also made up of children from several congregations.

By tradition, the newest member of the local clergy is tasked with delivering the sermon for the pageant service. This year it was Father Emmanuel Obidile of St. Mary's Catholic Church. Prayers were led by Pastor Ian Nyland, Pastor Chad Schellenberg, with the service led by the Reverend Laurie Munroe

The individual churches had their own services later in the evening, closer to midnight.

The community's largest Christmas Eve Service is held at St. Paul's Anglican Church, but it is organized by all the churches.

Parties Agree on National Aboriginal Day Motion

Press releases (December 9, 2015)

Yukon MLAs urge consultation on National Aboriginal Day holiday

WHITEHORSE—A motion urging the Government of Yukon to consult with Yukon First Nations, employers, employees, and the general public about declaring National Aboriginal Day a statutory holiday in Yukon received unanimous assent today in the Yukon Legislative Assembly.

The motion, which was tabled by the NDP, was unanimously passed following an amendment by Copperbelt North MLA Currie Dixon.

"We encourage Yukoners to celebrate the unique heritage, rich culture and outstanding achievements of Aboriginal people in Canada," Dixon said. "Following a constructive discussion in the Legislature today, it was agreed that consultation with the private sector, First Nations and other stakeholders is needed to fully understand the impacts that a new statutory holiday would have on the territory."

Vuntut Gwitchin MLA Darius Elias added: "It is important that we celebrate the distinct heritage, language, cultural practices and spiritual beliefs of Yukon First Nations people. Recognizing this via a statutory holiday does warrant vigorous public engagement, as it will affect all Yukoners."

There are currently three pieces of legislation that could be used to create a paid statutory holiday in Yukon: the Canada Labour Code for federal employees, Yukon's Employment Standards Act for private businesses, and Yukon's Public Service Act for Yukon government employees.

Yukon NDP National Aboriginal Day motion receives unanimous support

WHITEHORSE—Yukon First Nations cultural recognition and reconciliation were granted a hopeful step forward today with the passage of Yukon NDP MLA Kevin Barr's motion to recognize National Aboriginal Day, celebrated on 21 June every year, as a Yukon statutory holiday. With broad support from the Yukon public and the leadership of Yukon's First Nations governments, this step will set the gears in motion for the Yukon government to add National Aboriginal Day to the territory's statutory holiday

Approximately one in four Yukoners identifies as being First Nations, Métis or Inuit. While Yukon First Nation governments already give their employees the day off, no other Yukon workers are formally given the opportunity to celebrate Aboriginal cultures on National Aboriginal Day.

And the Truth and Reconciliation Commission's calls to action include the creation of a day for reconciliation - a role for which National Aboriginal Day would be well suited. With the implementation of National Aboriginal Day as a statutory holiday, Yukon would join the Northwest Territories in formally recognizing the day.

"The campaign to make National Aboriginal Day a Yukon statutory holiday has had a positive and unifying effect on people," said Barr of his efforts to gather support for the motion. "Yukon's First Nations have been celebrating National Aboriginal Day for years – and it's time we help the rest of Yukon join them to mark this special day."

The motion was amended in the legislature by Minister of Community Services Currie Dixon to add a consultative step and remove the timeline for declaring National Aboriginal Day's statutory holiday status.

"We supported the amendments in good faith so we can move forward," added Barr in response to the government's amendments. "There is already broad support for this campaign, and the government has a strong mandate to make it happen."

"We hope they will move quickly so that we can celebrate National Aboriginal Day as a statutory holiday in 2016."

OPINION

Uffish Thoughts: Ice Bridge Issues can create confusion

Story & Photos by Dan Davidson

It hasn't been a really great year for ice bridges in Dawson. Oh, the river froze up fairly quickly and people were walking and skidooing across at various points in fairly short order. I didn't see people on the river until late November, but I talked to lots who had walked it earlier and said it was good.

Driving came a little later in the game, and it was December 8 when I saw the groomer smoothing out the traditional path between the east and west ferry landings. There was traffic soon after.

But the weather really wasn't cooperating. The Highways Dept. crew wanted to get out there and start flooding the passage to thicken it, but the ups and downs of the thermometer made the whole prospect rather "iffy".

While much of the path was okay, I'm told that they kept finding the odd spot that was only six inches thick, and that's not enough for safety. You really want to be able to measure that in feet, not inches.

On January 6 I was doing a couple of volunteer hours at the Klondike Sun office when emails and phone calls started coming in from Highways HQ in Whitehorse.

How soon could I post a notice saying that the ice bridge wasn't safe and people should not be driving on it?

again until January 13, could I post it on our website and social media sites this week – like that day? This was an urgent matter. I said I'd get right on it, but i said i'd get i ignt on it, but first I contacted the City of Dawson offices to see if they could help spread the word. And there I learned that the local Highways office had just contacted them to say that the ice bridge was okay after all.

