Lady in Dawson

By Sandy Cai

Basking under the afternoon sun, it was like a piece of bizarre looking tree trunk, the bark well-seasoned, and the smooth cutting core emitting a soft, pure white glow. Gentle yet resolute, fine yet sturdy, confident yet genuine, it was a section of a mammoth tusk we recently brought back from our trip to Dawson, that remote northern land of midnight sun.

It was a rainy and dreary day in July when my husband and I walked in Dawson. The rain made walking on the unpaved packed mud streets more interesting; rustic but inconvenient. We had just arrived at this lonely outpost of civilization. Not much sign of life in sight. We were hungry and cold, sitting at a lonely corner of the popular restaurant in town, watching the waitresses milling around, not looking at our direction.

To dispel the boredom, I grabbed the promo pamphlet of Dawson and fingered through the pages. A small photo of a smiling lady grabbed my attention. She was leaning on the balcony of a tall brown log house, with a large sign of Forty Mile Gold in the front. I had always loved trinkets but not so much about gold jewelry. And I had promised myself not to spend on more gold because we had already spent enough on this trip. Yet for some mysterious reasons, I felt the pull. But I didn't even know where that log house was.

The lunch eventually showed up and we wolfed it down, and left. As we turned a corner, we saw that familiar log house down a muddy street. I tried to resist. But I felt that pull again. That was fate, I told myself. As if on cue, the sun broke out, beaming on the brown log house. The flowers in the front were an explosion of red, yellow and blue. And behind the shivering leaves stirred by the gentle breeze, I saw her. She was sitting on the deck, head lowered, focusing on her work. Her face was half covered by the long flowing hair that shone like soft silver under the afternoon sun.

As we walked through the door, a gentleman greeted us. He showed us the gold jewelry. He was soft spoken but the pride was permeating in the air. He mined the gold himself. He told us that his wife designed the jewelry; added with more pride. I was determined not to buy any more gold. Then that piece of ivory caught our attention. We asked some questions. I should let my wife answer your questions, she is the expert, he said. Then we met her for the first time.

She was tall and slim. Her grey eyes were bright and gentle. And there was that melting smile that lighted up the room. She explained that the mammoth was found in Indian River and this tusk was 14,000 years old. That certainly brought our attention. It appeared that, during mining operations, remains of woolly mammoth were often found. We were curious how one would work with ivory pieces. It was like working with wood, just with more finesse and it smelt like dental work, she told us. We really wanted to bring back a piece of history but that chunk was a bit too big. She didn't try to persuade us, instead suggested another store in town. We were surprised. This was so not like the competitive and intense world "out there".

We didn't find what we were looking for at the other place. And that "trunk" had by now become a Siren song in our head. We couldn't part with it in our mind now. Yet, she intrigued us more. Nearly 40 years ago, she was longing for living in wildness. She came to Dawson with her husband from rich province Alberta, our hometown. In due course, they took up gold mining, jewelry making and settled down (actually in Forty Mile Creek, another 100 miles out of Dawson, thus the name of the shop); becoming true northerners.

Calgary has blossomed in recent decades. People rushed to Calgary just like Dawson at its heydays. They packed up and left; and never looked back to this gleaming metropolis that attracts many young and old, rich and poor, from far and wide. And they were not alone. We met a number of "outsiders" who called Dawson home now, this unforgiving land where the winter is long and dark. Yes, there was still gold to be found, about one ounce of that glittering stuff from every eighty cubic yards of dull grey dirt and gravel. There were easier ways and places to make money, for example, oil and gas in Calgary. So why?

Life condition in Dawson is not easy. Sometimes they have to cut wood for heating and carry water from distance for daily life; not many modern facilities. We never did find out. Perhaps even those true northerners couldn't give a simple answer other than it is nice up here. Nevertheless, this got me thinking. What was that pull I also felt? Perhaps it was that sense of freedom and trueness. Up here in this unforgiving land, people often lived "off the grid", not only physically, but also mentally. Beauty was in its simplicity. There was no room for hypocrisy or false bravado. Free from the hustle and bustle of the chaotic world, free from the frivolity of the societal norm, free from pretentious ambition; true to nature, true to each other, true to one self.

Maybe one needed to come to the True North to be strong and free. I felt that pull again. I was holding that chunk of ivory in my hand again. That was my connection with Dawson. That soft white flow ivory will remind me of calling to the wildness and to the north. In it I saw that familiar tall and slim figure with flowing silver hair. Her name is Leslie.

Premier ensures Yukon's interests are reflected in national declaration

VANCOUVER (March 3, 2016) — Premier Darrell Pasloski announced today that Yukon and northern interests were enshrined in the climate change declaration agreed to by provincial, territorial and federal leaders today.

"I am pleased that Yukon and northern interests have been accommodated in our agreement today," Pasloski said. "The provinces and territories agreed to work with the Government of Canada to explore a number of solutions including looking at regionally appropriate carbon pricing mechanisms. This government will not impose a carbon tax on Yukoners."

The premiers and prime minister agreed today to build on the premiers' commitments in the Quebec declaration. They committed to form working groups that will consider possible national solutions to address climate change, while taking into account the unique economic challenges facing northern communities.

"We need flexibility to combat climate change in a way that makes sense for Yukon and doesn't impact our fragile northern economy," Pasloski added. "We are already investing in building retrofits, biomass energy generation, hydro expansion and a range of other carbon reduction efforts."

The premier reiterated Yukon's plan to combat climate change and reduce greenhouse gas emissions through Yukon's 2006 Climate Change Strategy and Yukon's Energy

The premiers also met with national Indigenous leaders and the prime minister yesterday to discuss how Indigenous groups could be involved in addressing climate change. Premier Pasloski was joined by Kluane First Nation Chief Mathieya Alatini and Kwanlin Dün First Nation Chief Doris Bill for that meeting.

