Regimbal reinstated as Protective Services Manager

(Jay Farr was out of town.)

Dawson's Fire Chief has his job back. There are certain conditions attached to it, and the upshot is that the general public may never learn, from either him or the other senior managers, just what caused his dismissal in the first place.

The announcement came by way of a council resolution, moved by Mayor Wayne Potoroka and seconded by Councillor Bill Kendrick, about 24 minutes into the 39 minute meeting.

It was "moved that council reinstate Mr. Regimbal's employment with conditions." The conditions were not specified, but it can be assumed that they grew out of the appeal proceeding which commenced on Friday evening, following a large demonstration of public support outside the City Hall/Fire Hall complex.

"Before we go to on this vote on this, just a few words," Potoroka said, addressing himself to the cable 12 TV audience and to the eight or nine members of the volunteer fire department who were in solemn attendance.

"Once passed this will reinstate the Protective Services Manager's employment status with conditions. He will return to active duty on June 15.

"Unfortunately, we can't discuss any of the details. This is a human resources matter, as I'm sure you all appreciate. It was difficult and stressful for everyone involved, And I think it's important for everyone to understand that the decision that council is about to make here is in no way a reflection that council does not support both our CAO and are CFO, André (Larabie) and Joanne (Van Nostrand).

Potoroka went on at some length to indicate that Larabie and Van Nostrand conducted themselves in a professional manner throughout the last fortnight since Regimbal was fired, and that some of the accusations leveled against them for the action, on the street and on social media, were unjustified.

"We believe this was a fair outcome," Potoroka said.

"These situations, like the one we've been dealing with, can bring out the best in people. That includes the folks who took the opportunity to decently and in a positive manner show their support. We appreciate that.

"Certain people... used this as an opportunity to question the character and credibility of some of the people working in this office, (people) who were and are dedicated to high ethical standards, and it wasn't called for.

"Any suggestion that there was a witch hunt going on by either the CFO or the CAO didn't help. It does not accurately reflect what was happening and really undermines the integrity that those people bring to the office every single day. There was no witch hunt."

"Moving forward, we will be taking steps to mend the relationships between (the members of) the city's management team, and we trust that everyone here will help us in encouraging those efforts, and we will appreciate it as you do."

Following this speech, the vote was taken on the resolution, and it passed unanimously. This was followed by a burst of applause from the fire fighters present.

Regimbal was not able to say much when contacted later. He did reveal that all the available council members had come to visit him about 90 minutes before the meeting and told him what was going to be brought forward.

He said he is relieved to have come through this stressful time and to have retained his job, which he said he is quite willing to continue performing in a professional manner. He understands that the other people in the dispute are bound to silence as he is, and accepts that.

He will be heading out of town shortly to have a bit of a break and rebuild his energy before returning to his office.

Yukon River Break-up sets new record, as was expected this year

By Dan Davidson

After a false alarm on Friday, the Yukon River finally shifted the tripod out on the ice far enough to stop the clock attached by cable to the Dänojà Zho Cultural Centre. This established the official break-up time at 11:15 Saturday morning.

The river was flowing free soon after, but with water levels low enough that a lot of small chunks of ice were littered along the banks stretching on down past Moosehide.

This confirmed the wisdom of the IODE in halting ticket sales on the ice pool 10 days earlier than the traditional April 25. Like everything else related to the Yukon River this Spring in the Klondike, this event is about 10 days ahead of what would be considered normal. Last year the river broke on May 4 and the year before on May 2. The earliest previously recorded date was April 28, back in 1940, so this is clearly a new record.

The winner of this year's ice pool is a local man, Brian Stethem, who will take home a pot of $4340.

Friday's false alarm was the result of the river shifting enough to knock the tripod over on its side. Joyce Caley was notified of this and made her way down to the cultural centre with a companion, who climbed the ladder and pried the cover off the clock, only to discover that it was still ticking. The cable had not been pulled free to stop it.

The breakup ice pool is the major fund raiser for the IODE, which uses the money it raises for scholarships and

Dawson Airport improvement project moving forward

WHITEHORSE (April 20, 2016) —Functional planning for improvements at the Dawson Airport is underway. The plan will help set long-term goals for the airport and address paving the runway.

"The Government of Yukon wants to ensure that we are allocating funds with the best return on investment," Minister of Highways and Public Works Scott Kent said. "We are confident this plan will give us a firm foundation to begin needed upgrades to this facility. We remain committed to start paving in 2017, but it is important to recognize that paving is just one component of a larger project."

It takes considerable time and labour to perform technical and business case analysis, feasibility studies, impact assessments, detailed design concepts and identification of funding sources on a project of this scope.

As the functional planning phase continues, Highways and Public Works is committed to working with the Dawson City Chamber of Commerce as a partner.

"The Dawson City
Chamber of Commerce is pleased that the functional plan previously announced is now underway," Dawson City Chamber of Commerce president Dick Van Nostrand said. "It is a necessary component of the preparation for paving of the runway and possible future enhancements and development. We expect that, barring any insurmountable obstacles during the functional plan process, paving will proceed in 2017."

OPINION

Uffish Thoughts: World War I Impacts were key to the Yukon's development

By Dan Davidson

The Yukon has contributed more, politically and economically, to Canada than its small population would actually suggest, says historian Ken Coates. He says this a matter of conscious choice during the First World War.

It would have been easy for the Yukon, he says, way off in the upper northwest corner of the nation, hardly a national byword nearly two decades after the Gold Rush, to have paid little attention to what was, essentially, a European civil war.

Instead, The response to World War I, he says, was very much a sign of the Yukon's coming into its own, making a declaration about its future.

Britain declared war on Germany on August 4. Canada followed immediately, and two men left Dawson to enlist three days later. Sixty-five Yukoners had signed up before the year was out. By the next June the members of the Boyle Detachment (later renamed the Yukon Machine Gun Battery) were on their way to England. The George Black Contingent sailed for England towards the end of January 1917.

Coates says that the Yukon sent a disproportionately high number of young men off to fight in the battlefields of Europe, and either because of death in battle or because of opportunities elsewhere in Canada after the war, most of them didn't come back.

Add to that the sinking of the Princess Sophia, towards the end of the war, and the territory lost quite a few of its elite citizens between 1914 and 1918, The territory really didn't come out of the war ahead and wouldn't begin to recover until after the next global conflict.