Since the paper didn't come out

So I phoned the local office to see if I could get the absolutely correct information. Didn't want to err on either side of this one.

I was told that they've been keeping a close eye on the ice conditions ever since the groomer did its work, and that they haven't been too happy with their measurements.

Their concern peaked last weekend when two or three days of single digit minus temperatures, including one day when it hit zero and stayed there for hours, began to thin the ice and form melt pools on the surface.

It didn't help confidence that there were open leads running briskly next to the south bank on both sides of the Ogilvie Bridge across the Klondike River leading out of town.

But it got colder as last week began, and by Wednesday confidence was rising again. The latest measurements told the crew that the ice was safe for vehicles up to 13,000 kg, and that meant they could get out there with the official trucks and carry on with flooding the two lanes crossing the river.

In addition, the Fire Dept. and EMS ambulances would be allowed to cross.

I asked them to contact Whitehorse and have someone make a decision about the newspaper ad. Hated to lose the $120, but didn't want to run false information – or not run the ad if it was actually needed. An hour or so later I got an email cancelling the urgent ad.

Is the problem solved for this winter? I don't know. Earlier today it was -32 at the airport where Environment Canada gets it readings, but tonight it's jumped up to -22. It's still -29.2 according the Meteomac site that monitors things in town from the installation outside the school, but it's only -28 at my house, so it could warm up again.

LETTER

Many Thanks to a great community

Dear Editor:

What a great feeling to be starting this new year off with a healthy happy son. We are delighted to report that Eric is in remission, and every bit the quirky funkid we all love.

We were so loved through all of this. Thank you to Andrea Ross, Heather Grantham, Elodie Dulac Dan and Betty Davidson, Dick and Joanne Van Nostrand, Saskia Robbins, Clive Betts, Sue Herman, Tina, Louise and the folks at Dawson Minor Hockey for all their fundraising What a burden that lifted.

To Stefanie Cleland for organizing the meal train and all the ladies (and gentleman!) who cooked for us. You filled bellies and hearts!

To our community and the poeple of Dawson, your cards and gifts and prayers were bright lights on dark days. Your hugs and shoulders to cry on made us realize that we had a whole community behind us, we did this together. It's impossible to name everyone and I'm sure I will remember someone wonderful I've forgotten to mention.

A most sincere thank you to all of you for pulling us through that scary time in our lives.

Premier and ministers want to hear from Yukoners

WHITEHORSE (January 8, 2016) —The premier and Cabinet ministers will be travelling this winter to Yukon communities to meet with First Nations, municipalities and the public to listen to Yukoners' budget priorities.

"We want to hear from as many people as possible regarding their thoughts on budget priorities as we prepare the spring budget," Premier Darrell Pasloski said.

Meetings are scheduled to begin January 13 and 14 in Carcross and Tagish. Additional dates will be announced as they are finalized.

"This is an excellent opportunity to hear directly from Yukoners about the needs of their families and businesses," Pasloski added. "These meetings build on my community conversations last fall, and are one more way to ensure citizens' views help shape the future of Yukon."

No date has been set for a meeting in Dawson at this time.

RCMP and SCAN unit take action against drug trafficking in Whitehorse

WHITEHORSE (January 5, 2016) —The RCMP and Safer Communities and Neighbourhoods (SCAN) unit carried out coordinated actions on New Year's Eve to combat criminal and illegal activity being conducted in three Riverdale apartments.

"Coordinated investigations by the SCAN unit and RCMP have led to action being taken against recurring drug-trafficking activities in Whitehorse," Minister of Justice Brad Cathers said.

The SCAN unit served the tenants and other occupants with eviction notices under the Safer Communities and Neighbourhoods Act. The RCMP seized crack cocaine and other controlled drugs as well as currency. Criminal charges are pending against some of the ten persons arrested in the RCMP's action.

"During their investigation, SCAN investigators found evidence that apartments were habitually being used to traffic controlled drugs. They provided this information to the RCMP and we built on it with our own investigation," RCMP inspector Archie Thompson said.

"This is a great example of agencies working collaboratively to stop the illegal activities occurring in our communities."

The SCAN unit initiated the investigation after receiving complaints from concerned citizens. The investigation confirmed frequent and short visits to the apartments at all hours of the day, drugs and money being openly exchanged, and other activities consistent with drug trafficking.

"This successful investigation is a result of information being provided by citizens along with months of diligent work by our investigators," SCAN director Jeff Ford said. "Yukoners have an important role to play in making our communities safer. In 2015 alone, we investigated 60 complaints from the public about illegal activity on property and took action in 11 cases."