Forest Resources Act review underway

WHITEHORSE (February 29, 2016)—The Government of Yukon is moving forward with a review of the Forest Resources Act, Minister of Energy, Mines and Resources Scott Kent announced today.

"The Forest Resources Act has been instrumental in developing modern forest management that supports viable and sustainable forest-based industries for Yukon," Kent said. "The review mandated in the act presents the opportunity to ensure our forest legislation meets the needs of First Nations, industry and the public while protecting the health of our forests."

The Forest Resources Act is the first natural resources legislation to have been developed in Yukon since devolution. The act includes a provision mandating a review of the legislation five years after its initial passage.

"The act's review demonstrates the Yukon government's ongoing commitment to maintaining a positive investment climate and fostering sustainable development to benefit Yukoners," Kent added.

Phase one of the review will begin with discussions with First Nations, renewable resource councils, forest industry representatives and conservation groups.

Phase two will explore possible amendments to the act and is expected to begin in 2017. The public will have opportunities to provide input throughout the review process.

Uffish Thoughts: It's not enough to NOT BE something

By Dan Davidson

In 2009 the committee that awards the Nobel Prizes made the immense error of giving the newly minted President of the United States the Nobel Peace Prize.

At the time it seemed that Barack Obama might actually grow to deserve such a prize at a later date. I wouldn't say that the record of his two terms would have justified the honour now, but that's beside the point.

At the time the former Senator had done nothing that would have justified the decision. He got it, as I and many other people wrote at the time, for the simple act of not being George W. Bush, and that just wasn't enough of a reason.

To his credit, Obama admitted that he didn't really understand why he was getting the prize and subsequently donated the $1.4 million in prize winnings to ten charities, mostly ones that were based in the USA, but also some from abroad.

Something similar has been happening since our own federal election last November. The Liberal government has been basking in the glow of not being the Conservatives, and Prime Minister Justin Trudeau has been benefitting from the fact that he is not Stephen Harper.

As we enter the month of March, much of the Liberal's efforts have been focussed on undoing some of the major pieces of legislation that were enacted by the previous government, turning back the clock on some of the changes that the Conservatives made to the way civil servants, federal scientists and regulatory bodies were intended to function.

It appears that much of this is going over fairly well with the general public and that the electoral honeymoon is not yet over.

The Liberal Party, through the agency of the Federal Liberal Agency of Canada, is already working on building up its war chest for the next electoral event which, Kevin O'Leary's predictions notwithstanding, will probably be held at the usual fixed time and with the same leader.

There's a new message and opportunity to donate every day, including a recent one that enters you and a friend into a contest to take a trip to Washington with our politicians.

This is cute stuff, and I'm glad to see that it seems to be at arms length from the actual governance of the nation.

However, the personalized messages from Justin himself are slightly unbelievable. Take the one for February 28, which begins as follows:

"Dan –

"Every day I wake up with one thought on my mind.

"What can I do today to make life better for Canadians. And how will I get the job done before I go home at night."

(Yes, the question marks are missing in the original text.)

Twenty years ago I was teaching my students how to make those merge documents (word processor plus data base) that the Readers Digest has used for decades to send out personalized letters. These days my individual subscription copies of national magazines arrive with my address printed as part of the cover instead of being glued on later.

Personalized mail – especially e-mail – is not a new trick. The PM may be approving these missives are they are churned out by staff, in the same way that "Because it's 2015" was brainstormed in his office with his advisors, but if he's taking the time to craft these little letters (about 310 words) every month there are probably more important things he could be doing with either his job or his family at that time in the morning.

I like the return to press conferences and scrums. I like to see cabinet ministers and other MPs having individual voices and not repeating exactly the same words and phrases. I like to see that most of the Prime Minister's daily schedule announcements are no longer labeled "photo opportunity only", as was the case for the last half dozen years or so.

But I am not content to give the Liberal government a free ride simply because they are not the Harper government.

LETTER But my Bill was Paid

I was out of town when my Utility Bill, due November 16, arrived. I was advised to be sure to pay before the next due date of Feb. 15/2016. I was not told that unpaid utility bills would appear in the "Schedule 11, Yukon Territory Assessment of Properties Subject to Tax Lien", that are posted in the Klondike

My outstanding amount was paid Feb. 2, and I paid the last bill on Feb. 15, when it was due.

I was informed by the Klondike Sun that the city asked them to run Outstanding Amounts Owed in the newspaper twice. Why is the City of Dawson not revising this public list before the second printing in the paper? I'm concerned that I'm not the only one who is affected through this oversight.

St. Paul's is Thankful to so Many Who Helped and Guided this Process

Acceptance Letter for the Heritage Conservation Project

On behalf of the congregation of St. Paul's Anglican Church in Dawson City, I want to express our appreciation for this wonderful award. This year marks the culmination of many years of work to restore our Church. One of the early memories I have of Dawson interior walls were repaired, and repainted, the flooring replaced, through the hard work of Hän Construction and many others. Thanks to the expertise of Sally Pedersen and Betty Wells, the stained glass windows were restored and rebuilt. Volunteers from the Church restored, sanded and refinished the pews, which had once belonged to St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. During

Without the support of Historic Properties, the Community Development Fund and our other grantors, and the wonderful people of Lay Minister Shirley Pennell, Rev. Laurie Munro, Deputy Premier Elaine Taylor, Lay Minister Betty Davidson, Rector's Warden Kathy Webster with the award photograph.

City, in the middle 80s, is seeing the old church in the middle of the road while the foundation was filled in and levelled. Over the years, at Christmas time, the old Church was heated by a Herman Nelson heater so that our community could celebrate Christmas together, and we had to keep the service to a short period of time (45 minutes) since that was all the heat in the building.

In 1996, thanks to grants from the Community Development Fund (CDF), the Anglican Foundation, YTG Historic Properties, and donations from many in our community, the that summer, every Sunday, our congregation went into the old building to see the marvelous progress, and a picture was taken with us standing, surrounded by construction. This marked a turning point in the life of St. Paul's.