Indeed, Coates says that in the aftermath of World War I, the territory actually suffered demographically, economically, and in terms of its political development. They declined so much and so obviously, that the federal government was quite prepared to strip the territory of the small amount of autonomy it had accumulated, and run it as a government department.

With that in mind, Coates believes that the upcoming conference, "The North and the First World War" (May 9-15) is an excellent opportunity to reflect on these events and on their impact here.

"I think a conference that brings together scholars from all across the world, actually, all the way from New Zealand, the United States, the United Kingdom, and across Canada, demonstrates the enduring significance of Yukon, in not just the history of Canada, but the history of the world," Coates says.

The members of the committee that was formed under the aegis of the Yukon Historical and Museums Association to plan this event were not sure, when they began, how many scholars would be keen to attend it, but Coates says he was pleasantly gratified by the responses.

"I was blown away by the fact that nearly everybody that we asked, could come. They made time in their schedules and they were determined to show up.'

There will a day-long workshop on trauma and cultural organizations on Monday, May 9 at the Yukon Transportation Museum. A total of 24 speakers will be giving presentations on a variety of topics between Tuesday and Thursday at the Coast High Country Inn. Thursday evening will see a dramatic production "Dawson to Berlin - A Romanian Love Story" at the same venue.

Following events in Whitehorse, a still to be finalized number of delegates and scholars will be boarding a Husky Bus coach on Friday to drive to the original capital of the Yukon, Dawson City, the place from which Klondike Joe Boyle and Commissioner George Black both raised enlisted men to go fight in Europe. They will arrive to be feted with an evening banquet at the Aurora Inn.

In the Klondike, tours of the Bear Creek Compound and Dredge No. 4 will flesh out that story, as will a lecture by Mike Gates at the Dawson City Museum and an IODE Tea at the Commissioner's Residence. The Dawson Study Tour group will return home to Whitehorse on Sunday.

Coates, who is co-chairing the conference along with Dr. Brent Slobodin waxes eloquently in considering the impact of the event.

"We are using this conference to draw attention to the fact that there are many other remote regions who have similar histories of wartime experiences, including putting the northern territory in Australia, northern Scandinavia and other places.

"The conference is a chance to remember what happened, to look back to the seeds of social change that are so much a part of 20th-century Yukon, and to put it in a global perspective, to reflect back on the fact that war creates opportunities for social change, economic change, changes in values and assumptions. This is certainly the case in the Yukon and it certainly had a great impact on how the Yukon evolved over time."

Next week is going to be a very busy week.

LETTER

Don't Close the existing Dental Clinic Facilities

Dr. Helmut Schoene Box 426 Dawson City, Y.T. Y0B 1G0 Tel. 867 93 6347

April 18. 2016

Honourable Minister of Health and Social Services Whitehorse Y.T.

Dear Minister Nixon,

There goes the saying "
You don't see the forest for the trees any more", and I have been asking myself
this question many times, being involved in the dental health care of Yukon's rural communities and in particular Dawson City, since almost forty years.

On the other hand, I may have a somewhat deeper insight, than an outsider, looking at the same situation with less experience.

Let me outline a situation that concerns me about the present and future dental services in Dawson City, and you can judge for yourself.

As you probably know,

YTG maintains dental treatment facilities at all rural communities in the Yukon, for travelling dentists to provide services.

I do not know, when this arrangement was established, but it was in place in 1978, when I came to the Yukon and asked YTG, whether I could use the existing dental facilities at Dawson City's nursing station, to provide dental services on a more permanent basis for Dawson.

I guess, the medical administration, at the time, realized the advantages of such an agreement, as it would save them the considerable expenses for the travelling dentists.

Not to mention the savings for the Dawson population, previously having to make trips to Whitehorse in emergencies, hotels etc.

Unfortunately, this mutual beneficial arrangement did not last.

Changing medical administration, in the late 80ies, for whatever reasons decided, a room for prenatal classes was more important than a dental room, and I was asked to move.

After about ten years of practising dentistry in Dawson, I was and I am convinced, that the small population of Dawson does not ensure an adequate financial return, the investment of a completely privately operated dental clinic would require.

A failed attempt by a colleague in Watson Lake, a town, similar in size of Dawson, speaks for itself.

Anyway, I don't want to bore you with too many details.

YTG continued to maintain dental facilities in Dawson, at different locations, up to now.

In 2007, thinking about retirement, I tried to find another colleague to take over.

This turned out to be a hopeless endeavour and I was happy, at least, to find Dr. Wisniewski, who would visit Dawson several times per year, to provide excellent dental services.

During his absence, I am still available for dental emergencies.

A few years ago, the plan for a new hospital for Dawson became more concrete and I asked YTG for the integration of a dental treatment facility in the new building.

In my opinion, it makes only common sense, to have all medical related branches under one roof, particularly in a small community, and also to avoid the ongoing, costly relocation of the dental office, which had happened three times in the past.

Another very important advantage of having a dental treatment facility in the hospital is the immediate availability of a physician and proper equipment, in case of an emergency.

I also proposed the possibility to use the dental room as a multi-function facility, as it could as well be used by a visiting optometrist, speech therapist, etc.

YTG accepted my proposal and reasoning and promised to include a dental treatment room at the new hospital.

During the construction period, about two years ago, I met several times with engineers and the project manager, to discuss location and technical details.

Unfortunately, the chosen location at the time, was not agreeable with the medical staff, once the building was completed. The dental room turned out to be right next to the medical examination rooms.

I proposed a few different locations for a dental room at the new hospital but no decision has come forward, so far.

In the fall 2015, a dentist purchased a house in Dawson City and set up a small dental office inside his private residence.

I was not unhappy about this situation, as I was always hoping for more permanent dental services for Dawson.

It is not a pleasant experience, for people to drive to Whitehorse in the middle of winter, with a bad tooth-ache.

A short while ago, YTG notified me, that, because of the opening of the new dental office, the dental facilities, maintained by YTG, would no longer be required.

This sounds reasonable at first glance.

The reality, however, and what concerns me, is the fact, that the new dentist is or is very close to retiring age, and his dental office is just a little retirement project for him, as he told me.

Would it not be more sensible to have a permanent dental facility at the hospital, prepared for all eventualities?