During the course of the SCAN investigation, bylaw and building fire and safety code violations were also discovered, many of which appeared to call into question the safety of the building and its residents. Whitehorse Bylaw Services and the Whitehorse Fire Department will inspect the apartment building and provide direction for the owner to address the issues.

Individuals with concerns about illegal activities occurring on property in their community can make a confidential complaint by calling 867-456-SCAN (7226) or toll-free at 1-866-530-7226, or by submitting an online complaint form at www.scanyukon.ca.

Gordon Caley

June 16, 1941 – December 10, 2015

Gordon Caley, age 74, passed away Dec 10, 2015. He was born June 16, 1941 in Dawson City to Fred and Dorothy (Skistad) Caley. "Gordie" was popular growing up. He played hockey with fervor and loved new cars. He spent his youth working for his father in their family grocery store delivering groceries at an early age. Gordie went on to take welding and learn heavy duty mechanics, both important trades in his 35 years as a gold miner in the Klondike. Gord was also a foreman of public works at the City of Dawson, a volunteer fireman, an ambulance attendant and the first to volunteer when BBQing was needed.

He met his future wife, Brenda Wiggins, who was teaching in Dawson City and they were married in Saskatchewan on Oct 27, 1967. Together they raised a daughter and twin boys. After the flood of 1979, Gord & Brenda moved their family to a house in Armstrong, BC for the winter months and continued to be Dawson residents during the summer seasons. They moved back to Dawson full time in 2000. Gord was one of the boys! He spent his early years hunting and fishing with his brother in-law Will Crayford, loved spending time in his garage and shooting pool with his children (both biological and the "adopted neighbourhood kids"). In his later years, Gordie discovered golf. This kept him busy with his life-long friends (when he wasn't working at the mine or fixing something at their campground, Guggieville). Gordie was always quick with a joke and he always kept everyone smiling. In 1986 Gordie had bi-pass surgery which unfortunately led to Hepatitis C from a blood transfusion, and recently, also suffered from dementia.

Left to love and honour Gordon are his wife of 48 years, Brenda; daughter Darlene (Frank Kormendy); sons Lorne and Daniel; grandchildren Brandan, Rachel, Hudson and Lynden; his sisters Irene Crayford & Doreen Jeffery and numerous nieces and nephews. He was predeceased by his parents, brother Bobby and sister Madge Gillespie.

A Celebration of Life will be held in the spring at the YOOP hall in Dawson City; date and time to be determined.

In lieu of flowers, donations can be made to the Dawson Firefighters Association.

Not Your Usual Painting Club

I wandered into KIAC one Saturday afternoon and was pleasantly surprised to be greeted by three lovely people in paint-splattered aprons, welcoming me to the Dropin Painting Club. I soon found out my gracious hosts were Anne Saunders, Palma Berger, and Wanda Jackel. All three are dedicated members of the club formally known as "The Old Ladies Painting Club."

"We're always looking for newcomers," said Palma. "We changed the [club] name to try and accommodate more people."

The drop in fee is $5, which allows you to use the club's paints, brushes and easels -- a great deal for any painter. The club provides a quiet and relaxed space for anyone looking to try painting as a new hobby, or experienced painters looking for good company/critique. Drop-in painting runs form 1-4PM every Saturday in one of the KIAC classrooms.

"How do you cut a ribbon on a sewer pipe?" is a question I jokingly asked the Community Services Minister, Currie Dixon, more than a few times in 2015.

This past year saw the resolution of a decades-old concern with the replacement of Dawson's sewage force main, the pipe that carries treated effluent from the sewage plant to the river. The old, thinwalled force main gave the public works superintendent nightmares—a failure of that pipe would be a major problem (some might say catastrophe) for the town. Upgrading the force main removed the risk posed by the aging, out-of-date infrastructure.

This project is thanks to the Yukon Government, who responded to our concerns with financial assistance and project leadership from the Community Services team. Minister Dixon and I never did sort out how to cut a ribbon on a pipe buried several feet in the ground, but the YG contribution did not go unappreciated. It was also a good reminder that critical in-ground infrastructure—the foundation of any communityis sometimes easy to overlook.

Laying the new pipe last summer.

Municipal Act amendments granted assent

WHITEHORSE (December 10, 2015) —Amendments to the Municipal Act were granted assent today after they were passed last week in the Yukon Legislative Assembly. These changes give municipalities updated legislation and mark the completion of an extensive review process launched during the Our Towns, Our Future initiative.

"The amendments to the act support healthy, sustainable Yukon communities and provide a stronger foundation for local governance," Minister of Community Services Currie Dixon said. "They simplify and clarify the Municipal Act, ensuring consistency within the act and with other legislation."

The passage of these amendments is the outcome of three years of extensive consultation with various stakeholders.