This year, again thanks to the Community Development Fund, and Historic Properties, the final restoration projects have been completed. Due to the hard work of Vogt Enterprises, the roof, and much of the ceiling, which was decayed, worn and drafty, was replaced, along with the decayed footings and rot in the walls. Big B Contracting Dawson City, St. Paul's Anglican Church would be sinking into the ground. Instead, it has been restored to its original function and has many years of service ahead. We are so very grateful and give thanks for your generosity. We especially want to thank Bruce Barrett, from Historic Properties, for his help over the years, and Cheryl Goulet and Gisele Maisonneuve, our advisors from CDF. Please come and visit our church when you come to Dawson City.

There will be an election in 2016 to elect Members to the Legislative Assembly.

Help us make voting easier for all electors!

We invite your input on the types of identification held by electors across the territory, so all electors can participate.

Electors can be added to the List of Electors during the enumeration, revision period or when they vote. Electors who are added at the time of voting must provide identification.

A preliminary list of acceptable identification includes:

One piece of government-issued identification with the elector's name and current residential or mailing address, such as an Operator's (Driver's) Licence or Certificate of Indian Status Card

Two documents that show the elector's name; at least one with the elector's current address, such as a utility bill or lease agreement

A declaration, signed by the elector, with the elector's name and current address

More information about acceptable identification is available on our website at www.electionsyukon.gov.yk.ca or through this office.

Please share your ideas by email, facsimile, mail or telephone before April 4, 2016.

En 2016, il y aura une élection des membres de l'Assemblée législative.

Aidez-nous à simplifier le vote pour tous les électeurs!

Nous aimerions connaître votre avis quant au mode d'identification des électeurs du territoire, afin de permettre à tous d'exercer leur droit de vote.

Les électeurs peuvent être inscrits sur la liste électorale lors du dénombrement ou de la révision de la liste, ou encore le jour du scrutin, sur présentation d'une pièce d'identité.

Voici les pièces d'identité acceptées provisoirement:

• Une pièce d'identité délivrée par un gouvernement indiquant le nom de l'électeur et son adresse municipale ou postale actuelle. Ex.: permis de conduire ou certificat de statut d'Indien.

• Deux documents indiquant le nom de l'électeur, dont au moins un indiquant son adresse actuelle. Ex.: une facture de service public ou une convention de location (bail)

• Une déclaration de l'électeur signée par celui-ci, indiquant son nom et son adresse actuelle.

Notre site Web www.electionsyukon.gov.yk.ca comprend davantage de renseignements concernant les pièces d'identité acceptées lors du vote. Vous pouvez également vous adresser à notre bureau.

Bauberger's Sewing Our Stories Talk was a Hit

For those who arrive early for the Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in's bi-annual Myth and Medium conference, the organizers had an early bird program treat prepared.

Nicole Bauberger, a long time friend to the arts in Dawson, has been working for some time on a research project on the importance of sewing to aboriginal culture. While studying Native culture at Yukon College, she undertook to develop a project that would help the Friends of Yukon Permanent Art Collection understand more about the role of First Nations traditional sewing when it comes to jurying work to be included in the collection.

Bauberger worked with Mrs. Annie Smith and her daughter, Ms. Dianne Smith and the project developed into a 90 minute video called Needle, Bead and Voice: Learning about Traditional Sewing.

Bauberger explained the project to an interested group of mainly women at the Dänojà Zho Cultural Centre on Monday afternoon, and showed a 10 minute excerpt from the film.

Following the film there was an open and vigorous discussion of the role of sewing as experienced by the women in the audience, with particular attention paid to family traditions and patterns, the calming effect of sewing, the fact that it can become rather addictive, and its role in traditional courtship rituals.

Bauberger, best known as a visual artist, says the project moved her to try her hand at sewing and making traditional slippers and other things, and has found that it has really captured her interest. She now sews when travelling on airplanes, and can often be seen sewing while attending meetings, as was the case during a number of presentations during the next few days of Myth & Medium.

Myth & Medium Highlighted in Dawson from Feb. 22 to 25

Story & Photos By Dan Davidson

Tying in with a week that features Heritage Day in the Yukon, Dawson reverberated to the sounds of storytelling, singing, drama and discussion about all those things at the 2016 edition of the bi-annual Myth and Medium conference.

Organizer Jody Beaumont, with the Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in Heritage Department described the week as a "mid winter cultural celebration" usually connected by a theme.

This year's theme has been the Night Sky, anchored in place by a pair of stories that span thousands of years and thousands of kilometres.

Mayo's own Louise Profeit-LeBlanc related the story of The Boy in the Moon while the University of Jerusalem's Professor Wayne Horowitz, travelled for 40 hours to come and talk about ancient Babylonian and Assyrian stories that also use a boy in the moon motif.

The formal part of the week began on Monday evening at the Dänojà Zho Cultural Centre, with a welcoming performance by the Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in Singers.

TH's own Michelle Olson gave an illustrated talk about her dance practice.

From Carcross, Marilyn Jensen, leader of the Dakhká Khwáan dancers, spoke of her performance and its role in revitalizing her community, accompanied by her mother, Doris.

From Alert Bay, William Wasden Jr. came to talk about the importance of singing and rituals like the potlatch to the survival of his people.

During the coffee talk discussion panel the next morning the quartet of Profeit-Leblanc, Jensen, Olson and Marsden talked about the influence their parents had had on them as story tellers and performers.

Gwaandak Theatre founders
Patti Flather and Leonard
Linklater took to the stage with Yvette Nolan and Michelle Olson to present a set of short readings from their work.

The fun part of the morning was the well-received rap style language "throw down" in Hän, delivered by students from the Robert Service School's Hän class.

The Tuesday evening focus was on the Boy in the Moon story, told by Profeit-LeBlanc, followed by Horowitz's keynote lecture, "Myth, Scripture, and Living Traditions: The Flood, Babylon and The Boy in the Moon."