The dental services available now, may only last a few years, - then what?

Dawson will be without a provider and more important, without dental facilities.

In my opinion, the present set-up of a dental office in a private home, is an exception.

As much as I believe in free enterprise, the chance for a younger dentist to invest in a privately owned and operated dental clinic in Dawson, and run it successfully, is very, very slim.

The population base is just not big enough.

Finally, I like to assure, that I seek no financial or other benefits in this matter, whatever the outcome may be.

My only concern are continuing, adequate, decent, dental services for the people of this town.

Your thoughts in this matter would be very much appreciated.

Thank you for your time,

Helmut Schoener

Yukon Legislature and the City of Dawson Recognize Lorenzo Grimard's 100th Birthday

From Hansard In recognition of Lorenzo Grimard's Birthday - April 23, 2016

P6

Mr. Silver: Mr. Speaker, I rise on behalf of all of my colleagues in the Legislative Assembly to tribute Lorenzo Grimard on his 100th birthday.

April 23, 2016 in Dawson City not only marked the earliest day on record for the breakup of the Yukon River, but it was also cause for the celebration for the oldest-living francophone in the territory: Mr. Lorenzo Grimard.

A party was held in his honour for his 100th birthday where he was recognized by both the Governor General of Canada and also the Prime Minister, Justin Trudeau. Lorenzo is an inspiration of positivity and an example of freespiritedness that we can admire and aspire to. At 100 years young, he still has the glass-half-full attitude on life. He still knows how to entertain the crowds and he keeps the residents and staff of the McDonald Lodge smiling and happy.

Now, the Governor General and the Prime Minister were not the only ones to recognize the 23rd, because the mayor and council of Dawson City also weighed in with a special proclamation and I would like to read that into the record here today.

"Proclamation: Lorenzo Grimard Day:

WHEREAS Mr. Lorenzo Grimard is celebrating his 100th birthday on April 23, 2016; and

WHEREAS Mr. Lorenzo Grimard has been a long-time resident of our community and an active member of the Yukon Order of Pioneers: and

WHEREAS council is inspired by Mr. Lorenzo Grimard's long life and offer him the sincere best wishes for continued good health and happiness now;

THEREFORE I, Wayne Potoroka, as Mayor of the City of Dawson, Yukon

Territory, do hereby proclaim April 23, 2016 to be Lorenzo Grimard Day in the City of Dawson, Yukon Territory and commit this observation to the people of Dawson City."

So Mr. Speaker, on behalf of all of my colleagues here in the Legislature, I would like to wish Lorenzo a happy 100th birthday and congratulate him on the proclamation to have April 23rd known as Lorenzo Grimard Day.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Note from the Mayor's Facebook Page:

Happy Lorenzo Grimard Day et bon anniversaire, Lorenzo! By a unanimous resolution of Council, April 23, 2016, is Lorenzo Grimard Day in the City of Dawson in recognition of Lorenzo's 100th birthday and his contributions to our town. (Elders are a special part of any community, and we are blessed with more than our share in Dawson City.)

What is a Blanket Exercise?

By Chris Clark

Further to the conversation I am having with whoever read last issue's "Invitation to Reconciliation", I wanted to expand a little on some of the activities being planned.

To begin, leaders and front line workers in the our community are being invited to participate in a Blanket Exercise. So what is this?

The Exercise was developed 15 years ago by the Aboriginal Rights Coalition and Elders and teachers as a tool to teach the historic and contemporary relationship between Indigenous and Non-indigenous people.

As you recall from the previous article, the central recommendation of the Truth and Reconciliation Commission for all Canadians is to develop an understanding of the impacts of colonialism on Indigenous peoples. For most of us, that means learning a history we've never been taught.

The Blanket Exercise is an interactive workshop to help fill in these great gaps of knowledge and come to a better understanding grounded in a more truthful telling of Canadian history.

In our community invitations have been sent to Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in and territorial government front line workers in health, justice, safety, youth, and employment; the RCMP, all the Churches; the City of Dawson, Yukon College, Parks Canada, Klondike Visitors Association, Dawson Public Library, KIAC, SOVA, Chamber of Commerce, Placer Miners Association, Yukon Parks.

Why isn't Robert Service School included on the list of invitees? Because all of the teachers and all the grade 10-12 students went through the exercise last fall. If you are curious about their experience, I encourage you to ask them how it was.

The May 13th Exercise will be hosted by Jenilee Cook and Joy Quarton from the Public Service Commission's Respectful Workplaces, who are mandated to provide education on the impacts of residential school to our public employees. It is a facilitated, scripted exercise where everyone has a part and is interacting. (opposite of a sitdown lecture).

And since the history is a difficult one and unfamiliar to many, active participation is a great means of connecting with the information being shared. Blankets are used to represent the lands of Canada, and the distinct cultures and nations which live on these lands to this day. Participants represent the First Peoples; when they move onto the blankets, they are taken back in time to the arrival of the Europeans. The Narrator and a helper work with the participants to read a script while the exercise goes through the history of treaty-making, colonization, and resistance that resulted in the nation called Canada.

This is an excellent opportunity to move forward with reconciliation in your personal and professional life. The exercise can host 50-60 participants and takes about 1 1/2 hours. There is a follow up discussion - the length depends on what people have to say in response to their experience. We will start at 2 p.m. and probably finish by 5 p.m. If you have not received an invitation and would really like to participate, send an email to Capri.simpson@trondek.ca and you will be contacted if a spot opens up.

We really hope that leaders in the community will accept the invitation and attend. Participants can, in turn, request that the exercise be brought to their workplace and in this way we grow and expand our understanding of this shared history. We all gain strength by not carrying the past harms forward. Committing to educating ourselves and acknowledging the past fulfills a need in all of us and will bring a more joyful, good spirited Dawson ... yes?

As one of the facilitators reflected, "we are here together because we need each other. Nobody is better than anybody else, nobody more beautiful than anybody else. We are humans together. Let us survive together, prosper together in mind, body and spirit."

Also in the works is an open invitation to artists in the community who wish to respond to and engage with the idea of reconciliation. Bo Yeung is leading the call to artists and can be reached by email at boyuyeung@gmail.com if you have a project idea or want to participate in the group project. They have begun meeting and have a Google space where you can join in the conversation.