"During the Our Towns, Our Future initiative, this government committed to conduct a thorough review and provide – as part of our mandate – an updated Municipal Act," Dixon added. "I would like to thank the Association of Yukon Communities, municipalities, Local Advisory Councils, First Nations, and all Yukoners who took part in the review process for participating and sharing their thoughts."

For more information on these changes and the process that led to them, please see Community Services' Municipal Act page.

PILLARS OF SUCCESS

with Mo Caley-Verdonk, Life Coach

Happy New Year

As the year draws to an end, I've been hearing from many of you about your desire to create a New Year's Resolution that really sticks. So many of you have said that you are tired of dreading the New Year Resolution Monster, lurking in the shadows, reminding you of failures and disappointments of years gone by. Others have said you've given up on making goals or New Year's resolutions altogether.

Don't despair! Here's a reSOLUTION!

First, it's helpful to know that most people's goals aren't really their goals. Many people set New Year's Resolutions in reaction to the responsibilities, expectations and demands they face in their life.

Real goals are the ones that YOU actually care about. They light you up, give you energy and make you feel excited. Real goals have nothing to do with expectation or obligation, and everything to do with what matters most to YOU.

Of course, we're bombarded every day with expectation and obligation. We have to react to a constant barrage of requests, demands and last-minute emergencies. And when those are handled, it's time to rest so we can get up and do it all again tomorrow

My friend, it's time to break the cycle. It's time to do something drastically different.

What if the only resolution you make for 2016 is to be 10% kinder to yourself?

Yes...that's it. This is not splashy. No BIG FIREWORKS, just being a little kinder each and every day.

Kindness is such a simple concept and is super powerful. Yet, because so many of us have been conditioned to motivate by punishment--that kick in the pants process-- particularly in our own lives, motivating by kindness doesn't feel quite right.

Interested? Here's some questions (I use these too) to consider in your exploration of this idea.

If I were 10% kinder this year:

- What would I do differently?
- Where would I put my time and energy?
- What would I say and to whom?
- Who do I need and want to forgive?
- What behaviours or habits would I be willing to accept?
- What would I be willing to give up or change?
- How would I acknowledge my kindness?

I invite you to join me on the inquiry process....how will you be 10% kinder to yourself this year? Please feel free to share your thoughts with me, I'd really like to know.

If you are really wanting something different to happen this year and aren't quite sure how to get started or are wondering how a little more kindness can even make a difference for you, I am offering you an amazing gift: a 10 % Kinder strategy session!

Being a little kinder to yourself might seem too simple, like you're not working hard enough. I encourage you to try it though...it's super powerful. Feel free to share your thoughts with me, I'd really like to know.

To Your Success,

Mo Caley-Verdonk

In November, the staff at the Downtown Hotel approached the board at the Sun and requested that the hotel stage a Christmas High Tea event as a fund raiser for the paper. We gratefully accepted the offer. The result was an event that was enjoyed by many people and proved to be a real hit as well as a financial success. Special thanks to Mary Gartshore, who was lead organizer.

The Klondike Sun and the Downtown Hotel humbly and gratefully wish to thank all of our sponsors, donors and musicians who helped make the High Tea such a success.

Sponsors: Parks Canada (Janice Cliff), IODE (Myrna Butterworth), Brenda Caley, Marg Van Dusen, Lynn Hutton, Mercedes Taylor, Geri Colbourne, Diana Andrew, Al Sider.

Canada Reads was a stressful experience, says Kim Fu

One of the things Kim Fu really enjoyed about doing her public readings in the Yukon, and especially in Dawson, was that this provided her with her first real opportunity to read from something other than her successful debut novel,

For Today I am a Boy. "The book first came out in January, 2014," she told her audience of about 15 at the Dawson Community Library about five days before the end of her three month Berton House residency.

"Since then, every event I've done has been trying to sell the book, or discussing the book with a club or class who has already read it. Tonight is my first chance to read other stuff which, for me, is very exciting."

That said, she led off with an extract from her novel-inprogress, a piece that appeared in Maisonneuve magazine in December. It was accompanied with some Dawson location shots taken by a local photographer. Entitled "A Day at the Beach", it describes a lovely day at a California beach when something goes terribly wrong and a man drowns while surfing. There is a sequence where his companion realizes he is missing and a second sequence where a young girl discovers his body floating in the ocean.

She followed this with two selections of poetry, several quite nasty items narrated from the points of view of a very unpleasant individual. She calls them the Pigman Monologues.

A second set of poems is about her father, zeroing in on the events that led to his

Her poetry collection, containing these and other verses, is called How Festive the Ambulance, and will be published this coming spring by Harbour Publishing.

Fu says that poetry comes to her most naturally, that fiction is more work, but that she's always done both.

"It used to be that I couldn't tell which one a piece was going to be," she told her audience. "I'd start with an image and then I would just write and see what it turned into. Now I know ahead of time."