Horowitz's visits to the North since 2012 have seen him working with the Gwich'in Social and Cultural Institute, and part of his research caused him to find and retrieve a recording of a Gwich'in song, 'The Boy in the Moon", recorded decades ago by Myra Robert Venetie. The Tuesday evening session ended with the playing of that recording.

At the Wednesday morning session at Dänojà Zho, the focus was on the theme of revitalizing story. There was a panel discussion, a lecture by Profeit-LeBlanc and a presentation about Gwich'n place names by Ingrid Kritsch and Alestine Andre.

During the week Gwaandak Theatre had been holding a series of intensive performance workshops and also preparing to present their work-inprogress, "Map of the Land, Map of the Stars", at Wednesday evening's theatre themed performances.

That evening also included a shadow puppet theatre presentation about the Northern Lights and two short films by Mary Code, one about caribou and the other about the Northern legend of the flood.

For those not involved in the drama workshops, Tuesday afternoon featured a Heritage Scavenger Hunt at the Dawson City Museum and Wednesday a session called Storytelling through Photographs, hosted by Parks Canada at Oak Hall.

Thursday concluded the week with a day-long field trip to Tombstone Park, making use of the interpretive centre there and perhaps a bit further to the Blackstone Uplands. There were be more talks about storytelling, often delivered in the form of teaching stories, and a film by Alan Code called "The Memory Trap".

The day ended with a traditional feast, prepared and served by Victor Henry and the Moosemeat Men, at the Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in Community Hall. There was also be a performance by the intensive workshop group, music, and some dancing.

By then everyone was ready for a Heritage Day Holiday.

William Wasden Jr., Louise Profeit-LeBlanc, Michelle Olson and Marilyn Jensen discuss family influences on storytelling.

A Low but Lively Turnout for Cabinet's Pre-Budget Tour

By Dan Davidson

The turnout for the visit of the three cabinet ministers to Dawson for pre-budget consultations must have been a bit of a disappointment. Ten to twelve citizens were in the audience at the Downtown Hotel on February 29.

Several of them were quick to point out that the meeting was poorly advertised. While it was on all three locally received radio stations, it was not posted at the Canada Post office or advertised in the local newspaper.

"You have the chairs out," asked Shirley Pennell, "but where are all the people?"

Premier Darrell Pasloski sat at the front table, flanked by Deputy Premier Elaine Taylor and Minister of Health and Social Services, Mike Nixon.

There was to have been an informal opening of the new seniors' lodge earlier in the day, but that had to be postponed when the plane was unable to land in Dawson in the morning.

The purpose of the meeting, the Premier began, was to listen to comments, though, of course, there were a few questions to be answered as well.

Helen Bowie opened up the audience participation with questions about plans for the Dawson Airport. Taylor responded that $450 thousand has been earmarked for functional planning of the intended upgrades, beginning with the decision to pave the runway and moving on to look at what else needs doing.

Pasloski spoke of building a master plan for the airport, which might include terminal improvements, possibly relocation. In response to questions from Shirley Pennell, it did seem that moving the airport itself, a proposal dating back to when Pennell was on the local council, was not being considered any longer.

The alternate location mentioned in the 1990s was well out by the Dempster Corner, more than twice the distance from town, and less well placed.

Ed Farr wanted to know if locals living near the airport – Bear Creek, Rock Creek and Henderson Corner – had been asked how they would feel about increased air traffic in the area. The Premier thought that the ability to use larger planes and fill them to capacity might actually mean fewer flights.

Farr asked about the future of the Quigley Landfill, which is said to be filling up faster than predicted. There was some discussion of the fact that it is really more of a regional landfill than just Dawson City's and that a great deal of material is coming to it from as far away as the Dempster Highway.

Peter Jenkins complained that it is only Dawson residents who pay for the utility and that those outside the town boundary have free use of it.

Farr was also curious about the source of some of the $2 million in culture grants given out by Mélanie Joly, the federal minister of Canadian Heritage, last week. Taylor and Pasloski were uncertain if this was money earmarked by the Conservative government before the election or if it was new money from the Liberal government.

The Premier called it a grey area. Taylor mentioned that she was looking forward to coordinating with the federal government over the funding to be made available for the Canada 150 celebrations in 2017.

Farr tackled the issue of continuing care for seniors and specifically wanted to know why plans weren't being developed to allow seniors to stay in their homes or their communities for as long as possible. He said he had visited seniors from several smaller towns currently staying in rooms in the capital, and that they were not happy there.

Pasloski said that the Yukon Party has greatly increased the amount of money available for home care for seniors during its time in office. Using the case of his own mother's lack of access to acute care in Saskatchewan, he maintained the territory is doing a better job than that.

Nixon indicated that it's difficult to have all the necessary staff in a smaller centre and that physicians and specialists need a certain amount of a client base and practice in order to maintain their professional standing. Pasloski said it came down to cost effective use of resources to have a bigger centre in the Whitehorse for the 5% to 7% of the elderly population that need that service.

Currently planned for 150 beds, the new Whistlebend facility is to be constructed in such a way as to be able to double to 300 beds if the need arises.

This brought up the question raised by Betty Davidson, as to why the connection between the Dawson City Hospital and the new Macdonald Lodge could not become the occasion to raise the standard of care in the seniors' section so that people could stay there longer.

Nixon conceded that the two buildings, operated by two different entities, are sharing infrastructure, such as heating from the hospital and kitchen services from the lodge, but that they are still separate facilities, with staff paid from separate budgets, and that makes a simple seeming solution more complicated.

Pennell wanted to know if there were any possibilities for the new lodge to be expanded - perhaps a second floor? The cabinet ministers were uncertain about this, but Peter Jenkins recalled a public meeting with the architects in which the second floor option was limited to a modular construction type of building, which this one is not.