I'm encouraged by the many positive responses to these articles and any invitations that have been made to engage with the reconciliation process. In the months to come you will witness of what appears, so far, to be a community-wide willingness to acknowledge the truth of the past and make a genuine shift to a much needed renewal of relationships between indigenous and non-indigenous people.

"Our future, and the wellbeing of all our children rests with the kind of relationships we build today." Chief Dr. Robert Joseph

Yukon government moving forward with land development and planning in Mayo and Dawson

WHITEHORSE (April 11, 2016)—Minister of Energy, Mines and Resources Scott Kent today announced that land development and planning projects in Mayo and Dawson are moving forward.

"Making residential and agricultural land available to Yukoners is a priority for this government," Kent said. "The Yukon government looks forward to working with local municipalities to determine the best path forward on these projects."

Up to 16 rural residential lots and five agricultural parcels will be developed just north of the Village of Mayo. The rural residential land lottery and the agricultural land application process are planned for this fall. "Providing rural residential and agricultural opportunities close to the Village of Mayo greatly enhances the community's ability to offer the kind of lifestyles people are looking for," Mayo Mayor Scott Bolton

The Yukon government is working with the City of Dawson to create a joint plan for future development at the north end of the city, guided by Dawson's Community Plan. The creation of this plan follows a recent successful residential land lottery in Dawson. "The plan will enable the City of Dawson and Yukon government to implement well-coordinated joint development in the north end of the city," Dawson Mayor Wayne Potoroka said. "We look forward to realizing the opportunities that this plan will provide."

A public request for proposals is expected to be issued this summer to secure the services of an engineering firm to oversee components of the Dawson planning project.

Study area in Dawson's north end.

Proposed development area in Mayo.

Vancouver Yukoners Reunion 2016

Story by Palma Berger Photos by Teri Millen.

The 88th Annual Reunion organized by the Vancouver Yukoners Association was held at the River Rock Casino Resort at Richmond B.C.

There were 280 people at the gathering. Ken Jones, the President, announced that this year they were recognizing air travel in the Yukon. Which is why the photo on the menu was of the largest weather vane in the world, the retired DC3 at Whitehorse Airport. A deserved tribute was given to Ed Jacobs for his engineering skills in getting it to work.

Joe Redmond was the last pilot to fly the DC3. Joe and Sharon Redmond were among the guests. It was also pointed out that, as good a pilot as Joe was, he did not land the DC3 perfectly on that stand at the airport. It got there by other means.

spoke of the growth of Air North – of the DC3 bought in 1997, to DC4 to Hawker Siddley. I don't remember the exact date they started the run from Whitehorse to points north. But in 1979 I was the agent for Northward Air until they went bankrupt months later. (not my fault!) and how happy people were to have the airline called Air North, keep the route going. Air North now carries more passengers than Air Canada in this area, and this is all thanks to Yukon support.

Young and old were there. The youngest was 15 year old Ruthie Morton, granddaughter of Marie Gylytiuk (née Comadina). Amanda Randall (née Burian) who will be 97 in August, was one of the senior seniors.

Mike Telep recalled when he worked at the Orpheum Theatre. The Telep family lived at Bear Creek. It was noted that after Mike left, the Catholic church at Bear Creek closed. One wit good naturedly commented that "obviously there was no need of it after Mike left".

Ken Grychuck and John Butterworth had a discussion of how old the school bus was that Klondike Motors (Willie Crayford) provided to bring the kids from Bear Creek to school in town. The Grychuks lived at Bear Creek where Audrey Vigneau now lives.

Joanne Robertson (née Stevenson) anxiously asked if anything is being done yet to preserve the Bear Creek compound with all its history. She has written a book about her years at Bear Creek.

Speaking of Bear Creek, exresidents Barrie and Sandie Ravenhill were at the gathering.

There were many stories recalled and retold during the evening. Some treasures were brought along. Blanche Barret (née Holbrook) was showing a cheque from 1909 actually signed by Robert Service.

Many Dawson families were represented.

The Butterworths, John (and Corina ne Flynn), Joanne and (husband Ed), George (and Harriet, née Osborne), Myrna (ne Hadley).

The Barbers- Chuck and Bonnie (née de Wolfe), Molly (now Rodgers-Brown) and George.

The Millens - Terri McNaughton (née Millen), and sister Madeleine Wakefield.

The Burkhards - Ginny (now Holl) and Sylvia.

Freddie Morgan kept his friends entertained for ages with his many stories.

Other Dawsonites, past and present, were Ralph Troberg, George Nagano, Norah Mooney, Virginia Mahonev.

Many items were on display for a silent auction - a beautiful quilt made by Bonnie Barber, other donations from other folk were a quilted wall hanging, a book of Ted Harrison's paintings, a book of photos of Dawson about 1900-1910 gathered by Ralph Zaccharelli and much more.

The first Mr and Mrs Yukon , of 1974 Mr and Mrs Brodie Johnson, were noted. This year's Mr. and Mrs. Yukon, Sam and Kelly Johnson were introduced. Sam Johnson was the first person of First Nation ancestry to be elected speaker of the Yukon Legislature

The entertainment for the evening held a sad note.. This was the last public engagement of the band, "The Canucks" as well as the last for Hank Karr.

But their performance was up to expectations, for when the tables were cleared away and a dance floor was created and their music started, young or old, single or with partners, surged forward and danced the years as well as the hours away.

Music was by the Canucks, with Hank Carr (sitting)

Bonnie and Chuck Barber

Ginny Holl (née Burkhard), Sylvia Burkhard, and Sheryl Kosyniak (Granddaughter of the Comadinas of Dawson.)