She says she can see herself moving more and more in the direction of poetry, although she also does some non-fiction prose and journalism, some of it in collaboration with a friend, Andrea Bennett. Most of the links on her website are to this sort of material, which has appeared in such forums as CV2, The New Quarterly, Room, Grain, Carousel, Poetry is Dead, PRISM International, Ricepaper, This (Magazine) and The Rusty Toque.

She says that she needs some emotional distance from an event or experience before she can write about it, which was the case with the set of poems about her father's last illness. She also expects it to take a while before her time at Berton House becomes a subject, though she is sure that it will.

Her 2014 novel, For Today I Am a Boy (HarperCollins) was long-listed for the CBC's annual Canada Reads program last winter, and she says that came as a surprise. She wasn't told in advance and learned about it on Twitter.

"Now that I can look back on all this stuff, I can be grateful and excited about this thing that happened. With only a few exceptions, while everything was happening I was just stressed. It was hard to see how wonderful everything was, because the experience was this day-to-day crush of things that do not come naturally to me.

"Especially the first few months when the book was out, the media was kind of nonstop. That sounds more fanciful than it was - bloggers and podcasts – it was as many as you could fit. Especially if you were travelling to a place, it was like day and night if they could. The person who's scheduling it feels accomplished the more they can jam in, and they forget things like you might need to sleep or eat ... or just be alone for a halfsecond.

"Now – it's my book was on Canada Reads, amazing! - but then, it was just this stressed out blur, and I had trouble seeing things for what they were."

She concluded the evening's reading with a couple of passages from the novel, one about the varying narratives surrounding the birth of the child and a second about a confrontation between the mother and a US border guard.

It was a moving set of readings that opened up more about the book than was apparent from just its title.

News and Happenings from the Dawson City Community Library

January Offerings

The Dawson City Community Library is pleased to welcome Berton House Writerin-Residence Shelagh Plunkett, who will be in town from January through March. Shelagh is an award-winning writer and journalist. Her work includes literary nonfiction, fiction, travel writing and arts reportage. She has been published in The Walrus, enRoute Magazine, Geist Magazine, the Globe and Mail and the Vancouver Sun, and in 2007 won a first in the CBC Literary Awards for creative non-fiction. Her book, The Water Here is Never Blue (Penguin Canada) is available at the Library. Shelagh currently lives in Montréal, but grew up on the west coast of Canada, in Guyana and on Timor, Indonesia. While in Dawson she is working on Caught by All That's Come Before, an examination of "ways that our identities are shaped by how we respond to events that we participate in or that we witness."

The Library will be hosting its annual "Double Bob" Potluck Dinner on Saturday 23 January at 6 p.m. at the Library. The event commemorates the birthdays of Robbie Burns and Robert Service and is open to everyone. The traditional haggis will be served (among other delicious fare), and guests are welcome to recite a poem by either of the two bards.

The Library is excited to help present appearances in Dawson by the legendary Canadian literary figure Douglas Gibson, one of the country's leading editors and publishers for 40 years. In his entertaining one-man stage show (Jan 20th from 7:30-9 p.m. at the KIAC Ballroom) Gibson shares intimate stories about some of the country's greatest literary figures. He will also be holding a free workshop for local writers, so watch for details.

For more information about any of these items please contact the Library at 993-5571 or email dclib@klondiker.com

Oil-fired appliance regulations have come into effect

WHITEHORSE (December 17, 2015) —New regulations to protect Yukoners from the risks of fire and carbon monoxide poisoning in their homes have come into effect.

"Installing and properly maintaining smoke and carbon monoxide alarms are among the best ways to protect your life and home," said Minister of Community Services Currie Dixon. "These regulations will now require all dwelling units to have this life-saving equipment installed."

The regulations require fire alarms in all dwellings, carbon monoxide alarms in all dwellings with a fuel-burning device or an attached garage, and the installation and modification of oil-fired appliances and fuel oil storage tanks by qualified oil-burner mechanics. Property owners must ensure that fire and carbon monoxide alarms are installed and working, that equipment is maintained and serviced, and that permits are in place for the installation or modification of oil-fired home heating systems.

"Public campaigns such as Seriously Simple and the distribution of free smoke and carbon monoxide alarms have helped educate Yukoners about prevention and early detection of danger," added Dixon. "As well, the introduction of the registry of qualified oil-burner mechanics will provide Yukoners with additional assurance about the safety of their home heating systems."

In advance of the changes, the Yukon government strengthened local capacity by creating an oil-burner mechanic program at Yukon College. The Department of Community Services' Building Safety office provides heating system inspection training to building inspectors and will now maintain a public registry of qualified oil-burner mechanics in Yukon

The Palace Grand Theatre will be closed for $3.9 million in renovations next summer

Among several challenges facing a number of Dawson events next summer is that the Palace Grand Theatre will not be available for use at all during the 2016 season.