Expansion, if and when it turns out to be necessary, will be out the north end of the building. Bowie indicated that the government should probably investigate that sooner than later.

It was inevitable that the troubled Wastewater Treatment Plant should come up, and it was Bowie who raised that issue.

"Keep it for a bit," she said, referring to the recent announcement that the territorial government would be doing just that for the foreseeable future.

Pasloski said that since the facility wasn't working right, and since it had to be working at a cost sustainable for the town, keeping it under government control was the right thing to do.

The agreement does have the City of Dawson chipping in the amount that it used to cost its citizens to run the old primary treatment facility and costs related to the overall sewer and water system, but not costs beyond that.

Moving to somewhat broader issues, the Premier said it was his government's "long term vision to be able to pay our own way."

Federal/territorial agreements might well be seen as somewhat tenuous, as the sudden reduction in transfer dollars announced in December and amended more recently, tended to indicate.

"We want to grow an economy that creates opportunity for our kids," he said, citing the case of one of his sons who is now working in Saskatchewan to pays bills in Whitehorse after the mine he was with in the territory shut down.

One of the things that might help create jobs is, he said, the new fibre optic link that will make our internet and telephone services more secure, and perhaps lead to jobs in the knowledge economy.

Will Fellers asked what it would take to improve the road from Carmacks to Dawson, to eliminate the 75% load restrictions that are imposed every spring right around the time that the mining industry and others need to more heavy loads to get their season started.

Pasloski said that finding $300 million for this task was unlikely at this time. The territory would be better positioned to do such things if it actually owned the natural resources that are here, but that these are owned by the federal government.

Farr asked about recreation facilities in town, particularly the Fry Recreation Centre and the replacement for the Minto Park facility.

The government is unsure what kind of federal infrastructure funding will be rolled out to cover recreation, Pasloski said.

"Council here has made the decision to work with the existing facility, and has a go-forward to address health and safety issues. Concerns then move to the second level (which has never been finished) and the provision of artificial ice."

The Minto Park building will be partially funded by the insurance settlement from the fire, but the minsters thought it likely that Community Development Funding might come into play somewhere.

The Premier felt that the CDF funds a lot of projects without enough people being aware of what a great resource it is.

The last major topic to come up was agriculture, and Pasloski advised that Energy Mines and Resources has some money available for projects like community gardens and yea round greenhouse projects.

There was a lot of discussion generated by a small number of people, but the meeting was congenial and ran about two hours.

Hello again Dawsonites and welcome to March, where the temperatures appear to have dipped a bit!

It may be a tad colder, but I am happy to report that this has not prevented our rockin' group of young Run Dawson runners from lacing up and getting out for their walks and runs! As mentioned in my last article, Cst Boehmer was working with Run Dawson and RSS to promote a weekly run for the young Dawsonites. We have seen this come to fruition and have had a very successful month with a number of RSS students attending. The youth runners meet every Thursday in the school gym at 3:30, and all levels of walkers and runners are welcome to come out and join us!

Speaking of school, this might be a good time to remind those who use the roads in and around Dawson about the Motor Vehicle Act legislation as it relates to school buses. The detachment has received a number of complaints that would indicate there are some drivers who may be unsure of what they are required to do when they happen upon a school bus with the red lights flashing.

The Motor Vehicle Act states that all vehicles must stop before reaching a school bus when a school bus, with alternately flashing red lights, is stopped to receive or discharge passengers. Those vehicles must also remain stationary until the bus resumes motion, until the driver indicates by a signal that the person may proceed, or until the school bus lights stop flashing. I know that it may seem inconvenient to wait for the school bus to complete the loading and unloading process; however, ensuring the safety of our Dawson littles is a priority not only for Police but also for the individuals that are entrusted with their care while they are at school. Please respect the job that these individuals do, despite the fact that you may arrive at your final destination slightly later than expected!

Switching gears from our Dawson littles to the awesome elders in our community, Cpl Myke and I had the opportunity to call bingo at the Community Centre recently (see photo below), and what a hoot we had! Cpl Myke did take a little bit of heckling for not calling the bingo numbers fast enough, and somebody had to remind me that yelling out "big money big money!" was for a completely different game. Our elders are a serious group of bingo players! I'm looking forward to my next outing at the Community Centre - I just hope I'm not banned because of my Wheel of Fortune faux pas.

On another housekeeping note, the detachment has recently received a number of reports of items being stolen from vehicles. Please remember to take anything of value out of your vehicle if you are not in it. While it is disappointing and frustrating to hear that these thefts are occurring, we can take proactive steps to eliminate or at least minimize them. As always, we would like to hold the individuals responsible for these thefts accountable, and any information that anyone may have in that regard is always appreciated.

Well, that's it for this week! I will be looking forward to getting out and about this Thaw Di Gras and hopefully participating in a rousing game of snowshoe baseball or two. Keep warm out there and until next time, take care of yourself and others.

The first sled on this year's Trek Over the Top arrived at 12:35 on Thursday, faster than last year. Riders arriving between 2 and 2:30 reported that the trail on the Top of the World Highway from the Border to Dawson was in excellent shape. Registration and Customs check took place at the Visitor Information Centre on Front Street.

Last week it was time for the annual Trek Over the Top, the mid-winter 200 mile (322 km) ride from Tok to Dawson, and then back over the Taylor/Top of the World Highway route, that has been going on since 1993.

Paul Robitaille and Katie Pearse at the Klondike Visitors Association, which runs the Trek on this side of the border.

said that 153 riders signed up for the four-day event this year. That's just a bit more than last year's 147.

"We're not disappointed," Robitaille said. "There are a lot of names on the list that I don't know, so that means there's a new bunch of younger riders, a younger demographic.

When you consider that some of the original riders have been coming regularly for 23 years, renewal is certainly a good sign.