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Yukon Territorial Budget Highlights:

- Largest in Yukon History: $1.392 billion
- $946 million is from transfer payments; Forecasting a surplus of $9.483 million this year
 - Capital budget: $306.6 million

Report Card

Category	Grade	Comments
Investments in infrastructure	A	Improvements to roads, airfields and fiber optic and cellular infrastructure are excellent. Investments identifed are all benfical to the economy and the prudence of the Government in both identifying and investigating capital expenditures should be commended.
Investments in Communities	A	The Yukon Chamber is pleased with the level of capital investment in Yukon community facilities, from water and sewer systems to subdivision planning and fire halls.
Taxation	A	No tax increases for families or businesses. The Yukon currently has some of the lowest corporate rates in the country, which is positive for attracting and retaining businesses.
Procurement	e	The government has recognised it has problem here and is undertaking to do something about it but it is still too early to see any results. The Chamber of Commerce has heard from its members that is an important issue for members, has explored this issue with eh Canadian Chamber of Commerce, and is forming a Committee to explore this issue, and provive input to the Yukon Government.
Training Funds	8	The Yukon Chamber is concerned that there seems to be no significant financial commitment to developing the Yukon workforce. While there is $3 million in funding for a Technical Education Wing at F.H. Collins, the significant identified money for Yukon College is $1.5 million over three years to transition it from a college to a university.
Housing	8	After two years of disappointing performances for affordable housing, the Chamber is encouraged by projects currently proposed and underway. Fifth and Rodgers, the $500,000 grant to match property tax exemptions, construction in Dawson and the TKC building projects announced April 11th.
Balanced Budget	A-	The Chamber is pleased with a budget that does not raise taxes, does not assume any debt, delivers a surplus and includes significant capital expenditures. The Chamber would remind Yukoners that with $946 million in transfer payments, a $9 million "surplus" is simply $9 million from Ottawa that was not spent.
Developing the Private Economy	E	The government explicitly stated the value they see in a vibrant competitive local economy, however, the Chamber is concerned that all of the positive moves made in this budget will be moot without a real commitment from decision makers before and after the election to follow through on the budget commitments, and to work towards removing the uncertainty in the regulalorty processes. This will be a major step forwards in the Yukon becoimg a net contributor to Canada.

RCMP Blotter

RCMP Blotter By Cst Katina Harnett

Well hello again, Dawson, and welcome to May!! I feel like I won't tempt fate too much by saying that it appears we are well into spring, and summer is almost upon us! I'm sure I'm not the only one who has noticed a serious increase in the people and vehicle traffic in town and runners and walkers on the dyke. It also looks like some of our seasonal businesses are well on their way to reopening!

We've had a busy April here with, as usual, plenty of fun and exciting activities in the community. I wanted to make notable mention of the 100th birthday celebration for Mr. Lorenzo Grimard that was held at the newly-opened McDonald Lodge on April 23. A very auspicious occasion indeed, and it was well attended by friends, family and Cst Robson, who had the pleasure of attending in red serge to celebrate Mr. Grimard turning 100 years young!!

The coming month is also going to be full of activities, so let me give you all the goods on what to expect!

First up is the Bike Rodeo scheduled for May 10 at the Arena. I have never had the pleasure of attending this very exciting event, but I got my sporty wheels out so that I could practice up! You will note that I was not wearing a helmet while fine tuning my bike rodeo skills, and I would encourage you to learn from my poor example and have your helmets all ready to go for the day of the event! It's important to keep that noggin safe while out enjoying biking activities. The time for the Bike Rodeo is not yet confirmed, but it shouldn't be long before that information comes available.

Next up is Police Week from May 11 to 15. A tidbit (not to be confused with a Timbit) of information for you about Police Week: the event began in Canada in 1970 as a way to connect with communities and increase awareness about the service that police provide. The relationships we have with the members of our community are important to us and greatly contribute to the job that we do. As I've mentioned before, we want all members of our community to feel that they can approach us with any questions and concerns, aside from our regular calls for service. In celebration of Police Week, the Detachment will be hosting our annual community BBQ on May 12 starting at 11:30 a.m. The BBQ will run until 1:30 or until we run out of delicious burgers, smokies and all the fixings!! I remember last year it was a scorcher (and I'm not just talking about the burgers I overcooked) so be sure to come out and join us for some lunch and social time at the Detachment parking lot.

Just following Police Week is Road Safety Week which runs from May 16 to 23. I believe I'm stating the obvious when I say we would like everyone to be safe on the road all 52 weeks of the year, however, during this particular week we will be stepping up enforcement action on the roads in and around Dawson. You can expect to see our Members out conducting road checks, and this will also likely include vehicle check stops where we will be looking for impairment, unlicensed drivers and unregistered vehicles, to name iust a few! The Victoria Day long weekend and the Dawson City International Gold Show fall right at the end of Road Safety Week and, as always, we encourage everyone to plan for a safe night out and a safe ride home while enjoying the long weekend and related events.

The last bit of info for this week will take us into the first part of June. Were you aware that June 1 is Global Running Day? I have to admit that I was not, which is shocking considering both my love of running and my love of donuts (gotta burn those calories)! The Run Dawson group is gearing up for a special activity, so head on over to the Run Dawson Facebook page or website (www.rundawson.com) for more information.

As I did last month, I'll close my article by including some stats from the previous month, for your information. During the month of April our Detachment took a total of 53 calls for service (up to the date of writing this article). There were no Criminal Code charges laid during this period however 2 charges were laid under the Liquor Act.

Well, that's it for this time!! Until next time, Dawson, take care of yourself and others!

Yukon MLAs urge Bank of Canada to ensure inclusion of northern women

Recommendation to include three Yukon women on new bank notes Motion receives unanimous support

WHITEHORSE (April 28, 2016) – A motion urging the Governor of the Bank of Canada to consider featuring a Yukon woman on a new Canadian bank note was passed unanimously yesterday in the Yukon Legislative Assembly.

The motion urges the governor to consider three notable Yukon women: Martha Louise Purdy Black, OBE, the second woman ever to be elected to the House of Common of Canada; Tagish storyteller Angela Sidney, CM; and Shaaw Tláa, also known as Kate Carmack, co-discoverer of gold in the Klondike.

The motion also asks the Bank of Canada to ensure that Canadian women will continue to be featured on future bank notes, in recognition of their many contributions to shaping history and life in Canada. Lastly, the motion encourages the Bank of Canada to include women from Yukon and the North on its Independent Bank Note Advisory Council.

"There are so many notable women in our history," Watson Lake MLA Patti McLeod said. "We have Canadian women who were pioneers in their fields, in everything from medicine to politics to leadership."

The Government of Canada announced on International Women's Day in March that the Bank of Canada would undertake public consultation to select an iconic Canadian woman to be featured on the first bank note of its next series.