Anne Morin, Field Unit Superintendent, Yukon, for Parks Canada, has confirmed what was already well known here in the Klondike, that the venerable theatre will be out of commission while it undergoes substantial renovations.

These are part of a financial infrastructure package for Parks that was announced by the former Conservative Party government shortly before the federal election writ was dropped last summer.

Responding to questions about the project, Morin provided the following information:

"The Palace Grand Theatre was re-constructed in 1961 and contains the original heating and ventilating system, fire suppression and lighting from that time. These obsolete systems will be replaced to reflect new building standards to provide for more efficient operations, improved safety and comfort for patrons and performers.

"Parks Canada will close the theatre for the 2016 season to complete rehabilitation work and plans for full use of the theatre beginning in 2017."

Just what "full use of the theatre" might mean is still a matter for planning and discussion, but a group called Friends of the Palace Grand has been spun off from the Dawson City Arts Society to suggest options. The one getting the most traction right now is a "Klondike Home Companion" variety show, somewhat modeled on the successful "Prairie Home Companion" associated with Garrison Keillor.

Variations on this basic theme were modeled a few times during the second pilot season in the summer of 2014.

In addition there would be the return of regular interpretive programs put on by Klondike National Historic Sites (KNHS).

"There will be numerous code upgrades to the Palace Grand for visitor safety, functionality and visitor experience," Morin continued.

One such upgrade was the raising of the bannister rails in the dress circle and the audience box seats on the second and third floors during the 2014 seasons, making seating there safer.

"There will also be foundation replacement to maintain the structural integrity of the building, as well as upgrades to lighting, stage backdrops, foyer equipment, sound systems and other stage equipment."

The lack of the PG was also a major item on the agenda of the Dawson City Music Festival's annual general meeting in early December. The theatre has been one of the venues for larger concerts during the late July event, supplementing the variety in the main tent and the mini-concerts at St. Paul's Anglican Church.

Executive Director, Emily Farrell, indicated that the news, received in late November, would have a definite impact on DCMF planning. Discussion at the meeting seemed to point to the likely cancellation of the PG based pre-festival concert, which has been a feature of the festival for a number of years.

At the Dawson City Chamber of Commerce AGM on December 9 the PG was also on the agenda. It has been the site for the banquet that is part of the annual Dawson City Gold Show. The group was concerned about how or where to hold that part of its Victoria Day Weekend

Of course, when you think Palace Grand in June, two things come to mind. One is the commencement exercises for the Robert Service School, which have been held there for many years in late May or early June. The theatre is always packed for this ceremony.

The other major event is the Commissioner's Ball, which is held in the evening after the traditional Commissioner's Tea, which takes place outdoors on the grounds of the Commissioner's Residence.

The Palace Grand Theatre will be closed for extensive repairs and upgrades during the 2016 season.

Allan Lucier, Executive Assistance to Commissioner Doug Phillips, had this to say.

"While our office was not advised of the Palace Grand restorations until mid-November, we have begun planning with Parks Canada, IODE and the Highland games organizers, as well as others from the community for an alternative.

"Currently the Commissioner's Tea will proceed as usual and the events to be substituted for the 'Ball' are still in the planning."

In 1998, when the future of the Ball was in some doubt due to financial constraints, the event was relocated to a very large tent pitched behind the Residence.

Morin says that solutions will be found to deal with the necessary dislocation.

"Parks Canada is committed to working with community groups and annual event organizers to find alternative venue locations for the 2016 season.

" Parks Canada is investing $3.8 million to replace outdated systems while maintaining the heritage character of the iconic building."

Of course, KNHS will have to come up with alternative sites or programs to replace its Palace Grand tours and events such as "The Greatest Klondiker" show, which use the venue.

Wed, Jan 20, 7:30pm STORIES ABOUT STORYTELLERS: An Evening with Doug Gibson, and Many Famous Canadian Authors

Canada is a country rich in stories, and few take as much joy as Douglas Gibson in discovering them. As one of the country's leading editors and publishers for 40 years, he coaxed modern classics out of some of Canada's finest minds, and then took to telling his own stories in his first memoir, Stories About Storytellers. In this stage show, Gibson shares stories about Robertson Davies, Alice Munro, and Alistair MacLeod (among others) and adds lively portraits of the likes of Marshall McLuhan, Margaret Laurence, Margaret Atwood, Michael Ondaatje, Pierre Trudeau and many, many more. "No one has done more for Canadian literature than this man, Douglas Gibson" - Alistair MacLeod "Run to [this show] ... it's an event worthy of Stephen Leacock. Charles Dickens, even." — Nigel Beale, Ottawa blogger, LiteraryTourist.com

"Douglas Gibson is a living link to the foundation of our country's literature, and also an impish and charming performer. His lifelong passion for these great writers is contagious." — David Cheoros, Director, Edmonton Litfest

Mmm, gingerbread. Monica Fras, Isla Jordan and Tatiana Fras were among the 40 kids who enjoyed the 5th Annual Gingerbread House Party. The Women's Shelter sponsored event was once again a hit with the youngsters. See Shelter Update on page 9 for more related information.