"Its great for the town," said Robitaille. "150 Americans coming to spend their money here when our dollar is not so strong, they'll probably spend a little bit more in Canadian, and these guys tend to spend a lot of money as it is."

They began arriving on Thursday, March 3, and enjoyed two days of events in the Klondike, before heading back, tired but happy, on Sunday.

Registration this year was carried out by the Alaska Trailblazers, who were enthusiastic in their promotion, telling potential Trekkers that they could expect for their US$555 registration fee:

- 6 meals: Breakfast in Tok before departure, Two Luncheons in Dawson City, Two Banquet Dinners at Diamond Tooth Gerties in Dawson City, and Dinner in Tok upon return.
- Three Nights lodging in Dawson
- Gasoline fill-up 75 miles from Tok in Chicken each way
- Chance to win door prizes
- Entry into the Poker Run and chances to win Cash and

There was a repeat of the popular sled drop (a superannuated ski-doo dropped from a helicopter to a stake marked target zone) on the Friday. If you bought ten or

It was a busy afternoon on the ice bridge as the Trekkers arrived, with kids skating, playing over by the "sunken ship" and trucks hauling snow load away from the streets more stakes your name was entered in a draw for a free helicopter ride over the town after the drop.

The curling club was open as well as Gerties and the Museum. The Poker Run took them through Bear Creek Compound and to the Ridge Road. Trails were all groomed in advance by the local club, the Dawson City Sled Dawgs.

The Friday night special event at Gerties was the local ladies' Boardwalk Burlesque show, and on Saturday night the Snow Shoe Shufflers had a return engagement. Saturday night also saw the return of the popular Hawaiian Night.

Five Germans in Search of Jack London

It's breakfast time at the Aurora Inn and I've been asked to come in and speak to a group of German journalists and tour organizers, led here by Holger Bergold, who has been shepherding Europeans through the territory for over 16 years.

Bergold, who was largely responsible for organizing and guiding the Fulda Extreme Sports events each winter since 2000 until it ended in 2014, noted that this trip was easily put together thanks to Air North's direct flight from Ottawa, which was where the group had been just a day or so earlier.

This group of five is particularly interested in Jack London, and wonders why Robert Service is so much better known in this part of the world, even though both men made fortunes writing about the place.

During this short visit, they've been to the London Cabin and Interpretive Centre and toured the Dawson City Museum.

They're excited to have seen the Aurora Borealis in a particularly vivid display the night before, and even enjoyed the experience of getting their SUV stuck on the Dome Road while trying to drive up to the Dome for the view the day

By the time they realized that all they were seeing on the road was snowmobile tracks, it was too late to turn around, but they seemed to have had a good time trying to dig it out after they got stuck. At the time of this breakfast meeting, the vehicle was still up there.

They are curious about roads, snowfall, temperatures (they've been blessed with warmer than normal weather) and they ply me with questions for about 45 minutes.

Then it's my turn.

Martin Haeussermann has been to the Yukon about 20 times, mostly following the Fulda Extreme Sports events that came to an end in November 2014 after a 15 year run. He's also travelled the roads in an RV, and loves to come back as often as he can.

"When you come here it's so totally different from Europe, You feel so laid back, totally relaxed. It's less crowded.

Sabrina Hasenbein is an organizer, doing in Ontario the same sort of liaison work that Bergold has been doing for the Yukon for many years.

"This is my first time in Dawson, so this combination has been really great for me as Wolfgang Jürgen Tischer writes for his own magazine and it has decided to do four special issues featuring Canada for 2017.

"For the past two years I've been trying to travel here as much as I can, and send people over here - and myself - to cover as much of the country as I can, including the history and the diversity. I've never been to the Yukon before, but I'm very much a winter person so I just love it here. One day here and the virus has already gotten under my skin.

"This county has so much to offer. Anything you would like to experience or see, you can find it in Canada."

Sabine Ilse Loeprick tends to have assignments that take her to cities, so she was very glad of the variety and the change.

"It's great to be in the nature place where you do feel a little bit lost at the beginning. It's so large, such a big country with so few people."

Wolfgang Robert Greiner came to Yukon because he's very interested in the life and work of Jack London, whose work is just being issued in new, unexpurgated versions in German.

"He's a writer for the youth, so some of the parts were cut out in the past and only special youth versions of his books were published. Now his main novels are translated and that got me interested in seeing this place."

Greiner is recording video on this trip and posting much of it, via tumblr, Pintrest and Instagram, to a travel blog: Roadtrip-blog.de

At the end of the half morning, the shoe is back on the other foot and I'm sitting with Greiner as he uses two small digital cameras to simulate a two camera video interview for his website, recapping some of the key London points we had discussed earlier. I wonder if I'll ever get to see this, and whether it will run with German sub-titles.

Medieval Warriors in Dawson

by Palma Berger

Medieval Warriors in Dawson! And in Mayo. And in Whitehorse.

They are definitely here. They have studied the history of the Middle Ages. They know the type of armour that was used. The know the style of fighting and they emulate that.

Their shields are homemade. But their armour and helmets are made by hand and imported from overseas. The swords are Czech and the armour is usually from the Ukraine or Russia. All armour must match the period of the Middle Ages. One cannot bring in a helmet or armour from a different time period.

The idea came from Yukon's first comic book Convention -Yukomicon - in 2014. Here, a demonstration of Medieval fighting was given by Jose Martinez-Amoedo, who had represented Spain at the World championships. Dawsonites were enthralled.

So it began.

One needs to be fit, so they work out regularly. They practice regularly. They either go to Mayo for coaching or to Whitehorse..

The Yukon group have named themselves the Company of the White Wolf. (They can be found on Facebook and U-Tube under that name.)

Recently they travelled to Montreal for a Tournament in the Medieval Fighting. There were participants from Europe as well as from Canada. The idea of resurrecting Medieval Warrior fighting originated in Europe. So Europe was well represented there.