"This motion follows up on a letter that I sent to Governor Poloz earlier this spring," Yukon Party Leader Darrell Pasloski said. "These three women made great contributions to life and history in the North, and their contributions to Yukon and Canada make them very suitable candidates to represent Canadian women on a bank note."

Live Words showcases a variety of guest authors

Story & photos By Dan Davidson

The Kwänlin Dun Cultural Centre was the setting for the 2016 edition of Live Words, the public reading that kicks off the Yukon Writers Festival each year. Between 50 and 60 members of the public came out for this event, which featured readings by the five guest authors currently visiting the territory.

Emcee Dave White kept the evening moving along and even managed to reduce the mandatory 15 minute intermission to nearly 20 instead of the usual 30.

Noah Richler was first on the agenda. He opened with some reflections on the time that his 15 year old self worked at the mine in Cassiar, and learned to appreciate oral story telling, while listening to the older workers proving that his own startling experiences in the woods were nothing compared to theirs.

Richler's first book after returning to Canada from his stint producing for the BBC was the award winning This is My Country, What's Yours? His next was What We Talk About When We Talk About War, which was a finalist for a number of prestigious awards.

Most recently, he was an unsuccessful NDP candidate in the riding of Toronto/St. Paul's and his next book, due in October, will be The Candidate, reflections on that experience. His reading, delivered with a touch of self-deprecation, was selections from that book.

Dr. Sandy Bonny is a scientist and writer, who works science into her stories. She read from her novel Yes and Back Again, beginning with the seemingly prosaic adventures of a young couple buying their first home - something of a fixer-upper. There are already hints that there might be a mystery behind some of the paneling in the basement, something stranger than the answer as to why all the upstairs wall plugs are upside down.

Dianne Whelan has taken a week off from her current project, which has her walking the entire length of the Trans-Canada Trail, a trek that should bring her back to the Yukon about 18 months from now. Her reading and audio-visual presentation was about an earlier adventure, which led to the book 40 Days at Base Camp and a documentary film of the same name. Perhaps the most interesting fact about that trip was that the high altitude exposure had had a serious impact on her health, leaving her barely able to read and not able to write at all for some time after her experience. Happily, she recovered from the affliction, but it did cost her the loss of her marriage partner.

Bob Hayes' first book, after a lifetime of writing dry scientific papers about wolf behavior, was Wolves of the Yukon, a book written for the general, non-scientific, public.

"I wanted average Yukon readers to enjoy and learn about the complex role of wolves in our remarkable mountain wilderness," he said.

His reading came from Zhoh: The Clan of the Wolf, his first attempt at novel length fiction, due out in October. It is set 14,000 years ago in the Old Crow area of the Yukon and follows the lives of a small band of people and wolves.

Last to read was Heather O'Neill, novelist, short story write and essayist. She won the Canada Reads contest for her first novel, Lullabies for Little Criminals, and has been shortlisted twice for the Scotiabank Giller Prize, as well as the Governor General's Award, Her latest book, The Romeo Hotel, will be released this coming Fall. Her reading was a sad short story called "Bartok for Children", telling of the death and implausible resurrection of a French Canadian spy in France during WWII. Like all the tales in her short story collection, Daydreams of Angels, it is a twisted version of an existing fairy story, in this case, the tale of Pinocchio.

The Water Here Is Never Blue: Intrigue And Lies From An Uncommon Childhood By Shelagh Plunkett Viking

• 304 pages $29.70

e-book: $14.99

When I tell Shelagh Plunkett that she was a bit of a naughty girl in that hotel room in Jakarta at the tender age of 15, she casts her mind back and agrees with me. It was a rebellion that would be quite at odds with the life the adult woman has since carved out for herself in Montreal, but it was perhaps understandable given what had happened in her life up to that point.

In the 1970s this young girl, her sister, and her brother, were whisked off to Guyana by their parents, to a nation where her father, who was ostensibly an engineer, was supposed to helping to map and catalogue water and mineral resources for the local government.

The kids were enrolled in a religious run day school and eventually became quite acclimatized to the country. This portion of the book is narrated in a style which partakes of the local patois to a great extent. It has a flavour of steel drums and Guyanese music.

At the time she never suspected her father of doing anything nefarious, but as she grew older, she came to wonder more and more what he was really up to in all the trouble spots of the world. He was in the Mekong Delta in 1972, Afghanistan in 1974, in Uganda just after Idi Amin was deposed. When he died, in 1993, a friend of his named Russ Fraser lit a fuse of curiosity that had been waiting to ignite for some time.

"He said that wherever my father went, coups seemed to follow, that if Dad went to a country, you could bet there'd be an uprising of some sort soon after. Maybe Pat was a spy?"

Pat Plunkett didn't take them with him to every job, but really quite disrupted the family's lives with the moves he did make. It was not a normal Canadian childhood.

They were in Guyana (right after the new government began nationalizing foreign owned companies) long enough to feel at home there and when another assignment took him elsewhere, they returned to Vancouver.

There, Shelagh, at least, found she did not fit in. She had odd habits and expectations which the "it girls" which she calls "the Debbies" did not appreciate. She picked up some teen rebellion habits like coming to class slightly drunk and using four letter words to tell off her teachers, who suggested she needed psychotherapy. All this by the time she was finishing grade 9.

Then it was off to Indonesia, which was actually quite a dangerous place to be at the time, what with the government troops slaughtering East Timorese, and the potential dangers that might just creep up on two cute white, blond teenage girls (the brother being off at university by then) in a land where local people followed them around like a parade and wanted to touch them to see if they were real.

They were home schooled, spent a lot of time at their house, which was sort of a compound with a garden their mother created (because she really wasn't allowed to do much else). It was home to a number of exotic animals, including a monkey.

The language used to describe their lives in Timor is quite different from that used to describe Guyana and the narrative there is edged with a potential for danger that didn't seem to be in the earlier part of the book. Perhaps this is because the girls were older and more aware. Perhaps it is because they were more isolated from the local people than they had been in South America.

Coming back to Canada was even harder for Shelagh this time. She had missed so many of the cultural changes. Perhaps this contributed, when she grew up, to a life in which she has done a lot of travelling. She has worked on research projects and written articles about places all over the world.