A sixteen year old Dawson youth has been awarded a Certificate of Commendation by the Governor General of Canada for saving the life of a school chum in April of 1994.

Tiel Ryant wouldn't normally be concerned with the doings of Dawson's City council, but on January 2, 1995 his parents, Mitch and Ron, tricked him into attending. Suddenly he found himself called before the television camera to receive his certificate from the Mayor.

"I know," said Mayor Art Webster, "that I speak on behalf of all members of council and of the community in saying how proud we all are of you, and your actions,

No govt monitoring at Loki leach pad

BY TIMOTHY SAWA Sun Staff

The design and construction of the heap leach pad at the Brewery Creek mine-site was completed without any formal government monitoring, the Klondike Sun has learned.

And, because of an oversight in the mining act, the federal government had, no authority whatsoever "I don't want to cast the whole fate of the Klondike Valley to Loki."

to regulate or monitor the leach pad construction process.

"Basically, Loki Gold, under their exploration permit, was allowed to construct the pads," said Dave Sherstone from the federal water resources office.

"No specifications could be laid down and no standards could be firmly established until the water license was issued.'

The water license, however, wasn't issued until after the construction of the heap leach pad was complete. And although he assured the Sun that his office was involved with the building process, his staff could only watch and make suggestions.

They had no real authority to regulate the building of the pad section that will ultimately hold the toxic cyanide solution.

"(The construction) is not in our enforcement and compliance process, per se," he added. "And, at the moment it's not captured any-

He did say that the government recognizes this as a gap in the mining act, which is undergoing changes as we speak, but any shift in legislation at this point will be far too late to affect the pad at Brewery Creek.

The Sun obtained funding in late 2009 from the City of Dawson, YTG's Heritage Branch and the Community Development Fund to conserve and archive early issues and make them available once again in the public domain. This is a great resource for students, writers and historians, and also for prospective tourists with an interest in Dawson City's life. Each month, we are re-printing our front pages from 20 years ago as a souvenir of our lively history. If you want to see page 2 and beyond, check out our website. Past issues are available there for download. Go to http://klondikesun.com. More will be added periodically (heh) when we have time! At this point, we became a bi-weekly. Should 20 Years Ago be a feature of every issue of the Sun from now on? Let us know.

The Yukon celebrates a very northern Christmas

by Michael Gates

Originally published in the Yukon News on December 18, 2015. Used with the author's permis-

Christmas has always been a very special time of year for our family. Living in Dawson City and putting up Christmas lights at 30 below was especially challenging. My efforts would alternate between working frost-stiffened fingers to manipulate the strings of lights into position and rushing inside where my glasses would immediately fog up as I rubbed some flexibility back into my aching digits.

Attempting to find a suitable Christmas tree was also a challenge. They were all thin of plumage, as I recall. Some years, I remember cutting additional branches to bring home. where I would drill holes in the trunk of the tree to insert the extra limbs to fill in the gaps. It seemed that I was doomed never to find a tree that was symmetrical from all aspects.

One year I had to chop down the tallest tree in the stand so that I could sever the top, which was usable. On another occasion, we used a defective axe: it was so soft that when I attempted to cut down the tree, the blade deformed as though it was made of putty. And I will never forget the year that the apron under the tree was frozen to the floor when we removed it after Christmas.

Cars wouldn't start, busses wouldn't come to town and planes wouldn't fly. I can remember white-knuckled ticket-holders waiting apprehensively for the bus to arrive because the plane upon which they were planning to fly out on was cancelled. The bus didn't make it either.

Once, the mail truck was late arriving on Christmas Eve day. It looked like cards might not be delivered and last-minute gift packages might not make it under the tree. Then we got word from the post office staff that the truck had come in, late in the day.

Instead of going home to prepare for their own Christmas, the staff remained at their posts, sorting packages. They even extended the courtesy of calling us at home to let us know that our packages were ready to pick up. It was 8:30 in the evening, so we gave them a tin of fresh-baked cookies to show our appreciation.

Christmas is always a very busy time in Dawson City.

The round of open houses and Christmas events keeps calendars full right up till the big day. Don't forget the annual Christmas concert at the school at which all the children got to strut their stuff in front of proud parents.