But the Yukon group so impressed the overseas participants, that they pressed them to come to Ireland in October for their World Tournament. There are also tournaments in Prague at the beginning of May and in Portugal at the end of May.

And the medals? Well it was the girls fighting in the group category who brought home the most medals. But the boys also did very well in the sword fighting division. The contests are overseen by a marshal, who ensures that the rules are followed..

You may yet see them in action as they hope to have a tournament in Dawson one day.

TWENTY YEARS AGO IN THE SUN

DAWSON CITY, YUKON

"EVERY SECOND FRIDAY"

FRIDAY, MARCH 8, 1996

Centennial projects designed for maximum impact

BY DAN DAVIDSON

Sun Staff

Centennial dreams continue to loom large in Dawson, to the point where one wonders how the $1.5 million allocated for local projects by the YTG could possibly contain

The truth is, it probably can't, and so the Vancouver firm of Aldrich, Pears, which has recently finished reporting to interest groups in the community, has the mammoth task of designing projects based on four projected levels of funding, ranging from bare bones to significantly en-

The two centennial projects that got the nod from the Klondike planning process were the creation of a Han Cultural Centre and an enhancement of the waterfront area.

Not surprisingly, Ron Pears reported that the best site for the Han center would be one that combines the two projects by placing the center on the dyke side of Front Street, near to both the Visitor Reception Centre and the Tr'ondek Hwch'in existing buildings just down the street.

This would place the new attraction just about where the popular Front Street Gazebo now sits. This could be relocated to a site south of the old CIBC building to make room for a modular concept Han

Pears outlined a complex which would consist of seven main areas in its initial phase. An entry area and booking facility would allow the visitor to branch off to a circular multi-use room, an exhibit area. an audio-visual theatre, a retail sales area, or a deck which overlook the Yukon River. There would also be office space to accommodate the running of the facility it-

The location of this complex would be near to where Pears proposes the establishment of an upgraded docking facility. This would be one of a series of "nodes of improvement" which would enhance the dyke and waterfront area along its 2.2 km stretch.

Pears indicated that simply tossing the money at the entire dyke area wouldn't show any particular benefit, so the selected locations concept was the preferred way to go. Possible sites for improvement included the areas opposite the old Territorial Court Building, the Commissioner's Residence, and the block between Princess and Queen Streets.

Attendance was sparse at the February 26 meeting in the Chief

Utility rates to rise in '96

BY DAN DAVIDSON

The good news for Dawson consumers is that their sewer and water system will be paying for itself in three years. The bad news is that it will cost them quite a bit more before that day arrives.

While an early draft of the Dawson City budget aimed at avoiding increases in sewer and water rates for 1996, this has been impossible to sustain in the final analysis. The result will see Dawson utility users absorbing a 10% increase in rates across the board, as well as taking a 33.3% cut in the amount of the rebate that has been cushioning the blow.

Users may be happy to note that the bills will fall due in August instead of during the spring this year, but otherwise, the reaction will probably be gloomy.

Briefing notes from the city council indicate that total costs for running the S&W system in 1995 hit $838,000, of which the municipality was able to recover only $727,000. Without the need to service the debt on the sewer system - a whopping $240,000 - the operation just might break even. As it was, revenues fell short by $111,000.

Council has gone further in detailing its breakdown of costs and has divided the annual billing into its component parts. Water services actually comprise 57% of the annual bill while the sewer costs 43%. So the bills this year will reflect that. A single family dwelling will be charged $658 for water and $497 for sewer services.

Hotels will pay $78 and $59 respectively for each rentable room. Eateries will be charged by the washroom ($342 & $258) and by the commercial kitchen ($258 & $215) Community and non-profit organizations will face the same

Water delivery will rise $4 to $48 er 1000 gallons (single delivery) or $69 for two 500 gallon deliveries. Delivery to homes that could be hooked into the utility system will jump to $138 per 1000 gallon

The Sun obtained funding in late 2009 from the City of Dawson, YTG's Heritage Branch and the Community Development Fund to conserve and archive early issues and make them available once again in the public domain. This is a great resource for students, writers and historians, and also for prospective tourists with an interest in Dawson City's life. Each month, we are re-printing our front pages from 20 years ago as a souvenir of our lively history. If you want to see page 2 and beyond, check out our website. Past issues are available there for download. Go to http://klondikesun.com. More will be added periodically (heh) when we have time! In 1996, we became a bi-weekly. Should 20 Years Ago be a feature of every issue of the Sun from now on? Let us know.

History Hunter: Recipients honoured with annual Yukon Heritage Awards Guidelines for the Yukon Minister of Tourism and Culture Elaine Taylor, left, and Rebecca Jansen of the historic sites branch display the award honouring the Yukon Diocese for its efforts to restore St. Paul's Anglican Church National Historic Site in Dawson City. Taylor will be travelling to Dawson City next week, where she will personally present the award to the Dawson congregation.

Each year, to honour the territory's unique heritage, the Yukon Historical and Museums Association presents the Yukon Heritage Awards. They are given to deserving individuals and organizations for the contributions that they made to preserving and celebrating Yukon's heritage in the preceding year.

This year, four awards were presented in an awards ceremony at the Yukon Archives last Tuesday evening before an appreciative crowd of 60 people.

Sally Robinson, the president of the YHMA, welcomed guests, and YHMA executive director Nancy Oakley introduced the keynote speaker for the evening, David Neufeld. From the mid-1980s until his recent retirement, Neufeld had been Parks Canada's Yukon historian. Growing up in a multi-generational Mennonite home, he was inspired by the stories told by his Groszma (grandmother) of her early life in the Ukraine and ultimate expulsion from the home there that she likened to paradise.

Neufeld presented a short talk about three stories, and the view of the world which they present: one American, one Canadian, and one Athabascan. Each frames the land within a different perspective.