The last section of the book is her personal exploration of that part of India where her father died, taking with him all the secrets that she never got to uncover. She and her partner travelled to Shimla, in the Indian mountains, and stayed at Hotel Dreamland, where her father had stayed. She walked the path she believed he had been walking when his spine collapsed and he began his final journey to a strange and unknown land. She came no closer to unraveling his mystery than she ever had and concludes, "Whatever else you want to know, you'll have to find yourself, somewhere. Perhaps it's out there, Maybe Shelagh Plunkett is an award-winning writer and journalist. She has been published in various Canadian and U.S. journals, including The Walrus, enRoute Magazine, Geist, The Globe and Mail, and the Vancouver Sun. Plunkett currently lives in Montreal and was recently a writer-inresidence in Berton House.

Inspired Living

April News Hi Klondike,

As the days grow longer and I get into the seasonal groove -- more daylight = more energy and spring cleaning, outdoor activity and enjoying conversations with people I meet on the streets--I'm reminded over and over how much I love the distinct seasonal changes.

This year as I continue my practice of being 10% kinder to myself, I'm noticing not just an increase in my energy but an ease in letting things go. I've even been doing more clearing than I've done in a very long time. This has been a challenge for me as I tend to hold onto certain things "just in case."

In fact, fear, and yes, fear of failure, has often stopped me not just from getting rid of things, but also from going after what's important to me. What about you?

Being kinder allows me to be more comfortable with doing and being "my best", and by doing my best, I can ask for help when I need it, allowing me to enjoy new things that challenge me because I have the right help AND this allows me to have way more fun. Whew....what a relief.

One of my favourite reads: The Gifts of Imperfection, by Brené Brown, PhD

Mo's Message:

Go Ahead and Fail Fast

An art teacher once divided his class into two groups. The first group's assignment: create a masterpiece. They had 3 weeks...plenty of time to develop their brilliant ideas into perfectly polished pieces, worthy of the finest museums & galleries.

The second group's assignment: Work steadily for 3 weeks. Don't worry about perfection, just make mistakes, learn from them & keep going.

At the end of the 3 weeks, the first group came in exhausted and tattered, carrying pieces that were halfcompleted, and nowhere near masterpiece status. They had started with great ideas, but grown frustrated with their limitations and given up.

The second group arrived to class chipper and full of life, most of them carrying what could easily be considered masterpieces. They had allowed the creative process to move through them, they had experimented and had fun.

"A life spent making mistakes is not only more honourable, but more useful, than a life spent dong nothing." - George Bernard Shaw Mistakes are not only how we learn, but is simply the natural order of things. "Failure" is just another way of saying, "figure out what doesn't work." Fortunately, along the way you also figure out what DOES work. The trick is to just GO FOR IT.

What mistakes can YOU make TODAY?

Be kind to yourself and have fun with this adventure called life-long learning! I'd love to hear your thoughts on this so please email me!

16 local Parks jobs to go

BY TIMOTHY SAWA

Sun Staff

IT'S IMPOSSIBLE TO ESTIMATE how many Yukoners might be affected by the Canadian Government's proposal to replace 2000 of its Parks employees with private contracts, says the Executive Director for the Pacific and Yukon Region of Parks Canada.

But according to detailed documents obtained by the Klondike Sun, Orest Kruhlack's department has made considerable progress in doing just that.

The documents, compiled by the Yukon District Business Unit. under Kruhlack's direction, estimate that 46 per cent of Parks employees in the territory are in danger of losing their jobs to private contracts over the next LOWEST BIDDER / Park's Canada will cut nearly half of their positions in the territory and replace them with contracts to the lowest bidder.

Of the 118 currently employed in the Yukon's two national parks and various national historic sites - whose combined salaries give the territory an annual injection of $3.5-million - 56 might suddenly find themselves no longer an employee of Parks Canada.

Gone with the jobs - which will be replaced by the lowest bidder in a contract process - are the high government wages, job security and benefits.

"It makes me very angry," says Robbi Van Rumpt, who is the District Tech Officer for Klondike National Historic Sites.

According to the documents, he will be spared on the first round of layoffs, but just narrowly. Next year, however, he's fair game.

"They're telling me, everything I've done for them over the last 24 years, isn't worth a hill of beans," Van Rumpt says, who is also the Yukon-B.C. Regional Vice-President for the national union that supports parks employees.

What this country took 100 years to build, they're going to destroy in three or four years."

Recently, the federal government announced a $98million slash in the Parks Canada budget to be implement over the next four years. The plan to contract out 1500-2000 of their employees' jobs is, according to Kruhlack, a "critical" step to coping with the cuts.

Affected in the first round of layoffs will be grounds and highway maintenance people, janitorial services, carpenters and and camping recreation employees. The second year, more people will be replaced, who managers feel could go, as well as those who want to go. And in the third year, whoever is left that can be replaced by a contract, will.

The public will see no difference in what we provide," Kruhlack says in an interview from his Vancouver office. "That's a fundamental principle in this process. There's no reason for the Government of Canada to employ people to cut the grass across the

EMERGENCY PLAN /

Children will be kept at Robert Service School

BY DAN DAVIDSON

THE KLONDIKE AREA EMERgency Measures Organization has determined that there is a risk of flooding in the Rock Creek and Henderson Corner areas, and, at a recent meeting, decided to use the Robert Service School as a means for getting that information to people in the area.

The school has sent home a notice advising parents that "If flooding occurs while your children are in school we will keep your children in town until you are able to come and get them." The letter also cautions parents to make arrangements for their children to have a place to stay if it becomes necessary and to advise the school of this.

Pat Cayen, the City of Dawson's representative on the EMO, confirms that there are two or three trouble spots between the Dempster Corner and Rock Creek.

This week there has been a backhoe out at Dempster Corner digging a trench in the ice to give the water a channel.

"Harry Campbell (Klondike Transport) is out there with his crew," said Cayen on April 16, "and at the point that I was talking to Harry today they were fifteen feet into the ice and still hadn't hit

History Hunter: Death toll rises with the approach of war's end

By Michael Gates, Yukon News, Friday March 11, 2016

Used with the Author's Permission

Yukon Commissioner George Black heard the call to duty and was determined to join his compatriots who were shipping overseas during World War I. The summer of 1916, he was joined by 225 patriotic Yukon volunteers, who, in several shiploads, over the course of the summer and fall, took passage on the steamers for Whitehorse, then on to Victoria, B.C. They were reunited there in October and on January 16, 1917, they departed Victoria for overseas as the Yukon Infantry Company.