There was a service in St. Paul's Church on Christmas Eve that members of all faiths attended. Everybody was bundled up in six layers of clothing in anticipation of the falling temperature inside the church because the heating was too noisy to allow it to run during the service. Those at the back urged a hasty conclusion so that the service would finish before they became frozen. Over the years, the church eventually solved the heating problem - almost.

Bear Creek was a small community 10 kilometres out of Dawson that existed because it was the headquarters of the Yukon Consolidated Gold Corporation, until it shut down in 1966. Former residents that I have talked to remember it fondly. There was a satellite community of employees surrounding Bear Creek. Salaried staff sometimes had the benefit of company housing. Others built their own homes nearby.

Until the 1960s, Bear Creek residents rarely had their own automobile, so it was hard to get to town. One family remembered that they could make it into Dawson for Christmas Mass if Victoria Faulkner was going because she ordered a taxi, and there was enough room for them as well.

The entire community of Bear Creek enjoyed Christmas together because the company shut down its operation for two weeks. Because nobody went Outside for their holiday, everybody shared the festive season together.

Bear Creek provided its own Christmas events. There was a Christmas party in the community hall, where Santa gave out gifts to every boy and girl. Of course the parents had to order their gifts well in advance because they relied upon river transport to bring goods into town before the highway was built. The Christmas orders were made up and sent in by August so that they would be delivered to Dawson before the last of the sternwheelers was beached for the winter.

The Christmas party was for the children, so there wasn't as much drinking taking place, but there was plenty of alcohol consumed during the holiday season. Several former residents described the "progressive parties." A couple would show up at somebody's house early in the evening, and after suitable libation, the two couples would then go to the next house for another round.

The crowd grew in size and got merrier as they progressed from one house to the next. These parties would last well into the early hours of the morning. If the Christmas party was for the children, then New Year's was the time for the adults to celebrate.

The stories and the memories of Yukon Christmases past could fill a book. In 1882, the party of men who wintered over with Jack McQuesten, the trader at Fort Reliance, had snow shovelling contests, foot races, and a special Christmas meal. The First Nations people joined in the celebration, and had a moose skin toss. This practice continued for many years. In later years, Christmas also meant a lot of drinking and dancing, as well as eating and the men usually had a hangover that lasted for days.

Charlotte Bompas, wife of the Anglican missionary Bishop Bompas, noted that on Christmas day, 1893, a deputation of miners presented her with a gold nugget weighing about three ounces, in honour of her being the first white lady to winter over so far north.

Author Pierre Berton remembered ogling a marvellous toy in the window of Madame Tremblay's Store. He then berated himself later for not thinking of giving it to his friend Alex Mc-Carter, before Alex purchased it as a gift for the future author.

All of these shared and individual memories from Yukon Christmases past combine to make it a most magical time of year. So I hope that this year will be another joyous and memorable Christmas for you all, and that you all will have memories to cherish for years to come.

Water Problems shut down RSS for a day

By Dan Davidson

Students at the Robert Service School in Dawson City got an extra day of holidays on Monday, Jan. 4. On Sunday Vice-Principal Helen McCullough announced on several different Facebook pages that the school would have to be closed on Monday, January 4, due to water damage. The announcement was repeated on CBC Radio that morning.

Staff were not available for comment on Monday morning as they were in a meeting, and were not cleared by Yukon Education to speak later, but Fire Chief Jim Regimbal was able to fill in some of the details.

The fire department was alerted to a problem at the school at 10:20 on Sunday morning and responded within 5 to 10 minutes of the alarm sounding. They were prepared for it to be a fire, but suspected it could have been something

It turned out to be a broken sprinkler line in the school's foyer, affecting the alarm box at the entrance, the interior foyer itself and the conference room in the joint school/public library.

Some items on the bulletin board at the library entrance were soaked and water damage to the drywall can been seen in the conference room. Like the school, the library was closed for that day.

Regimbal says it is not uncommon for some buildings to experience water line or sprinkler issues when there are considerable fluctuations of temperature during the winter. Dawson bounced from the mid minus teens, up to zero and back down to the minus 20s over the weekend.

"The monitoring system works well," Regimbal said, and that was why the fire department was able to respond so quickly.

Fire fighters picked up shop vacs from the fire hall and returned to the school to help with the clean up, which followed shutting down the water line feeding the sprinklers.

The school's fire suppression system was out of service until mid-morning, but Regimbal said that it had been restored and tested and was working again by around 11:15. YTG Property Management's Mike Fraser confirmed this just before noon. Workers were busy mopping up water and hauling soaked insulation out of the building this morning.

McCullough's original notice indicated that the school would most likely resume class on Tuesday, January 5. That was the case for both the school and the library.

Workmen were hauling sodden insulation from this access panel in the foyer outside the ancillary room