Bryan Clayson, the first recipient of the evening, accepted the Helen Couch Volunteer of the Year Award. Janna Powell, director of the Yukon Transportation Museum, and Angela Drainville, executive director of the Miles Canyon Historic Railway Society, both attested to the hours of volunteer work he committed to keep the running stock of the railway society operating smoothly.

According to the citation for his award, "Bryan has been an integral part of the Miles Canyon Historical Railway Society for many years, and his love for streetcars and his mechanical skills have lovingly kept the 90-year-old Whitehorse Waterfront Trolley functioning for over 15 years. ... Every summer, he mentors young staff in the mechanics of the diesel generator and general maintenance and operations in the Roundhouse...This attraction continues to bring smiles to everyone who sees it. And thanks to the tireless work of Mr. Clayson, it is one that we will enjoy for years to come."

The Innovation, Education and Community Engagement Award is a new honour. The first recipient is "The Hidden Histories Society Yukon." They earned it for "outstanding or innovative contribution to heritage education or interpretation through social media, publications, displays, exhibits, or other products or activities that promote heritage conservation."

Through a series of projects that span 15 years, Hidden Histories has brought to light aspects of the Yukon's rich social cultural communities through exhibits and special events. It has reached out to people in all corners of the territory to engage and involve them in celebrating the Yukon's rich heritage together.

Their work has included producing and circulating portable display panels and online exhibits on Black and Asian Yukon history. They have offered oral history workshops, coordinated CBC book discussions, and speakers and films for Black and Asian history months. They have also offered school presentations and cemetery visits to respect Yukon Black and Asian pioneers. They have worked with a broad group of community partners to undertake these activities, from the Yukon Human Rights Commission to the National Association of Japanese Canadians.

In expressing her thanks on behalf of the society, Lillian Nakamura Maguire singled out Peggy D'Orsay and other staff at the Yukon Archives for the special support they have given to the society over the years.

The Diocese of Yukon was awarded this year's Heritage Conservation Project of the Year. Sponsored by the Yukon's Tourism and Culture Department's historic sites unit, the award was presented for the continued conservation and restoration of St. Paul's Anglican Church in Dawson City. Built in 1902, St. Paul's Anglican Church is a significant example of frontier mission architecture in the Gothic Revival style. It has been in continuous use as a church since its construction and was designated a National Historic Site in 1989.

The diocese showed tremendous commitment to the preservation of this important landmark through 30 years of conservation and maintenance. In the past year they undertook extensive repairs to the roof, eaves troughs and exterior sidings as well as restoration of the historic wood windows according to the Standards and Guidelines for the Conservation of Historic Places in Canada.

Though not able to attend the awards, Betty Davidson of Dawson City responded to the award on behalf of the congregation in Dawson in a message thanking many groups and individuals for their financial support. Yukon Minister of Tourism and Culture Elaine Taylor, who attended the ceremony Tuesday night, will be taking the award to Dawson City, where she will be presenting it in person next week.

Pat Ellis received the Annual Heritage Award. For 25 years she has been tireless in preserving, documenting, and presenting some of the lesser-known stories of Yukon's history. Over the past five years Pat has produced a series of informative small books on different aspects of Yukon history and organized events at the MacBride Museum.

Most recently in 2015,
Pat published a book titled
The Squatters of Downtown Whitehorse. It was the culmination of years of research and hard work. For two years she scoured the Yukon Archives, City of Whitehorse Archives and the Lands Branch Archives. She drew upon her own memories and collected anecdotes and photographs from former squatters and their families.

In November 2015, she self-published her book, which was launched at a special, well-attended event at the MacBride Museum. The 60-page paperback outlines the political and social events leading up to the squatter settlements and it tells of the personal struggles of the people who lived in Whitehorse at the time.

Ellis's book brought these and other lesser-known stories to the forefront. People who lived in the squatter areas are now able to see their stories in print, and newcomers who did not know about that part of the history have a valuable reference to turn to.

Introducing Ellis, MacBride Museum spokesperson Leighann Chalykoff said that Ellis has given "above and beyond the call of duty." Chalykoff went on to describe Ellis, with whom she has collaborated on many special events at the museum, as her secret weapon. Chalykoff said that Ellis frequently gives her ideas that make her look like a genius when she presents them to her board of directors.

Congratulations to all of this year's recipients for their commitment, dedication, and accomplishments.

News and Happenings from the Dawson City Community Library

The Library is pleased to host a reading by Berton House Writer-in-Residence on Shelagh Plunkett on Tuesday 29 March at 7 p.m. Attendance is open to everyone, and light refreshments will be served. Shelagh is currently at work on Caught By All That's Come Before, an examination of "ways that our identities are shaped by how we respond to events we participate in or that we witness."

* * * *

Easter is hopping closer, so please note that the Library will be closed for Good Friday on March 25th. and on Easter Monday. March 28th. However, although Robert Service School will be closed for March Break from March 14-18, the Library itself will remain open on those days with its usual operating hours of Monday to Friday, noon to 6:30 p.m.

Speaking of Easter, we have an egg-citing special display of holiday books for the kids. Although fun tales of bouncing bunnies admittedly dominate, you'll find stories of dogs, sheep, and chickens too. There are some videos as well, including It's the Easter Beagle, Charlie Brown and the vintage classic Easter Parade.

We have several recent arrivals at the Library, ranging from great classics to new potboilers from bestselling mystery writers. We've also acquired some interesting non-fiction books. Some notable new titles are: The Spy Who Loved: The Secrets and Lives of Christine Granville by Clare Mulley; Stealing History: Tomb Raiders, Smugglers, and the Looting of the Ancient World by Roger Atwood; Why Does the Other Line Always Move Faster?: The Myths and Misery, Secrets and Psychology of Waiting in Line by David Andrews; and Training the Best Dog Ever: A 5-week Program Using the Power of Positive Reinforcement by Dawn Sylvia-Stasiewicz and Larry Kay.

For more information about any of these items please contact the Library at 993-5571 or email dclib@klondiker.com