Many of these men remained together for the duration of the war. They were stationed at Witley camp in southern England, where they were trained as a machine gun company. They were eager to see action, but they were not called up for active service until March of 1918. At that time, the German army was undertaking a major offensive which, if not stopped, threatened to capture Paris.

Members of the Yukon (Boyle) Machine Gun Battery, which had already been at the front for nearly two years, saw heavy action during the enemy operation as they were called to use their machine guns to slow down or stop the German advance. Young Lieutenant Lyman Black, the commissioner's stepson, distinguished himself in this battle, stopping an enemy advance by mowing them down as they attempted to move forward. Black was awarded the Military Cross for his actions. Lieutenant Black's comrade, Sergeant Anthony Blaikie, was shot through the stomach and died while they were withdrawing from a precarious position. Blaikie had already been awarded the Distinguished Conduct Medal and the Military Medal for his courageous conduct.

By the end of this engagement, the Boyle recruits had been so depleted in numbers that they were amalgamated with the Black contingent, now called the 17th Machine Gun Company, to form part of the 2nd Canadian Motor Machine Gun Brigade. Together, in this unit, they fought the remainder of the war.

The German attempt to break through to Paris failed, and their army was much depleted by this campaign. The initiative in battle shifted to the Allies in early August when the Canadians, including the Yukon men, made a surprise assault on the German lines at Amiens. The Huns were caught unprepared by the Canadian attack and fell back in disarray. The nature of battle was now shifting from the trench warfare of the past three years, to open-field combat.

George Black was wounded on the second day of the Battle of Amiens, and several of his comrades-in-arms were killed. The day after Black was wounded, Charley O'Brien, son of the Klondike brewery king, and Angus McKellar, a Mountie at Forty Mile before the gold rush, were both killed when a shell struck their armoured car near Bouchoir, France. Three days later, in the last hours of the battle, Marko Milatovich was killed near Parvillers. Called "The Black Day for the German Army," Amiens heralded the beginning of the end for the Germans.

After this battle, the Yukon soldiers were quickly relocated north to the French City of Arras, where they formed part of the final advance that became known as "the hundred days." As part of a large Canadian battle force, they fought their way through a series of German defensive lines. First, there was the Hindenburg Line, then the Fresnes-Rouvroy Line, and last, the Drocourt-Queant Line. Behind these defences was the unfinished Canal du Nord, and farther east, the city of Cambrai, a key transportation hub for the Germans. The ultimate target for this attack: the defensive works behind the Drocurt-Queant Line and the town of Dury.

Four Yukoners fell on September 2. Lieutenant Robert Hartman, of the 102nd Battalion, was in charge of two Stokes trench mortars during an attack made on the enemy's position East of Dury. Sergeant John J. Melville, formerly of Atlin, had already been awarded the Military Medal for his bravery, but on this day he was killed during the attack south west of Dury.

Alfred Clinton Totty, son of an Anglican missionary and a First Nation mother, was with the 78th Battalion of the Canadian Infantry during the attack of the Drocourt-Queant switch when he was killed by a machine gun bullet to the throat September 2. Saletto Michunovich was a miner from the Yukon. Born in Montenegro, he volunteered as a member of the George Black Contingent and was later transferred to the 1st Canadian Motor Machine Gun Brigade. While acting as a gunner on armoured car No. 5792 he was killed when it was hit by a shell and blown to pieces.

James Bow Watters from Atlin fell on September 26. Marshall Stevens, Alfred Cronin and Patrick John Martin were killed on September 27, while George Crisfield and C.J.T. Stewart died the following day. Frank Slavin was lost on September 29 while George Davidson was killed October 3rd. Robert Morton, who was killed by an exploding shell, was the last Yukoner to be lost in battle in the military end game, just three weeks before the Armistice was declared.

The Canadians advanced through Cambrai, Valenciennes, and finally on the last day of the war, into Mons, Belgium. But it was a bitter joy for the Yukon men to be engulfed by the jubilant mobs of liberated Belgians when so many of their comrades had been lost capturing these places in the final days of the conflict. Today, their names are remembered only through bronze plaques in Dawson City and Whitehorse, and graves that dot the French and Belgian countryside.

Yukon Archives/George Black Fonds 81/107: 163: Armoured machine gun carriers going into action at the Battle of Amiens in August, 1918. Many Yukon volunteers served (and several died) serving in the 2nd Motor Machine Gun Brigade in the final months of World War I.

Make note of this date: May 9-12, in Whitehorse, we will have an opportunity to once again remember and honour these gallant men during the conference: "The North and World War I." Scholars and local historians, collectors, guests and students from New Zealand, Romania, England, the United States and Canada will all be sharing a wealth of knowledge of how the Great War of 1914-1918 affected the Yukon.

Special events will be planned to commemorate the fallen; an exhibit about the Yukon during World War I will be unveiled by the Yukon Archives, and history-themed dinner-theatre and music will wrap up the events in Whitehorse. A study tour to Dawson will follow to explore the gold rush community and the impact of the war upon it.

Yukon government to provide school supply funding

WHITEHORSE (April 19, 2016)—The Government of Yukon will provide $520,000 to Yukon school councils to provide school supplies to students for the 2016/17 school year, subject to legislative approval.

"We are pleased to respond to requests from school councils and the Association of Yukon School Councils, Boards and Committees to cover the costs of school supplies this year," Minister of Education Doug Graham said. "This money will reduce the financial burden on Yukon families who face many costs at the start of a new school year."

The funding being provided represents approximately $100 worth of school supplies per student. This funding will be provided to school councils through transfer payment agreements, and the specific amounts will be based on their schools' projected enrolment for the 2016/17 school year.

The Department of Education is compiling a list of essential supplies by grade groupings – primary, intermediate and secondary. This list is based on existing school supply lists in Yukon and will identify essential school supplies that must be provided to each student.

Once the essential supplies are purchased and provided to students, school councils will work with their schools to determine how they can best use any remaining money to support their students, based on the unique needs of their school community. For example, they may choose to use remaining money to cover a portion of school fees or costs associated with extracurricular activities such as sports teams or school clubs.

Funding details are being finalized and will be made available on the Plan for School page on the Department of Education's website.
